PREFACE

In this new edition, which is offered as a modest tribute on the bimillennial anniversary of Virgil's birth, Part One contains Books I-VI of the Æneid, followed by a full summary of Books VII-XII.

In response to many requests from teachers and in accordance with the recommendations in the Report of the Classical Investigation, the Second Part includes not only about four hundred lines from Ovid's Metamorphoses but also some of the best passages in the Fasti and the Tristia, as well as one extract from the Epistles from Pontus and two from the Heroides. Some of these selections embody famous tales from mythology and the legendary history of Rome; others contain important biographical matter. Several lively extracts from Catullus are also included and a number of the most celebrated odes of Horace.

Thus those teachers who wish to complete the first six books of the Æneid have a wide choice for reading at sight or for additional illustrative study, and those also who prefer to substitute other Latin poetry for one or two books of the Æneid will find abundant and varied material at their disposal. It is believed that the opportunity to compare different poetical treatments of the same theme will be welcomed by teachers and pupils alike. Thus the myth of Cacus as told by Ovid will be found along with Virgil's account of the same monster; the story of Orpheus and Eurydice is given in both Virgil's words (in his Georgics) and in Ovid's; Ovid's account of his ship stands by the side of the poem which Catullus dedicated to his favorite yacht; for the Golden Mean the pupil has a chance to compare Horace and Ovid; for the Golden Age he may read both Ovid and Tibullus.

The Grammatical Summary in the Introduction enables the editors to simplify the references in the Notes. References to this Summary are made in the Notes by the abbreviation "Intro." (as, "Intro. § 66"). The grammars cited are those of Allen and Greenough (A.), D'Ooge (D.), Bennett (B.), and Gildersleeve (G.). At the suggestion of teachers, the notes for certain selections in Part Two are sparse.

The illustrations have been carefully studied. Many of them are reproduced from ancient statues, wall paintings, and other works of art. Such pictures represent objects or ideas which were familiar to the Latin poets and their contemporaries, and thus serve as graphic notes, as it were, to the passages which they illustrate. In addition, however, there have been included a considerable number of illustrations from the pen of Mr. Rodney Thomson, whose skill in revivifying the days of old is well known. Such pictures undoubtedly serve to stimulate the imagination of pupils and thus to make the subject matter real and appealing. The editors wish to express their gratitude to Dr. George A. Plimpton for allowing them to present a facsimile of one of the Virgil manuscripts in his collection (see p. 265). This is especially interesting as showing the form in which a poet like Chaucer read his classics.

INTRODUCTION

VIRGIL'S Æneid is not merely the noblest expression of the Roman mind in poetry : it is also one of the greatest achievements in the literature of the world. For some two thousand years it has been an accepted model for epic or heroic poetry, and modern literature is full of echoes or imitations of its phrases, its ideas, its situations, and its incidents. It still serves as a standard of chaste and self-restrained poetic art, by which, consciously or unconsciously, we judge all works in the grand style. Thus, familiarity with the Æneid is not only valuable in itself, but also enriches and intensifies our appreciation of poetry in general. The works and the spirit of Virgil are a part of the intellectual and artistic inheritance of our race.

THE AUGUSTAN AGE

Augustus and his times. The time of Virgil, the so-called Augustan Age, was the most flourishing period of Latin literature. It extended from the death of Julius Cæsar (44 B.C.) to the death of Augustus (A.D. 14). For generations the Romans had studied and imitated the works of the Greeks, and in the first century B.C. we find a long list of eminent writers—Varro, Lucretius, Catullus, Cicero, Gallus, Cæsar, and Sallust ; but not until the Augustan Age was literature recognized as a profession apart from law and politics. Augustus was wise enough to see that the encouragement of letters would help powerfully in establishing sound government and in securing his own position as head of the State. He was himself a cultivated man who took an active interest in art and literature, and the nobles of his court followed his example. His reign was, after 30 B.C., an interval of peace after the long and exhausting struggle of the civil wars. Literature became fashionable, and everybody of any consequence aspired to be a writer, or at least a critic. A class of men arose to whom literature was the serious business of life, not an amusement or a mere adjunct to a political career.

Influence of Alexandria. But probably the greatest stimulus came from the gradual introduction of the literature of Alexandria, which had begun in the last half of the second century B.C. The seeds of Greek culture, scattered far and wide by the overthrow of Grecian liberty, had been particularly fruitful in that city. Here two great libraries were established, and a long line of scholars, critics, and authors flourished for centuries. There was a great revival of learning, and writers tried their hand at almost every form of composition — learned treatise, history, epic, lyric, elegiac, didactic poetry, epigram, and satire. The study of this great body of literature could not but excite the Romans to imitation.

VIRGIL'S LIFE

Birth and education. By general consent, Virgil (Publius Vergilius Maro)¹ stands first among the writers of the Augustan Age.

Virgil was born 70 B.C. at Andes, in the municipality of Mantua, in North Italy. His father was doubtless a Roman citizen, probably of old Italian stock, and seems to have been a well-to-do landholder. He gave his son an excellent education, with a view to a political career. Virgil studied at Cremona and Milan, and afterwards, at about the age of seventeen (53 B.C.), went to Rome to complete his training. There he seems to have studied rhetoric under Epidius, who was also the tutor of the boy Octavius (afterwards Augustus). But Virgil's tastes and his uncertain health led him to abandon politics and the law. He is said to have appeared once, and once only, as an advocate.

Study of philosophy at Naples. How long Virgil remained in Rome we do not know, but about 48 B.C. he went to Naples to devote himself to the Epicurean philosophy as a pupil of Siron, the most popular professor of the time. Naples, originally a colony from Greece, was still largely a Greek city; and the poet's acquaintance with Greek literature, which he had of course begun to study as a boy, must have become extensive and intimate during these years of early manhood. His Georgics are permeated with the scientific theories of Epicurus.

Seizure of Virgil's estate. The year 41 B.C. marks a crisis in Virgil's life. In the civil war that followed the assassination of Julius Cæsar in 44 B.C., the city of Cremona, forty miles from the poet's birthplace, took the side of the Republican party led by Brutus and Cassius. After their defeat at Philippi (42 B.C.), the territory of Cremona, with a part of that of Mantua, was confiscated and assigned to the victorious soldiery of the Triumvirs — Octavius, Mark Antony, and Lepidus. The estate of Virgil's father, who was still living, was seized among the rest, or at least was in danger of seizure. Virgil may have been at home at the time. At all events, his acquaintance with men of influence at Rome saved the property. Asinius Pollio, who had been military governor in North Italy, took a warm interest in the young poet. Cornelius Gallus and Alfenus Varus, both probably Virgil's former fellow students, appear to have interceded in his favor. He went to Rome and appealed to Octavius, who assured him of peaceable possession. His First Eclogue expresses his gratitude.

Somewhat later, perhaps, Virgil was involved in a boundary dispute, in which (according to the usual story) his life was threatened; the claimant chased him, sword in hand, and he was forced to swim across the Mincius to escape. These occurrences, however, are doubtful, depending upon an interpretation of the Ninth Eclogue that is not undisputed. The whole subject of Virgil's experiences with these lands is obscure and confused. We know that he received a villa and estate at Nola in Campania, and these may have been granted him in lieu of his ancestral property.

Virgil becomes famous. At about this time Virgil wrote his Eclogues, which were finished by 40 B.C. and published soon after. These instantly made him famous at Rome, and he joined the circle of Mæcenas, one of the chief advisers of Augustus and a noted patron of literature. He received a house in the city on the Esquiline Hill, but his favorite residence, after the year 37 B.C. (aet. 33), was in the neighborhood of Naples. The next few years were spent in the composition of the Georgics, — four books on husbandry, — the most finished and elaborate of all his poems. These were probably written at the request of Mæcenas, who desired by all means to restore the old Roman virtues of thrift, industry, and fondness for rustic life.

The Æneid. It was after the defeat of Antony at Actium, and the settlement of the empire under the rule of Augustus (30 B.C.), that Virgil began the composition of the Æneid. Reports and great expectations soon began to spread as to the coming work, as testified in the celebrated couplet of Propertius (ii. 34, 65, 66):

Cedite, Romani scriptores; cedite, Grai:
Nescio quid maius nascitur Iliade.

A few years later, Virgil consented to read portions of the new poem to Augustus and his sister Octavia, who had lately lost her son, the young Marcellus. In compliment to her, Virgil had inserted the beautiful lines (vi. 868–886) in allusion to her loss. As he recited these verses with great power and pathos, — for among his accomplishments he was a most effective reader, — Octavia swooned away; and when she recovered, she ordered 10,000 sesterces (about $500) to be paid to the poet for each of the memorial lines.

Visit to Greece. When the Æneid was brought to a close, — though unfinished in detail, — Virgil set out (19 B.C.) on a journey to Greece, that he might give the leisure of a few years to its careful revision, and then devote the remainder of his life to philosophy.

Death of Virgil. Augustus, arriving soon after at Athens from the East, prevailed on Virgil to go back with him to Italy. This journey proved fatal to him. His delicate lungs suffered from the harsh air of the coast, while his frame was racked with seasickness and worn with the fatigue of a visit to Megara on the homeward voyage. He barely lived to reach Italy, and died at Brundisium on September 21, 19 B.C., aged not quite fifty-one. He had left instructions, we are told, that the Æneid should be burned, since it lacked the finishing touches; but the command of Augustus saved it.

His tomb. Virgil was buried, by his own desire, near Naples. At the crest of the rock that overhangs the grotto of Posilipo, beneath a low ivy-grown roof of stone, was formerly said to be the modest epitaph:

MANTVA ME GENVIT: CALABRI RAPVERE: TENET NVNC
PARTHENOPE¹: CECINI PASCVA RVRA DVCES

no doubt of a later date. The exact place of his burial is uncertain and may be now covered by the waters of the Bay of Naples.

VIRGIL'S WORKS

THE MINOR POEMS

Authorship. Certain minor poems, ascribed to Virgil in ancient times, have been regarded by many modern scholars as spurious. These are Catalepton (or Catalepta), Culex, Ciris, Aetna, Copa, and Dirae, to which may be added Moretum. Except for Moretum, there seems to be no strong reason for rejecting these pieces, which may well be the product of Virgil's literary apprenticeship.

Catalepton. The Catalepton or Catalepta ("Trifles") is a collection of epigrams and other short poems in various metres and of various dates, mostly early. Some of them, if genuine, have much autobiographical interest.

Culex. The Culex ("Gnat") is said to have been written when Virgil was only sixteen. It is a sportive mock-epic of 414 lines. A sleeping shepherd is about to be bitten by a serpent when a friendly gnat awakes him with its sting. Still half-asleep, he slaps at the insect and kills it. That night the ghost of the gnat appears, reproaches the shepherd for his ingratitude, and tells a long story of its adventures in the world of the dead. The poem was freely translated by Spenser under the title of "Virgil's Gnat."

Ciris. The Ciris, probably begun in 48 B.C. and finished somewhat later, reads like an episode from Ovid's Metamorphoses. Nisus, king of Megara, has a crimson lock of hair. So long as this is not cut off, he is unconquerable. He is besieged by Minos, king of Crete. Scylla, his daughter, falls in love with Minos and shears the charmed lock. The city is captured and Nisus and Scylla are enslaved, but are changed to birds by the gods — Nisus to a sparrow-hawk and Scylla to the bird called a ciris.

Aetna. The Aetna, commonly regarded as not Virgilian, deals with the cause of volcanic eruptions. It may have been written about 50 B.C.

Moretum and Copa. The Moretum (translated by Cowper) describes the preparation of the moretum, a kind of rustic salad. In the Copa a dancing tavern-maid (copa) sings a song inviting travellers to rest and take refreshment in the garden of her wayside inn.

Dirae. In the Dirae ("Curses") a shepherd prays that his little farm may be laid waste by fire and flood and poisoned by pestilential air, so as to be useless to the soldier who has robbed him of it. In the conclusion, apparently a separate poem, he bids farewell to his home and his beloved Lydia. If genuine, these two pieces were written shortly before the Eclogues.

THE ECLOGUES

Subject and form. The Eclogues ("Selections") are ten short pastoral poems which treat of the loves and occupations of herdsmen (Greek βουκόλοι, boukoloi) and hence are called Bucolics. In form they are chiefly imitations of the Greek pastoral poets. The scenes, however, are largely Italian, and the subjects refer often to the history of the time and even to incidents in Virgil's own life, such as the attempted seizure of his father's estate.

The Greek pastoral poets. In any highly artificial state of civilization, men are prone to dwell with imaginative longing on the simplicity of country life and to play at farming and to fancy themselves shepherds or herdsmen. This tendency was especially marked in Sicily about 275-250 B.C., and found expression in the Idyls or "picture poems" of Theocritus, Bion, Moschus, and other writers of the same Greek school. Some forty of these poems have come down to us.

Reputation of the Eclogues. Virgil's Eclogues, which adapted Greek models with skill and taste to Italian conditions of life, became instantly popular at Rome. Their perfection of form, delicacy of treatment, and charm of language have maintained for them ever since a place of high distinction in pastoral literature.

THE GEORGICS

Character of the Georgics. These four books on husbandry belong to Virgil's second period. The work was published in 29 B.C. It is universally regarded as the greatest of all didactic (i.e. "teaching") poems.

The original aim of didactic poetry was to embody in a metrical form the rules of some art or science, so as more easily to fix them in the memory. The somewhat dry precepts of the Greek Works and Days attributed to Hesiod bear this stamp. This object had, however, been more or less lost sight of in the later Greek didactic poetry, which sought to give a higher literary form and a more elegant dress to subjects which might as well have been treated in prose if the object had been merely instruction.

Object of the poem. Virgil's object, then, was not to write a text-book for practical farmers. It was rather to give pleasure by idealizing an art that his readers were already acquainted with, and to encourage the pursuit of the art among the great landed proprietors. The subject may well have been suggested by Mæcenas, who felt the need of fostering agriculture after the waste and desolation of the civil wars.

Treatment of the subject. In the Georgics Virgil does not attempt to give intelligible directions as to the complete management of land or animals. He picks out here and there topics which he finds suitable for poetry. The value of the work consists in the fine poetic feeling with which he treats natural phenomena and man's relation to the powers which he can engage in his service, or with which he has to contend for his life and subsistence.

THE ÆNEID

Epic poetry. The Æneid has stood for many centuries as a model of epic poetry. Properly speaking, however, an epic consists of a body of immemorial tradition, which has taken form in the mind and language of a people, and which, while the traditions were yet living and believed in, has been worked up in a single poem, or group of poems, whose antiquity and national character have made them, in some sense, sacred books. This is what the poems of Homer were to the Greeks, the Mahabharata and Ramayana to the Hindoos, and the Nibelungen to the Germans. Such epics usually contain an element of the supernatural. The gods may intervene to thwart or assist the hero, or may otherwise take a share or manifest an interest in the action. Such divine actors are technically called the machines (or, collectively, the machinery) of the poem.

Heroic ballads. The genesis of the epic is somewhat as follows. Among the popular songs of primitive peoples are always a considerable number in narrative form which deal with heroic figures — legendary warriors, old kings or chiefs. Such poems may be called ballads, though this term includes much more than the special kind of ballads that here concern us. The essentials of a genuine ballad are that it should tell a story, should be meant for singing, and should have no author. To discuss this last requirement would be to open the whole question of popular (i.e. folk) literature. Here it is enough to define the having no author as meaning that the ballad must have been handed down by oral tradition, and must in some fashion have taken its origin from the life, the belief, the traditions of the people. It is not, and cannot be, the conscious artistic work of a literary class or a literary man.

Development of the epic. A number of such ballads as this, each dealing with an episode in the life of a legendary character (whether originally historical or not) may become associated into a sort of cycle. This cycle is, in a sense, already an epic; but it is an epic loosely constructed, and ready at any minute to fall to pieces into parts roughly corresponding to the ballads of which it is made up, or to combine with other similar cycles in making up a larger poem approaching still nearer to the finished epic. After a sufficient number of syntheses, dissolvings, and recombinations (which, in any given case, become so complicated, if there is any long period of time to consider, that it is impossible to trace them in detail), an epic is the result.

Influence of art. At almost any stage in this development, conscious art, as represented by the professional minstrel, may intervene; and, in most cases, before the popular epics assume a form sufficiently definite to reach civilized ears or to be written down, literature, in the person of the combiner and codifier, has exercised its artificial influence on them. Some of these processes may be seen in that little epic, the old English Gest of Robin Hood. This was put into its present form by some minstrel or writer of the fifteenth century who had a genuine feeling for the ballad. The materials with which he worked were narrative songs about Robin Hood, which had already begun to gather into cycles, attaching themselves to various places where the legendary outlaw had been celebrated. The combiner has stitched his materials together loosely, but has unified the style to some extent, and has left a work which cannot very easily be resolved into its elements, in fact, an epic. A more modern instance is that of the so-called Finnish epic — the Kalevala. The scholar Lönnrot, in the last century, took down from actual recitation a vast number of heroic songs, and these he combined, with considerable skill, into a single long poem of an epic character, without, as he asserted, adding a line of his own. This illustrates the adaptability of such legendary material to combinative literary treatment, and gives some idea of what has actually been done in the case of older epics.

The Æneid as an epic. The Æneid is an epic in a very different sense. — in what, for the sake of distinction, may be called the literary sense. Though it has the foundation of traditions and all the divine machinery of the true epic, yet the traditions are no longer living; the divine machinery is no longer a matter of belief. The traditions are dug out by antiquarian research. The machinery is manufactured to order, as it were, in a modern workshop. Many of the incidents are labored invention, while the whole is written with a definite purpose, as a work of art. These things put it in a widely different class from the Iliad and Odyssey, which served as its models, and with which it has been oftenest compared. But still it is an imitation of the popular epic, rests on similar traditions, has like formulæ of phrase and conventionalities of treatment, and assumes the same mythical character.

Purpose of the Æneid. Further, the purpose for which the Æneid was written distinguishes it from other artificial epics. It is the product of patriotic sentiment and of belief in the divine origin and high destiny of the Roman State. It is said that the poem was written at the request of Augustus; but it is no mere flattery of a reigning house. The supremacy of the Julian family was identified in the mind of the poet and his readers with the culmination of the Roman State in victory and peace.

Subject of the Æneid. The subject of the Æneid is the destruction of Troy, the seven years' wandering of Æneas, and his settlement in Italy, with the wars raised against him by the native princes. All of these events, according to Virgil's view, led up, by fate and the divine will, to the establishment of the city of Rome.

The Trojan War. Hecuba, wife of the Trojan king, Priam, had dreamed that she bore a firebrand. Accordingly, when her son Paris was born, he was left to perish on Mount Ida. Being rescued, he lived as a shepherd on the mountain, where he was visited by the three great goddesses — Hera (Juno), Pallas, and Aphrodite (Venus) — to award the prize of beauty among them, the golden apple of discord. His reward for bestowing the prize on Venus was to have the most beautiful of women for his bride. This was Helen, wife of Menelaus, king of Sparta, daughter of Zeus (Jupiter) and Leda; and a wrong to her was to be revenged by all the heroes and chiefs of Greece, who had been her suitors. Paris visited Sparta, won the love of Helen, and carried her away to Troy. Hence the famous ten years' siege and the destruction of the sacred city.

The Tale of Troy. About the Tale of Troy had gathered a vast body of legendary adventure, contained in the "Cyclic Poets," the festal Odes, the Attic Tragedies, and, above all, in the great Homeric poems, the Iliad and Odyssey. The Iliad deals with an episode of the war. It tells the disasters which befell the Grecian army from the wrath of Achilles, its most famous champion, against Agamemnon, brother of Menelaus, and leader of the host. The poem ends with the death and burial of Hector, the noblest champion of Troy, who is slain by Achilles in revenge for the death of his friend Patroclus. The return of Ulysses to Ithaca, after his long wanderings, is the subject of the Odyssey, which contains also the story of the capture of Troy by the stratagem of the wooden horse, and of the fate of several other Grecian chiefs beside Ulysses.

Tradition used by Virgil. Among the various traditions, there was a story that Æneas, after escaping from the sack of Troy, had taken refuge in Italy. How old this tradition was, and whence it was derived, is uncertain. It is not found in any Greek form. The story, including the episode of Dido, was treated by Nævius (235 B.C.), who could hardly have invented it. It was alluded to by Ennius (born 239 B.C.), and had been adopted as a favorite theory before the time of Augustus. Virgil supplements it with details drawn from local tradition, and with many of his own manufacture; and in this way he has connected the imperial times with the age of gods and heroes.

Summary of the Æneid. The first six books of the Æneid deal with the wanderings of Æneas in his voyage from Troy to the Tiber, and are modelled in general on the Odyssey. The last six books resemble the Iliad, since they are largely concerned with the combats of various heroes in the struggle between the Trojan settlers and the Italian chiefs. A brief outline is given below; fuller summaries of the first half of the poem are prefixed to the several books. Book vi is followed by an abstract of Books vii–xii, with selected passages in the original.

Book i. Æneas and his fleet, on their long voyage from Troy to Italy, are buffeted by a storm but reach the coast of Africa, where Queen Dido from Tyre has recently founded Carthage. Dido receives the Trojans hospitably and requests of Æneas the story of their wanderings.

Book ii. Æneas tells of the fall and sack of Troy and of his escape from the burning city with his father Anchises, his little son Ascanius, and a band of Trojans.

Book iii. Æneas' tale concluded: after a futile settlement in Crete and a visit to Helenus and Andromache in Epirus, the Trojans reach Sicily and land at Drepanum, where Anchises dies; thence they have come to Carthage.

Book iv. Dido falls in love with Æneas and takes him for her husband. Warned by Mercury, Æneas sets sail for Italy. Dido kills herself in despair.

Book v. Threatened by a storm, Æneas lands in Sicily, where he is welcomed by Acestes. Funeral games are held in honor of the dead Anchises. Æneas sets sail for Latium.

Book vi. Arriving at Cumæ, Æneas visits the World Below, guided by the Sibyl. The shade of Anchises prophesies the glories of Rome. The exiles reach the harbor of Cajeta.

Book vii. Æneas reaches the Tiber and is well received by King Latinus of Latium, who offers him his daughter Lavinia in marriage. But war breaks out between the Italians and Æneas.

Book viii. Æneas secures the alliance of Evander. Vulcan forges arms for Æneas.

Book ix. Turnus, a brave Rutulian hero, who had been betrothed to Lavinia, attacks the fleet in the absence of Æneas. Exploits of Nisus and Euryalus. The course of the fight.

Book x. Further incidents of the battle. Combat between Turnus and Æneas, etc.

Book xi. The course of the war. Camilla comes to the aid of Turnus. The Rutulians are besieged by Æneas.

Book xii. A treaty is made, providing that the war shall be settled by a single combat between Turnus and Æneas. The treaty is broken by Juturna, sister of Turnus, and both parties rush to arms. Turnus is slain and despoiled by Æneas.

VIRGIL'S FAME

Virgil's early fame. Even before the composition of the Æneid, Virgil had gained a place among the first in Roman literature. The fame of the Æneid began before the work was completed, and after his death Virgil speedily became, next to Homer, the great poet of antiquity. His influence shows itself in all succeeding Latin literature, as well in prose as in poetry. Almost every writer refers to him as the great genius of the nation. His writings became one of the chief instruments of a liberal education. The interest in his works survived the decay of classical learning. They preserved the spark that at the revival of letters was to burst out into a flame to light and warm the world.

Virgil's later fame. Though Ovid was the favorite Latin poet of the Middle Ages, yet Virgil was never wholly neglected. The Æneid was held in high esteem not so much for its artistic perfection as for the information which it furnished concerning the "matter of Troy," one of the main branches of mediæval romantic material. The fact that some of the leading nations of Western Europe thought themselves descended from the Trojans assured the Æneid of an interested reading wherever there was culture enough to understand it. In the twelfth century the story was worked over into the old French "Romance of Æneas," which, though it seems to us like a parody, enjoyed considerable popularity, and was not without influence on European literature.

Virgil in the Middle Ages. Virgil himself was transformed by the ignorance of the Middle Ages into a mythical person. He became a wonderful magician, who used his art for the defence of the city of Rome. On the strength of the Fourth Eclogue he was regarded as a prophet of the coming of Christ. The Æneid was interpreted as an allegory. Bernard of Chartres, a famous teacher of the twelfth century, declares that Virgil "describes human life under the guise of the history of Æneas, who is the symbol of the soul." Dante calls Virgil "the sea of all knowledge" and "the sage who knew all things."

It was this belief in Virgil as a philosopher and prophet, as well as admiration for his art, that made Dante select him for his guide through the world below.

Virgil and Chaucer. From the time of Chaucer (1340?-1400) the influence of Virgil on English literature has been almost continuous. Chaucer, who was a student of Dante and an admirer of Petrarch and Boccaccio, the leaders of the revival of learning in Italy, is outspoken in his admiration for Virgil. He summarizes a large part of the Æneid at the beginning of his House of Fame. In his Legend of Good Women he tells the story of Dido, treating it in true mediæval fashion as an episode of faithless chivalric love. The perfection of form and sense of artistic restraint which distinguish the best poetry of Chaucer are doubtless in some measure due to his enthusiastic study of Virgil.

Virgil in the Elizabethan Age. The second period of Italian influence in our literature shows the influence of Virgil in the most signal manner. The Earl of Surrey (1517?-1547) translated Books ii and iv of the Æneid into blank verse (an early specimen of this metre), and throughout the Elizabethan Age the greatness of Virgil was never questioned. His influence was exerted both directly and also indirectly through the medium of the Italians of the Renaissance. Spenser (1552-1599), who was in many ways a marked contrast to Virgil, but who resembled him in the seriousness of his moral and religious purpose and in the purity of his ideals, not only imitated his Eclogues (in the Shepherds' Calendar), but continually reproduces bits of the Æneid in his Faery Queen. The heroic and the bucolic poets of the seventeenth century, much affected by the Italians and by Spenser, acknowledged Virgil as their master. Even the unsuccessful attempt to reconstruct English metre on classical models testifies to the reverence in which he was held. This attempt (with which the names of Gabriel Harvey and Sir Philip Sidney are inseparably associated) reached the acme of absurdity in Stanihurst's translation of a part of the Æneid in hexameters. The great epic of Milton was composed according to principles drawn from the Æneid, though Milton was also a careful student of Homer.

Later influence of Virgil. In the Restoration period Dryden (1631-1700) not only translated Virgil, but imitated him often. It was the sanity of Virgil's art, the finish of his versification, the precision and felicity of his diction that affected Dryden, rather than any higher qualities of artistic and moral earnestness or of imagination. The same qualities that appealed to Dryden made Virgil rather than Homer the favorite poet of the English Augustan Age — the age of Addison and Pope and Swift. The artificiality of the time took peculiar pleasure in his Pastorals — a kind of poetry in which highly conventionalized states of society have often delighted.

Influence in recent times. The Romantic Revival, beginning obscurely in imitations of Spenser and of Milton's minor poems, and gaining strength from the unique genius of Gray (1716–1771), prepared the way for the great Romantic movement of the early nineteenth century. This movement was so revolutionary that it would not have been strange if, in the passionate repudiation of other eighteenth-century ideals, Virgil too had been neglected. But his position still remains secure as, next to Homer, the greatest of epic poets.

THE GRAMMAR AND STYLE OF THE ÆNEID

1. The diction of poetry. One who begins the Æneid after reading the Gallic War of Cæsar and the Orations of Cicero is at once aware that the style and grammar are not the same as those of Latin prose. Thus, the separation of Trōiae (i. 1) from the word it modifies shows that the order of words of poetry is different from that of prose; the omission of a preposition with Ītaliām (i. 2) shows a difference in syntax, and the genitive plural superum (i. 4) a difference in the forms of words. The main points of difference between the diction of the Æneid and that of Cæsar and Cicero are described in the sections that follow.

I. SYNTAX

2. General character of the syntax. The syntax of the Æneid is in general much easier and simpler than that of prose, and there are few difficulties of grammar except where the ellipsis of words produces obscurity, or where a specially poetical construction is used. More is demanded of the cases in poetry than in prose. Constructions of the cases are therefore relatively more varied and constructions of subordinate clauses less varied than in prose.

3. Poetical constructions. Of the unfamiliar constructions in the Æneid, some are archaisms (or old expressions), retained because poetry is fond of ancient usage; some are imitations of Greek idioms; some are a combination of the two.

USE OF CASES

NOMINATIVE

4. As subject. The subject of a finite verb is in the nominative (A. 339; D. 316; B. 166; G. 203).

Tyrīi tenuēre colōnī, Tyrian colonists inhabited [it], i. 12.

5. As subject of the historical infinitive. The nominative is used as the subject of the historical infinitive (A. 463; D. 320; B. 335; G. 647).

hinc Ulixēs terrēre, from this time Ulysses frightened [me], ii. 97.

6. In exclamations. The nominative may be used in exclamations (A. 339, a; D. 319).

ēn dextra fidēsque, lo, the faith and plighted word! iv. 597.

GENITIVE

7. Possessive. The possessive genitive denotes the person or thing to which an object, quality, feeling, or action belongs (A. 343; D. 328; B. 198; G. 362).

Trōīae ab ōrīs, from the shores of Troy, i. 1.

vī superum, by the power of the gods, i. 4.

8. Subjective. The possessive genitive may denote the person or thing that possesses the feeling or quality, or does the act, denoted by the noun on which it depends (A. 343, N.¹; D. 326, I; B. 199; G. 363, 1).

clāmor virum strīdorque rudentum, the shouting of the men and the creaking of the ropes, i. 87.

9. Predicate. The possessive genitive often stands in the predicate, connected with its noun by a verb (A. 343, b, c; D. 330; B. 198, 2; G. 366).

grātēs persolvere dignās nōn opis est nostrae, to render worthy thanks is not within our power, i. 600.

10. Appositional. A limiting genitive is sometimes used instead of a noun in apposition (A. 343, d; D. 335; B. 202; G. 361).

urbem Patavī, the city of Patavium, i. 247.

11. Material. The genitive may denote the substance or material of which a thing consists (A. 344; D. 348; B. 197).

aquae mōns, a mountain of water, i. 105.

12. Quality. The genitive is used to denote quality, but only when the quality is modified by an adjective (A. 345; D. 338; B. 203; G. 365).

tantae mōlis erat Rōmānam condere gentem, [a task] of so great toil it was to found the Roman race, i. 33.

13. Partitive. Words denoting a part are followed by the genitive of the whole to which the part belongs (A. 346; D. 342; B. 201; G. 367).

quārum pulcherrima, the fairest of whom, i. 72.

14. Objective. Nouns of action, agency, and feeling govern the genitive of the object (A. 348; D. 354; B. 200; G. 363, 2).

studiis bellī, in its passion for war, i. 14.

15. Indefinite value. Certain adjectives of quantity are used in the genitive to denote indefinite value (A. 417; D. 341; B. 203, 3; G. 379).

tantī, of such account, iii. 453.

16. With adjectives. The genitive is used with adjectives of desire, knowledge, memory, fulness, power, sharing, guilt, and their opposites; also with participles in -ns, when they are used as adjectives, and (in poetry and late prose) with verbals in -āx (A. 349, a-c; D. 357; B. 204; G. 374, 375).

fictī tenāx, persistent in what is false, iv. 188.

17. Specification. The genitive is used in poetry with almost any adjective to denote that with reference to which the quality exists (A. 349, d; D. 356; B. 204, 4; G. 374, N.⁶).

18. With verbs of remembering and forgetting. Verbs of remembering and forgetting take either the accusative or the genitive of the object.

Memini takes the accusative when it has the literal sense of retaining in the mind what one has seen, heard, or learned; so obliviscor in the opposite sense, — to forget literally.

Memini takes the genitive when it means to be mindful or regardful of a person or thing; so obliviscor in the opposite sense, — to disregard (A. 350; D. 358; B. 206; G. 376).

obliviscere Grāiōs, forget the Greeks (banish them from your mind, as if you had never known them), ii. 148.

nostrōs huius meminisse minōrēs, [grant that] our descendants may be mindful of this day, i. 733.

19. With verbs of accusing, condemning, and acquitting. Verbs of accusing, condemning, and acquitting take the genitive of the charge or penalty (A. 352; D. 336, 337; B. 208; G. 378).

damnātī mortis, doomed to death, vi. 430.

20. With verbs of pity. Verbs of pity, as miseror and miserēscō, take the genitive (A. 354, a; D. 365; B. 209, 2; G. 377).

miserēre labōrum, pity my sufferings, ii. 143.

21. With impersonals. As impersonals, miseret, paenitet, piget, pudet, taedet (or pertaesum est), take the genitive of the cause of the feeling and the accusative of the person affected (A. 354, b; D. 363; B. 209, 1; G. 377).

22. With verbs of plenty and want. Verbs of plenty and want sometimes govern the genitive (A. 356; D. 349; B. 212; G. 383).

implentur veteris Bacchī pinguisque ferinae, they fill themselves with old wine and fat venison, i. 215.

23. Peculiar genitives. The genitive is used with ergō, because of, īnstar, like, and tenus, as far as (A. 359, b; D. 331; G. 373 and 417, 14).

illius ergō, on his account, vi. 670.

equis īnstar montis, a horse as huge as a mountain (like a mountain),

ii. 15.

DATIVE

24. Indirect object of a transitive verb. The dative of the indirect object with the accusative of the direct may be used with any transitive verb whose meaning allows (A. 362 ; D. 371 ; B. 187, I ; G. 345).

mihi causās memorā, tell me the reasons, i. 8.

25. Indirect object of an intransitive verb. The dative of the indirect object may be used with any intransitive verb whose meaning allows (A. 366 ; D. 376 ; B. 187, II ; G. 346).

quīs (= quibus) contigit, whom it befell, i. 95.

26. Indirect object of special verbs. Many verbs signifying to favor, help, please, trust, and their contraries ; also to believe, persuade, command, obey, serve, resist, envy, threaten, pardon, and spare take the dative (A. 367 ; D. 376 ; B. 187, II, a ; G. 346).

27. Indirect object with compound verbs. Many verbs compounded with ad, ante, con, in, inter, ob, post, prae, prō, sub, super, and some with circum admit the dative of the indirect object (A. 370 ; D. 382 ; B. 187, III ; G. 347).

illum scopulō infixit, she impaled him on a rock, i. 45.

28. With certain verbs. Misceō, iungō, verbs of contending, and some others may take the dative in poetry instead of a noun with a preposition (A. 368, 3, N., and a ; 413, a, N. ; D. 381 ; B. 358, 3 ; G. 346, N.⁶).

furit aestus harēnīs, the seething flood rages with the sands, i. 107.

29. Possession. The dative is used with esse and similar words to denote possession (A. 373 ; D. 390 ; B. 190 ; G. 349).

tantaene animīs caelestibus irae [sunt], have heavenly minds such wrath ? i. 11.

30. Agent. The dative of the agent is used with the passive periphrastic conjugation, and, in poetry, with almost any passive form (A. 374, 375 ; D. 392 ; B. 189 ; G. 354).

quippe vetor fātīs, to be sure, I am forbidden by the fates, i. 39.

The ablative of agent (§ 53) is rarely used in the Æneid.

31. Reference. The dative is used to denote the person (or, rarely, the thing) affected by the action or situation expressed by the verb (A. 376, 378; D. 385; B. 188; G. 350).

rēgnum gentibus esse, to be a seat of royal power for the nations, i. 17

The so-called ethical dative of the personal pronouns is really a faded variety of the dative of reference. It is used to show a certain interest felt by the person indicated (A. 380; D. 388; B. 188, 2, b; G. 351).

tibi bellum geret, he shall wage war for you, i. 261.

32. Separation. Many verbs of taking away and the like take the dative (especially of a person) instead of the ablative of separation. Such are compounds of ab, dē, ex, and a few of ad (A. 381; D. 389; B. 188, 2, d; G. 345, R.¹).

silici scintillam excūdit, he strikes a spark from flint, i. 174.

33. Purpose. The dative is used to denote the purpose or end, often with another dative of the person or thing affected (double dative construction) (A. 382; D. 395; B. 191; G. 356).

populum ventūrum excidio Libyae, a people would come for the ruin of Libya, i. 22.

34. Place to which. In poetry the place to which is often expressed by the dative (A. 428, h; D. 367; B. 193; G. 358).

inferret deōs Latiō, bring the gods to Latium, i. 6.

This poetical construction occurs more than sixty times in Books i–vi of the Æneid.

35. With adjectives. The dative is used with adjectives of fitness, nearness, likeness, service, inclination, and their opposites (A. 384; D. 397, a; B. 192, 1; G. 359).

gēns inimica mihī, a nation hostile to me, i. 67.

ACCUSATIVE

36. Direct object. The direct object of a transitive verb is put in the accusative (A. 387; D. 404; B. 172, 174; G. 330).

videt classem, he sees the fleet, i. 128.

37. Cognate. An intransitive verb often takes the accusative of a noun of kindred meaning. This construction is loosely used by the poets (A. 390; D. 408; B. 176, 4; G. 332, 333).

arma virumque canō, I sing [a song of] arms and the hero, i. 1.

38. Predicate accusative. An accusative in the predicate referring to the same person or thing as the direct object, but not in apposition with it, is called a predicate accusative (A. 392; D. 416; B. 177; G. 340).

39. With verbs of naming, etc. Verbs of naming, choosing, appointing, making, esteeming, showing, and the like, may take a predicate accusative along with the direct object (A. 393; D. 417; B. 177, 1; G. 340).

faciat tē parentem, make thee a parent, i. 75.

40. With verbs of asking, etc. Some verbs of asking and teaching may take two accusatives, one of the person (direct object) asked, and the other of the thing (secondary object) (A. 396; D. 413; B. 178, 1, a-c; G. 339).

quōs illi poenās reposcent, of whom they will exact the penalty, ii. 139. Cf. iv. 50, and vi. 759.

41. Adverbial. The accusative, especially of certain adjectives, is used adverbially (A. 397, a; D. 438; B. 176, 3; G. 333, 1).

multum iactātus, much tossed about, i. 3.

42. Specification. In poetry the accusative is often used with an adjective or a verb to denote the part affected (A. 397, b; D. 427; B. 180; G. 338).

nūda genū, with knee bare (bare as to the knee), i. 320.

This construction is borrowed from the Greek and is often called the synecdochical or Greek accusative.

43. Direct object of a verb in the middle voice. In poetry the accusative is sometimes used as the direct object of a passive verb that has the character of a Greek verb in the middle voice. This construction is most common with verbs meaning clothe (A. 397, c; D. 406, d;

B. 175, 2, d; G. 338, x.² For the middle voice see A. 156, a; D. 406, d, footnote; B. 256; G. 212, R.).

inūtile ferrum cingitur, he girds on the useless steel, ii. 510.

44. In exclamations. The accusative is used in exclamations (A. 397, d; D. 436; B. 183; G. 343, 1).

infandum, O horror! i. 251.

45. Subject of an infinitive. The subject of an infinitive is in the accusative (A. 397, e; D. 419; B. 184; G. 343, 2).

tē dare iūra loquuntur, they say that you define (give) the rights, i. 731.

46. Time and space. Duration of time and extent of space are expressed by the accusative (A. 423, 425; D. 420; B. 181, 1; G. 334-336).

tot annōs bella gerō, I have been waging war so many years, i. 47.

47. Place to which. Place to which is regularly expressed by the accusative with ad or in, except in names of towns, small islands, and domus and rūs, where the preposition is omitted. In poetry, too, the preposition is often omitted (A. 426, 2; 427; 428, g; D. 428, 430, 434; B. 182; G. 337).

Ītaliā vēnit, he came to Italy, i. 2.

48. With prepositions. Certain prepositions are used with the accusative (A. 220, a, c; D. 276, 278; B. 141, 143; G. 416, 418).

Iūnōnis ob īram, on account of the wrath of Juno, i. 4.

ABLATIVE

49. Separation. Verbs meaning to remove, set free, be absent, deprive, and want take the ablative (sometimes with ab or ex) (A. 401; D. 440; B. 214; G. 390).

Trōas arcēbat longē Latiō, she was keeping the Trojans far from Latium, i. 31.

50. Source. The ablative (usually with a preposition) is used to denote the source from which anything is derived (A. 403; D. 451; B. 215; G. 395).

prōgeniem Trōiānō ā sanguine dūcī, a race was springing from Trojan blood, i. 19.

51. Material. The ablative is used to denote the material of which anything consists (A. 403, 2; D. 452; B. 224, 3; G. 396).

ātrō sanguine guttae, drops of dark blood, iii. 28.

52. Cause. The ablative is used to express cause (A. 404; D. 462; B. 219; G. 408).

insignem pietāte virum, a man distinguished for his piety, i. 10.

53. Agent. The voluntary agent after a passive verb is expressed by the ablative with ā or ab (A. 405; D. 453; B. 216; G. 401).

ab Eurōō fluctū curvātus, curved by the eastern wave, iii. 533.

The only other instances of this construction in Books i–vi are iv. 356 and 377. The dative (§ 30) is common.

54. Comparison. The comparative degree is often followed by the ablative signifying than (A. 406; D. 446; B. 217; G. 398).

terrīs magis omnibus coluisse, to have cherished more than all lands, i. 15.

55. Means. The ablative is used to denote the means or instrument of an action (A. 409; D. 468; B. 218; G. 401).

hīs accēnsa, inflamed by these things, i. 29.

The ablative of the way by which is a variety of the ablative of means (A. 429, a; D. 474; B. 218, 9; G. 389).

prōvehimur pelagō, we sail forth over the sea, iii. 506.

56. With deponent verbs. The deponents ūtor, fruor, fungor, potior, and vēscor, with several of their compounds, govern the ablative (A. 410; D. 469, a; B. 218, 1; G. 407).

hīs vōcibus ūsa est, she spoke thus (used these words), i. 64.

57. With opus and ūsus. Opus and ūsus, signifying need, take the ablative (A. 411; D. 469, b; B. 218, 2; G. 406).

animīs opus [est], there is need of courage, vi. 261.

58. Manner. The manner of an action is denoted by the ablative; usually with cum unless a limiting adjective is used with the noun.

In poetry the preposition is often omitted, even when there is no adjective in the phrase (A. 412 ; D. 459, 460 ; B. 220 ; G. 399).

magnō cum murmure, with great rumbling, i. 55.

turbine perflant, they blow in a whirlwind, i. 83.

59. Accompaniment. Accompaniment is denoted by the ablative, regularly with cum (A. 413 ; D. 456 ; B. 222 ; G. 392).

haec sēcum [dīcit], thus she soliloquizes (she says these things with herself), i. 37.

60. Degree of difference. With comparatives and words implying comparison the ablative is used to denote the degree of difference (A. 414 ; D. 475 ; B. 223 ; G. 403).

multō tremendum magis, much more to be shuddered at, ii. 199.

61. Quality. The quality of a thing is denoted by the ablative with an adjective or genitive modifier (A. 415 ; D. 466 ; B. 224 ; G. 400).

praestantī corpore nymphae, nymphs of surpassing beauty, i. 71.

62. Price. The price of a thing is put in the ablative (A. 416 ; D. 470 ; B. 225 ; G. 404).

aurō corpus vëndēbat, he was selling the body for gold, i. 484.

The other instances of this construction in Books i-vi are ii. 104 ; vi. 621 ; vi. 622.

63. Specification. The ablative of specification denotes that in respect to which something is or is done (A. 418 ; D. 478 ; B. 226 ; G. 397).

studiis asperrema bellī, very violent in its passion for war, i. 14.

64. Accordance. The ablative is used to express that in accordance with which anything is or is done (A. 418, a ; D. 458 ; B. 226 ; G. 397).

foedere certō, under fixed conditions, i. 62.

This is a variety of the ablative of specification.

65. Absolute. A noun or pronoun, with a participle in agreement, may be put in the ablative to define the time or circumstances of an action (A. 419 ; D. 480 ; B. 227 ; G. 409).

nūmine laesō, purpose having been thwarted, i. 8.

66. With adjectives. The ablative is used with the adjectives dignus, indignus, frētus, contentus, and laetus, also with adjectives of filling and abounding, freedom and want (A. 431, a; 418, b; 409, a; 402, a; D. 479; 469, c, d; 440; B. 226, 2; 218, 3; 219, 1; 218, 8; 214, d; G. 397, N.²; 401, N.⁶; 405, N.³).

fēta austrīs, teeming with winds, i. 51.

67. Place where (locative ablative). Place where is regularly expressed by the ablative with in; but in poetry the preposition is often omitted (A. 426, 3; 429, 4; D. 485 and N.; B. 228 and d; G. 385 and N.¹).

terrīs et altō, on land and sea, i. 3.

68. Place whence. Place from which is regularly expressed by the ablative with ā (ab), dē, ē (ex), except in names of towns, small islands, and domus and rūs, where the preposition is omitted. In poetry, too, the preposition is often omitted with other words (A. 426, 1; 427; 428, g; D. 441, 442, 444; B. 229 and 1; G. 390, 391 and N.).

69. With prepositions. The ablative is used with certain prepositions (A. 220, b, c; D. 277, 278; B. 142, 143; G. 417, 418).

ē cōspectū, out of sight, i. 34.

70. Time. Time when, or within which, is expressed by the ablative (A. 423; D. 492; B. 230, 231; G. 393).

aestāte novā, in the early summer, i. 430.

VOCATIVE

71. Direct address. The vocative is the case of direct address (A. 340; D. 321; B. 171; G. 23, 5; 201, R.¹).

Mūsa, O Muse! i. 8.

Ō ter beātī, O thrice happy, i. 94.

LOCATIVE

72. Place where. The locative is used to express place where with names of towns and small islands, and in the forms domī (from domus), rūrī (from rūs), humī (from humus), and a few others:

humī, on the ground, i. 193.

Virgil sometimes uses the locative of names of large islands or countries (A. 427, 3 and a; D. 486-488; B. 232; G. 411).

Crētae, in Crete, iii. 162.

USES OF THE INFINITIVE

73. As subject of est and of impersonal verbs. The infinitive may be used as the subject of est and of many impersonal verbs or passive verbs used impersonally (A. 452, 1; 454; D. 833, 834; B. 327, 330; G. 422).

tantae mōlis erat Rōmānam condere gentem, so great a task it was to found the Roman race, i. 33.

quīs contigit oppetere [mortem], to whom it befell to meet death, i. 96.
cūr iungere nōn datur, why is it not permitted to join? i. 408.

74. In apposition, etc. The infinitive may be used in apposition with the subject or as a predicate nominative (A. 452, 2, 3; D. 835; B. 326; G. 424).

ūna salūs [est] victīs, nūllam spērāre salūtem, the vanquished have one safety only, to hope for no safety, ii. 354.

75. As complement of verbs denoting "be able," etc. The infinitive is used as the complement of verbs denoting to be able, dare, undertake, remember, forget, be accustomed, begin, continue, cease, hesitate, learn, know how, fear, and the like (A. 456; D. 836, 837; B. 328, 1; G. 423).

nec posse Teucrōrum āvertere rēgem, and to be unable to turn aside the king of the Trojans, i. 38.

76. With other verbs. In general, the poets use the infinitive freely with verbs that in prose require a subjunctive clause. Some verbs of the same meanings, however, take (or may take) an infinitive in prose. The details must be learned by practice or from a complete grammar.

77. As complement of verbs denoting willingness, etc. Many verbs take either a subjunctive clause or a complementary infinitive, without difference of meaning. Such are verbs signifying willingness, necessity, propriety, resolve, command, prohibition, effort, and the like.

The infinitive is much more freely used with verbs of willingness, etc., in poetry than in prose (A. 457; D. 836, 837; B. 328; G. 423).

parce scelerāre manūs, forbear to defile your hands, iii. 42.

78. With verbs denoting "admonish," etc. Virgil uses the infinitive with verbs meaning to admonish, ask, bargain, command, decree, determine, permit, persuade, resolve, urge, and wish. In prose, a substantive clause of purpose with ut is the regular construction with most of these verbs (A. 563 and N.; D. 720, I and d; B. 295 and N.; G. 546 and N.⁸).

hortāmur fārī, we urge [him] to speak, ii. 74.

celerāre fugam suādet, he urges [her] to hasten flight, i. 357.

79. As object. The infinitive with subject accusative is used as the object of volō, nōlō, iubeō, cupiō, and patior: also of verbs of determining, decreeing, resolving, and bargaining (A. 563, a-d; D. 839 b-d; B. 331, II-IV; 295, N.; G. 532).

tot volvere cāsūs virum impulerit, forced a man to run the round of so many misfortunes, i. 9.

80. As main verb in indirect discourse. The infinitive with subject accusative is used in indirect statements with verbs of knowing, thinking, telling, and perceiving (A. 579, 582; D. 839, a; B. 314, 1; G. 650).

prōgeniem dūcī audierat, she had heard that a people was springing, i. 19.

quam Iūnō fertur coluisse, which Juno is said to have cherished, i. 15.

81. With adjectives. Virgil occasionally uses the infinitive with an adjective or a participle:

certa mori, bent on death, iv. 564.

Thus the infinitive is used once with certus, once with parātus, once with dignus, once with magnus, and twice with praestantior (A. 460, b; 461; D. 841 and a; B. 333; G. 421, N.¹, c; 428, N.⁸; 552, R.²).

82. Historical. The infinitive is often used for the imperfect indicative in narration, and takes a subject in the nominative (A. 463; D. 844; B. 335; G. 647).

hinc Ulixēs terrēre, from this time Ulysses frightened [me], ii. 97.

83. In exclamations. The infinitive, with subject accusative, may be used in exclamations (A. 462; D. 843; B. 334; G. 534).

mēne inceptō dēsistere, what! I desist from my purpose! i. 37.

84. To express purpose. Virgil uses the infinitive to express purpose:

nōn nōs populāre vēnimus, we have not come to lay waste, i. 527.

This construction occurs nine times with dō in Books i–vi and once each with instituō, vacō, and veniō (A. 460, c; D. 842; B. 326, n.; G. 421, notes).

USES OF THE IMPERATIVE

85. In commands (second person). The imperative is used in commands and entreaties (A. 448, 449; D. 689; B. 281; G. 266).

mihī causās memorā, tell me the reasons, i. 8.

86. In commands (third person). In poetry the third person of the imperative is sometimes used (A. 448, a; D. 690, b; B. 281, 1; G. 267).

nec foedera suntō, there shall be no treaties, iv. 624.

87. In prohibitions. The poet sometimes uses nē and the imperative or the present subjunctive in a prohibition. The customary prose construction is nōlī and an infinitive (A. 450 and notes; D. 690, n.; 675; 676, a; B. 276; 281, 2; G. 263, 2; 270).

II. ORDER OF WORDS

88. The order of words in the Æneid. In prose there is a recognized normal order of words in the sentence. Variations from this order emphasize the word or words removed from the normal position. In the Æneid wider variations of order are found than would be permissible in prose. These variations sometimes arise from metrical convenience. At other times they arise from the desire to obtain emphasis or poetical effect. Observance of the case-endings and of the rules of syntax will usually obviate any difficulty caused by unusual order of words.

89. Variations from the order of words in prose. The following variations from the normal order of words in prose are noticeable in the Æneid:

a. A genitive may be separated from its noun:

Trōiae . . . ōris, i. 1.
studiis . . . bellī, i. 14.

b. An attributive adjective may be separated from its noun:

Lāvīnia . . . litora, i. 2.
saevae . . . Iūnōnis, i. 4.

c. Words associated in thought may be separated:

et terris . . . et altō, i. 3. posthabitā . . . Samō, i. 16.

d. A preposition may follow its noun:

Italiam contrā, i. 13.
maria omnia circum, i. 32.

e. A verb may be placed at the beginning of a verse — a position of especial emphasis in poetry — regardless of its relation to the other words in the clause:

inferret, i. 6.
exciderant, i. 26.

f. A conjunction or relative pronoun is often not the first word in its clause or phrase:

Trōiae quī, i. 1.
Tyriās ōlim quae, i. 20.
omnis ut, i. 74.

III. UNUSUAL FORMS OF WORDS

90. Unusual forms. The new forms of words which the pupil meets in the Æneid are of two classes: (1) archaisms, that is, forms that had once been in use but that were not common in Latin prose at the time when Virgil was writing ; and (2) Greek forms, that is, Greek case-endings retained for words that had been brought over into Latin from the Greek, especially proper names.

91. Archaisms. The following peculiar forms (mostly archaisms) are found in the Æneid :

a. -āī for -ae of the genitive singular of the first declension :

aulāī, iii. 354.

b. -um for -ārum of the genitive plural of the first declension :

Aeneadum, i. 565.

c. -um or -om for -ōrum of the genitive plural of the second declension :

superum, i. 4.

d. -ū for -uī of the dative singular of the fourth declension :

currū, i. 156.

e. -um for -uum of the genitive plural of the fourth declension :

currum, vi. 653.

f. ollī for illī, and ollīs for illis : i. 254 ; vi. 730.

g. quīs for quibus : i. 95.

h. mī for mīhi : vi. 104.

i. ast for at : i. 46.

j. nī for nisi : i. 58.

k. -ier for -ī of the present infinitive passive :

accingier, iv. 493.

l. -ēre for -ērunt of the perfect indicative active :

tenuēre, i. 12.

m. -ībat, -ībant, for -iēbat, -iēbant, of the imperfect of the fourth conjugation :

lēnībat, vi. 468.

n. Shortened (syncopated) forms of the perfect and pluperfect :

acceſtis = acceſſiſtis, i. 201.

trāxe = trāxiſſe, v. 786.

Cf. reſtitum = reſiſtitum, i. 26.

o. Syncopated forms of nouns :

vinclis for vinculīs, i. 54.perīclum for perīculum, ii. 709.ōrāclum for ōrāculum, iii. 143.

p. Archaic forms of nouns :

Karthāgō for Carthāgō, i. 13.honōs for honor, i. 609.diī for diēi, i. 636.

92. Greek forms. Virgil uses the ending -a for the accusative singular and the ending -as for the accusative plural of certain nouns of the third declension that were borrowed from the Greek :

āera, i. 300.

lebētas, iii. 466.

93. Greek forms of proper names. Many of the proper names of the Æneid are originally Greek. Some of these nouns are entirely Latinized. Others, however, retain certain Greek case-endings.

For Greek nouns of the first declension (as Andromachē, Aenēās, Anchisēs), see A. 44 ; D. 81 ; B. 22 ; G. 65 ; of the second (as Tityus or Tityos, Androgeōs, Dēlos), see A. 52 ; D. 89 ; B. 27 ; G. 65 ; of the third (as Orphēus, Orontēs, Ulixēs, Paris, Capys, Didō), A. 82, 83 ; D. 112 ; B. 47 ; G. 65.

IV. MISCELLANEOUS DIFFERENCES

94. The passive as a middle voice. The Greek language has a middle voice, as well as an active and a passive voice. A verb in the Greek middle voice represents the subject as acting on himself, and is therefore like an English or Latin verb with a reflexive pronoun (as sē accingunt, they gird themselves, i. 210).

In Latin the passive voice is often used in the manner of the Greek middle voice, especially in poetry (A. 156, a, N. ; D. 406, d ; B. 175, 2. d ; 256 ; G. 218).

Aeneadae Libyae vertuntur ad ōrās, the followers of Æneas turn (themselves) toward the shores of Libya, i. 158.

implentur veteris Bacchī, they fill themselves with old wine, i. 215.

95. The perfect passive participle as a present. In prose the perfect participle of a few deponent verbs (as veritus and arbitratus) is used with the sense of a present. In poetry the perfect participle of other verbs is occasionally used in this way (A. 491; D. 848; B. 336, 5; G. 282, N.).

tūnsae pectora, beating their breasts, i. 481.

96. The plural of a noun instead of the singular. The poets often use a plural noun where a singular form might be expected. The plural of abstract nouns is used to denote repeated instances of the quality :

īrae, wrath, i. 11 (cf. i. 25).

furiās, mad deed, i. 41.

The plural of words denoting places is found :

ōstia, mouth, i. 14.

Pergama, Troy, i. 466.

Sometimes the plural appears to be used for metrical reasons :

montis, i. 61.

Other words have a plural form at the whim of the poet (A. 100, c; 101, N.²; D. 126, c; 127, N.; B. 55, 4, c; G. 204, N.⁵ and N.⁶).

scēptra, sceptre, i. 57.

vīna, wine, i. 195.

97. Adjectives and participles used as nouns. Adjectives and participles are used more freely as nouns in poetry than in prose, especially in the neuter gender :

altō, the sea, i. 3 (cf. i. 34).

inceptō, purpose, i. 37.

meritis, services, i. 74.

brevia, shoals, i. 111.

98. Variety of names for the same thing. In order to avoid monotony Virgil uses a variety of names for the same thing. For instance, the sea is so often mentioned that, for variety, a large number of names are necessary. Thus, altum, alta, aequor, aequora, maris aequor, mare, maria, aestus, sāl, salum, fluctus (sing. and plur.), pontus, unda, undae, pelagus, freta, vada (salsa), vortex, gurgēs, are all used in essentially the same meaning. The Trojans are called Trōēs, Teucrī, Dardanī, Dardanidae, Aeneadae; and the Greeks, Grāi, Danaī, Argivī, Achivī, Pelasgī.

Variety is often secured by the use of patronymics, — nouns indicating descent or relationship (A. 244; D. 282, g; B. 148, 6; G. 182, 11).

Tȳdīdēs, son of Tydeus (for Diomedes), i. 97.

Aeacidēs, grandson of Æacus (for Achilles), i. 99.

Othryadēs, son of Othrys (for Panthus), ii. 336.

Tyndaris, daughter of Tyndarus (for Helen), ii. 569.

99. Omitted words. The omission of words necessary to the grammatical structure of the sentence is very common in poetry. Such ellipsis of pronouns and of forms of esse is especially frequent:

tantaene [sunt] animīs caelestibus īrae, have heavenly minds such anger? i. 11.

[eam] tenuēre colōnī, settlers inhabited it, i. 12.

100. Metonymy. The poets are fond of metonymy ("change of name"), — a figure of speech by which one calls a thing by the name of something else that is related to that thing or suggests it: as the sword for warfare, forces for soldiery or army, sail for ships.

Examples from the Æneid are sāl, salt (for the sea), i. 35.

puppēs, sterns (for ships), i. 69.

scēptra, sceptre (for royal power), i. 78.

pontus, sea (for wave), i. 114.

Cerēs for grain, i. 177.

Bacchus for wine, i. 215.

THE VERSIFICATION OF THE ÆNEID

101. Latin poetry quantitative. Latin poetry depends for its rhythm not on accent, but on quantity. In distinction from English poetry, which produces its effect by a succession of accented and unaccented syllables, Latin poetry gets its effect from a certain succession of long and short syllables, depending on the metre employed in the poem.

102. Long and short syllables. A syllable in Latin poetry is long (1) if it contains a long vowel or a diphthong, or (2) if it contains a short vowel followed by two consonants (one of which may be at the beginning of the following word). Otherwise, it is short. But a syllable containing a short vowel followed by a mute (p, b, t, d, c, g) and a liquid (l, r) may be either long or short, according to the needs of the verse: thus in patris the a is short, but the first syllable is common, i.e. it may be either long or short.

103. Feet: dactyl, spondee. A combination of syllables forms what is known as a foot. In the metre in which the Æneid is written two kinds of foot are used: a long syllable and two short syllables ($\text{—} \cup \cup$, conderet), called a dactyl; and two long syllables ($\text{—} \text{—}$, ōris), called a spondee. The rules of the metre exclude many words from the Æneid: all, for example, in which a single short syllable comes between two long ones (as in all the cases of āequitās and similar words); many forms of verb inflection, as fēcērant; and all forms where more than two short syllables come together, as in fūērīmūs, itīnērīs. The first syllable of the dactyl and the spondee is always accented: this accent is called the ictus. The accented part of a foot is known as the thesis; the unaccented part, as the arsis.

104. Dactylic hexameter. The metre of the Æneid is known as dactylic hexameter. It is called hexameter because each line, or verse, contains six feet; and it is called dactylic because the dactyls are more numerous than the spondees. The first four feet of the hexameter may be either dactyls or spondees. The fifth foot is usually a dactyl. A verse having a spondee in the fifth foot is called spondaic. The sixth foot is always a spondee. The last syllable of a verse may be short in itself: if it is short, it is regarded as long, because a spondee is necessary in the last foot. Such a syllable is known as the syllaba anceps (the doubtful syllable). The metrical scheme of the dactylic hexameter is as follows :

The verses which are most light and rapid and agreeable to the ear are those in which dactyls are more numerous, or alternate with spondees; when there are many spondees—especially when the verse is spondaic—a slow and labored movement is given to the line, which is, however, often very expressive (see ii. 251, 463–466).

105. Cæsura. An examination of the lines marked out in the preceding paragraph shows that words often end within a foot: [Ar-ma vi]; [no Tro]. The ending of a word within a foot is called cæsura. In Virgil's time it was considered as absolutely necessary for an agreeable cadence. If there is a cæsura at the end of some principal word or phrase or at some pause in the sense, it is called the cæsura. This main cæsura is often a great help to the sense and must always be observed in the reading of the verse. It may occur after the thesis (masculine cæsura), or in the arsis of a dactyl (feminine cæsura). The masculine cæsura is more common than the feminine. The place of the cæsura is oftenest in the third foot, less often in the fourth; in the latter case there is sometimes another cæsura in the second foot, dividing the verse into three parts instead of two.

 the cæsura

The ending of a word with the end of a foot is called dieresis, as in numine, above.

106. Elision, ecthipsis. A vowel at the end of a word is usually not pronounced when the next word begins with a vowel or h; this is called elision. A vowel and m at the end of a word are also elided when the next word begins with a vowel or h; this is called ecthipsis.

It is not known with certainty just how elided syllables were treated by the Romans in reading. They may have been entirely omitted, or they may have been only slurred.

107. Metrical licenses. Virgil does not always adhere rigidly to the general rules of hexameter verse. The metrical licenses which he permits himself follow:

108. Hiatus. Sometimes, especially before the principal cæsura or at a pause in the verse or between proper names, a final vowel is not elided: this is hiatus. In the following verse there is hiatus before the cæsura:

109. Semi-hiatus. In several lines of the Æneid a long vowel or diphthong is made short before a word beginning with a vowel: this is called semi-hiatus. So in the following verse at the end of the first foot:

110. Diastole. Often a short syllable is treated as long: this change is known as diastole:

vidēt, i. 308.
 pulvīs, i. 478.
 iactetūr, i. 668.
 peterēt, i. 651.
 -quē, iii. 91.

111. Systole. Occasionally a long syllable is treated as short. This is called systole.

constitērunt, iii. 681.

112. I and u as consonants. Virgil sometimes treats the vowels i and u as consonants. When so treated these letters may help to make the preceding syllable long by position. This is called synæresis.

ōmniā, vi. 33.

113. Proper names. The quantity of vowels in certain proper names varies :

Lāvīnia, i. 2, but Lāvīnī, i. 258.

Sŷchæus, i. 343, but Sŷchæum, i. 348.

114. Synapheia. Sometimes a verse ends in a syllable which is elided before the initial vowel of the following verse. Such verses are known as hypermetric, and the elision is known as synapheia. All hypermetric verses in Books i–vi of the Æneid end in -que: i. 332 ; i. 448 ; ii. 745.

115. Synizesis. Two vowels belonging to different syllables are sometimes to be pronounced together as one syllable: this combination of syllables is called synizesis. Instances are Oīlēi, i. 41 ; Īlionēi, i. 120 ; aureā, i. 698 ; sciō, iii. 602 ; aureis, v. 352 ; alvēō, vi. 412 ; dehīnc, i. 131 ; deīnde, i. 195.

116. Directions for marking the quantity of verses. In marking the quantity of verses the pupil will be aided if he proceeds in the following manner :

1. Mark the last foot: it is always a spondee.
2. Mark the fifth foot: it is generally a dactyl.
3. Mark the first syllable of the verse long.
4. Elide syllables wherever elision, or ecthipsis, is possible.
5. Mark throughout the verse those vowels that are long by position, i.e. vowels that are followed by two consonants. Remember the exception (§ 102), and remember that one consonant may be the initial letter of the following word.
6. Mark diphthongs long.

7. Mark the final syllable of words declined by cases.

8. Mark short those vowels followed by another vowel or h. Remember that u after q is not marked, and look out for the quantity of vowels in Greek nouns.

9. Finally mark the remaining syllables according to the needs of the various feet. The quantity of these syllables is to be explained either by the authority of the Vocabulary, or by the rules for the increments of declension and conjugation, or by exceptions to the general rules for quantity.

117. Monosyllabic ending of the verse. Sixty verses in Books i-vi end in a monosyllabic word. In more than half of these verses the last word is est, and there is elision before the monosyllabic word: ūsa est, i. 64. In twelve verses the next to the last word also is a monosyllable: fās est, i. 77. Certain expressions recur at the end of the verse: necesse est, iii. 478, iv. 613; vi. 514, 737; locūta est, i. 614; iii. 320; vi. 189. Sometimes Virgil may have been aiming at a particular poetical effect: aquae mōns, i. 105; humī bōs, v. 481.

THE ELEGIAC STANZA

The elegiac stanza consists of two verses,—a hexameter followed by a pentameter.

The pentameter is the same as the hexameter, except that it omits the last half of the third foot and of the sixth foot :

$$\begin{array}{c} \text{—} \cup \cup \mid \text{—} \cup \cup \mid \text{—} \bar{\cup} \parallel \text{—} \cup \cup \mid \text{—} \cup \cup \mid \text{—} \bar{\cup} \\ \text{or} \qquad \qquad \text{or} \\ \text{—} \text{—} \mid \text{—} \text{—} \mid \end{array}$$

The pentameter verse is therefore to be scanned as two half-verses, the second of which always consists of two dactyls followed by a single syllable.

The elegiac stanza is a favorite with Ovid. An example follows (from Fasti, ii. 83–84):

$$\text{Quod} \text{—} \cup \cup \mid \text{—} \text{—} \mid \text{—} \parallel \text{—} \mid \text{—} \cup \cup \mid \cup \text{—} \cup \cup \mid \text{—} \text{—}$$

The elegiac stanza has been imitated in English:

Ín the hex|ámeter | ríses || the | fountáin's | sílvery | cólumn;

Ín the pen|támeter | áye || fál|ling in | mé|lody | bá|ck.

P. VERGILI MARONIS AENEIDOS

LIBER I

THE LANDING IN AFRICA

The wrath of Juno, jealous for the glory of Carthage, compels the long wanderings of Æneas, and detains the Trojan exiles from destined Italy (1-33). She beholds them on their voyage from Sicily, and, angry because they have so long escaped destruction, she solicits Æolus, god of winds, to overwhelm them with a tempest: the storm bursts forth (34-101). The Trojan fleet is scattered and in peril: but Neptune lifts his head and stills the waves (102-156). Æneas, with seven ships, reaches the coast of Africa, where he finds food and rest (157-222). Venus appeals to Jupiter, reminds him of his promises with regard to the Trojans, and begs him to help Æneas. Jupiter comforts Venus by promise of the coming glories of Rome, and sends Mercury to move the Tyrian colonists to hospitality (223-304). Æneas, while exploring the country with Achates, is met by Venus in the guise of a huntress, who tells him of Dido's flight from Tyre and her founding of the city of Carthage on the African shore. She tells him that his missing ships are safe and bids him go to Carthage, first making him and Achates invisible by a miraculous mist (305-417). Æneas admires the new city; sees in the temple of Juno the pictured story of the Trojan War; and at length (still unseen) beholds Queen Dido, attended by some of his own companions whom he thought lost, who come as envoys from the scattered ships (418-519). The appeal of the shipwrecked men moves the compassion of Dido, and she offers to receive them as her subjects: upon which the mist dissolves, and Æneas appears before the queen (520-593). He declares himself, expresses his gratitude to the queen, and greets his restored companions: Dido receives him to royal hospitality in her halls, and sends gifts to the sailors (594-642). Achates is despatched to the fleet for the young Ascanius. Venus, however, fears that the Carthaginians may prove treacherous and appeals for help to her son, Cupid. By a stratagem of the goddess, Cupid is disguised in the likeness of Ascanius and comes to Dido's court instead of the young prince. At the banquet Cupid inspires in the queen a fatal passion for Æneas (643-722). The evening passes in feasting and song, when Dido requests of Æneas the connected story of his wanderings (723-756).

The poet tells his theme and invokes the Muse sēditiō, saevitque animīs ignōbile volgus, iamque facēs et saxa volant, furor arma ministrat, 150 tum, pietāte gravem ac meritīs sī forte virum quem cōnsplexēre, silent, arrēctīsque auribus adstant;

 ille regit dictīs animōs, et pectora mulcet :
 sīc cūctus pelagī cecidit fragor, aequora postquam prōspiciēns genitor caelōque invectus apertō 155 flectit equōs, currūque volāns dat lōra secundō.

The Trojans, with seven ships, land in Africa and prepare for a meal

Dēfessī Aeneadae, quae proxima lītora, cursū contendunt petere, et Libyae vertuntur ad ōrās.
 Est in sēcessū longō locus : īnsula portum efficit obiectū laterum, quibus omnis ab altō 160 frangitur inque sinūs scindit sēsē unda reductōs.
 Hinc atque hinc vāstae rūpēs geminīque minantur in caelum scopulī, quōrum sub vertice lātē aequora tūta silent ; tum silvīs scaena coruscīs dēsUPER horrentīque ātrum nemus imminet umbrā. 165 Fronte sub adversā scopulīs pendentibus antrum, intus aquae dulcēs vīvōque sedilia saxō, nymphārum domus : hīc fessās nōn vincula nāvīs
 ūlla tenent, uncō nōn alligat ancora morsū.
 Hūc septem Aenēās collēctīs nāvibus omnī 170
 ex numerō subit ; ac magnō tellūris amōre ēgressī optātā potiuntur Trōes harēnā, et sale tābentīs artūs in lītore pōnunt.
 Ac primum silicī scintillam excūdit Achātēs, suscēpitque ignem foliīs, atque ārida circum 175 nūtrimenta dedit, rapuitque in fōmite flammam.
 Tum Cererem corruptam undīs Cereāliaque arma expediunt fessī rērum, frūgēsque receptās et torrēre parant flammīs et frangere saxō.

Æneas kills seven deer and bids his companions take courage

Aenēās scopulum intereā cōnscendit, et omnem 180 prōspectum lātē pelagō petit, Anthea sī quem iactātum ventō videat Phrygiāsque birēmīs, aut Capyn, aut celsīs in puppibus arma Caīcī.
 Nāvem in cōnspectū nūllam, trīs lītore cervōs prōspicit errantīs ; hōs tōta armenta sequuntur 185

NEPTUNE

ā tergō, et longum per vallīs pāscitur agmen.
 Cōstitit hīc, arcumque manū celerisque sagittās corripuit, fīdus quae tēla gerēbat Achātēs;
 ductōrēsque ipsōs prīmum, capita alta ferentīs cornibus arboreīs, sternit, tum volgus, et omnem 190 miscet agēns tēlīs nemora inter frondea turbam nec prius absistit, quam septem ingentia victor corpora fundat humī, et numerum cum nāvibus aequet.
 Hinc portum petit, et sociōs partītur in omnīs.
 Vīna bonus quae deinde cadīs onerārat Acestēs 195
 lītore Trīnaciō dederatque abeuntibus hērōs, dīvidit, et dictīs maerentia pectora mulcet:
 ‘Ō sociī—neque enim ignārī sumus ante malōrum—
 Ō passī graviōra, dabit deus hīs quoque fīnem.
 Vōs et Scyllaeam rabiem penitusque sonantīs 200
 accētis scopulōs, vōs et Cyclōpia saxa expertī: revocāte animōs, maestumque timōrem mittite: forsan et haec ōlim meminisse iuvābit.
 Per variōs cāsūs, per tot discrīmina rērum tendimus in Latium; sēdēs ubi fāta quiētās 205
 ostendunt; illic fās rēgna resurgere Trōiae.
 Dūrāte, et vōsmet rēbus servāte secundīs.’

The Trojans feast, and mourn for their missing companions

Tālia vōce refert, cūrīsque ingentibus aeger spem voltū simulat, premit altum corde dolōrem.
 Illī sē praedae accingunt dapibusque futūrīs; 210
 tergora dēripiunt costīs et vīscera nūdant;
 pars in frūsta secant veribusque trementia fīgunt;
 lītore aēna locant aliī, flammāsque ministrant.
 Tum victū revocant vīrīs, fūsique per herbam implentur veteris Bacchī pinguisque ferīnae. 215 Postquam exēpta famēs epulīs mēnsaeque remōtae, āmissōs longō sociōs sermōne requīrunt, spemque metumque inter dubiū, seu vīvere crēdant,

sīve extrēma patī nec iam exaudīre vocātōs.

Praecipuē pius Aenēās nunc ācris Orontī, 220
nunc Amycī cāsum gemit et crūdēlia sēcum fāta Lycī, fortemque Gyān, fortemque Cloanthum.

Venus appeals to Jupiter to help the Trojans

Et iam fīnis erat, cum Iuppiter aethere summō dēspiciēns mare vēlivolum terrāsque iacentīs litoraue et lātōs populōs, sīc vertice caelī 225 cōstitit, et Libyae dēfīxit lūmina rēgnīs.

Atque illum tālīs iactantem pectore cūrās trīstior et lacrimīs oculōs suffūsa nitentīs adloquitur Venus: ' Ō quī rēs hominumque deumque aeternīs regis imperiīs, et fulmine terrēs, 230

quid meus Aenēās in tē committere tantum, quid Trōes potuēre, quibus, tot fūnera passīs, cūctus ob Ītaliā terrārum clauditur orbis?
Certē hinc Rōmānōs ōlim, volventibus annīs, hinc fore ductōrēs, revocatō ā sanguine Teucrī, 235

quī mare, quī terrās omnī diciōne tenērent, pollicitus: quae tē, genitor, sententia vertit?
Hōc equidem occāsum Trōiae trīstisque ruīnās sōlābar, fātis contrāria fāta rependēns;
nunc eadem fortūna virōs tot cāsibus āctōs 240

īnsequitur. Quem dās fīnem, rēx magne, labōrum?
Antēnor potuit, mediīs ēlāpsus Achīvīs, Illyricōs penetrāre sinūs, atque intima tūtus rēgna Liburnōrum, et fontem superāre Timāvī, unde per ōra novem vāstō cum murmure montis 245

it mare prōruptum et pelagō premit arva sonantī.
Hīc tamen ille urbem Patavī sēdēsque locāvit
Teucrōrum, et gentī nōmen dedit, armaque fixit Trōia; nunc placidā compostus pāce quiēscit:

nōs, tua prōgeniēs, caelī quibus adnuis arcem, 250
 nāvibus (īnfandum!) āmissīs, ūnūs ob īram prōdimur atque Italīs longē disiungimur ōris.
 Hic pietātis honōs? Sīc nōs in scēptra repōnis?’

Jupiter comforts Venus and foretells the glory of the Trojan race

Ollī subrīdēns hominum sator atque deōrum, voltū quō caelum tempestātēque serēnat, 255
 ōscula libāvit nātae, dehinc tālia fātur:
 ‘Parce metū, Cytherēa: manent immōta tuōrum fāta tibi; cernēs urbem et prōmissa Lavīnī moenia, sublimemque ferēs ad sīdera caeli magnanimum Aenēān; neque mē sententia vertit. 260 Hic tibi (fābor enim, quandō haec tē cūra remordet, longius et volvēns fātōrum arcāna movēbō) bellum ingēns geret Ītaliā, populōsque ferōcēs contundet, mōrēsque virīs et moenia pōnet, tertia dum Latiō rēgnantem vīderit aestās, 265
 ternaque trānsierint Rutulīs hīberna subāctīs.
 At puer Ascanius, cui nunc cognōmen Iūlō additur,—Īlus erat, dum rēs stetit Īlia rēgnō,— trīgintā magnōs volvendīs mēnsibus orbīs imperiō explēbit, rēgnumque ab sēde Lavīnī 270 trānsferet, et longam multā vī mūniet Albam.
 Hic iam ter centum tōtōs rēgnābitur annōs
 gente sub Hectoreā, dōnec rēgīna sacerdos, Mārte gravis, geminam partū dabit Īlia prōlem.
 Inde lupae fulvō nūtrīcis tegmine laetus 275
 Rōmulus excipiet gentem, et Māvortia condet moenia, Rōmānōsque suō dē nōmine dīcet.
 Hīs ego nec mētās rērū nec tempora pōnō;
 imperium sine fine dedī. Quīn aspera Iūnō, quae mare nunc terrāsque metū caelumque fatīgat, 280

cōnsilia in melius referet, mēcumque fovēbit Rōmānōs rērum dominōs gentemque togātā:
 sīc placitum. Veniet lūstris lābentibus aetās, cum domus Assaracī Phthīam clārāsque Mycēnās 285 servitiō premet, ac victīs dominābitur Argīs.
 Nāscētur pulchrā Trōiānus orīgine Caesar, imperium Ōceanō, fāmam quī terminet astrīs,— Iūlius, ā magnō dēmissum nōmen Iūlō.
 Hunc tū ōlim caelō, spoliīs Orientis onustum, accipiēs sēcūra; vocābitur hic quoque vōtīs.
 290 Aspera tum positīs mītēscent saecula bellīs;
 cāna Fidēs, et Vesta, Remō cum frātre Quirīnus, iūra dabunt; dīrae ferrō et compāgibus artīs claudentur Bellī portae; Furor impius intus, saeva sedēns super arma, et centum vīctus aēnīs
 295 post tergum nōdīs, fremet horridus ōre cruentō.'

Jupiter sends Mercury to inspire the Carthaginians with friendly feelings

Haec ait, et Māiā genitum dēmittit ab altō, ut terrae, utque novae pateant Karthāginis arcēs hospitiō Teucrīs, nē fātī nescia Dīdō finibus arcēret: volat ille per āera magnum 300 rēmigiō ālārū, ac Libyae citus adstitit ōrīs.
 Et iam iussa facit, pōnuntque ferōcia Poenī corda volente deō; in primīs rēgīna quiētum accipit in Teucrōs animum mentemque benignam.

Aeneas, while exploring the country, meets Venus disguised as a huntress

At pius Aenēās, per noctem plūrima volvēns, 305 ut primum lūx alma data est, exīre locōsque explōrāre novōs, quās ventō accesserit ōrās, quī teneant, nam inculta vidēt, hominēsne feraene, quaerere cōstituit, sociīsque exācta referre.

 Classem in convexō nemorum sub rūpe cavātā arboribus clausam circum atque horrentibus umbrīs occulit; ipse ūnō graditur comitātus Achātē, bīna manū lātō crīspāns hastilia ferrō.

MERCURY

Cui māter mediā sēsē tulit obvia silvā virginis ōs habitumque gerēns, et virginis arma
 Spartānae, vel quālis equōs Thrēissa fatīgat Harpalycē, volucremque fugā praevertitur Hebrum.
 Namque umerīs dē mōre habilem suspenderat arcum vērātrix, dederatque comam diffundere ventīs,

ÆNEAS AND VENUS (AS HUNTRESS)

Sic Venus; et Veneris contrā sic filius ōrsus: 325
 'Nūlla tuārum audīta mihī neque vīsa sorōrum—Ō quam tē memorem, virgō? Namque haud tibi voltus mortālis, nec vōx hominem sonat: Ō, dea certē—an Phoebī soror? an nymphārum sanguinis ūna?—
 sīs fēlīx, nostrumque levēs, quaecumque, labōrem, 330 et, quō sub caelō tandem, quibus orbis in ōrīs iactēmur, doceās. Ignārī hominumque locōrumque errāmus, ventō hūc vāstīs et fluctibus āctī:
 multa tibi ante ārās nostrā cadet hostia dextrā.'

Venus tells the story of Dido's flight

Tum Venus: 'Haud equidem tālī mē dignor honōre; 335 virginibus Tyriīs mōs est gestāre pharetram, purpureōque altē sūrās vīncīre cothurnō.
 Pūnica rēgna vidēs, Tyriōs et Agēnoris urbem;
 sed finēs Libycī, genus intrāctābile bellō.
 Imperium Dīdō Tyriā regit urbe profecta, 340 germānum fugiēns. Longa est iniūria, longae ambāgēs; sed summa sequar fastīgia rērum.
 'Huic coniūnx Sŷchaeus erat, dītissimus agrī Phoenīcum, et magnō miserae dīlēctus amōre, cui pater intāctam dederat, prīmisque iugārat 345
 ōminibus. Sed rēgna Tyrī germānus habēbat Pygmaliōn, scelere ante aliōs immānior omnīs.
 Quōs inter medius vēnit furor. Ille Sychaeum impius ante ārās, atque aurī caecus amōre, clam ferrō incautum superat, sēcūrus amōrum 350
 germānae; factumque diū cēlāvit, et aegram, multa malus simulāns, vānā spē lūsit amantem.
 Ipsa sed in somnīs inhumātī vēnit imāgō coniugis, ōra modīs attollēns pallida mīrīs, crūdēlīs ārās trāiectaque pectora ferrō 355

nūdāvit, caecumque domūs scelus omne retēxit.
 Tum celerāre fugam patriāque excēdere suādet, auxiliūque viae veterēs tellūre reclūdīt thēsaurōs, ignōtum argentī pondus et aurī.
 Hīs commōta fugam Dīdō sociōsque parābat : 360 conveniunt, quibus aut odium crūdēle tyrannī aut metus ācer erat ; nāvīs, quae forte parātae, corripuiunt, onerantque aurō : portantur avārī
 Pygmaliōnis opēs pelagō ; dux fēmina factī.
 Dēvēnēre locōs, ubi nunc ingentia cernēs 365
 moenia surgentemque novae Karthāginis arcem, mercātīque solum, factī dē nōmine Byrsam, taurīnō quantum possent circumdare tergō.
 Sed vōs quī tandem, quibus aut vēnistis ab ōrīs, quōve tenētis iter ?' Quaerentī tālibus ille 370 suspīrāns, īmōque trahēns ā pectore vōcem : ,

Aeneas tells Venus of his misfortunes

'Ō dea, sī primā repetēns ab orīgine pergam, et vacet annālīs nostrōrum audīre labōrum,
 ante diem clausō compōnat Vesper Olympō.
 Nōs Trōiā antīquā, sī vestrās forte per aurīs 375
 Trōiae nōmen iit, dīversa per aequora vectōs forte suā Libycīs tempestās appulit ōrīs.
 Sum pius Aenēās, raptōs quī ex hoste penātīs classe vehō mēcum, fāmā super aethera nōtus.
 Ītaliā quaerō patriam et genus ab Iove summō. 380 Bis dēnīs Phrygiū cōnscendī nāvibus aequor, mātrem deā mōnstrante viam, data fāta secūtus ;
 vix septem convolsae undīs Eurōque supersunt.
 Ipse ignōtus, egēns, Libyae dēserta peragrō, Eurōpā atque Asiā pulsus.' Nec plūra querentem 385
 passa Venus mediō sic interfāta dolōre est :

Venus assures Æneas that his companions are safe

' Quisquis es, haud, crēdō, invīsus caelestibus aurās vītālīs carpis, Tyriam quī advēneris urbem.
Perge modo, atque hinc tē rēgīnae ad līmina perfer.
Namque tibī reducēs sociōs classemque relātam 390
nūntiō, et in tūtum versīs aquilōnibus āctam, nī frūstrā augurium vānī docuēre parentēs.
Aspice bis sēnōs laetantīs agmine cynōs, aetheriā quōs lāpsa plagā Iovis āles apertō turbābat caelō; nunc terrās ōrdine longō 395 aut capere, aut captās iam dēspectāre videntur:
ut reducēs illī lūdunt strīdentibus ālīs, et coetū cīnxēre polum, cantūsque dedēre, haud aliter puppēsque tuae pūbēsque tuōrum aut portum tenet aut plēnō subit ōstia vėlō. 400
Perge modo, et, quā tē dūcit via, dīrige gressum.'

Venus reveals herself to Æneas

Dīxit, et āvertēns roseā cervīce refulsit, ambrosiaecque comae dīvīnum vertice odōrem spīrāvēre, pedēs vestis dēflūxit ad īmōs, et vērā incessū patuit dea. Ille ubi mātrem 405
agnōvit, tālī fugientem est vōce secūtus:
' Quid nātum totiēns, crūdēlis tū quoque, falsīs lūdis imāginibus? Cūr dextrae iungere dextram nōn datur, ac vērās audīre et reddere vōcēs?'

Æneas and Achates are veiled in a cloud

Tālībus incūsāt, gressumque ad moenia tendit: 410 at Venus obscurō gradientīs āēre saepsit, et multō nebulae circum dea fūdīt amictū, cernere nē quis eōs, neu quis contingere posset, mōlīrīve moram, aut veniendī poscere causās.

Ipsa Paphum sublimis abit, sēdēsque revīsit laeta suās, ubi templum illī, centumque Sabaeō tūre calent ārae, sertisque recentibus hālant. 415

Aeneas and Achates get their first view of Carthage, and enter the city

Corripuēre viam intereā, quā sēmīta mōnstrat.
Iamque ascendēbant collem, quī plūrimus urbī imminet, adversāsque aspectat dēs super arcēs. 420 Mirātur mōlem Aenēās, māgālia quondam, mīrātur portās strepitumque et strāta viārum.
Instant ārdentēs Tyriī, pars dūcere mūrōs, mōlīrīque arcem et manibus subvolvere saxa, pars optāre locum tēctō et conclūdere sulcō; 425
iūra magistrātūsque legunt sānctumque senātum;
hīc portūs aliī effodiunt; hīc alta theātrī fundāmenta locant aliī, immānīsq̄e columnās rūpibus excīdunt, scaenīs decora alta futūrīs.
Quālis apēs aestāte novā per flōrea rūra 430
exercet sub sōle labor, cum gentis adultōs ēdūcunt fētūs, aut cum līquentia mella stīpant et dulcī distendunt nectare cellās, aut onera accipiunt venientum, aut agmine factō ignāvum fūcōs pecus ā praesaepibus arcent: 435 fervet opus, redolentque thymō frāgrantia mella.
'Ō fortūnātī, quōrum iam moenia surgunt!'
Aenēās ait, et fastīgia suspicit urbis.
Infert sē saeptus nebulā, mīrābile dictū, per mediōs, miscetque virīs, neque cernitur ūllī. 440

Aeneas views the temple of Juno

Lūcus in urbe fuit mediā, laetissimus umbrae, quō primum iactātī undīs et turbine Poenī effōdēre locō signum, quod rēgia Iūnō mōnstrārat, caput ācris equī; sic nam fore bellō ēgregiam et facilem victū per saecula gentem. 445

 Hīc templum Iūnōnī ingēns Sidōnia Dīdō condēbat, dōnīs opulentum et nūmine dīvae, aerea cui gradibus surgēbant limina, nexaeque
 aere trabēs, foribus cardō strīdēbat aēnīs.
 Hōc primum in lūcō nova rēs oblāta timōrem 450
 lēniit, hīc primum Aenēās spērāre salūtem ausus, et adflīctīs melius cōnfīdere rēbus.
 Namque sub ingentī lūstrat dum singula templō, rēgīnam opperiēns, dum, quae fortūna sit urbī, artificumque manūs inter sē operumque labōrem 455
 mīrātur, videt Īliacās ex ōrdine pugnās, bellaque iam fāmā tōtum volgāta per orbem, Atrīdās, Priamumque, et saevum ambōbus Achillem.
 Cōstitit, et lacrimāns, 'Quis iam locus,' inquit, 'Achātē, quae regiō in terrīs nostrī nōn plēna labōris? 460
 Ēn Priamus! Sunt hīc etiam sua praemia laudī; sunt lacrimae rērum et mentem mortālia tangunt.
 Solve metūs; feret haec aliquam tibi fāma salūtem.'
 Sic ait, atque animum pictūrā pāscit inānī, multa gemēns, largōque ūmectat flūmine voltum. 465

Aeneas looks at scenes from the Trojan War painted on the temple walls

Namque vidēbat utī bellantēs Pergama circum hāc fugerent Grāī, premeret Trōiāna iuventūs, hāc Phryges, instāret currū cristātus Achillēs.
 Nec procul hinc Rhēsī niveīs tentōria vëlīs agnōscit lacrimāns, primō quae prōdita somnō 470 Tŷdīdēs multā vāstābat caede cruentus, ārdentisque āvertit equōs in castra, priusquam pābula gustāssent Trōīae Xanthumque bibissent.
 Parte aliā fugiēns āmissīs Trōilus armīs, infēlīx puer atque impār congressus Achillī, 475

 fertur equīs, currūque haeret resupīnus inānī, lōra tenēns tamen; huic cervīxque comaeque trahuntur per terram, et versā pulvīs īnscrībītur hastā.
 Intereā ad templum nōn aequae Palladis ībant crīnibus Īliades passīs, peplumque ferēbant, 480 suppliciter trīstēs et tūnsae pectora palmīs;
 dīva solō fixōs oculōs āversa tenēbat.
 Ter circum Īliacōs raptāverat Hectora mūrōs, exanimumque aurō corpus vëndēbat Achillēs.
 Tum vērō ingentem gemitum dat pectore ab īmō 485
 ut spolia, ut currūs, utque ipsum corpus amīcī, tendentemque manūs Priamum cōnspexit inermīs.
 Sē quoque prīncipibus permixtum agnōvit Achīvīs, Ēōāsque aciēs et nigrī Memnonis arma.
 Dūcīt Amāzonidum lūnātīs agmina peltīs 490
 Penthesilēa furēns, mediīsque in mīlibus ārdet, aurea subnectēns exsertae cingula mammae, bellātrīx, audetque virīs concurrere virgō.

Aeneas sees Dido enter the temple, and his missing companions come up

Haec dum Dardaniō Aenēae mīranda videntur, dum stupet, obtūtūque haeret dēfīxus in ūnō, 495
 rēgīna ad templum, fōrmā pulcherrima Dīdō, incessit magnā iuvenum stīpante catervā.
 Quālis in Eurōtae rīpīs aut per iuga Cynthī exercet Dīāna chorōs, quam mīlle secūtae hīnc atque hīnc glomerantur Orēades; illa pharetram 500
 fert umerō, gradiēnsque deās superēminet omnīs:
 Lātōnae tacitum pertemptant gaudia pectus:
 tālis erat Dīdō, tālem sē laeta ferēbat per mediōs, īnstāns operī rēgnīsque futūrīs.
 Tum foribus dīvae, mediā testūdine templī, 505

saepta armīs, soliōque altē subnīxa resēdit.
 Iūra dabat lēgēsque virīs, operumque labōrem partibus aequābat iūstīs, aut sorte trahēbat :

THRONE

cum subitō Aenēās concursū accēdere magnō Anthea Sergestumque videt fortemque Cloanthum, Teucrōrumque aliōs, āter quōs aequore turbō dispulerat penitusque aliās āvexerat ōrās.
 Obstipuit simul ipse simul percussus Achātēs laetitiāque metūque ; avidī coniungere dextrās

ârdēbant ; sed rēs animōs incognita turbat. 515 Dissimulant, et nūbe cavā speculantur amictī, quae fortūna virīs, classem quō litore linquant, quid veniant ; cūctīs nam lēctī nāvibus ibant, ōrantēs veniam, et templum clāmōre petēbant.

Ilioneus addresses Dido in behalf of the Trojans

Postquam intrōgressī et cōram data cōpia fandī, 520
 maximus Īlioneus placidō sīc pectore coepit :
 ' Ō rēgīna, novam cui condere Iuppiter urbem iūstitiāque dedit gentīs frēnāre superbās, Trōes tē miserī, ventīs maria omnia vectī, ōrāmus, prohibē infandōs ā nāvibus ignīs, 525
 parce piō generī, et propius rēs aspice nostrās.
 Nōn nōs aut ferrō Libycōs populāre penātis vēnimus, aut raptās ad litora vertere praedās ;
 nōn ea vīs animō, nec tanta superbia victīs.
 Est locus, Hesperiam Grāi cognōmine dīcunt, 530 terra antīqua, potēns armīs atque ūbere glaebae ;
 Oenōtrī coluēre virī ; nunc fāma minōrēs
 Ītaliā dīxisse ducis dē nōmine gentem.
 Hic cursus fuit :
 cum subitō adsurgēns fluctū nimbōsus Oriōn 535
 in vada caeca tulit, penitusque procācibus austrīs perque undās, superante salō, perque invia saxa dispulit ; hūc paucī vestrīs adnāvimus ōrīs.
 Quod genus hoc hominum ? Quaeve hunc tam barbara mōrem permittit patria ? Hospitiō prohibēmur harēnae ; 540 bella cient, primāque vetant cōsistere terrā.
 Sī genus hūmānum et mortālia temnitis arma,
 at spērāte deōs memorēs fandī atque nefandī.
 ' Rēx erat Aenēās nōbīs, quō iūstior alter nec pietāte fuit, nec bellō maior et armīs. 545

LIBER II

THE TALE OF TROY

Æneas begins the tale. The Greeks, discouraged, had withdrawn to Tenedos, leaving the wooden horse, in which chosen warriors were hidden (1-39). Laocoön in vain protests against receiving it within the walls: meanwhile Sinon, pretending to have fled from the Greeks, is received in confidence by Priam, whom he persuades that the horse is a sacred offering to Minerva (40-198). Laocoön and his sons are destroyed by two monstrous serpents: the horse is brought with rejoicing into the city, and at night Sinon sets free the Grecian chiefs (199-267). The ghost of Hector appears to Æneas, and warns him to flee. The city is seen in flames: Æneas and his companions take arms (268-369). Victorious encounter with a party of Greeks: a disastrous conflict follows, and they come to Priam's palace (370-452). Defence and storming of the palace: the fate of Priam, slain by Pyrrhus, while vainly attempting to protect his son (453-558). Æneas returns to his own house—first meeting Helen, whom Venus warns him not to slay—and beholds in a vision the divinities who preside at the destruction of Troy (559-663). Anchises at first refuses to fly, but is encouraged by a divine omen (664-704). Æneas, bearing his father, and attended by his wife Creüsa, and his son, seeks escape; but, confused by a sudden alarm, loses Creüsa on the way (705-751). He seeks her in vain at his palace, which is now filled with the armed enemy; but she meets him in a vision and comforts him by assurance of her own deliverance from hostile hands. At dawn, he finds a numerous company escaped from the city, with whom he seeks the shelter of Mount Ida (752-804).

Æneas begins his story

ONTICUERE omnes, intentique ora tenebant.
Inde toro pater Aeneas sic orsus ab alto:
Infandum, regina, iubes renovare dolorem, Troianas ut opes et lamentabile regnum eruerint Danai; quaeque ipse miserrima vidi, et quorum pars magna fui. Quis talia fando Myrmidonum Dolopumve aut duri miles Ulixi temperet a lacrimis? Et iam nox umida caelo praecipitat, suadentque cadentia sidera somnos.

 Sed si tantus amor casus cognoscere nostros 10
 et breviter Troiae supremum audire laborem, quamquam animus meminisse horret, luctuque refugit, incipiam.

The Greeks build a huge wooden horse, fill it with soldiers, and sail away to Tenedos

Fracti bello fatisque repulsi ductores Danaum, tot iam labentibus annis, instar montis equum divina Palladis arte 15
 aedificant, sectaque intexunt abiete costas:
 votum pro reditu simulant; ea fama vagatur.

Huc delecta virum sortiti corpora furtim includunt caeco lateri, penitusque cavernas ingentis utrumque armato milite complent. 20

Est in conspectu Tenedos, notissima fama insula, dives opum, Priami dum regna manebant, nunc tantum sinus et statio male fida carinis:
 huc se propecti deserto in litore condunt.

The Trojans debate what they are to do with the horse

Nos abiisse rati et vento petiisse Mycenae: 25
 ergo omnis longo solvit se Teucra luctu; panduntur portae; iuvat ire et Dorica castra desertosque videre locos litusque relictum.
 Hic Dolopum manus, hic saevus tendebat Achilles;
 classibus hic locus; hic acie certare solebant. 30
 Pars stupet innuptae donum exitiale Minervae, et molem mirantur equi; primusque Thymoetes duci intra muros hortatur et arce locari,

THE TROJAN HORSE

sive dolo, seu iam Troiae sic fata ferebant.
 At Capys, et quorum melior sententia menti, aut pelago Danaum insidias suspectaque dona praecipitare iubent, subiectisque urere flammis, aut terebrare cavas uteri et temptare latebras.
 Scinditur incertum studia in contraria volgus.

Laocoön warns the Trojans

Primus ibi ante omnis, magna comitante caterva, Laocoön ardens summa decurrit ab arce,
 et procul: 'O miseri, quae tanta insania, cives?
 Creditis avectos hostis? Aut ulla putatis dona carere dolis Danaum? Sic notus Ulixes?
 Aut hoc inclusi ligno occultantur Achivi, aut haec in nostros fabricata est machina muros inspectura domos venturaque desuper urbi, aut aliquis latet error; equo ne credite, Teucri.
 Quicquid id est, timeo Danaos et dona ferentis.'
 Sic fatus, validis ingentem viribus hastam

45

50

in latus inque feri curvam compagibus alvum contorsit : stetit illa tremens, uteroque recusso insonuere cavae gemitumque dedere cavernae.
 Et, si fata deum, si mens non laeva fuisset, impulerat ferro Argolicas foedare latebras, 55
 Troiaque nunc staret, Priamique arx alta, maneres.

Sinon, a Greek, is brought in as a willing prisoner

Ecce, manus iuvenem interea post terga revinctum pastores magno ad regem clamore trahebant Dardanidae, qui se ignotum venientibus ultro, hoc ipsum ut strueret Troiamque aperiret Achivis, 60
 obtulerat, fidens animi atque in utrumque paratus, seu versare dolos, seu certae occumbere morti.
 Undique visendi studio Troiana iuventus circumfusa ruit, certantque inludere capto.
 Accipe nunc Danaum insidias, et crimine ab uno 65
 discе omnes.

Namque ut conspectu in medio turbatus, inermis constitit atque oculis Phrygia agmina circumspexit :
 'Heu, quae nunc tellus,' inquit, 'quae me aequora possunt accipere? Aut quid iam misero mihi denique restat, 70
 cui neque apud Danaos usquam locus, et super ipsi Dardanidae infensi poenas cum sanguine poscunt?'
 Quo gemitu conversi animi, compressus et omnis impetus. Hortamur fari; quo sanguine cretus, quidve ferat, memoret, quae sit fiducia capto. 75
 Ille haec, deposita tandem formidine, fatur :

Sinon pretends that Ulysses was his enemy

'Cuncta equidem tibi, rex, fuerit quodcumque, fatebor vera,' inquit, 'neque me Argolica de gente negabo :
 hoc primum; nec, si miserum Fortuna Sinonem finxit, vanum etiam mendacemque improba finget. 80

Fando aliquod si forte tuas pervenit ad auris Belídae nomen Palamedis et incluta fama gloria,—quem falsa sub proditione Pelasgi insontem infando indicio, quia bella vetabat, demisere neci, nunc cassum lumine lugent,— 85
 illi me comitem et consanguinitate propinquum pauper in arma pater primis huc misit ab annis, dum stabat regno incolumis regumque vige-bat consiliis. et nos aliquod nomenque decusque gessimus. Invidia postquam pellacis Ulixi— 90 haud ignota loquor—superis concessit ab oris, adflictus vitam in tenebris luctuque trahebam, et casum insontis mecum indignabar amici.
 Nec tacui demens, et me, fors si qua tulisset, si patrios umquam remeassem victor ad Argos, 95
 promisi ultorem, et verbis odia aspera movi.
 Hinc mihi prima mali labes, hinc semper Ulixes criminibus terrere novis, hinc spargere voces in volgum ambiguas, et quaerere conscius arma.
 Nec requievit enim, donec, Calchante ministro— 100
 sed quid ego haec autem nequiquam ingrata revolve?
 Quidve moror, si omnis uno ordine habetis Achivos, idque audire sat est? Iamdudum sumite poenas:
 hoc Ithacus velit, et magno mercentur Atridae.'

Sinon pretends that the Greeks were about to sacrifice him

Tum vero ardemus scitari et quaerere causas. 105
 ignari scelerum tantorum artisque Pelasgae.
 Prosequitur pavitans, et ficto pectore fatur:
 'Saepe fugam Danai Troia cupiere relicta moliri, et longo fessi discedere bello; fecissentque utinam! Saepe illos aspera ponti 110 intercluserit hiems, et terruit Auster euntis.

Praecipue, cum iam hic trabibus contextus acernis staret equus, toto sonuerunt aethere nimbi.

Suspensi Eurypylum scitantem oracula Phoebi mittimus, isque adytis haec tristia dicta reportat : 115

*Sanguine placastis ventos et virgine caesa, cum primum Iliacas, Danaï, venistis ad oras ;
sanguine quaerendi reditus, animaque litandum Argolica.* Volgi quae vox ut venit ad auris, obstipuerè animi, gelidusque per ima cucurrit 120
ossa tremor, cui fata parent, quem poscat Apollo.

‘Hic Ithacus vatem magno Calchanta tumultu protrahit in medios ; quae sint ea numina divum, flagitat ; et mihi iam multi crudele canebant artificis scelus, et taciti ventura videbant. 125

Bis quinos silet ille dies, tectusque recusat prodere voce sua quemquam aut opponere morti.
Vix tandem, magnis Ithaci clamoribus actus, composito rumpit vocem, et me destinat arae.
Adsensere omnes, et, quae sibi quisque timebat, 130
unius in miseri exitium conversa tulere.

Iamque dies infanda aderat ; mihi sacra parari, et salsae fruges, et circum tempora vittae :
eripui, fateor, leto me, et vincula rupi, limosoque lacu per noctem obscurus in ulva 135
delitui, dum vela darent, si forte dedissent.

Nec mihi iam patriam antiquam spes ulla videndi, nec dulcis natos exoptatumque parentem ;
quos illi fors et poenas ob nostra reposcent effugia, et culpam hanc miserorum morte piabunt. 140

Quod te per superos et conscia numina veri, per si qua est quae restet adhuc mortalibus usquam intemerata fides, oro, miserere laborum tantorum, miserere animi non digna ferentis.’

The Trojans take pity on Sinon. He tells them that the horse is an offering to Minerva, and that they will conquer the Greeks if they receive it into the city

His lacrimis vitam damus, et miserescimus ultro. 145

Ipse viro primus manicas atque arta levare vincla iubet Priamus, dictisque ita fatur amicis:
'Quisquis es, amissos hinc iam obliviscere Graios;
noster eris, mihi que haec edissere vera roganti: 149
Quo molem hanc immanis equi statuere? Quis auctor?
Quidve petunt? Quae religio, aut quae machina belli?'
Dixerat. Ille, dolis instructus et arte Pelasga, sustulit exutas vinclis ad sidera palmas:

'Vos, aeterni ignes, et non violabile vestrum testor numen,' ait, 'vos, arae ensesque nefandi, 155 quos fugi, vittaeque deum, quas hostia gessi:
fas mihi Graiorum sacrata resolvere iura, fas odisse viros, atque omnia ferre sub auras,
si qua tegunt; teneor patriae nec legibus ullis.
Tu modo promissis maneat, servataque serves, 160
Troia, fidem, si vera feram, si magna rependam.

'Omnis spes Danaum et coepti fiducia belli Palladis auxiliis semper stetit. Impius ex quo Tydides sed enim scelerumque inventor Ulixes, fatale adgressi sacrato avellere templo 165
Palladium, caesis summae custodibus arcis, corripuere sacram effigiem, manibusque cruentis virgineas ausi divae contingere vittas;
ex illo fluere ac retro sublapsa referri
spes Danaum, fractae vires, aversa deae mens. 170
Nec dubiis ea signa dedit Tritonia monstros.
Vix positum castris simulacrum, arsere coruscae luminibus flammae arrectis, salsusque per artus sudor iit, terque ipsa solo—mirabile dictu—emicuit, parmamque ferens hastamque trementem. 175

THE PALLADIUM

'Extemplo temptanda fuga canit aequora Calchas, nec posse Argolicis exscindi Pergama telis, omina ni repetant Argis, numenque reducant quod pelago et curvis secum avexere carinis.
 Et nunc, quod patrias vento petiere Mycenae, 180
 arma deosque parant comites, pelagoque remenso improvisi aderunt: ita digerit omina Calchas.
 Hanc pro Palladio moniti, pro numine laeso effigiem statuere, nefas quae triste piaret.
 Hanc tamen immensam Calchas attollere molem 185 roboribus textis caeloque educere iussit, ne recipi portis, aut duci in moenia possit,
 neu populum antiqua sub religione tueri.
 Nam si vestra manus violasset dona Minervae, tum magnum exitium (quod di prius omen in ipsum 190 convertant!) Priami imperio Phrygibusque futurum; sin manibus vestris vestram ascendisset in urbem, ultro Asiam magno Pelopea ad moenia bello venturam, et nostros ea fata manere nepotes.'

Talibus insidiis periurique arte Sinonis credita res, captique dolis lacrimisque coactis, quos neque Tydides, nec Larissaeus Achilles, non anni domuere decem, non mille carinae.

Laocoön and his sons are slain by serpents

Hic aliud maius miseris multoque tremendum obicitur magis. atque improvida pectora turbat. 200 Laocoön, ductus Neptuno sorte sacerdos, sollemnis taurum ingentem mactabat ad aras.
 Ecce autem gemini a Tenedo tranquilla per alta—horresco referens—immensis orbibus angues incumbunt pelago, pariterque ad litora tendunt ; 205 pectora quorum inter fluctus arrecta iubaeque sanguineae superant undas ; pars cetera pontum pone legit, sinuatque immensa volumine terga.
 Fit sonitus spumante salo ; iamque arva tenebant, ardentisque oculos suffecti sanguine et igni, 210 sibila lambebant linguis vibrantibus ora.
 Diffugimus visu exsanguis : illi agmine certo Laocoönta petunt ; et primum parva duorum corpora natorum serpens amplexus uterque implicat, et miseros morsu depascitur artus ; 215 post ipsum auxilio subeuntem ac tela ferentem corripuiunt, spirisque ligant ingentibus ; et iam bis medium amplexi, bis collo squamea circum
 terga dati, superant capite et cervicibus altis.
 Ille simul manibus tendit divellere nodos, 220 perfusus sanie vittas atroque veneno, clamores simul horrendos ad sidera tollit :
 quales mugitus, fugit cum saucius aram
 taurus, et incertam excussit cervice securim.

At gemini lapsu delubra ad summa dracones 225
 effugiunt saevaeque petunt Tritonidis arcem, sub pedibusque deae clipeique sub orbe teguntur.
 Tum vero tremefacta novus per pectora cunctis insinuat pavor, et scelus expendisse merentem Laocoönta ferunt, sacrum qui cuspide robur 230
 laeserit, et tergo sceleratam intorserit hastam.
 Ducendum ad sedes simulacrum orandaque divae numina conclamant.

The horse is brought into Troy

Dividimus muros et moenia pandimus urbis.
 Accingunt omnes operi, pedibusque rotarum 235
 subiciunt lapsus, et stuppea vincula collo intendunt : scandit fatalis machina muros, feta armis. Pueri circum innuptaeque puellae sacra canunt, funemque manu contingere gaudent.
 Illa subit, mediaeque minans inlabitur urbi. 240
 O patria, O divum domus Ilium, et incluta bello moenia Dardanidum, quater ipso in limine portae substitit, atque utero sonitum quater arma dedere :
 instamus tamen immemores caecique furore, et monstrum infelix sacrata sistimus arce. 245
 Tunc etiam fatis aperit Cassandra futuris ora, dei iussu non umquam credita Teucris.
 Nos delubra deum miseri, quibus ultimus esset
 ille dies, festa velamus fronde per urbem.

*That night the Greeks return and enter the city, aided by Sinon ;
 they are joined by those concealed in the horse*

Vertitur interea caelum et ruit Oceano nox, 250 involvens umbra magna terramque polumque Myrmidonumque dolos ; fusi per moenia Teucris conticuere, sopor fessos complectitur artus :

LAOCOÖN

et iam Argiva phalanx instructis navibus ibat a Tenedo tacitae per amica silentia lunae 255 litora nota petens, flammas cum regia puppis extulerat, fatisque deum defensus iniquis inclusos utero Danaos et pinea furtim laxat claustra Sinon. Illos patefactus ad auras reddit equus, laetique cavo se robore promunt 260 Thessandrus Sthenelusque duces, et dirus Ulixes, demissum lapsi per funem, Acamasque, Thoasque, Pelidesque Neoptolemus, primusque Machaon, et Menelaus, et ipse doli fabricator Epeos.
 Invadunt urbem somno vinoque sepultam ; 265
 caeduntur vigiles, portisque patentibus omnis accipiunt socios atque agmina conscia iungunt.

Hector appears in a dream to Æneas and bids him leave Troy

Tempus erat, quo prima quies mortalibus aegris incipit, et dono divum gratissima serpit.
 In somnis, ecce, ante oculos maestissimus Hector 270
 visus adesse mihi, largosque effundere fletus, raptatus bigis, ut quondam, aterque cruento pulvere, perque pedes traiectus lora tumentis.
 Ei mihi, qualis erat, quantum mutatus ab illo Hectore, qui redit exuvias indutus Achilli, 275
 vel Danaum Phrygios iaculatus puppibus ignis, squalentem barbam et concretos sanguine crinis volneraque illa gerens, quae circum plurima muros accepit patrios. Ultro flens ipse videbar compellare virum et maestas expromere voces : 280
 'O lux Dardaniae, spes O fidissima Teucrum, quae tantae tenuere morae? Quibus Hector ab oris exspectate venis? Ut te post multa tuorum funera, post varios hominumque urbisque labores

HECTOR'S GHOST WARNING ÆNEAS

defessi aspiciamus! Quae causa indigna serenos 285 foedavit voltus? Aut cur haec volnera cerno?’

Ille nihil, nec me quaerentem vana moratur, sed graviter gemitus imo de pectore ducens, ‘Heu fuge, nate dea, teque his,’ ait, ‘eripe flammis.
Hostis habet muros; ruit alto a culmine Troia. 290
Sat patriae Priamoque datum: si Pergama dextra defendi possent, etiam hac defensa fuissent.
Sacra suosque tibi commendat Troia penatis:
hos cape fatorum comites, his moenia quaere magna, pererrato statues quae denique ponto.’ 295 Sic ait, et manibus vittas Vestamque potentem aeternumque adytis effert penetralibus ignem.

Æneas awakes and finds Troy in flames; he decides to get together a band of men and to fight to the death

Diverso interea miscentur moenia luctu, et magis atque magis, quamquam secreta parentis Anchisae domus arboribusque oblecta recessit, 300 clarescunt sonitus, armorumque ingruit horror.
Excitior somno, et summi fastigia tecti ascensu supero, atque arrectis auribus adsto:
in segetem veluti cum flamma furentibus Austris incidit, aut rapidus montano flumine torrens 305 sternit agros, sternit sata laeta boumque labores, praecipitesque trahit silvas, stupet inscius alto accipiens sonitum saxi de vertice pastor.
Tum vero manifesta fides, Danaumque patescunt insidiae. Iam Deiphobi dedit ampla ruinam 310
Volcano superante domus; iam proximus ardet
Ucalegon; Sigea igni freta lata relucet.
Exoritur clamorque virum clangorque tubarum.
Arma amens capio; nec sat rationis in armis,

sed glomerare manum bello et concurrere in arcem 315 cum sociis ardent animi ; furor iraque mentem praecipitant, pulchrumque mori succurrit in armis.

Æneas meets Panthus, who tells him that the Greeks are masters of the city

Ecce autem telis Panthus elapsus Achivum, Panthus Othryades, arcis Phoebique sacerdos, sacra manu victosque deos parvumque nepotem 320
 ipse trahit, cursuque amens ad limina tendit.
 'Quo res summa loco, Panthu? Quam prendimus arcem?'
 Vix ea fatus eram, gemitu cum talia reddit:
 'Venit summa dies et ineluctabile tempus Dardaniae: fuimus Troes, fuit Ilium et ingens 325 gloria Teucrorum; ferus omnia Iuppiter Argos transtulit; incensa Danaï dominantur in urbe.
 Arduus armatos mediis in moenibus adstans fundit equus, victorque Sinon incendia miscet insultans; portis alii bipatientibus adsunt, 330
 milia quot magnis umquam venere Mycenis;
 obsedere alii telis angusta viarum oppositis; stat ferri acies mucrone corusco stricta, parata neci; vix primi proelia temptant portarum vigiles, et caeco Marte resistunt.' 335

Æneas and his comrades make a desperate rally

Talibus Othryadae dictis et numine divum in flammis et in arma feror, quo tristis Erinys, quo fremitus vocat et sublatus ad aethera clamor.
 Addunt se socios Ripheus et maximus armis Epytus oblatus per lunam Hypanisque Dymasque, 340 et lateri adglomerant nostro, iuvenisque Coroeus, Mygdonides: illis ad Troiam forte diebus venerat, insano Cassandrae incensus amore, et gener auxilium Priamo Phrygibusque ferebat, infelix, qui non sponsae praecepta furentis audierit. 345

Quos ubi confertos audere in proelia vidi, incipio super his : 'Iuvenes, fortissima frustra pectora, si vobis audentem extrema cupido certa sequi, quae sit rebus fortuna videtis : 350 excessere omnes, adytis arisque relictis, di, quibus imperium hoc steterat ; succurritis urbi incensae ; moriamur et in media arma ruamus.
 Una salus victis, nullam sperare salutem.'

Sic animis iuvenum furor additus : inde, lupi ceu 355
 raptores atra in nebula, quos improba ventris exegit caecos rabies, catulique relict faucibus exspectant siccis, per tela, per hostis vadimus haud dubiam in mortem, mediaeque tenemus urbis iter ; nox atra cava circumvolat umbra. 360 Quis cladem illius noctis, quis funera fando explicet, aut possit lacrimis aequare labores ?
 Urbs antiqua ruit, multos dominata per annos ;
 plurima perque vias sternuntur inertia passim corpora, perque domos et religiosa deorum 365 limina. Nec soli poenas dant sanguine Teucri ;
 quondam etiam victis redit in praecordia virtus victoresque cadunt Danaï : crudelis ubique luctus, ubique pavor, et plurima mortis imago.

Androgeos mistakes Æneas and his followers for Greeks

Primus se, Danaum magna comitante caterva, 370
 Androgeos offert nobis, socia agmina credens inscius, atque ultro verbis compellat amicis :
 'Festinate, viri : nam quae tam sera moratur segnities? Alii rapiunt incensa feruntque Pergama; vos celsis nunc primum a navibus itis? ' 375

 Dixit, et extemplo, neque enim responsa dabantur fida satis, sensit medios delapsus in hostis.
 Obstipuit, retroque pedem cum voce repressit:
 improvisum aspris veluti qui sentibus anguem pressit humi nitens, trepidusque repente refugit 380 attollentem iras et caerulea colla tumentem;
 haud secus Androgeos visu tremefactus abibat.
 Inruimus, densis et circumfundimur armis, ignarosque loci passim et formidine captos sternimus: adspirat primo fortuna labori. 385

The Trojans disguise themselves in Greek armor and are successful for the moment

Atque hic successu exsultans animisque Coroebus,
 'O socii, qua prima,' inquit, 'fortuna salutis monstrat iter, quaque ostendit se dextra, sequamur;
 mutemus clipeos, Danaumque insignia nobis
 aptemus: dolus an virtus, quis in hoste requirat? 390
 Arma dabunt ipsi.' Sic fatus, deinde comantem Androgei galeam clipeique insigne decorum induitur, laterique Argivum accommodat ensem.
 Hoc Ripheus, hoc ipse Dymas omnisque iuventus laeta facit; spoliis se quisque recentibus armat. 395 Vadimus immixti Danais haud numine nostro, multaque per caecam congressi proelia noctem conserimus, multos Danaum demittimus Orco.
 Diffugiunt alii ad navis, et litora cursu fida petunt: pars ingentem formidine turpi 400 scandunt rursus equum et nota conduntur in alvo.

CASSANDRA

The Trojans attempt to rescue Cassandra

Heu nihil invitis fas quemquam fidere divis!
 Ecce trahebatur passis Priameïa virgo crinibus a templo Cassandra adytisque Minervae, ad caelum tendens ardentia lumina frustra,— lumina, nam teneras arcebant vincula palmas.
 Non tulit hanc speciem furiata mente Coroebus, et sese medium iniecit periturus in agmen.
 Consequimur cuncti et densis incurrimus armis.

405

The Trojans are assailed by their friends

Hic primum ex alto delubri culmine telis nostrorum obruimur, oriturque miserrima caedes armorum facie et Graiarum errore iubarum.
 Tum Danaï gemitu atque ereptae virginis ira undique collecti invadunt, acerrimus Ajax, et gemini Atridae, Dolopumque exercitus omnis;
 adversi rupto ceu quondam turbine venti configunt, Zephyrusque Notusque et laetus Eois

410

Euris equis ; stridunt silvae, saevitque tridenti
 spumeus atque imo Nereus ciet aequora fundo.
 Illi etiam, si quos obscura nocte per umbram 420
 fudimus insidiis totaque agitavimus urbe, apparent ; primi clipeos mentitaque tela agnoscunt, atque ora sono discordia signant.
 Ilicet obruimur numero ; primusque Coroebus Peneleï dextra divae armipotentis ad aram 425 procumbit ; cadit et Ripheus, iustissimus unus qui fuit in Teucris et servantissimus aequi :
 dis aliter visum ; pereunt Hypanisque Dymasque confixi a sociis ; nec te tua plurima, Panthu, labentem pietas nec Apollinis infula texit. 430
 Iliaci cineres et flamma extrema meorum, testor, in occasu vestro nec tela nec ullas vitavisse vices Danaum, et, si fata fuissent ut caderem, meruisse manu. Divellimur inde, Iphitus et Pelias mecum, quorum Iphitus aevo 435
 iam gravior, Pelias et volnere tardus Ulixi, protinus ad sedes Priami clamore vocati.

The fighting is desperate at Priam's palace

Hic vero ingentem pugnam, ceu cetera nusquam bella forent, nulli tota morerentur in urbe, sic Martem indomitum, Danaosque ad tecta ruentis 440
 cernimus, obsessumque acta testudine limen.
 Haerent parietibus scalae, postisque sub ipsos nituntur gradibus, clipeosque ad tela sinistris protecti obiciunt, prensant fastigia dextris.
 Dardanidae contra turris ac tota domorum 445
 culmina convellunt ; his se, quando ultima cernunt, extrema iam in morte parant defendere telis ;
 auratasque trabes, veterum decora alta parentum devolvunt ; alii strictis mucronibus imas

obsedere fores; has servant agmine denso. 450 Instaurati animi, regis succurrere tectis, auxilioque levare viros, vimque addere victis.

Æneas defends the palace roof against the Greeks

Limen erat caecaeque fores et pervius usus tectorum inter se Priami, postesque relictī a tergo, infelix qua se, dum regna manebant, 455 saepius Andromache ferre incommitata solebat ad soceros, et avo puerum Astyanacta trahebat.
 Evado ad summi fastigia culminis, unde
 tela manu miseri iactabant inrita Teucri.
 Turrin in praecipiti stantem summisque sub astra 460
 eductam tectis, unde omnis Troia videri et Danaum solitae naves et Achaïa castra, adgressi ferro circum, qua summa labantis iuncturas tabulata dabant, convellimus altis sedibus, impulimusque; ea lapsa repente ruinam 465 cum sonitu trahit et Danaum super agmina late incidit: ast alii subeunt, nec saxa, nec ullum telorum interea cessat genus.

Pyrrhus forces an entrance into Priam's palace

Vestibulum ante ipsum primoque in limine Pyrrhus exsultat, telis et luce coruscus aëna; 470 qualis ubi in lucem coluber mala gramina pastus frigida sub terra tumidum quem bruma tegebat, nunc, positis novus exuviis nitidusque iuventa, lubrica convolvit sublato pectore terga arduus ad solem, et linguis micat ore trisulcis. 475 Una ingens Periphas et equorum agitator Achillis, armiger Automedon, una omnis Scyria pubes succedunt tecto, et flammas ad culmina iactant.
 Ipse inter primos correpta dura bipenni

limina perrumpit, postisque a cardine vellit 480 aeratos; iamque excisa trabe firma cavavit robora, et ingentem lato dedit ore fenestram.
Apparet domus intus, et atria longa patescunt;
apparent Priami et veterum penetralia regum, armatosque vident stantis in limine primo. 485

The terror within the palace as the Greeks enter

At domus interior gemitu miseroque tumultu miscetur, penitusque cavae plangoribus aedes femineis ululant; ferit aurea sidera clamor.
Tum pavidæ tectis matres ingentibus errant, amplexaeque tenent postis atque oscula figunt. 490 Instat vi patria Pyrrhus; nec claustra, neque ipsi custodes sufferre valent; labat ariete crebro ianua. et emoti procumbunt cardine postes.
Fit via vi; rumpunt aditus, primosque trucidant immissi Danaï, et late loca milite complent. 495 Non sic, aggeribus ruptis cum spumeus amnis exiit, oppositasque evicit gurgite moles, fertur in arva furens cumulo, camposque per omnis cum stabulis armenta trahit. Vidi ipse furem caede Neoptoleum geminosque in limine Atridas; 500
vidi Hecubam centumque nurus, Priamumque per aras sanguine foedantem, quos ipse sacraverat, ignis.
Quinquaginta illi thalami, spes tanta nepotum, barbarico postes auro spoliisque superbi, procubere; tenent Danaï, qua deficit ignis. 505

The fate of Priam

Forsitan et Priami fuerint quæ fata requiras.
Urbis uti captae casum convolsaque vidit limina tectorum et medium in penetralibus hostem.
arma diu senior desueta trementibus aevo circumdat nequiquam umeris, et inutile ferrum 510 cingitur, ac densos fertur moriturus in hostis.

 Aedibus in mediis nudoque sub aetheris axe ingens ara fuit iuxtaque veterrima laurus, incumbens arae atque umbra complexa penatis.
 Hic Hecuba et natae nequiquam altaria circum, 515 praecipites atra ceu tempestate columbae, condensae et divum amplexae simulacra sedebant.
 Ipsum autem sumptis Priamum iuvenalibus armis ut vidit, 'Quae mens tam dira, miserrime coniunx, impulit his cingi telis? Aut quo ruis?' inquit; 520
 'Non tali auxilio nec defensoribus istis tempus eget; non, si ipse meus nunc adforet Hector.
 Huc tandem concede; haec ara tuebitur omnis, aut moriere simul.' Sic ore effata recepit ad sese et sacra longaeum in sede locavit. 525 Ecce autem elapsus Pyrrhi de caede Polites, unus natorum Priami, per tela, per hostis porticibus longis fugit, et vacua atria lustrat saucius: illum ardens infesto vulnere Pyrrhus insequitur, iam iamque manu tenet et premit hasta. 530
 Ut tandem ante oculos evasit et ora parentum, concidit, ac multo vitam cum sanguine fudit.
 Hic Priamus, quamquam in media iam morte tenetur, non tamen abstinuit, nec voci iraeque pepercit:
 'At tibi pro scelere,' exclamat, 'pro talibus ausis, 535 di, si qua est caelo pietas, quae talia curet, persolvant grates dignas et praemia reddant debita, qui nati coram me cernere letum fecisti et patrios foedasti funere voltus.
 At non ille, satum quo te mentiris, Achilles 540
 talis in hoste fuit Priamo; sed iura fidemque supplicis erubuit, corpusque exsanguē sepulcro reddidit Hectoreum, meque in mea regna remisit.'

HELEN IN HIDING

Sic fatus senior, telumque imbelles sine ictu coniecit, rauco quod protinus aere repulsum 545
 e summo clipei nequiquam umbone pependit.
 Cui Pyrrhus: 'Referes ergo haec et nuntius ibis Pelidae genitori; illi mea tristia facta degeneremque Neoptolemum narrare memento.
 Nunc morere.' Hoc dicens altaria ad ipsa trementem 550 traxit et in multo lapsantem sanguine nati, implicuitque comam laeva, dextraque coruscum extulit, ac lateri capulo tenus abdidit ensem.
 Haec finis Priami fatorum; hic exitus illum sorte tulit, Troiam incensam et prolapsa videntem 555 Pergama, tot quondam populis terrisque superbum regnatorem Asiae. Iacet ingens litore truncus, avolsunque umeris caput, et sine nomine corpus.

The death of Priam reminds Æneas of his own family

At me tum primum saevus circumstetit horror.
 Obstipui; subiit cari genitoris imago, 560 ut regem aequaevum crudeli volnere vidi vitam exhalantem; subiit deserta Creüsa, et direpta domus, et parvi casus Iuli.
 Respicio, et quae sit me circum copia lustro.
 Deseruere omnes defessi, et corpora saltu 565
 ad terram misere aut ignibus aegra dedere.

Æneas meets Helen, and is tempted to slay her

Iamque adeo super unus eram, cum limina Vestae servantem et tacitam secreta in sede latentem Tyndarida aspicio: dant clara incendia lucem erranti passimque oculos per cuncta ferenti. 570 Illa sibi infestos eversa ob Pergama Teucros et poenas Danaum et deserti coniugis iras praemetuens, Troiae et patriae communis Erinys, abdiderat sese atque aris invisa sedebat.

 Exarsere ignes animo ; subit ira cadentem 575
 ulcisci patriam et sceleratas sumere poenas.
 'Scilicet haec Spartam incolumis patriasque Mycenae aspiciet, partoque ibit regina triumpho, coniugiumque, domumque, patres, natosque videbit, Iliadum turba et Phrygiis comitata ministris? 580
 Occiderit ferro Priamus? Troia arserit igni?
 Dardanium totiens sudarit sanguine litus?
 Non ita : namque etsi nullum memorabile nomen feminea in poena est, nec habet victoria laudem, exstinxisse nefas tamen et sumpsisse merentis 585
 laudabor poenas, animumque explesse iuvabit ultricis flammae, et cineres satiasse meorum.'

*Venus bids Æneas spare Helen, and reveals to him
 the gods who are destroying the city*

Talia iactabam, et furiata mente ferebar cum mihi se, non ante oculis tam clara, videndam obtulit et pura per noctem in luce refulsit 590 alma parens, confessa deam qualisque videri caelicolis et quanta solet, dextraque prehensum continuit, roseoque haec insuper addidit ore :
 'Nate, quis indomitas tantus dolor excitat iras?
 Quid furis, aut quonam nostri tibi cura recessit? 595
 Non prius aspicias ubi fessum aetate parentem liqueris Anchisen ; superet coniunxne Creüsa, Ascaniusque puer? Quos omnis undique Graiae circum errant acies, et, ni mea cura resistat, iam flammae tulerint inimicus et hauserit ensis. 600
 Non tibi Tyndaridis facies invisa Lacaenae culpatusve Paris : divum inclementia, divum, has evertit opes sternitque a culmine Troiam.

Aspice—namque omnem, quae nunc obducta tuenti mortalis hebetat visus tibi et umida circum 605 caligat, nubem eripiam ; tu ne qua parentis iussa time, neu praeceptis parere recusa :—
 hic, ubi disiectas moles avolsaque saxis saxa vides mixtoque undantem pulvere fumum, Neptunus muros magnoque emota tridenti 610
 fundamenta quatit, totamque a sedibus urbem eruit ; hic Iuno Scaeas saevissima portas prima tenet, sociumque furens a navibus agmen ferro accincta vocat.
 Iam summas arces Tritonia, respice, Pallas 615
 insedit, nimbo effulgens et Gorgone saeva.
 Ipse pater Danaïs animos virisque secundas sufficit, ipse deos in Dardana suscitât arma.
 Eripe, nate, fugam, finemque impone labori.
 Nusquam abero, et tutum patrio te limine sistam.’ 620
 Dixerat, et spissis noctis se condidit umbris.

Æneas sees that Troy is doomed and hastens to his own house

Apparent dirae facies inimicae Troiae numina magna deum.
 Tum vero omne mihi visum considerare in ignis Ilium et ex imo verti Neptunia Troia ; 625 ac veluti summis antiquam in montibus ornum cum ferro accisam crebrisque bipennibus instant eruere agricolae certatim,—illa usque minatur et tremefacta comam concusso vertice nutat, vulneribus donec paulatim evicta supremum 630
 congemuit, traxitque iugis avolsa ruinam.
 Descendo, ac ducente deo flammam inter et hostis expedior ; dant tela locum, flammaeque recedunt.

Anchises stubbornly refuses to leave Troy

Atque ubi iam patriae perventum ad limina sedis antiquasque domos, genitor, quem tollere in altos 635 optabam primum montis primumque petebam, abnegat excisa vitam producere Troia exsiliumque pati. 'Vos O, quibus integer aevi sanguis,' ait, 'solidaeque suo stant robore vires, vos agitate fugam: 640
 me si caelicolae voluissent ducere vitam, has mihi servassent sedes. Satis una superque vidimus excidia et captae superavimus urbi.
 Sic O sic positum adfati discedite corpus.
 Ipse manu mortem inveniam; miserebitur hostis 645
 exuviasque petet; facilis iactura sepulcri.
 Iam pridem invisus divis et inutilis annos demoror, ex quo me divum pater atque hominum rex fulminis adflavit ventis et contigit igni.'
 Talia perstabat memorans, fixusque manebat. 650
 Nos contra effusi lacrimis, coniunxque Creüsa Ascaniusque omnisque domus, ne vertere secum cuncta pater fatoque urgenti incumbere vellet.
 Abnegat, inceptoque et sedibus haeret in isdem.
 Rursus in arma feror, mortemque miserrimus opto: 655 nam quod consilium aut quae iam fortuna dabatur?
 'Mene efferre pedem, genitor, te posse relicto sperasti, tantumque nefas patrio excidit ore?
 Si nihil ex tanta superis placet urbe relinqui, et sedet hoc animo, perituraeque addere Troiae 660 teque tuosque iuvat, patet isti ianua leto, iamque aderit multo Priami de sanguine Pyrrhus, natum ante ora patris, patrem qui obtruncat ad aras.
 Hoc erat, alma parens, quod me per tela, per ignis eripis, ut mediis hostem in penetralibus, utque 665

Ascanium patremque meum iuxtaque Creüsam alterum in alterius mactatos sanguine cernam?
 Arma, viri, ferte arma; vocat lux ultima victos.
 Reddite me Danais; sinite instaurata revisam proelia. Numquam omnes hodie moriemur inulti.' 670

Creüsa implores Æneas to protect his family

Hinc ferro accingor rursus clipeoque sinistram insertabam aptans, meque extra tecta ferebam.
 Ecce autem complexa pedes in limine coniunx haerebat, parvumque patri tendebat Iulum:
 'Si periturus abis, et nos rape in omnia tecum;
 sin aliquam expertus sumptis spem ponis in armis, hanc primum tutare domum. Cui parvus Iulus,
 cui pater et coniunx quondam tua dicta relinquit?' 675

A sign from the gods makes Anchises give way

Talia vociferans gemitu tectum omne replebat, cum subitum dictuque oritur mirabile monstrum. 680
 Namque manus inter maestorumque ora parentum ecce levis summo de vertice visus Iuli fundere lumen apex, tactuque innoxia mollis lambere flamma comas et circum tempora pasci.
 Nos pavidi trepidare metu, crinemque flagrantem 685
 excutere et sanctos restinguere fontibus ignis.
 At pater Anchises oculos ad sidera laetus extulit, et caelo palmas cum voce tetendit:
 'Iuppiter omnipotens, precibus si flecteris ullis, aspice nos; hoc tantum, et, si pietate meremur, 690
 da deinde auxilium, pater, atque haec omina firma.' Vix ea fatus erat senior, subitoque fragore intonuit laevum, et de caelo lapsa per umbras stella facem ducens multa cum luce cucurrit.

THE SIGN FROM HEAVEN

Illam, summa super labentem culmina tecti, 695 cernimus Idaea claram se condere silva signantemque vias ; tum longo limite sulcus dat lucem, et late circum loca sulpure fumant.
 Hic vero victus genitor se tollit ad auras, adfaturque deos et sanctum sidus adorat. 700
 'Iam iam nulla mora est ; sequor et qua ducitis adsum.
 Di patrii, servate domum, servate nepotem.
 Vestrum hoc augurium, vestroque in numine Troia est.
 Cedo equidem, nec, nate, tibi comes ire recuso.'

Æneas gives directions for flight

Dixerat ille ; et iam per moenia clarior ignis 705
 auditur, propiusque aestus incendia volvunt.
 'Ergo age, care pater, cervici imponere nostrae ;
 ipse subibo umeris, nec me labor iste gravabit ;
 quo res cumque cadent, unum et commune periculum, una salus ambobus erit. Mihi parvus Iulus 710 sit comes, et longe servet vestigia coniunx :
 vos, famuli, quae dicam, animis advertite vestris.
 Est urbe egressis tumulus templumque vetustum desertae Cereris, iuxtaque antiqua cupressus religione patrum multos servata per annos. 715
 Hanc ex diverso sedem veniemus in unam.
 Tu, genitor, cape sacra manu patriosque penatis ;
 me, bello e tanto digressum et caede recenti, attrectare nefas, donec me flumine vivo abluero.' 720

Haec fatus, latos umeros subiectaque colla
 veste super fulvique insternor pelle leonis, succedoque oneri ; dextrae se parvus Iulus implicuit sequiturque patrem non passibus aequis ;
 pone subit coniunx : ferimur per opaca locorum ; 725 et me, quem dudum non ulla iniecta movebant tela neque adverso glomerati ex agmine Grai, nunc omnes terrent auras, sonus excitat omnis suspensum et pariter comitique onerique timentem.

Iamque propinquabam portis, omnemque videbar 730
evasisse viam, subito cum creber ad auris visus adesse pedum sonitus, genitorque per umbram prospiciens, 'Nate,' exclamat, 'fuge, nate, propinquant!
Ardentis clipeos atque aera micantia cerno!'

Æneas, with Anchises and Ascanius, reaches the temple of Ceres outside the city; but Creüsa has disappeared

Hic mihi nescio quod trepido male numen amicum 735 confusam eripuit mentem. Namque avia cursu dum sequor, et nota excedo regione viarum, heu, misero coniunx fatone erepta Creüsa substitit, erravitne via, seu lassa resedit, incertum; nec post oculis est reddita nostris. 740
Nec prius amissam respexi animumque reflexi, quam tumulum antiquae Cereris sedemque sacratam venimus; hic demum collectis omnibus una defuit, et comites natumque virumque fefellit.

Æneas, in despair, returns into the city to look for Creüsa

Quem non incusavi amens hominúmque deorumque, 745 aut quid in eversa vidi crudelius urbe?
Ascanium Anchisenque patrem Teucrosque penatis commendo sociis et curva valle recondo;
ipse urbem repeto et cingor fulgentibus armis.
Stat casus renovare omnis, omnemque reverti 750 per Troiam, et rursus caput obiectare periclis.

Principio muros obscuraque limina portae, qua gressum extuleram, repeto, et vestigia retro observata sequor per noctem et lumine lustró.

Horror ubique animo, simul ipsa silentia terrent. 755
 Inde domum, si forte pedem, si forte tulisset, me refero : inruerant Danaï, et tectum omne tenebant.
 Illicet ignis edax summa ad fastigia vento volvitur ; exsuperant flammæ, furit aestus ad auras.
 Procedo et Priami sedes arcemque reviso. 760
 Et iam porticibus vacuis Iunonis asylo custodes lecti Phoenix et dirus Ulixes prædam adservabant. Huc undique Troïa gaza incensis erepta adytis, mensæque deorum, crateresque auro solidi, captivæque vestis 765 congeritur ; pueri et pavidæ longo ordine matres stant circum.

The phantom of Creÿsa appears to Æneas with words of comfort and prophecy

Ausus quin etiam voces iactare per umbram implevi clamore vias maestusque Creÿsam nequiquam ingeminans iterumque iterumque vocavi. 770 Quaerenti et tectis urbis sine fine furenti infelix simulacrum atque ipsius umbra Creÿsæ visa mihi ante oculos et nota maior imago.
 Obstipui, steteruntque comæ et vox faucibus hæsit.
 Tum sic adfari et curas his demere dictis : 775
 'Quid tantum insano iuvat indulgere dolori, O dulcis coniunx ? Non hæc sine numine divum eveniunt ; nec te comitem hinc portare Creÿsam fas, aut ille sinit superi regnator Olympi.
 Longa tibi exsilia, et vastum maris æquor arandum, 780 et terram Hesperiam venies, ubi Lydius arva inter opima virum leni fluit agmine Thybris ;
 illic res lætæ regnumque et regia coniunx parta tibi. Lacrimas dilectæ pelle Creÿsæ.

Non ego Myrmidonum sedes Dolopumve superbas 785
aspiciam, aut Grais servitum matribus ibo, Dardanis, et divae Veneris nurus.

Sed me magna deum genetrix his detinet oris :
iamque vale, et nati serva communis amorem.'

Haec ubi dicta dedit, lacrimantem et multa volentem 790 dicere deseruit, tenuisque recessit in auras.

Ter conatus ibi collo dare bracchia circum :
ter frustra comprensa manus effugit imago,
par levibus ventis volucrique simillima somno.

Aeneas returns to his companions and they all take refuge in the mountains near Troy

Sic demum socios consumpta nocte reviso. 795

Atque hic ingentem comitum adfluxisse novorum invenio admirans numerum, matresque virosque, collectam exsilio pubem, miserabile volgus.

Undique convenere, animis opibusque parati,
in quascumque velim pelago deducere terras. 800

Iamque iugis summae surgebat Lucifer Idae ducebatque diem, Danaïque obsessa tenebant limina portarum, nec spes opis ulla dabatur ;
cessi, et sublato montis genitore petivi.

THE WANDERINGS OF ÆNEAS

The exiles sail in early summer, and arrive at Thrace, but are alarmed by the prodigy of a bleeding thicket over Polydorus's grave (1-68). At Delos they consult Apollo, and (misunderstanding his oracle) settle in Crete, whence they are driven by a pestilence (69-146). Æneas is warned in a vision that Italy is the destined land: they set sail, but are overtaken by a storm (147-208). Seeking shelter at the Strophades, they are driven thence by the Harpies, and follow the coast as far as Epirus (209-293). Here they find Helenus and Andromache, who joyfully receive them in hospitality (294-355). The prophecy of Helenus: they depart, laden with gifts (356-505). They hail the coast of Italy, and proceed till they near Sicily and the residence of the Cyclops: the spectacle of Mount Ætna (506-587). Here they rescue one of the companions of Ulysses. The monster Polyphemus is seen approaching the shore: his cries summon his companions (588-681). Retracing their course, to avoid Scylla and Charybdis, they land at the port of Drepanum: the death of Anchises (682-718).

The Trojans build a fleet and embark

POSTQUAM res Asiae Priamique evertere gentem immeritam visum superis, ceciditque superbum Ilium, et omnis humo fumat Neptunia Troia, diversa exsilia et desertas quaerere terras auguriis agimur divum, classemque sub ipsa 5 Antandro et Phrygiae molimur montibus Idae, incerti, quo fata ferant, ubi sistere detur, contrahimusque viros. Vix prima inceperat aestas, et pater Anchises dare fatis vela iubebat, litora cum patriae lacrimans portusque relinquo 10 et campos, ubi Troia fuit: feror exsul in altum cum sociis natoque penatibus et magnis dis.

The Trojans land in Thrace and begin to build a town

Terra procul vastis colitur Mavortia campis, Thraces arant, acri quondam regnata Lycurgo, hospitium antiquum Troiae sociique penates, 15
 dum fortuna fuit. Feror huc, et litore curvo moenia prima loco, fatis ingressus iniquis, Aeneadasque meo nomen de nomine fingo.

A voice from the tomb of murdered Polydorus urges Æneas to leave Thrace

Sacra Dionaee matri divisque ferebam auspiciis coeptorum operum, superoque nitentem 20 caelicolum regi mactabam in litore taurum.
 Forte fuit iuxta tumulus, quo cornea summo virgulta et densis hastilibus horrida myrtus.
 Accessi, viridemque ab humo convellere silvam conatus, ramis tegerem ut frondentibus aras, 25
 horrendum et dictu video mirabile monstrum.
 Nam, quae prima solo ruptis radicibus arbos vellitur, huic atro liquuntur sanguine guttae, et terram tabo maculant. Mihi frigidus horror membra quatit, gelidusque coit formidine sanguis. 30 Rursus et alterius lentum convellere vimen insequor, et causas penitus temptare latentis:
 ater et alterius sequitur de cortice sanguis.
 Multa movens animo nymphas venerabar agrestis Gradivumque patrem, Geticis qui praesidet arvis, 35 rite secundarent visus omenque levarent.
 Tertia sed postquam maiore hastilia nisu adgredior, genibusque adversae obluctor harenae—eloquar, an sileam?—gemitus lacrimabilis imo auditur tumulo, et vox reddita fertur ad auris: 40
 'Quid miserum, Aenea, laceras? Iam parce sepulto;

parce pias scelerare manus. Non me tibi Troia externum tulit, aut cruor hic de stipite manat.
 Heu, fuge crudelis terras, fuge litus avarum :
 nam Polydorus ego ; hic confixum ferrea texit 45
 telorum seges et iaculis increvit acutis.'
 Tum vero ancipiti mentem formidine pressus obstipui, steteruntque comae et vox faucibus haesit.

The story of Polydorus

Hunc Polydorum auri quondam cum pondere magno infelix Priamus furtim mandarat alendum 50
 Threicio regi, cum iam diffideret armis
 Dardaniae, cingique urbem obsidione videret.
 Ille, ut opes fractae Teucrum, et fortuna recessit, res Agamemnonias victriciaque arma secutus, fas omne abrumpit ; Polydorum obtruncat, et auro 55
 vi potitur. Quid non mortalia pectora cogis, auri sacra fames? Postquam pavor ossa reliquit, delectos populi ad proceres primumque parentem monstra deum refero, et quae sit sententia posco.
 Omnibus idem animus, scelerata excedere terra, 60
 linqui pollutum hospitium, et dare classibus austros.
 Ergo instauramus Polydoro funus, et ingens aggeritur tumulo tellus ; stant Manibus arae, caeruleis maestae vittis atraque cupresso, et circum Iliades crinem de more solutae ; 65
 inferimus tepido spumantia cymbia lacte sanguinis et sacri pateras, animamque sepulcro condimus, et magna supremum voce ciemus.

The Trojans arrive in Delos, and consult the oracle

Inde, ubi prima fides pelago, placataque venti dant maria et lenis crepitans vocat Auster in altum, 70 deducunt socii navis et litora complent :

POLYDORUS

provehimur portu, terraeque urbesque recedunt.
 Sacra mari colitur medio gratissima tellus Nereïdum matri et Neptuno Aegaeo, quam pius Arcitenens oras et litora circum 75
 errantem Mycono e celsa Gyaroque revinxit, immotamque coli dedit et contemnere ventos.
 Huc feror ; haec fessos tuto placidissima portu accipit ; egressi veneramur Apollinis urbem.
 Rex Anius, rex idem hominum Phoebique sacerdos, 80 vittis et sacra redimitus tempora lauro, occurrit ; veterem Anchisen agnoscit amicum.
 Iungimus hospitio dextras, et tecta subimus.
 Tempła dei saxo venerabar structa vetusto :
 'Da propriam, Thymbraee, domum ; da moenia fessis 85
 et genus et mansuram urbem ; serva altera Troiae Pergama, reliquias Danaum atque immitis Achilli.
 Quem sequimur ? Quove ire iubes, ubi ponere sedes ?
 Da, pater, augurium, atque animis inlabere nostris.'

The oracle seems to command Æneas to seek a home in Crete

Vix ea fatus eram : tremere omnia visa repente, 90 liminaque laurusque dei, totusque moveri mons circum, et mugire adytis cortina reclusis.
 Submissi petimus terram, et vox fertur ad auris :
 'Dardanidae duri, quae vos a stirpe parentum prima tulit tellus, eadem vos ubere laeto 95 accipiet reduces. Antiquam exquirite matrem :
 hic domus Aeneae cunctis dominabitur oris, et nati natorum, et qui nascentur ab illis.'

Haec Phoebus ; mixtoque ingens exorta tumultu laetitia, et cuncti quae sint ea moenia quaerunt, 100 quo Phoebus vocet errantis iubeatque reverti ?
 Tum genitor, veterum volvens monumenta virorum,
 'Audite, O procures,' ait, 'et spes discite vestras :

Creta Iovis magni medio iacet insula ponto ;
 mons Idaeus ubi, et gentis cunabula nostrae. 105
 Centum urbes habitant magnas, uberrima regna ;
 maximus unde pater, si rite audita recordor, Teucrus Rhoeteas primum est advectus in oras, optavitque locum regno. Nondum Ilium et arces Pergameae steterant ; habitabant vallibus imis. 110
 Hinc mater cultrix Cybelae Corybantiaque aera Idaeumque nemus ; hinc fida silentia sacris, et iuncti currum dominae subiere leones.
 Ergo agite, et, divum ducunt qua iussa, sequamur ;
 placemus ventos et Gnosia regna petamus. 115
 Nec longo distant cursu ; modo Iuppiter adsit, tertia lux classem Cretaeis sistet in oris.
 Sic fatus, meritos aris mactavit honores, taurum Neptuno, taurum tibi, pulcher Apollo, nigram Hiemi pecudem, Zephyris felicibus albam. 120

The Trojans settle in Crete, where a pestilence befalls them

Fama volat pulsum regnis cecidisse paternis
 Idomeneia ducem, desertaque litora Cretae, hoste vacare domos, sedesque adstare relictas.
 Linquimus Ortygiae portus, pelagoque volamus, bacchatamque iugis Naxon viridemque Donusam, 125
 Olearon, niveamque Paron, sparsasque per aequor Cycladas, et crebris legimus freta concita terris.
 Nauticus exoritur vario certamine clamor ;
 hortantur socii : 'Cretam proavosque petamus !'
 Prosequitur surgens a puppi ventus euntis 130
 et tandem antiquis Curetum adlabimur oris.
 Ergo avidus muros optatae molior urbis, Pergameamque voco, et laetam cognomine gentem hortor amare focos arcemque attollere tectis.

Iamque fere sicco subductae litore puppes ; 135
 conubiis arvisque novis operata iuventus ;
 iura domosque dabam : subito cum tabida membris, corrupto caeli tractu, miserandaque venit arboribusque satisque lues et letifèr annus.
 Linquebant dulcis animas, aut aegra trahebant 140
 corpora ; tum sterilis exurere Sirius agros ;
 arebant herbae, et victum seges aegra negabat.
 Rursus ad oraculum Ortygiae Phoebumque remenso hortatur pater ire mari, veniamque precari :
 quam fessis finem rebus ferat ; unde laborum 145
 temptare auxilium iubeat ; quo vertere cursus.

In a vision Æneas is bidden by the penates to seek Italy

Nox erat, et terris animalia somnus habebat :
 effigies sacrae divum Phrygiique penates,
 quos mecum a Troia mediisque ex ignibus urbis extuleram, visi ante oculos adstare iacentis 150 in somnis, multo manifesti lumine, qua se plena per insertas fundebat luna fenestras ;
 tum sic adfari et curas his demere dictis :
 'Quod tibi delato Ortygiam dicturus Apollo est, hic canit, et tua nos en ultro ad limina mittit. 155
 Nos te, Dardania incensa, tuaque arma secuti, nos tumidum sub te permensi classibus aequor,
 idem venturos tollemus in astra nepotes, imperiumque urbi dabimus ; tu moenia magnis magna para, longumque fugae ne linque laborem. 160
 Mutandae sedes : non haec tibi litora suasit Delius, aut Cretae iussit considerare Apollo.
 Est locus, Hesperiam Grai cognomine dicunt, terra antiqua, potens armis atque ubere glabrae ;
 Oenotri coluere viri ; nunc fama minores 165

Italiam dixisse ducis de nomine gentem :
 hae nobis propriae sedes ; hinc Dardanus ortus, lasiusque pater, genus a quo principe nostrum.
 Surge age, et haec laetus longaevo dicta parenti haud dubitanda refer. Corythum terrasque requirat 170
 Ausonias ; Dictaea negat tibi Iuppiter arva.'

Æneas obeys the penates and sails away from Crete

Talibus attonitus visis et voce deorum—nec sopor illud erat, sed coram agnoscere voltus velatasque comas praesentiaque ora videbar ;
 tum gelidus toto manabat corpore sudor— 175
 corripio e stratis corpus, tendoque supinas ad caelum cum voce manus, et munera libo intemerata focis. Perfecto laetus honore Anchisen facio certum, remque ordine pando.
 Agnovit prolem ambiguum geminosque parentes, 180
 seque novo veterum deceptum errore locorum.
 Tum memorat : 'Nate, Iliacis exercite fatis, sola mihi talis casus Cassandra canebat.
 Nunc repeto haec generi portendere debita nostro, et saepe Hesperiam, saepe Italia regna vocare. 185
 Sed quis ad Hesperiae venturos litora Teucros crederet, aut quem tum vates Cassandra moveret ?
 Cedamus Phoebo, et moniti meliora sequamur.'
 Sic ait, et cuncti dicto paremus ovantes.
 Hanc quoque deserimus sedem, paucisque relictis 190 vela damus, vastumque cava trabe currimus aequor.

A storm arises

Postquam altum tenuere rates, nec iam amplius ullae apparent terrae, caelum undique et undique pontus, tum mihi caeruleus supra caput adstitit imber,

noctem hiememque ferens, et inhorruit unda tenebris. 195
 Continuo venti volvunt mare, magnaue surgunt aequora; dispersi iactamur gurgite vasto;
 involvere diem nimbi, et nox umida caelum abstulit; ingeminant abruptis nubibus ignes.
 Excutimur cursu, et caecis erramus in undis. 200
 Ipse diem noctemque negat discernere caelo nec meminisse viae media Palinurus in unda.
 Tris adeo incertos caeca caligine soles erramus pelago, totidem sine sidere noctes.
 Quarto terra die primum se attollere tandem 205
 visa, aperire procul montis, ac volvere fumum.
 Vela cadunt, remis insurgimus; haud mora, nautae
 adnixa torquent spumas et caerula verrunt.

The Trojans make a landing at the Strophades, and are attacked by the Harpies

Servatum ex undis Strophadum me litora primum accipiunt; Strophades Graio stant nomine dictae, 210
 insulae Ionio in magno, quas dira Celaeno Harpyiaeque colunt aliae, Phineia postquam clausa domus, mensasque metu liquere priores.
 Tristius haud illis monstrum, nec saevior ulla pestis et ira deum Stygiis sese extulit undis. 215 Virginei volucrum voltus, foedissima ventris proluviae, uncaeque manus, et pallida semper ora fame.

Huc ubi delati portus intravimus, ecce laeta boum passim campis armenta videmus, 220 caprigenumque pecus nullo custode per herbas.
 Inruimus ferro, et divos ipsumque vocamus in partem praedamque Iovem; tum litore curvo exstruimusque toros, dapibusque epulamur opimis.

At subitae horrifico lapsu de montibus adsunt 225
 Harpyiae, et magnis quatiunt clangoribus alas, diripiuntque dapes, contactuque omnia foedant immundo; tum vox taetrum dira inter odorem.
 Rursum in secessu longo sub rupe cavata, arboribus clausi circum atque horrentibus umbris, 230
 instruimus mensas arisque reponimus ignem:
 rursum ex diverso caeli caecisque latebris turba sonans praedam pedibus circumvolat uncis, polluit ore dapes. Sociis tunc, arma capessant, edico, et dira bellum cum gente gerendum. 235
 Haud secus ac iussi faciunt, tectosque per herbam disponunt ensis et scuta latentia condunt.
 Ergo ubi delapsae sonitum per curva dedere litora, dat signum specula Misenus ab alta aere cavo. Invadunt socii, et nova proelia temptant, 240 obscenas pelagi ferro foedare volucres:
 sed neque vim plumis ullam nec volnera tergo accipiunt, celerique fuga sub sidera lapsae semesam praedam et vestigia foeda relinquunt.

The evil prophecy of Celaeno

Una in praecelsa consedit rupe Celaeno, 245
 infelix vates, rumpitque hanc pectore vocem:
 'Bellum etiam pro caede boum stratisque iuvencis, Laomedontiadae, bellumne inferre paratis, et patrio Harpyias insontis pellere regno?
 Accipite ergo animis atque haec mea figite dicta, 250
 quae Phoebus pater omnipotens, mihi Phoebus Apollo praedixit, vobis Furiarum ego maxima pando.
 Italiam cursu petitis, ventisque vocatis ibitis Italiam, portusque intrare licebit;
 sed non ante datam cingetis moenibus urbem, 255

quam vos dira fames nostraeque iniuria caedis ambesas subigat malis absumere mensas.’

Dixit, et in silvam pinnis ablata refugit.

At sociis subita gelidus formidine sanguis derigit ; cedere animi, nec iam amplius armis, 260 sed votis precibusque iubent exposcere pacem, sive deae, seu sint dirae obscenaeque volucres.
Et pater Anchises passis de litore palmis numina magna vocat, meritosque indicit honores :
‘Di, prohibete minas ; di, talem avertite casum, 265 et placidi servate pios !’

The Trojans sail to Actium and thence to Buthrotum

Tum litore funem
deripere, excussosque iubet laxare rudentis.
Tendunt vela Noti ; fugimus spumantibus undis, qua cursum ventusque gubernatorque vocabat. 270
Iam medio apparet fluctu nemorosa Zacynthos Dulichiumque Sameque et Neritos ardua saxis.
Effugimus scopulos Ithacae, Laërtia regna, et terram altricem saevi exsecramur Ulixi.
Mox et Leucatae nimbose cacumina montis et formidatus nautis aperitur Apollo. 275 Hunc petimus fessi et parvae succedimus urbi ;
ancora de prora iacitur, stant litore puppes.
Ergo insperata tandem tellure potiti, lustramurque Iovi votisque incendimus aras,
Actiaque Iliacis celebramus litora ludis. 280
Exercent patrias oleo labente palaestras nudati socii ; iuvat evasisse tot urbes
Argolicas, mediosque fugam tenuisse per hostis.
Interea magnum sol circumvolvitur annum, et glacialis hiems aquilonibus asperat undas. 285

Aere cavo clipeum, magni gestamen Abantis, postibus adversis figo, et rem carmine signo:
 AENEAS HAEC DE DANAIS VICTORIBUS ARMA.
 Linquere tum portus iubeo et considerare transtris:
 certatim socii feriunt mare et aequora verrunt. 290
 Protinus aërias Phaeacum abscondimus arces, litoraue Epiri legimus portuque subimus
 Chaonio, et celsam Buthroti accedimus urbem.

At Buthrotum Æneas finds Andromache and Helenus

Hic incredibilis rerum fama occupat auris, Priamiden Helenum Graias regnare per urbes, 295
 coniugio Aeacidæ Pyrrhi sceptrisque potitum, et patrio Andromachen iterum cessisse marito.
 Obstipui, miroque incensum pectus amore, compellare virum et casus cognoscere tantos.
 Progredior portu, classis et litora linquens, 300 sollemnis cum forte dapes et tristia dona ante urbem in luco falsi Simoëntis ad undam libabat cineri Andromache, Manisque vocabat Hectoreum ad tumulum, viridi quem caespite inanem et geminas, causam lacrimis, sacraverat aras. 305

Ut me conspexit venientem et Troïa circum
 arma amens vidit, magnis exterrita monstris deriguit visu in medio, calor ossa reliquit;
 labitur, et longo vix tandem tempore fatur:
 'Verane te facies, verus mihi nuntius adfers, 310
 nate dea? Vivisne, aut, si lux alma recessit, Hector ubi est?' Dixit, lacrimasque effudit et omnem implevit clamore locum. Vix pauca furenti subicio, et raris turbatus vocibus hisco:
 'Vivo equidem, vitamque extrema per omnia duco; 315
 ne dubita, nam vera vides.

Heu, quis te casus deiectam coniuge tanto excipit, aut quae digna satis fortuna revisit Hectoris Andromachen? Pyrrhin' conubia servas?'

Deiecit voltum et demissa voce locuta est : 320

'O felix una ante alias Priameïa virgo, hostilem ad tumultum Troiae sub moenibus altis iussa mori, quae sortitus non pertulit ullos, nec victoris eri tetigit captiva cubile !

Nos, patria incensa, diversa per aequora vectae, 325

stirpis Achilleae fastus iuvenemque superbum, servitio enixae, tulimus : qui deinde, secutus Ledaeam Hermionen Lacedaemoniosque hymenaeos, me famulo famulamque Heleno transmisit habendam.

Ast illum, ereptae magno inflammatus amore 330

coniugis et scelerum Furiis agitated, Orestes excipit incautum patriasque obtruncat ad aras.

Morte Neoptolemi regnorum reddita cessit pars Heleno, qui Chaonios cognomine campos
Chaoniamque omnem Troiano a Chaone dixit, 335

Pergamaque Iliacamque iugis hanc addidit arcem.

Sed tibi qui cursum venti, quae fata dedere?

Aut quisnam ignarum nostris deus appulit oris?

Quid puer Ascanius? superatne et vescitur aura, quem tibi iam Troia— 340

Ecqua tamen puero est amissae cura parentis?

Ecquid in antiquam virtutem animosque virilis et pater Aeneas et avunculus excitat Hector?'

Talia fundebat lacrimans longosque ciebat incassum fletus, cum sese a moenibus heros 345

Priamides multis Helenus comitantibus adfert, agnoscitque suos, laetusque ad limina ducit, et multum lacrimas verba inter singula fundit.

Procedo, et parvam Troiam simulataque magnis
Pergama, et arentem Xanthi cognomine rivum 350

HELENUS AND ÆNEAS

agnosco, Scaeeaeque amplector limina portae.
 Nec non et Teucris socia simul urbe fruuntur :
 illos porticibus rex accipiebat in amplis ;
 aulaï medio libabant pocula Bacchi, impositis auro dapibus, paterasque tenebant.

Æneas consults the seer Helenus about his future course

Iamque dies alterque dies processit, et aurae vela vocant tumidoque inflatur carbasus austro.
 His vatem adgredior dictis ac talia quaeso :
 'Troïugena, interpretes divum, qui numina Phoebi, qui tripodas, Clarii laurus, qui sidera sentis, et volucrum linguas et praepetis omina pinnae, fare age—namque omnem cursum mihi prospera dixit religio, et cuncti suaserunt numine divi Italiam petere et terras temptare repostas :
 sola novum dictuque nefas Harpyia Celaeno prodigium canit, et tristis denuntiat iras, obscenamque famem—quae prima pericula vito?
 Quidve sequens tantos possim superare labores?'

Reply of Helenus : 'Your Italian home is afar off'

Hic Helenus, caesis primum de more iuvcnis, exorat pacem divum, vittasque resolvit sacrati capitis, meque ad tua limina, Phoebe, ipse manu multo suspensum numine ducit,
 atque haec deinde canit divino ex ore sacerdos :

370

'Nate dea,—nam te maioribus ire per altum auspiciis manifesta fides : sic fata deum rex sortitur, volvitque vices ; is vertitur ordo—pauca tibi e multis, quo tutior hospita lustres aequora et Ausonio possis considerare portu, expediam dictis ; prohibent nam cetera Parcae

375

scire Helenum farique vetat Saturnia Iuno. 380 Principio Italiam, quam tu iam rere propinquam vicinosque, ignare, paras invadere portus, longa procul longis via dividit invia terris.
 Ante et Trinacria lentandus remus in unda, et salis Ausonii lustrandum navibus aequor, 385
 infernique lacus, Aeaeeque insula Circae, quam tuta possis urbem componere terra:
 signa tibi dicam, tu condita mente teneto:
 cum tibi sollicito secreti ad fluminis undam litoreis ingens inventa sub ilicibus sus 390 triginta capitum fetus enixa iacebit, alba, solo recubans, albi circum ubera nati,
 is locus urbis erit, requies ea certa laborum.
 Nec tu mensarum morsus horresce futuros:
 fata viam invenient, aderitque vocatus Apollo. 395

'Shun the eastern shore'

'Has autem terras, Italique hanc litoris oram, proxima quae nostri perfunditur aequoris aestu, effuge; cuncta malis habitantur moenia Grai.
 Hic et Narycii posuerunt moenia Locri, et Sallentinos obsedit milite campos 400
 Lyctius Idomeneus; hic illa ducis Meliboei parva Philoctetae subnixa Petelia muro.
 Quin, ubi transmissae steterint trans aequora classes, et positis aris iam vota in litore solves, purpureo velare comas adopertus amictu, 405
 ne qua inter sanctos ignis in honore deorum hostilis facies occurrat et omina turbet.
 Hunc socii morem sacrorum, hunc ipse teneto:
 hac casti maneant in religione nepotes.

'Avoid Scylla and Charybdis and sail round Sicily'

Haec loca vi quondam et vasta convolsa ruina—

 Dextrum Scylla latus, laevum implacata Charybdis 420 obsidet, atque imo barathri ter gurgite vastos sorbet in abruptum fluctus rursusque sub auras erigit alternos et sidera verberat unda.
 At Scyllam caecis cohibet spelunca latebris, ora exsertantem et navis in saxa trahentem. 425
 Prima hominis facies et pulchro pectore virgo pube tenus, postrema immani corpore pistrinx, delphinum caudas utero commissa luporum.
 Praestat Trinacrii metas lustrare Pachyni cessantem, longos et circumflectere cursus, 430 quam semel informem vasto vidisse sub antro Scyllam, et caeruleis canibus resonantia saxa.

'Appease Juno'

'Praeterea, si qua est Heleno prudentia, vati si qua fides, animum si veris implet Apollo, unum illud tibi, nate dea, proque omnibus unum 435
 praedicam, et repetens iterumque iterumque monebo:
 Iunonis magnae primum prece numen adora;
 Iunoni cane vota libens, dominamque potentem supplicibus supera donis: sic denique victor Trinacria finis Italos mittere relicta. 440

'Consult the Sibyl at Cumæ'

'Huc ubi delatus Cumaeam accesseris urbem, divinosque lacus, et Averno sonantia silvis, insanam vatem aspicies, quae rupe sub ima
 fata canit, foliisque notas et nomina mandat.
 Quaecumque in foliis descripsit carmina virgo, 445
 digerit in numerum, atque antro seclusa relinquit.
 Illa manent immota locis, neque ab ordine cedunt;

verum eadem, verso tenuis cum cardine ventus impulit et teneras turbavit ianua frondes, numquam deinde cavo volitantia prendere saxo, 450 nec revocare situs aut iungere carmina curat :
 inconsulti abeunt, sedemque odere Sibyllae.
 Hic tibi ne qua morae fuerint dispendia tanti,— quamvis increpitent socii, et vi cursus in altum vela vocet, possisque sinus implere secundos,— 455
 quin adeas vatem precibusque oracula poscas ipsa canat, vocemque volens atque ora resolvat.
 Illa tibi Italiae populos venturaque bella, et quo quemque modo fugiasque ferasque laborem expediet, cursusque dabit venerata secundos. 460
 Haec sunt, quae nostra liceat te voce moneri.
 Vade age, et ingentem factis fer ad aethera Troiam.'

The Trojans bid farewell to Helenus and Andromache

Quae postquam vates sic ore effatus amico est, dona dehinc auro gravia sectoque elephanto imperat ad navis ferri, stipatque carinis 465 ingens argentum, Dodonaeosque lebetas, loricam consertam hamis auroque trilicem, et conum insignis galeae cristasque comantis,
 arma Neoptolemi ; sunt et sua dona parenti.
 Addit equos, additque duces ; 470
 remigium supplet ; socios simul instruit armis.
 Interea classem velis aptare iubebat
 Anchises, fieret vento mora ne qua ferenti.
 Quem Phoebi interpres multo compellat honore :
 'Coniugio, Anchisa, Veneris dignate superbo, 475
 cura deum, bis Pergameis erepte ruinis, ecce tibi Ausoniae tellus ; hanc arripe velis.
 Et tamen hanc pelago praeterlabare necesse est ;

Ausoniae pars illa procul, quam pandit Apollo.
Vade,' ait, 'O felix nati pietate. Quid ultra 480 provehor, et fando surgentis demoror austros?'

Nec minus Andromache digressu maesta supremo fert picturatas auri subtemine vestes et Phrygiam Ascanio chlamydem (nec cedit honore), textilibusque onerat donis, ac talia fatur: 485
'Accipe et haec, manuum tibi quae monumenta mearum sint, puer, et longum Andromachae testentur amorem, coniugis Hectoreae. Cape dona extrema tuorum, O mihi sola mei super Astyanactis imago:
sic oculos, sic ille manus, sic ora ferebat; 490 et nunc aequali tecum pubesceret aevo.'

Hos ego digrediens lacrimis adfabar obortis:
'Vivite felices, quibus est fortuna peracta
iam sua; nos alia ex aliis in fata vocamur.
Vobis parta quies: nullum maris aequor arandum, 495
arva neque Ausoniae semper cedentia retro quaerenda: effigiem Xanthi Troiamque videtis, quam vestrae fecere manus, melioribus, opto,
auspiciis, et quae fuerit minus obvia Graïs.
Si quando Thybrim vicinaque Hybridis arva 500
intraro, gentique meae data moenia cernam, cognatas urbes olim populosque propinquos, Epiro, Hesperia, quibus idem Dardanus auctor atque idem casus, unam faciemus utramque
Troiam animis; maneat nostros ea cura nepotes.' 505

The Trojans set sail from Epirus

Provehimur pelago vicina Ceraunia iuxta, unde iter Italiam cursusque brevissimus undis.
Sol ruit interea et montes umbrantur opaci;
sternimur optatae gremio telluris ad undam, sortiti remos, passimque in litore sicco 510

corpora curamus ; fessos sopor inrigat artus.
 Necdum orbem medium Nox horis acta subibat :
 haud segnis strato surgit Palinurus et omnis explorat ventos, atque auribus aëra captat ;
 sidera cuncta notat tacito labentia caelo, 515
 Arcturum pluviasque Hyadas geminosque Triones, armatumque auro circumspicit Oriona.
 Postquam cuncta videt caelo constare sereno,
 dat clarum e puppi signum ; nos castra movemus, temptamusque viam et velorum pandimus alas. 520

The Trojans land in Italy

Iamque rubescebat stellis Aurora fugatis, cum procul obscuros collis humilemque videmus Italiam. Italiam primus conclamat Achates, Italiam laeto socii clamore salutant.
 Tum pater Anchises magnum cratera corona 525 induit, implevitque mero, divosque vocavit stans celsa in puppi :
 'Di maris et terrae tempestatumque potentes, ferite viam vento facilem et spirate secundi.'
 Crebrescunt optatae aurae, portusque patescit 530
 iam propior, templumque apparet in arce Minervae.
 Vela legunt socii, et proras ad litora torquent.
 Portus ab Euroo fluctu curvatus in arcum ;
 obiectae salsa spumant aspargine cautes ;
 ipse latet ; gemino demittunt brachia muro 535
 turriti scopuli, refugitque ab litore templum.

The omen of the horses threatens war

Quattuor hic, primum omen, equos in gramine vidi tondentis campum late, candore nivali.
 Et pater Anchises : 'Bellum, O terra hospita, portas ;

THE OMEN OF THE HORSES

bello armantur equi, bellum haec armenta minantur. 540
 Sed tamen idem olim curru succedere sueti quadrupedes, et frena iugo concordia ferre;
 spes et pacis,' ait. Tum numina sancta precamur Palladis armisonae, quae prima accepit ovariantis, et capita ante aras Phrygio velamur amictu; 545
 praeceptisque Heleni, dederat quae maxima, rite Iunoni Argivae iussos adolemus honores.

The Trojans sail along the southern coast of Italy past Scylla and Charybdis

Haud mora, continuo perfectis ordine votis, cornua velatarum obvertimus antemnarum,
 Graiugenumque domos suspectaque linquimus arva. 550
 Hinc sinus Herculei (si vera est fama) Tarenti cernitur; attollit se diva Lacinia contra,
 Caulonisque arces et navifragum Scylaceum.
 Tum procul e fluctu Trinacria cernitur Aetna, et gemitum ingentem pelagi pulsataque saxa 555
 audimus longe fractasque ad litora voces, exsultantque vada, atque aestu miscentur harenae.
 Et pater Anchises: 'Nimirum haec illa Charybdis:
 hos Helenus scopulos, haec saxa horrenda canebat.
 Eripite, O socii, pariterque insurgite remis!' 560

Haud minus ac iussi faciunt, primusque rudentem contorsit laevas proram Palinurus ad undas:
 laevam cuncta cohors remis ventisque petivit.
 Tollimur in caelum curvato gurgite, et idem 565
 subducta ad Manis imos desedimus unda.
 Ter scopuli clamorem inter cava saxa dedere:
 ter spumam elisam et rorantia vidimus astra.
 Interea fessos ventus cum sole reliquit, ignarique viae Cyclopum adlabimur oris.

The Trojans land in Sicily and spend a terrible night near Ætna

Portus ab accessu ventorum immotus et ingens 570
 ipse; sed horrificis iuxta tonat Ætna ruinis;
 interdumque atram prorumpit ad aethera nubem,
 turbine fumantem piceo et candente favilla, attollitque globos flammarum et sidera lambit;
 interdum scopulos avolsaque viscera montis 575
 erigit eructans, liquefactaque saxa sub auras cum gemitu glomerat, fundoque exaestuat imo.
 Fama est Enceladi semustum fulmine corpus urgueri mole hac, ingentemque insuper Aetnam impositam ruptis flammam expirare caminis; 580 et fessum quotiens mutet latus, intremere omnem murmure Trinacriam, et caelum subtexere fumo.
 Noctem illam tecti silvis immania monstra perferimus, nec quae sonitum det causa videmus.
 Nam neque erant astrorum ignes, nec lucidus aethra 585
 siderea polus, obscuro sed nubila caelo, et lunam in nimbo nox intempesta tenebat.

A deserted Greek, Achæmenides, begs aid of Æneas

Postera iamque dies primo surgebat Eoo umentemque Aurora polo dimoverat umbram:
 cum subito e silvis, macie confecta suprema, 590
 ignoti nova forma viri miserandaque cultu procedit, supplexque manus ad litora tendit.
 Respicimus: dira inluvies immissaque barba,
 consertum tegumen spinis; at cetera Graius, [et quondam patriis ad Troiam missus in armis.] 595
 Isque ubi Dardanios habitus et Troïa vidit arma procul, paulum aspectu conterritus haesit, continuitque gradum; mox sese ad litora praeceps cum fletu precibusque tulit: 'Per sidera testor, per superos atque hoc caeli spirabile lumen, 600

 tollite me, Teucri; quascunque abducite terras;
 hoc sat erit. Scio me Danaïs e classibus unum, et bello Iliacos fateor petiisse penatis;
 pro quo, si sceleris tanta est iniuria nostri, spargite me in fluctus, vastoque immergite ponto. 605
 Si pereo, hominum manibus periisse iuvabit.'
 Dixerat, et genua amplexus genibusque volutans haerebat. Qui sit, fari, quo sanguine cretus, hortamur; quae deinde agitet fortuna, fateri.
 Ipse pater dextram Anchises, haud multa moratus, 610
 dat iuveni, atque animum praesenti pignore firmat.

Achæmenides tells the Trojans about Polyphemus, the Cyclops

Ille haec, deposita tandem formidine, fatur:
 'Sum patria ex Ithaca, comes infelicis Ulixi, nomine Achaemenides, Troiam genitore Adamasto paupere—mansissetque utinam fortuna!—profectus. 615 Hic me, dum trepidi crudelia limina linquunt, immemores socii vasto Cyclopi in antro deseruere. Domus sanie dapibusque cruentis, intus opaca, ingens; ipse arduus, altaque pulsat sidera—Di, talem terris avertite pestem;— 620 nec visu facilis nec dictu adfabilis ulli.
 Visceribus miserorum et sanguine vescitur atro.
 Vidi egomet, duo de numero cum corpora nostro prensa manu magna, medio resupinus in antro, frangeret ad saxum, sanieque aspersa natarent 625
 limina; vidi atro cum membra fluentia tabo manderet, et tepidi tremerent sub dentibus artus.
 Haud impune quidem; nec talia passus Ulixes, oblitusve sui est Ithacus discrimine tanto.

Nam simul expletus dapibus vinoque sepultus 630

cervicem inflexam posuit, iacuitque per antrum immensus, saniem eructans et frustra cruento per somnum commixta mero, nos magna precati numina sortitique vices, una undique circum fundimur, et telo lumen terebramus acuto,— 635

ingens, quod torva solum sub fronte latebat, Argolici clipei aut Phoebeae lampadis instar,— et tandem laeti sociorum ulciscimur umbras.
Sed fugite. O miseri, fugite, atque ab litore funem rumpite. 640

Nam qualis quantusque cavo Polyphemus in antro lanigeras claudit pecudes atque ubera pressat, centum alii curva haec habitant ad litora volgo infandi Cyclopes, et altis montibus errant.
Tertia iam lunae se cornua lumine complent, 645 cum vitam in silvis inter deserta ferarum lustra domosque traho, vastosque ab rupe Cyclopas prospicio, sonitumque pedum vocemque tremesco.

Victum infelicem, bacas lapidosaque corna,
dant rami, et volsis pascunt radicibus herbae. 650

Omnia conlustrans, hanc primum ad litora classem prospexi venientem. Huic me, quaecumque fuisset, addixi: satis est gentem effugisse nefandam.
Vos animam hanc potius quocumque absumite leto.'

Polyphemus is seen on the shore

Vix ea fatus erat, summo cum monte videmus 655
ipsum inter pecudes vasta se mole moventem pastorem Polyphemum et litora nota petentem, monstrum horrendum, informe, ingens, cui lumen ademptum.
Trunca manu pinus regit et vestigia firmat ;

lanigeræ comitantur oves—ea sola voluptas 660 solamenque mali.

Postquam altos tetigit fluctus et ad aequora venit, luminis effossi fluidum lavit inde cruorem, dentibus infrendens gemitu, graditurque per aequor
iam medium, necdum fluctus latera ardua tinxit. 665

Nos procul inde fugam trepidi celerare, recepto supplice sic merito, tacitique incidere funem;
verrimus et proni certantibus aequora remis.
Sensit, et ad sonitum vocis vestigia torsit;
verum ubi nulla datur dextra adfectare potestas, 670
nec potis Ionios fluctus aequare sequendo, clamorem immensum tollit, quo pontus et omnes contremuere undae, penitusque exterrita tellus Italiae, curvisque immugiit Aetna cavernis.

In terror the Trojans put to sea and sail along the south of Sicily

At genus e silvis Cyclopum et montibus altis 675
excitum ruit ad portus et litora complent.

Cernimus adstantis nequiquam lumine torvo Aetnaeos fratres, caelo capita alta ferentis, concilium horrendum: quales cum vertice celso constiterunt, silva alta Iovis, lucusve Dianae.

Praecipites metus acer agit quocumque rudentis

Contra iussa monent Heleni Scyllam atque Charybdim ni teneant cursus; certum est dare lintea retro.

Ecce autem Boreas angusta ab sede Pelori

 Iussi numina magna loci veneramur ; et inde exsupero praepingue solum stagnantis Helori.
 Hinc altas cautes proiectaque saxa Pachyni

The landing at Drepanum, and the death of Anchises

Hinc Drepani me portus et inlaetabilis ora accipit. Hic, pelagi tot tempestatibus actus, heu genitorem, omnis curae casusque levamen, amitto Anchisen : hic me, pater optime, fessum 710
 deseris, heu, tantis nequiquam erepte periclis !
 Nec vates Helenus, cum multa horrenda moneret,
 hos mihi praedixit luctus, non dira Celaeno.
 Hic labor extremus, longarum haec meta viarum.
 Hinc me digressum vestris deus appulit oris. 715

Sic pater Aeneas intentis omnibus unus fata renarrabat divum, cursusque docebat.
 Conticuit tandem, factoque hic fine quievit.

DIDO AND ÆNEAS

Dido converses with her sister Anna of her love for Æneas (1-53), which she betrays also by other tokens (54-89). Juno concert with Venus a device for uniting them in marriage (90-128). A hunting party is formed for the queen and her guests: Dido and Æneas are driven by the divine plot to take shelter in a cave (129-172). Fame reports their alliance: jealous wrath of Iarbas (173-217). Jupiter sends Mercury to command the departure of Æneas, whom he finds laying the foundations of the citadel (218-278). Æneas summons his companions: Dido reproaches him with his intended flight (279-392). The fleet is made ready: he listens unmoved to the entreaties of Dido and Anna (393-449). The queen, maddened, resolves on death, first seeking magic incantations (450-521). Sleepless, at night, she exclaims against Trojan perfidy. Meanwhile Mercury in a vision again warns Æneas to flee: he hastens the departure of the fleet (522-583). Despair of Dido at his flight: she invokes curses upon the fugitive and his posterity (584-629). Simulating religious rites, she causes her chamber to be prepared, and slays herself, after a last appeal to her sister (630-692). Juno, by embassy of Iris, releases her tormented spirit (693-705).

Dido tells her sister Anna of her love for Æneas

AT regina gravi iamdudum saucia cura vulnus alit venis, et caeco carpitur igni.
Multa viri virtus animo, multusque recursat gentis honos; haerent infixi pectore voltus verbaque, nec placidam membris dat cura quietem.

5

Postera Phoebea lustrabat lampade terras, umentemque Aurora polo dimoverat umbram,
cum sic unanimam adloquitur male sana sororem:
'Anna soror, quae me suspensam insomnia terrent!

Quis novus hic nostris successit sedibus hospes, 10
 quem sese ore ferens, quam forti pectore et armis!
 Credo equidem, nec vana fides, genus esse deorum:
 degeneres animos timor arguit. Heu, quibus ille iactatus fatis! quae bella exhausta canebat!
 Si mihi non animo fixum immotumque sederet, 15
 ne cui me vinclo vellem sociare iugali, postquam primus amor deceptam morte fefellit;
 si non pertaesum thalami taedaeque fuisset,
 huic uni forsan potui succumbere culpae.
 Anna, fatebor enim, miseri post fata Sychaei 20
 coniugis et sparsos fraterna caede penatis, solus hic inflexit sensus, animumque labantem
 impulit: agnosco veteris vestigia flammae.
 Sed mihi vel tellus optem prius ima dehiscat, vel Pater omnipotens adigat me fulmine ad umbras, 25
 pallentis umbras Erebi noctemque profundam, ante, Pudor, quam te violo, aut tua iura resolvo.
 Ille meos, primus qui me sibi iunxit, amores abstulit; ille habeat secum servetque sepulcro.
 Sic effata sinum lacrimis implevit obortis. 30

Anna encourages Dido in her love

Anna refert: 'O luce magis dilecta sorori, solane perpetua maerens carpere iuventa,
 nec dulcis natos, Veneris nec praemia noris?
 Id cinerem aut Manis credis curare sepultos?
 Esto: aegram nulli quondam flexere mariti, 35 non Libyae, non ante Tyro; despectus Iarbas ductoresque alii, quos Africa terra triumphis dives alit: placitone etiam pugnabis amori?
 Nec venit in mentem, quorum consederis arvis?
 Hinc Gaetulæ urbes, genus insuperabile bello, 40 et Numidæ infreni cingunt et inhospita syrtis;

hinc deserta siti regio, lateque furentes Barcaei. Quid bella Tyro surgentia dicam, germanique minas?
 Dis equidem auspibus reor et Iunone secunda 45
 hunc cursum Iliacas vento tenuisse carinas.
 Quam tu urbem, soror, hanc cernes, quae surgere regna coniugio tali! Teucrum comitantibus armis Punica se quantis attollet gloria rebus!
 Tu modo posce deos veniam, sacrisque litatis 50 indulge hospitio, causasque innecte morandi, dum pelago desaevit hiems et aquosus Orion, quassataeque rates, dum non tractabile caelum.'

His dictis incensum animum inflammavit amore, spemque dedit dubiae menti, solvitque pudorem. 55
 Principio delubra adeunt, pacemque per aras exquirunt; mactant lectas de more bidentis legiferae Cereri Phoeboque patrique Lyaeo, Iunoni ante omnis, cui vincla iugalia curae.
 Ipsa, tenens dextra pateram, pulcherrima Dido 60
 candentis vaccae media inter cornua fundit, aut ante ora deum pinguis spatiatur ad aras, instauratque diem donis, pecudumque reclusis pectoribus inhians spirantia consulit exta.

Dido's passion increases

Heu vatum ignarae mentes! quid vota furentem, 65 quid delubra iuvant? Est mollis flamma medullas interea, et tacitum vivit sub pectore volnus.
 Uritur infelix Dido, totaque vagatur urbe furens, qualis coniecta cerva sagitta, quam procul incautam nemora inter Cresia fixit 70 pastor agens telis, liquitque volatile ferrum nescius; illa fuga silvas saltusque peragrat Dictaeos; haeret lateri letalis harundo.

DIDO'S SACRIFICE

Nunc media Aenean secum per moenia ducit, Sidoniasque ostentat opes urbemque paratam; 75
 incipit effari, mediaque in voce resistit;
 nunc eadem labente die convivia quaerit, Iliacosque iterum demens audire labores exposcit, pendetque iterum narrantis ab ore.
 Post, ubi digressi, lumenque obscura vicissim 80
 luna premit suadentque cadentia sidera somnos, sola domo maeret vacua, stratisque relictis incubat, illum absens absentem auditque videtque;
 aut gremio Ascanium, genitoris imagine capta, detinet, infandum si fallere possit amorem. 85
 Non coeptae adsurgunt turres, non arma iuventus exercet, portusve aut propugnacula bello tuta parant; pendent opera interrupta, minaeque murorum ingentes aequataque machina caelo.

Juno craftily suggests to Venus the marriage of Dido and Æneas

Quam simul ac tali persensit peste teneri 90
 cara Iovis coniunx, nec famam obstare furori, talibus adgreditur Venerem Saturnia dictis:
 'Egregiam vero laudem et spolia ampla refertis tuque puerque tuus, magnum et memorabile numen, una dolo divum si femina victa duorum est! 95
 Nec me adeo fallit veritam te moenia nostra suspectas habuisse domos Karthaginis altae.
 Sed quis erit modus, aut quo nunc certamine tanto?
 Quin potius pacem aeternam pactosque hymenaeos exercemus? Habes, tota quod mente petisti: 100 ardet amans Dido, traxitque per ossa furorem.
 Communem hunc ergo populum paribusque regamus auspiciis; liceat Phrygio servire marito, dotalisque tuae Tyrios permittere dextrae.'

Venus assents to Juno's scheme

Olli—sensit enim simulata mente locutam, 105 quo regnum Italiae Libycas averteret oras—sic contra est ingressa Venus: 'Quis talia demens abnuat, aut tecum malit contendere bello, si modo, quod memoras, factum fortuna sequatur?
 Sed fatis incerta feror, si Iuppiter unam 110
 esse velit Tyriis urbem Troiaque profectis, miscerive probet populos, aut foedera iungi.
 Tu coniunx: tibi fas animum temptare precando.
 Perge; sequar.' Tum sic excepit regia Iuno:
 'Mecum erit iste labor: nunc qua ratione quod instat 115
 confieri possit, paucis, adverte, docebo.
 Venatum Aeneas unaque miserrima Dido in nemus ire parant, ubi primos crastinus ortus extulerit Titan, radiisque retexerit orbem.
 His ego nigrantem commixta grandine nimbum, 120
 dum trepidant alae, saltusque indagine cingunt, desuper infundam, et tonitru caelum omne ciebo.
 Diffugient comites et nocte tegentur opaca:
 speluncam Dido dux et Troianus eandem
 devenient; adero, et, tua si mihi certa voluntas, 125 [conubio iungam stabili propriamque dicabo.]
 hic hymenaeus erit.'—Non adversata petenti adnuit, atque dolis risit Cytherea repertis.

Dido and Æneas go hunting

Oceanum interea surgens Aurora reliquit.
 It portis iubare exorto delecta iuventus; 130
 retia rara, plagae, lato venabula ferro, Massylique ruunt equites et odora canum vis.
 Reginam thalamo cunctantem ad limina primi Poenorum exspectant, ostroque insignis et auro

stat sonipes, ac frena ferox spumantia mandit. 135 Tandem progreditur, magna stipante caterva,
 Sidoniam picto chlamydem circumdata limbo.
 Cui pharetra ex auro, crines nodantur in aurum,
 aurea purpuream subnectit fibula vestem.
 Nec non et Phrygii comites et laetus Iulus 140 incedunt. Ipse ante alios pulcherrimus omnis infert se socium Aeneas atque agmina iungit.
 Qualis ubi hibernam Lyciam Xanthique fluenta deserit ac Delum maternam invisit Apollo, instauratque choros, mixtique altaria circum 145
 Cretesque Dryopesque fremunt pictique Agathyrsi;
 ipse iugis Cynthi graditur, mollique fluentem fronde premit crinem fingens atque implicat auro;
 tela sonant umeris: haud illo senior ibat
 Aeneas; tantum egregio decus enitet ore. 150
 Postquam altos ventum in montis atque invia lustra, ecce ferae, saxi deiectae vertice, caprae decurrere iugis; alia de parte patentis transmittunt cursu campos atque agmina cervi pulverulenta fuga glomerant montisque relinquunt. 155
 At puer Ascanius mediis in vallibus acri gaudet equo, iamque hos cursu, iam praeterit illos, spumantemque dari pecora inter inertia votis optat aprum, aut fulvum descendere monte leonem.

A sudden storm forces Dido and Æneas to seek shelter in a cave

Interea magno misceri murmure caelum 160
 incipit; insequitur commixta grandine nimbus;
 et Tyrii comites passim et Troiana iuventus Dardaniusque nepos Veneris diversa per agros tecta metu petiere; ruunt de montibus amnes.
 Speluncam Dido dux et Troianus eandem 165

deveniunt : prima et Tellus et pronuba Iuno dant signum ; fulsere ignes et conscius aether conubiis, summoque ulularunt vertice nymphae.
 Ille dies primus leti primusque malorum

ROMAN MARRIAGE

causa fuit ; neque enim specie famave movetur, nec iam furtivum Dido meditatur amorem :
 coniugium vocat ; hoc praetexit nomine culpam.

170

Rumor spreads the story of Æneas and Dido

Extemplo Libyae magnas it Fama per urbes—Fama, malum qua non aliud velocius ullum ;
 mobilitate viget, virisque acquirit eundo,
 parva metu primo, mox sese attollit in auras, ingrediturque solo, et caput inter nubila condit.

175

Illam Terra parens, ira inritata deorum, extremam (ut perhibent) Coeo Enceladoque sororem progenuit, pedibus celerem et pernicipibus alis, 180 monstrum horrendum, ingens, cui, quotsunt corpore plumae, tot vigiles oculi subter, mirabile dictu,
 tot linguae, totidem ora sonant, tot subrigit auris.
 Nocte volat caeli medio terraeque per umbram, stridens, nec dulci declinat lumina somno; 185
 luce sedet custos aut summi culmine tecti, turribus aut altis, et magnas territat urbes;
 tam ficti pravique tenax, quam nuntia veri.

Haec tum multiplici populos sermone replebat gaudens, et pariter facta atque infecta canebat: 190 venisse Aenean, Troiano sanguine cretum, cui se pulchra viro dignetur iungere Dido;
 nunc hiemem inter se luxu, quam longa, fovere regnorum immemores turpique cupidine captos.
 Haec passim dea foeda virum diffundit in ora. 195
 Protinus ad regem cursus detorquet Iarban, incenditque animum dictis atque aggerat iras.

Iarbas, a rejected suitor of Dido, is enraged and appeals to his father, Jupiter Ammon

Hic Hammone satus, rapta Garamantide nympha, templa Iovi centum latis immania regnis, centum aras posuit, vigilemque sacraverat ignem, 200 excubias divum aeternas, pecudumque cruore pingue solum et variis florentia limina sertis.
 Isque amens animi et rumore accensus amaro dicitur ante aras media inter numina divum multa Iovem manibus supplex orasse supinis: 205
 'Iuppiter omnipotens, cui nunc Maurusia pictis gens epulata toris Lenaeum libat honorem, aspicias haec, an te, genitor, cum fulmina torques, nequiquam horremus, caecique in nubibus ignes terriſcant animos et inania murmura miscent ? 210

 Femina, quae nostris errans in finibus urbem exiguam pretio posuit, cui litus arandum cuique loci leges dedimus, conubia nostra reppulit, ac dominum Aenean in regna recepit.
 Et nunc ille Paris cum semiviro comitatu, 215
 Maeonia mentum mitra crinemque madentem subnixus, raptu potitur ; nos munera templis quippe tuis ferimus, famamque fovemus inanem.'

Jupiter despatches Mercury to warn Æneas not to dally at Carthage

Talibus orantem dictis arasque tenentem audiit omnipotens, oculosque ad moenia torsit 220 regia et oblitos famae melioris amantis.
 Tum sic Mercurium adloquitur ac talia mandat :
 'Vade age, nate, voca Zephyros et labere pinnis, Dardaniumque ducem, Tyria Karthagine qui nunc exspectat, fatisque datas non respicit urbes, 225 adloquere, et celeris defer mea dicta per auras.
 Non illum nobis genetrix pulcherrima talem promisit, Graiumque ideo bis vindicat armis ;
 sed fore, qui gravidam imperiis belloque frementem Italiam regeret, genus alto a sanguine Teucri 230
 proderet, ac totum sub leges mitteret orbem.
 Si nulla accendit tantarum gloria rerum,
 nec super ipse sua molitur laude laborem,
 Ascanione pater Romanas invidet arces ?
 Quid struit, aut qua spe inimica in gente moratur, 235
 nec prolem Ausoniam et Lavinia respicit arva ?
 Naviget ; haec summa est ; hic nostri nuntius esto.'
 Dixerat. Ille patris magni parere parabat imperio ; et primum pedibus talaria nectit

MERCURY WITH CADUCEUS

aurea, quae sublimem alis sive aequora supra 240 seu terram rapido pariter cum flamine portant ;
 tum virgam capit : hac animas ille evocat Orco pallentis, alias sub Tartara tristia mittit, dat somnos adimitque, et lumina morte resignat.
 Illa fretus agit ventos, et turbida tranat 245
 nubila ; iamque volans apicem et latera ardua cernit
 Atlantis duri, caelum qui vertice fulcit, Atlantis, cinctum adsidue cui nubibus atris piniferum caput et vento pulsatur et imbri ;
 nix umeros infusa tegit ; tum flumina mento 250
 praecipitant senis, et glacie riget horrida barba.
 Hic primum paribus nitens Cyllenius alis constitit ; hinc toto praeceps se corpore ad undas misit, avi similis, quae circum litora, circum
 piscosos scopulos humilis volat aequora iuxta. 255
 Haud aliter terras inter caelumque volabat litus harenosum ad Libyae ventosque secabat materno veniens ab avo Cyllenia proles.

Mercury warns Æneas to flee

Ut primum alatis tetigit magalia plantis, Aenean fundantem arces ac tecta novantem 260
 conspicit ; atque illi stellatus iaspide fulva ensis erat, Tyrioque ardebat murice laena demissa ex umeris, dives quae munera Dido fecerat, et tenui telas discreverat auro.
 Continuo invadit : 'Tu nunc Karthaginis altae 265 fundamenta locas, pulchramque uxorius urbem exstruis, heu regni rerumque oblite tuarum ?
 Ipse deum tibi me claro demittit Olympo regnator, caelum ac terras qui numine torquet ;
 ipse haec ferre iubet celeris mandata per auras : 270
 Quid struis, aut qua spe Libycis teris otia terris ?
 Si te nulla movet tantarum gloria rerum,
 [nec super ipse tua moliris laude laborem,] Ascanium surgentem et spes heredis Iuli respice, cui regnum Italiae Romanaque tellus 275 debentur.' Tali Cyllenius ore locutus mortalis visus medio sermone reliquit, et procul in tenuem ex oculis evanuit auram.

Æneas is perplexed, but decides to leave Carthage secretly

At vero Aeneas aspectu obmutuit amens, arrectaeque horrore comae, et vox faucibus haesit. 280
 Ardet abire fuga dulcisque relinquere terras, attonitus tanto monitu imperioque deorum.
 Heu quid agat ? Quo nunc reginam ambire furentem audeat adfatu ? Quae prima exordia sumat ?
 Atque animum nunc huc celerem, nunc dividit illuc, 285 in partisque rapit varias perque omnia versat.
 Haec alternanti potior sententia visa est :

Mnesthea Sergestumque vocat fortemque Serestum, classem aptent taciti sociosque ad litora cogant, arma parent, et quae rebus sit causa novandis 290 dissimulent ~~vsese~~ interea, quando optima Dido nesciat et tantos rumpi non speret amores, temptaturum aditus, et quae mollissima fandi tempora, quis rebus dexter modus. Ocius omnes imperio laeti parent ac iussa facessunt. 295

Dido suspects Æneas' purpose of flight

At regina dolos—quis fallere possit amantem?—
 praesensit, motusque excepit prima futuros, omnia tuta timens. Eadem impia Fama furenti detulit armari classem cursumque parari.
 Saevit inops animi, totamque incensa per urbem 300
 bacchatur, qualis commotis excita sacris Thyias, ubi audito stimulant trieterica Baccho orgia, nocturnusque vocat clamore Cithaeron.
 Tandem his Aenean compellat vocibus ultro:

Dido reproaches Æneas

'Dissimulare etiam sperasti, perfide, tantum 305
 posse nefas tacitusque mea decedere terra?
 Nec te noster amor, nec te data dextera quondam, nec moritura tenet crudeli funere Dido?
 Quin etiam hiberno moliris sidere classem, et mediis properas aquilonibus ire per altum, 310 crudelis? Quid, si non arva aliena domosque ignotas peteres, sed Troia antiqua maneret, Troia per undosum peteretur classibus aequor?
 Mene fugis? Per ego has lacrimas dextramque tuam te (quando aliud mihi iam miserae nihil ipsa reliqui), 315 per conubia nostra, per inceptos hymenaeos, si bene quid de te merui, fuit aut tibi quicquam dulce meum, miserere domus labentis, et istam—oro, si quis adhuc precibus locus—exue mentem.

 Te propter Libycae gentes Nomadumque tyranni 320
 odere, infensi Tyrii; te propter eundem extinctus pudor, et, qua sola sidera adibam, fama prior. Cui me moribundam deseris, hospes?
 hoc solum nomen quoniam de coniuge restat.
 Quid moror? An mea Pygmalion dum moenia frater 325
 destruat, aut captam ducat Gaetulus Iarbas?
 Saltem si qua mihi de te suscepta fuisset ante fugam suboles, si quis mihi parvulus aula luderet Aeneas, qui te tamen ore referret, non equidem omnino capta ac deserta viderer.' 330

Æneas declares that duty forces him to seek Italy

Dixerat. Ille Iovis monitis immota tenebat lumina, et obnixus curam sub corde premebat.
 Tandem pauca refert: 'Ego te, quae plurima fando enumerare vales, numquam, regina, negabo promeritam; nec me meminisse pigebit Elissae, 335
 dum memor ipse mei, dum spiritus hos regit artus.
 Pro re pauca loquar. Neque ego hanc abscondere furto speravi—ne finge—fugam, nec coniugis umquam praetendi taedas, aut haec in foedera veni.
 Me si fata meis paterentur ducere vitam 340
 auspiciis et sponte mea componere curas, urbem Troianam primum dulcisque meorum reliquias colerem, Priami tecta alta manerent, et recidiva manu posuisssem Pergama victis.
 Sed nunc Italiam magnam Gryneus Apollo, 345
 Italiam Lyciae iussere capessere sortes:
 hic amor, haec patria est. Si te Karthaginis arces, Phoenissam, Libycaeque aspectus detinet urbis, quae tandem, Ausonia Teucros considerare terra, invidia est? Et nos fas extera quaerere regna. 350

 Me patris Anchisae, quotiens umentibus umbris nox operit terras, quotiens astra ignea surgunt, admonet in somnis et turbida terret imago;
 me puer Ascanius capitisque iniuria cari,
 quem regno Hesperiae fraudo et fatalibus arvis. 355
 Nunc etiam interpret divum, Iove missus ab ipso—testor utrumque caput—celeris mandata per auras detulit; ipse deum manifesto in lumine vidi intrantem muros, vocemque his auribus hausi.
 Desine meque tuis incendere teque querelis; 360
 Italiam non sponte sequor.'

Dido curses Æneas in her frenzy

Talia dicentem iamdudum aversa tuetur, huc illuc volvens oculos, totumque pererrat luminibus tacitis, et sic accensa profatur:
 'Nec tibi diva parens, generis nec Dardanus auctor, 365
 perfide; sed duris genuit te cautibus horrens Caucasus, Hyrcanaeque admorunt ubera tigres.
 Nam quid dissimulo, aut quae me ad maiora reservo?
 Num fletu ingemuit nostro? Num lumina flexit?
 Num lacrimas victus dedit, aut miseratus amantem est? 370
 Quae quibus anteferam? Iam iam nec maxima Iuno, nec Saturnius haec oculis pater aspicit aequis.
 Nusquam tuta fides. Eiectum litore, egentem excepi, et regni demens in parte locavi;
 amissam classem, socios a morte reduxi. 375 Heu furiis incensa feror! Nunc augur Apollo, nunc Lyciae sortes, nunc et Iove missus ab ipso interpret divum fert horrida iussa per auras.
 Scilicet is superis labor est, ea cura quietos sollicitat. Neque te tenec, neque dicta refello. 380
 I, sequere Italiam ventis, pete regna per undas.

Spero equidem mediis, si quid pia numina possunt, supplicia hausurum scopulis, et nomine Dido saepe vocaturum. Sequar atris ignibus absens, et cum frigida mors anima seduxerit artus, 385
 omnibus umbra locis adero. Dabis, improbe, poenas.
 Audiam, et haec Manis veniet mihi fama sub imos.
 His medium dictis sermonem abrumpit, et auras aegra fugit, seque ex oculis avertit et aufert, linquens multa metu cunctantem et multa parantem 390 dicere. Suscipiunt famulae, conlapsaque membra marmoreo referunt thalamo stratisque reponunt.

The Trojans prepare to depart

At pius Aeneas, quamquam lenire dolentem solando cupit et dictis avertere curas, multa gemens magnoque animum labefactus amore, 395
 iussa tamen divum exsequitur, classemque revisit.
 Tum vero Teucri incumbunt, et litore celsas deducunt toto navis; natat uncta carina; frondentisque ferunt remos et robora silvis infabricata, fugae studio. 400
 Migrantis cernas, totaque ex urbe ruentis.
 Ac velut ingentem formicae farris acervum cum populant, hiemis memores, tectoque reponunt;
 it nigrum campis agmen, praedamque per herbas convectant calle angusto; pars grandia trudunt 405 obnixae frumenta umeris; pars agmina cogunt castigantque moras; opere omnis semita fervet.

Dido makes a last appeal to Æneas

Quis tibi tum, Dido, cernenti talia sensus?
 quosve dabas gemitus, cum litora fervere late prospiceres arce ex summa, totumque videres 410 misceri ante oculos tantis clamoribus aequor?

Improbe Amor, quid non mortalia pectora cogis?
 Ire iterum in lacrimas, iterum temptare precando cogitur, et supplex animos submittere amori, ne quid inexpertum frustra moritura relinquat.

415

‘Anna, vides toto properari litore; circum
 undique convenere; vocat iam carbasus auras, puppibus et laeti nautae imposuere coronas.
 Hunc ego si potui tantum sperare dolorem, et perferre, soror, potero. Miserae hoc tamen unum exsequere, Anna, mihi. Solam nam perfidus ille te colere, arcanos etiam tibi credere sensus;
 sola viri mollis aditus et tempora noras.

420

I, soror, atque hostem supplex adfare superbum:
 non ego cum Danais Troianam excindere gentem Aulide iuravi, classemve ad Pergama misi, nec patris Anchisae cineres Manisve revelli;
 cur mea dicta negat duras demittere in auris?

425

Quo ruit? Extremum hoc miserae det munus amanti:
 exspectet facilemque fugam ventosque ferentis.

430

Non iam coniugium antiquum, quod prodidit, oro, nec pulchro ut Latio careat regnumque relinquat:
 tempus inane peto, requiem spatiumque furori,
 dum mea me victam doceat fortuna dolere.

Extremam hanc oro veniam—miserere sororis—quam mihi cum dederit, cumulatam morte remittam.’

435

Æneas is firm

Talibus orabat, talisque miserrima fletus fertque refertque soror: sed nullis ille movetur fletibus, aut voces ullas tractabilis audit;
 fata obstant, placidasque viri deus obstruit auris.
 Ac, velut annoso validam cum robore quercum
 Alpini Boreae nunc hinc nunc flatibus illinc

440

eruere inter se certant ; it stridor, et altae consternunt terram concusso stipite frondes ;
ipsa haeret scopulis, et, quantum vertice ad auras 445
aetherias, tantum radice in Tartara tendit :
haud secus adsiduis hinc atque hinc vocibus heros tunditur, et magno persentit pectore curas ;
mens immota manet ; lacrimae volvuntur inanes.

Dido, haunted by visions, longs for death

Tum vero infelix fatis exterrita Dido 450 mortem orat ; taedet caeli convexa tueri.
Quo magis inceptum peragat lucemque relinquat, vidit, turicremis cum dona imponeret aris, horrendum dictu, latices nigrescere sacros, fusaque in obscenum se vertere vina cruorem. 455
Hoc visum nulli, non ipsi effata sorori.
Praeterea fuit in tectis de marmore templum coniugis antiqui, miro quod honore colebat, velleribus niveis et festa fronde revinctum :
hinc exaudiri voces et verba vocantis 460
visa viri, nox cum terras obscura teneret ;
solaque culminibus ferali carmine bubo saepe queri et longas in fletum ducere voces ;
multaque praeterea vaturn praedicta priorum terribili monitu horrificant. Agit ipse furem 465 in somnis ferus Aeneas ; semperque relinqui sola sibi, semper longam incommitata videtur ire viam, et Tyrios deserta quaerere terra.
Eumenidum veluti demens videt agmina Pentheus, et solem geminum et duplicis se ostendere Thebas ; 470
aut Agamemnonius scaenis agitatus Orestes armatam facibus matrem et serpentibus atris cum fugit, ultricesque sedent in limine Dirae.

ORESTES AND THE FURIES

Dido has a funeral pyre built

Ergo ubi concepit furias evicta dolore decrevitque mori, tempus secum ipsa modumque 475 exigit, et, maestam dictis adgressa sororem, consilium vultu tegit, ac spem fronte serenat :

‘Inveni, germana, viam—gratare sorori—
 quae mihi reddat eum, vel eo me solvat amantem.
 Oceani finem iuxta solemque cadentem 480
 ultimus Aethiopum locus est, ubi maximus Atlas axem umero torquet stellis ardentibus aptum :
 hinc mihi Massylae gentis monstrata sacerdos, Hesperidum templi custos, epulasque draconi quae dabat, et sacros servabat in arbore ramos, 485 spargens umida mella soporiferumque papaver.
 Haec se carminibus promittit solvere mentes quas velit, ast aliis duras immittere curas, sistere aquam fluviis, et vertere sidera retro ;
 nocturnosque movet Manis ; mugire videbis 490
 sub pedibus terram, et descendere montibus ornos.

Testor, cara, deos et te, germana, tuumque dulce caput, magicas invitam accingier artes.
 Tu secreta pyram tecto interiore sub auras erige, et arma viri, thalamo quae fixa reliquit 495 impius, exuviasque omnis, lectumque iugalem, quo perii, superimponas: abolere nefandi cuncta viri monumenta iuvat, monstratque sacerdos.
 Haec effata silet; pallor simul occupat ora.
 Non tamen Anna novis praetexere funera sacris 500 germanam credit, nec tantos mente furores concipit, aut graviora timet, quam morte Sychaei:
 ergo iussa parat.

Dido, concealing her purpose of suicide, performs a sacrifice to the gods below

At regina, pyra penetrali in sede sub auras erecta ingenti taedis atque ilice secta, 505 intenditque locum sertis, et fronde coronat funerea; super exuvias ensemque relictum effigiemque toro locat, haud ignara futuri.
 Stant arae circum, et crinis effusa sacerdos ter centum tonat ore deos, Erebumque Chaosque, 510
 tergeminamque Hecaten, tria virginis ora Dianae.
 Sparserat et latices simulatos fontis Avernī, falcibus et messae ad lunam quaeruntur aënis pubentes herbae nigri cum lacte veneni;
 quaeritur et nascentis equi de fronte revolsus 515 et matri praereptus amor.
 Ipsa mola manibusque piis altaria iuxta,
 unum exuta pedem vinclis, in veste recincta, testatur moritura deos et conscia fati sidera; tum, si quod non aequo foedere amantis 520 curae numen habet iustumque memorque, precatur.

In despair Dido laments her fate

Nox erat, et placidum carpebant fessa soporem corpora per terras, silvaeque et saeva quierant aequora: cum medio volvuntur sidera lapsu, cum tacet omnis ager, pecudes pictaeque volucres, 525
 quaeque lacus late liquidos, quaeque aspera dumis rura tenent, somno positae sub nocte silenti [lenibant curas, et corda oblita laborum].
 At non infelix animi Phoenissa, nec umquam solvitur in somnos, oculisve aut pectore noctem 530 accipit: ingeminant curae, rursusque resurgens saevit amor, magnoque irarum fluctuat aestu.
 Sic adeo insistit, secumque ita corde volutat:
 'En, quid ago? Rursusne procos inrisa priores experiar, Nomadumque petam conubia supplex, 535
 quos ego sim totiens iam dedignata maritos?
 Iliacas igitur classis atque ultima Teucrum iussa sequar? Quiane auxilio iuvat ante levatos, et bene apud memores veteris stat gratia facti?
 Quis me autem, fac velle, sinet, ratibusve superbis 540
 invisam accipiet? Nescis heu, perdita, necdum Laomedontae sentis periuria gentis?
 Quid tum, sola fuga nautas comitabor ovantis, an Tyriis omnique manu stipata meorum inferar, et, quos Sidonia vix urbe revelli, 545
 rursus agam pelago, et ventis dare vela iubebo?
 Quin morere, ut merita es, ferroque avertē dolorem.
 Tu lacrimis evicta meis, tu prima furem his, germana, malis oneras atque obicis hosti.
 Non licuit thalami expertem sine crimine vitam 550
 degere, more ferae, talis nec tangere curas!
 Non servata fides cineri promissa Sychaeo!
 Tantos illa suo rumpebat pectore questus.

HECATE

Aeneas is urged by Mercury not to delay

Aeneas celsa in puppi, iam certus eundi, carpebat somnos, rebus iam rite paratis. 555
 Huic se forma dei voltu redeuntis eodem obtulit in somnis, rursusque ita visa monere est—omnia Mercurio similis, vocemque coloremque et crinis flavos et membra decora iuventa :
 'Nate dea, potes hoc sub casu ducere somnos, 560
 nec, quae te circum stent deinde pericula, cernis, demens, nec Zephyros audis spirare secundos ?
 Illa dolos dirumque nefas in pectore versat,
 certa mori, varioque irarum fluctuat aestu.
 Non fugis hinc praeceps, dum praecipitare potestas ? 565
 Iam mare turbare trabibus, saevasque videbis conlucere faces, iam fervere litora flammis, si te his attigerit terris Aurora morantem.
 Heia age, rumpe moras. Varium et mutabile semper femina.' Sic fatus nocti se immiscuit atrae. 570

The Trojans depart in haste

Tum vero Aeneas, subitis exterritus umbris, corripit e somno corpus, sociosque fatigat :
 'Praecipites vigilate, viri, et considite transtris ;
 solvite vela citi. Deus aethere missus ab alto festinare fugam tortosque incidere funis 575 ecce iterum instimulat. Sequimur te, sancte deorum, quisquis es, imperioque iterum paremus ovantes.
 Adsis O placidusque iuves, et sidera caelo dextra feras.' Dixit, vaginaque eripit ensem fulmineum, strictoque ferit retinacula ferro. 580
 Idem omnis simul ardor habet, rapiuntque ruuntque ;
 litora deseruere ; latet sub classibus aequor ;
 adnixa torquent spumas et caerula verrunt.

Dido sees the Trojans sail away

Et iam prima novo spargebat lumine terras
 Tithoni croceum linquens Aurora cubile. 585
 Regina e speculis ut primum albescere lucem vidit, et aequatis classem procedere velis, litoraue et vacuos sensit sine remige portus, terque quaterque manu pectus percussa decorum, flaventisque abscissa comas, 'Pro Iuppiter, ibit 590
 hic,' ait, 'et nostris inluserit advena regnis?
 Non arma expedient, totaque ex urbe sequentur, deripientque rates alii navalibus? Ite, ferte citi flammas, date vela, impellite remos!—
 Quid loquor, aut ubi sum? Quae mentem insania mutat? 595
 Infelix Dido, nunc te facta impia tangunt.
 Tum decuit, cum sceptras dabas.—En dextra fidesque, quem secum patrios aiunt portare penatis,
 quem subiisse umeris confectum aetate parentem!
 Non potui abreptum divellere corpus, et undis 600
 spargere? Non socios, non ipsum absumere ferro Ascanium, patriisque epulandum ponere mensis?—
 Verum anceps pugnae fuerat fortuna:—fuisset.
 Quem metui moritura? Faces in castra tulissem, implessemque foros flammis, natumque patremque 605 cum genere exstinxem, memet super ipsa dedissem.

Dido curses the Trojans and their descendants

'Sol, qui terrarum flammis opera omnia lustras, tuque harum interpretas curarum et conscia Iuno, nocturnisque Hecate triviis ululata per urbes, et Dirae ultrices, et di morientis Elissae, 610
 accipite haec, meritumque malis advertite numen, et nostras audite preces. Si tangere portus infandum caput ac terris adnare necesse est, et sic fata Iovis poscunt, hic terminus haeret :

 at bello audacis populi vexatus et armis, 615
 finibus extorris, complexu avolsus Iuli, auxilium imploret, videatque indigna suorum funera ; nec, cum se sub leges pacis iniquae tradiderit, regno aut optata luce fruatur, sed cadat ante diem, mediaque inhumatus harena. 620
 Haec precor, hanc vocem extremam cum sanguine fundo.
 Tum vos, O Tyrii, stirpem et genus omne futurum exercete odiis, cinerique haec mittite nostro munera. Nullus amor populis, nec foedera sunt.
 Exoriare aliquis nostris ex ossibus ultor, 625 qui face Dardanios ferroque sequare colonos,
 nunc, olim, quocumque dabunt se tempore vires.
 Litora litoribus contraria, fluctibus undas imprecor, arma armis ; pugnent ipsique nepotesque.'

The death of Dido

Haec ait, et partis animum versabat in omnis, 630
 invisam quaerens quam primum abrumpere lucem.
 Tum breviter Barcen nutricem adfata Sychaei ;
 namque suam patria antiqua cinis ater habebat :
 'Annam cara mihi nutrix huc siste sororem ;
 dic corpus properet fluviali spargere lympa, 635 et pecudes secum et monstrata piacula ducat ;
 sic veniat ; tuque ipsa pia tege tempora vitta.
 Sacra Iovi Stygio, quae rite incepta paravi, perficere est animus, finemque imponere curis,
 Dardaniique rogam capitis permittere flammae.' 640
 Sic ait : illa gradum studio celerabat anili.
 At trepida, et coeptis immanibus efferat Dido, sanguineam volvens aciem, maculisque trementis interfusa genas, et pallida morte futura, interiora domus inrumpit limina, et altos 645

conscendit furibunda rogos, enseque recludit
Dardanium, non hos quaesitum munus in usus.

Hic, postquam Iliacas vestes notumque cubile conspexit, paulum lacrimis et mente morata, incubuitque toro, dixitque novissima verba :

650

‘Dulces exuviae, dum fata deusque sinebat, accipite hanc animam, meque his exsolve curis.

Vixi, et, quem dederat cursum fortuna, peregi, et nunc magna mei sub terras ibit imago.

Urbem praeclaram statui ; mea moenia vidi ;
ulta virum, poenas inimico a fratre recepi ;

655

felix, heu nimium felix, si litora tantum numquam Dardaniae tetigissent nostra carinae.’

Dixit, et os impressa toro, ‘Moriemur inultae, sed moriamur,’ ait. ‘Sic, sic iuvat ire sub umbras.

Hauriat hunc oculis ignem crudelis ab alto

Dardanus, et nostrae secum ferat omina mortis.’

Dixerat ; atque illam media inter talia ferro conlapsam aspiciunt comites, enseque cruore spumantem, sparsasque manus. It clamor ad alta atria ; concussam bacchatur Fama per urbem.

665

Lamentis gemituque et femineo ululatu

tecta fremunt ; resonat magnis plangoribus aether, non aliter quam si immissis ruat hostibus omnis

Karthago aut antiqua Tyros, flammaeque furentes

670 culmina perque hominum volvantur perque deorum.

Anna's lament for her dying sister

Audiit exanimis, trepidoque exterrita cursu unguibus ora soror foedans et pectora pugnis per medios ruit, ac morientem nomine clamat :

‘Hoc illud, germana, fuit ? Me fraude petebas ?

675

Hoc rogos iste mihi, hoc ignes araeque parabant ?

Quid primum deserta querar ? Comitemne sororem sprevisi moriens? Eadem me ad fata vocasses;

 idem ambas ferro dolor, atque eadem hora tulisset.
 His etiam struxi manibus, patriosque vocavi 680
 voce deos, sic te ut posita crudelis abessem?
 Exstinxti te meque, soror, populumque patresque Sidonios urbemque tuam. Date volnera lymphis abluam, et extremus si quis super halitus errat, ore legam.' Sic fata, gradus evaserat altos, 685 semianimemque sinu germanam amplexa fovebat cum gemitu, atque atros siccabat veste cruores.
 Illa, gravis oculos conata attollere, rursus deficit; infixum stridit sub pectore volnus.
 Ter sese attollens cubitoque adnixa levavit;
 ter revoluta toro est, oculisque errantibus alto 690
 quaesivit caelo lucem, ingemuitque reperta.

Iris releases the spirit of Dido

Tum Iuno omnipotens, longum miserata dolorem difficilisque obitus, Irim demisit Olympo, quae luctantem animam nexosque resolveret artus. 695 Nam quia nec fato, merita nec morte peribat, sed misera ante diem, subitoque accensa furore, nondum illi flavum Proserpina vertice crinem abstulerat, Stygioque caput damnaverat Orco.
 Ergo Iris croceis per caelum roscida pinnis, 700
 mille trahens varios adverso sole colores, devolat, et supra caput adstitit: 'Hunc ego Diti
 sacrum iussa fero, teque isto corpore solvo.'
 Sic ait, et dextra crinem secat: omnis et una dilapsus calor, atque in ventos vita recessit. 705

LIBER V

THE FUNERAL GAMES

Æneas, departing, sees the blaze of Dido's funeral pile. A storm threatens, and he turns his course towards Sicily, where he is received with welcome by Acestes (1-41). He prepares to celebrate with sacrifice and funeral games the anniversary of his father's death (42-103). First contest, race of four Galleys; incidents of the race: the first prize is won by Cloanthus (104-285). Second contest, Foot race: Nisus and Euryalus (286-361). Third contest, the Cestus: Dares and Entellus; the gigantic strength of the latter, who wields the gauntlets of Eryx (362-484). Fourth contest, Archery; the dove shot in mid-air by Eurytion; the fiery flight of Acestes' arrow (485-544). The Equestrian game, Troianus, led by Ascanius in skilful evolutions (545-603). Juno moves the Trojan women to repining at their long wandering; led by Pyrgo, they set fire to the fleet: the flames cannot be stayed, until Jupiter sends a timely rain, by which all the ships but four are rescued (604-699). Æneas purposes to found a colony in Sicily; but is warned in a vision by Anchises to proceed with his stoutest followers to Latium: those who desire remain behind under protection of Acestes; the rest set sail (700-778). At the entreaty of Venus, Neptune, with the Tritons and sea-nymphs, attends his course. The fleet passes safe upon the waters, with the loss of the pilot Palinurus alone, who, overcome by the god of sleep, falls into the sea and perishes (779-871).

A storm forces the Trojans to seek harbor in Sicily

INTEREA medium Aeneas iam classe tenebat certus iter, fluctusque atros Aquilone secabat, moenia respiciens, quae iam infelicis Elissae conlucent flammis. Quae tantum accenderit ignem, causa latet; duri magno sed amore dolores 5
polluto, notumque furens quid femina possit, triste per augurium Teucrorum pectora ducunt.

Ut pelagus tenuere rates, nec iam amplius ulla occurrit tellus, maria undique et undique caelum, olli caeruleus supra caput adstitit imber, 10
 noctem hiememque ferens, et inhorruit unda tenebris.
 Ipse gubernator puppi Palinurus ab alta:
 'Heu! quianam tanti cinxerunt aethera nimbi?
 Quidve, pater Neptune, paras?' Sic deinde locutus colligere arma iubet validisque incumbere remis, 15 obliquatque sinus in ventum, ac talia fatur:
 'Magnanime Aenea, non, si mihi Iuppiter auctor spondeat, hoc sperem Italiam contingere caelo.
 Mutati transversa fremunt et vespere ab atro consurgunt venti, atque in nubem cogitur aër. 20
 Nec nos obniti contra, nec tendere tantum sufficimus. Superat quoniam Fortuna, sequamur, quoque vocat, vertamus iter. Nec litora longe fida reor fraterna Erycis portusque Sicanos, si modo rite memor servata remetior astra.' 25

Tum pius Aeneas: 'Equidem sic poscere ventos iamdudum et frustra cerno te tendere contra:
 flecte viam velis. An sit mihi gratior ulla, quove magis fessas optem demittere navis, quam quae Dardaniam tellus mihi servat Acesten, 30 et patris Anchisae gremio complectitur ossa?'
 Haec ubi dicta, petunt portus, et vela secundi intendunt Zephyri; fertur cita gurgite classis, et tandem laeti notae advertuntur harenae.

The Trojans are welcomed at Segesta by Acestes

At procul ex celso miratus vertice montis 35
 adventum sociasque rates, occurrit Acestes, horridus in iaculis et pelle Libystidis ursae,

Troïa Criniso conceptum flumine mater quem genuit : veterum non immemor ille parentum gratatur reduces, et gaza laetus agresti excipit, ac fessos opibus solatur amicis. 40

Aeneas proclaims games in honor of Anchises

Postera cum primo stellas Oriente fugarat clara dies, socios in coetum litore ab omni advocat Aeneas, tumulique ex aggere fatur :
 'Dardanidae magni, genus alto a sanguine divum, 45
 annuus exactis completur mensibus orbis, ex quo reliquias divinique ossa parentis condidimus terra maestasque sacravimus aras.
 Iamque dies, nisi fallor, adest, quem semper acerbum, semper honoratum—sic di voluistis—habebo. 50
 Hunc ego Gaetulis agerem si syrtibus exsul, Argolicove mari depensus et urbe Mycenae, annua vota tamen sollemnisque ordine pompas exsequer, strueremque suis altaria donis.
 Nunc ultro ad cineres ipsius et ossa parentis, 55
 haud equidem sine mente reor, sine numine divum, adsumus et portus delati intramus amicos.
 Ergo agite, et laetum cuncti celebremus honorem ;
 poscamus ventos ; atque haec me sacra quotannis urbe velit posita templis sibi ferre dicatis. 60 Bina boum vobis Troia generatus Acestes dat numero capita in navis ; adhibete penatis et patrios epulis et quos colit hospes Acestes.
 Praeterea, si nona diem mortalibus alnum
 Aurora extulerit radiisque retexerit orbem, 65
 prima citae Teucris ponam certamina classis ;
 quique pedum cursu valet, et qui viribus audax aut iaculo incedit melior levibusque sagittis, seu crudo fidit pugnam committere caestu, cuncti adsint, meritaque expectent praemia palmae. 70

 Ore favete omnes, et cingite tempora ramis.'

Funeral rites are performed at the tomb of Anchises

Sic fatus, velat materna tempora myrto;
 hoc Helymus facit, hoc aevi maturus Acestes,
 hoc puer Ascanius, sequitur quos cetera pubes.
 Ille e concilio multis cum milibus ibat 75
 ad tumulum, magna medius comitante caterva.
 Hic duo rite mero libans carchesia Baccho fundit humi, duo lacte novo, duo sanguine sacro, purpureosque iacit flores, ac talia fatur:
 'Salve, sancte parens: iterum salvete, recepti 80
 nequiquam cineres, animaeque umbraeque paternae.
 Non licuit finis Italos fataliaque arva, nec tecum Ausonium (quicumque est) quaerere Thybrim.'

Dixerat haec, adytis cum lubricus anguis ab imis septem ingens gyros, septena volumina traxit, 85 amplexus placide tumulum lapsusque per aras, caeruleae cui terga notae, maculosus et auro squamam incendebat fulgor, ceu nubibus arcus mille iacit varios adverso sole colores.
 Obstipuit visu Aeneas. Ille agmine longo 90 tandem inter pateras et levia pocula serpens libavitque dapes, rursusque innoxius imo successit tumulo, et depasta altaria liquit. • Hoc magis inceptos genitori instaurat honores, incertus, geniumne loci famulumne parentis 95
 esse putet: caedit binas de more bidentis, totque sues, totidem nigrantis terga iuencos;
 vinaque fundebat pateris, animamque vocabat

Anchisae magni Manisque Acheronte remissos.
 Nec non et socii, quae cuique est copia, laeti dona ferunt, onerant aras, mactantque iuencos;
 ordine aëna locant alii, fusique per herbam subiciunt veribus prunas et viscera torrent.

SERPENT TASTING THE SACRIFICE

The spectators gather for the games ; the prizes are displayed

Exspectata dies aderat, nonamque serena Auroram Phaëthontis equi iam luce vehebant, famaue finitimos et clari nomen Acestae excierat ; laeto complerant litora coetu, visuri Aeneadas, pars et certare parati.
 Munera principio ante oculos circoque locantur in medio, sacri tripodes viridesque coronae, et palmae pretium victoribus, armaque et ostro perfusae vestes, argenti auriue talenta ;
 et tuba commissos medio canit aggere ludos.

105

110

The boat race

Prima pares ineunt gravibus certamina remis quattuor ex omni delectae classe carinae. 115

Velocem Mnestheus agit acri remige Pristim, mox Italus Mnestheus, genus a quo nomine Memmi;
ingentemque Gyas ingenti mole Chimaeram, urbis opus, triplici pubes quam Dardana versu impellunt, terno consurgunt ordine remi; 120

Sergestusque, domus tenet a quo Sergia nomen, Centauro invehitur magna, Scyllaque Cloanthus caerulea, genus unde tibi, Romane Cluenti.

Est procul in pelago saxum spumantia contra litora, quod tumidis submersum tunditur olim 125
fluctibus, hiberni condunt ubi sidera cori;
tranquillo silet, immotaque attollitur unda campus, et apricis statio gratissima mergis.

Hic viridem Aeneas frondenti ex ilice metam constituit signum nautis pater, unde reverti 130 scirent, et longos ubi circumflectere cursus.

Tum loca sorte legunt, ipsique in puppibus auro ductores longe effulgent ostroque decori;
cetera populea velatur fronde iuventus, nudatosque umeros oleo perfusa nitescit. 135

Considunt transtris, intentaque bracchia remis;
intenti exspectant signum, exsultantiaque haurit corda pavor pulsans, laudumque arrecta cupido.

The start

Inde, ubi clara dedit sonitum tuba, finibus omnes, haud mora, prosiluire suis; ferit aethera clamor 140
nauticus, adductis spumant freta versa lacertis.
Infundunt pariter sulcos totumque dehiscit convolsum remis rostrisque tridentibus aequor.

Non tam praecipites biuugo certamine campum corripuere, ruuntque effusi carcere currus, nec sic immissis aurigae undantia lora concussere iugis pronique in verbera pendent.
Tum plausu fremituque virum studiisque faventum consonat omne nemus, vocemque inclusa volutant litora, pulsati colles clamore resultant.

150

Gyas and Cloanthus struggle for the lead. Gyas throws his pilot overboard

Effugit ante alios primisque elabitur undis turbam inter fremitumque Gyas; quem deinde Cloanthus consequitur, melior remis, sed pondere pinus tarda tenet. Post hos aequo discrimine Pristis Centaurusque locum tendunt superare priorem;
et nunc Pristis habet, nunc victam praeterit ingens Centaurus, nunc una ambae iunctisque feruntur frontibus, et longa sulcant vada salsa carina.

155

Iamque propinquabant scopulo metamque tenebant, cum princeps medioque Gyas in gurgite victor rectorem navis compellat voce Menoeten:

160

'Quo tantum mihi dexter abis? Huc dirige gressum; litus ama, et laevas stringat sine palmula cautes;
altum alii teneant.' Dixit; sed caeca Menoetes saxa timens proram pelagi detorquet ad undas.

165

'Quo diversus abis?' iterum 'Pete saxa, Menoete!
cum clamore Gyas revocabat; et ecce Cloanthum respicit instantem tergo, et propiora tenentem.
Ille inter navemque Gyae scopulosque sonantis radit iter laevum interior, subitoque priorem

170 praeterit, et metis tenet aequora tuta relictis.

Tum vero exarsit iuveni dolor ossibus ingens, nec lacrimis caruere genae, segnemque Menoeten,

GALLEY

oblitus decorisque sui sociumque salutis, in mare praecipitem puppi deturbat ab alta ; 175
 ipse gubernaclo rector subit, ipse magister, hortaturque viros, clavumque ad litora torquet.
 At gravis ut fundo vix tandem redditus imo est,
 iam senior madidaque fluens in veste Menoetes summa petit scopuli siccaque in rupe resedit. 180
 Illum et labentem Teucri et risere natantem, et salsos rident revomentem pectore fluctus.

Sergestus tries to overtake Gyas, but runs the Centaur on the rocks

Hic laeta extremis spes est accensa duobus, Sergesto Mnestheique, Gyan superare morantem.
 Sergestus capit ante locum scopuloque propinquat, 185 nec tota tamen ille prior praeëunte carina ;
 parte prior, partem rostro premit aemula Pristis.

At media socios incedens nave per ipsos
hortatur Mnestheus : 'Nunc, nunc insurgite remis, Hectorei socii, Troiae quos sorte suprema 190 delegi comites ; nunc illas promite viris, nunc animos, quibus in Gaetulis syrtibus usi,
Ionioque mari Maleaeque sequacibus undis.
Non iam prima peto Mnestheus, neque vincere certo ;
quamquam O ! —sed superent, quibus hoc, Neptune, dedisti ;
extremos pudeat rediisse ; hoc vincite, cives, 196 et prohibete nefas.' Olli certamine summo procumbunt ; vastis tremit ictibus aerea puppis, subtrahiturque solum ; tum creber anhelitus artus aridaque ora quatit, sudor fluit undique rivis.
200

Attulit ipse viris optatum casus honorem.
Namque furens animi dum proram ad saxa suburget interior, spatioque subit Sergestus iniquo, infelix saxis in procurrentibus haesit.
Concussae cautes, et acuto in murice remi
205 obnixa crepuere, inlisaque prora pependit.
Consurgunt nautae et magno clamore morantur, ferratasque trudes et acuta cuspide contos expediunt, fractosque legunt in gurgite remos.

Mnestheus passes Sergestus and Gyas

At laetus Mnestheus successuque acrior ipso 210 agmine remorum celeri ventisque vocatis prona petit maria et pelago decurrit aperto.
Qualis spelunca subito commota columba,
cui domus et dulces latebroso in pumice nidi,
fertur in arva volans, plausumque exterrita pinnis 215 dat tecto ingentem, mox aëre lapsa quieto radit iter liquidum, celeres neque commovet alas :
sic Mnestheus, sic ipsa fuga secat ultima Pristis aequora, sic illam fert impetus ipse volantem.

Cloanthus wins the boat race

Et primum in scopulo luctantem deserit alto 220
 Sergestum brevibusque vadis, frustra que vocantem auxilia, et fractis discentem currere remis.
 Inde Gyan ipsamque ingenti mole Chimaeram consequitur; cedit, quoniam spoliata magistro est.
 Solus iamque ipso superest in fine Cloanthus: 225
 quem petit, et summis adnexus viribus urget.
 Tum vero ingeminat clamor, cunctique sequentem instigant studiis, resonatque fragoribus aether.
 Hi proprium decus et partum indignantur honorem ni teneant, vitamque volunt pro laude pacisci; 230 hos successus alit: possunt, quia posse videntur.
 Et fors aequatis cepissent praemia rostris, ni palmas ponto tendens utrasque Cloanthus fudissetque preces, divosque in vota vocasset:
 'Di, quibus imperium est pelagi, quorum aequora curro, 235 vobis laetus ego hoc candentem in litore taurum constituam ante aras, voti reus, extaque salsos porriciam in fluctus et vina liquentia fundam.'
 Dixit, eumque imis sub fluctibus audiit omnis Nereidum Phorcique chorus Panopeaque virgo, 240 et pater ipse manu magna Portunus euntem impulit; illa Noto citius volucrique sagitta ad terram fugit, et portu se condidit alto.

Æneas gives out the prizes

Tum satus Anchisa, cunctis ex more vocatis, 245
 victorem magna praeconis voce Cloanthum declarat, viridique advelat tempora lauro, muneraque in navis ternos optare iuencos,
 vinaque et argenti magnum dat ferre talentum.
 Ipsis praecipuos ductoribus addit honores:

THE WRECK

victori chlamydem auratam, quam plurima circum 250
 purpura maeandro duplici Meliboea cucurrit, intextusque puer frondosa regius Ida velocis iaculo cervos cursuque fatigat, acer, anhelanti similis, quem praepes ab Ida sublimem pedibus rapuit Iovis armiger uncis ; 255 longaevi palmas nequiquam ad sidera tendunt custodes, saevitque canum latratus in auras.
 At qui deinde locum tenuit virtute secundum, levibus huic hamis consertam auroque trilicem loricam, quam Demoleo detraxerat ipse 260 victor apud rapidum Simoënta sub Ilio alto, donat habere viro, decus et tutamen in armis.
 Vix illam famuli Phegeus Sagarisque ferebant multiplicem, conixi umeris ; indutus at olim Demoleos cursu palantis Troas agebat. 265
 Tertia dona facit geminos ex aere lebetas, cymbiaque argento perfecta atque aspera signis.

The return of the Centaur

Iamque adeo donati omnes opibusque superbi puniceis ibant evincti tempora taenis, cum saevo e scopulo multa vix arte revolsus, 270
 amissis remis atque ordine debilis uno, inrisam sine honore ratem Sergestus agebat.
 Qualis saepe viae deprensus in aggere serpens,
 aerea quem obliquum rota transiit, aut gravis ictu seminecem liquit saxo lacerumque viator ; 275 nequiquam longos fugiens dat corpore tortus, parte ferox, ardensque oculis, et sibila colla arduus attollens, pars vulnere clauda retentat nixantem nodis seque in sua membra plicantem :
 tali remigio navis se tarda movebat ; 280

vela facit tamen, et velis subit ostia plenis.
 Sergestum Aeneas promisso munere donat, servatam ob navem laetus sociosque reductos.
 Olli serva datur, operum haud ignara Minervae,
 Cressa genus, Pholoë, geminique sub ubere nati. 285

The foot race: Æneas announces the prizes

Hoc pius Aeneas misso certamine tendit gramineum in campum, quem collibus undique curvis cingebant silvae, mediaque in valle theatri circus erat ; quo se multis cum milibus heros consessu medium tulit exstructoque resedit. 290 Hic, qui forte velint rapido contendere cursu, invitat pretiis animos, et praemia ponit. .
 Undique conveniunt Teucri mixtique Sicani,
 Nisus et Euryalus primi,
 Euryalus forma insignis viridique iuventa, 295
 Nisus amore pio pueri ; quos deinde secutus regius egregia Priami de stirpe Diore ;
 hunc Salius simul et Patron, quorum alter Acarnan, alter ab Arcadio Tegeaeae sanguine gentis ;
 tum duo Trinacrii iuvenes, Helymus Panopesque, 300
 adsueti silvis, comites senioris Acestae ;
 multi praeterea, quos fama obscura recondit.
 Aeneas quibus in mediis sic deinde locutus :
 'Accipite haec animis, laetasque advertite mentes :
 nemo ex hoc numero mihi non donatus abibit ; 305
 Gnosa bina dabo levato lucida ferro spicula caelatamque argento ferre bipennem, omnibus hic erit unus honos. Tres praemia primi accipient, flavaque caput nectentur oliva.
 Primus equum phaleris insignem victor habeto ; 310 alter Amazoniam pharetram plenamque sagittis

HORSE WITH TRAPPINGS

Threiciis, lato quam circum amplectitur auro balteus, et tereti subnectit fibula gemma ;
 tertius Argolica hac galea contentus abito.'

Euryalus wins by the aid of Nisus

Haec ubi dicta, locum capiunt, signoque repente 315 corripiunt spatia audito, limenque relinquunt, effusi nimbo similes, simul ultima signant.

Primus abit longeque ante omnia corpora Nisus emicat, et ventis et fulminis ocior alis ;
 proximus huic, longo sed proximus intervallo, 320 insequitur Salius ; spatio post deinde relicto tertius Euryalus ;

Euryalumque Helymus sequitur ; quo deinde sub ipso ecce volat calcemque terit iam calce Diores, incumbens umero, spatia et si plura supersint, 325
 transeat elapsus prior, ambiguumve relinquat.

Iamque fere spatio extremo fessique sub ipsam finem adventabant, levi cum sanguine Nisus labitur infelix, caesis ut forte iuven- 330
 cibus humum viridisque super madefecerat herbas.
 Hic iuvenis iam victor ovans vestigia presso haud tenuit titubata solo, sed pronus in ipso concidit immundoque fimo sacroque cruore.
 Non tamen Euryali, non ille oblitus amorum;
 nam sese opposuit Salio per lubrica surgens; 335
 ille autem spissa iacuit revolutus harena.
 Emicat Euryalus, et munere victor amici prima tenet, plausuque volat fremituque secundo.
 Post Helymus subit, et nunc tertia palma Diores.

Salius vainly protests that he was fouled

Hic totum caveae consessum ingentis et ora 340
 prima patrum magnis Salius clamoribus implet, ereptumque dolo reddi sibi poscit honorem.
 Tutatur favor Euryalum, lacrimaeque decorae, gratior et pulchro veniens in corpore virtus.
 Adiuvat et magna proclamat voce Diores, 345 qui subiit palmae, frustra ad praemia venit ultima, si primi Salio reddantur honores.

Aeneas awards the prizes, and gives presents to Salius and Nisus

Tum pater Aeneas, 'Vestra,' inquit, 'munera vobis certa manent, pueri, et palmam movet ordine nemo;
 me liceat casus miserari insontis amici.' 350
 Sic fatus, tergum Gaetuli immane leonis dat Salio, villis onerosum atque unguibus aureis.
 Hic Nisus, 'Si tanta,' inquit, 'sunt praemia victis, et te lapsorum miseret, quae munera Niso digna dabis, primam merui qui laude coronam, ni me, quae Salium, fortuna inimica tulisset?'

 Et simul his dictis faciem ostentabat et udo turpia membra fimo. Risit pater optimus olli, et clipeum efferri iussit, Didymaonis artem,
 Neptuni sacro Danaïs de poste refixum. 360
 Hoc iuvenem egregium praestanti munere donat.

The boxing match: Dares is the only contestant

Post, ubi confecti cursus, et dona peregit:
 'Nunc si cui virtus animusque in pectore praesens, adsit, et evinctis attollat bracchia palmis.'
 Sic ait, et geminum pugnae proponit honorem, 365
 victori velatum auro vittisque iuencum, ense atque insignem galeam solacia victo.
 Nec mora: continuo vastis cum viribus effert
 ora Dares, magnoque virum se murmure tollit;
 solus qui Paridem solitus contendere contra, 370
 idemque ad tumulum, quo maximus occubat Hector, victorem Buten, immani corpore qui se Bebrycia veniens Amyci de gente ferebat, perculit, et fulva moribundum extendit harena.
 Talis prima Dares caput altum in proelia tollit, 375
 ostenditque umeros latos, alternaque iactat bracchia protendens, et verberat ictibus auras.
 Quaeritur huic alius; nec quisquam ex agmine tanto
 audet adire virum manibusque inducere caestus.
 Ergo alacris, cunctosque putans excedere palma, 380
 Aeneae stetit ante pedes, nec plura moratus tum laeva taurum cornu tenet, atque ita fatur:
 'Nate dea, si nemo audet se credere pugnae,
 quae finis standi? Quo me decet usque teneri?
 Ducere dona iube.' Cuncti simul ore fremebant 385
 Dardanidae, reddique viro promissa iuebant.

The aged Entellus is induced by Acestes to meet Dares

Hic gravis Entellum dictis castigat Acestes, proximus ut viridante toro consederat herbae :
‘Entelle, heroum quondam fortissime frustra, tantane tam patiens nullo certamine tolli 390 dona sines? Ubi nunc nobis deus ille magister nequiquam memoratus Eryx? Ubi fama per omnem Trinacriam, et spolia illa tuis pendentia tectis?’
Ille sub haec: ‘Non laudis amor, nec gloria cessit pulsa metu; sed enim gelidus tardante senecta 395 sanguis hebet, frigentque effetae in corpore vires.
Si mihi, quae quondam fuerat, quaque improbus iste exsultat fidens, si nunc foret illa iuventas, haud equidem pretio inductus pulchroque iuvenco venissem, nec dona moror.’ Sic deinde locutus 400 in medium geminos immani pondere caestus proiecit quibus acer Eryx in proelia suetus ferre manum, duroque intendere bracchia tergo.
Obstipuere animi: tantorum ingentia septem terga boum plumbo insuto ferroque rigeabant. 405
Ante omnis stupet ipse Dares, longeque recusat;
magnanimusque Anchisiades et pondus et ipsa
huc illuc vinclorum immensa volumina versat.
Tum senior talis referebat pectore voces:
‘Quid, si quis caestus ipsius et Herculis arma 410
vidisset, tristemque hoc ipso in litore pugnam?
Haec germanus Eryx quondam tuus arma gerebat,— sanguine cernis adhuc sparsoque infecta cerebro,— his magnum Alciden contra stetit; his ego suetus, dum melior viris sanguis dabat, aemula necdum 415
temporibus geminis canebat sparsa senectus.
Sed si nostra Dares haec Troïus arma recusat, idque pio sedet Aeneae, probat auctor Acestes,

DARES AND ENTELLUS

aequemus pugnas. Erycis tibi terga remitto; solve metus; et tu Troianos exue caestus.’

420

Haec fatus, duplicem ex umeris reiecit amictum, et magnos membrorum artus, magna ossa lacertosque exuit, atque ingens media consistit harena.

The boxing match begins. Entellus falls

Tum satus Anchisa caestus pater extulit aequos, et paribus palmas amborum innexuit armis.

425

Constitit in digitos extemplo arrectus uterque, bracchiaque ad superas interritus extulit auras.

Abduxere retro longe capita ardua ab ictu, immiscentque manus manibus, pugnamque lacesunt.

Ille pedum melior motu, fretusque iuventa;
hic membris et mole valens, sed tarda trementi genua labant, vastos quatit aeger anhelitus artus.

430

Multa viri nequiquam inter se volnera iactant, multa cavo lateri ingeminant, et pectore vastos dant sonitus, erratque auris et tempora circum crebra manus, duro crepitant sub volnere malae.

435

Stat gravis Entellus nisuque immotus eodem, corpore tela modo atque oculis vigilantibus exit.
 Ille, velut celsam oppugnat qui molibus urbem, aut montana sedet circum castella sub armis, 440
 nunc hos, nunc illos aditus, omnemque pererrat arte locum, et variis adsultibus inritus urget.
 Ostendit dextram insurgens Entellus, et alte extulit : ille ictum venientem a vertice velox praevidit, celerique elapsus corpore cessit. 445 Entellus viris in ventum effudit, et ultro ipse gravis graviterque ad terram pondere vasto concidit, ut quondam cava concidit aut Erymantho, aut Ida in magna, radicibus eruta pinus.
 Consurgunt studiis Teucris et Trinacria pubes ; 450
 it clamor caelo, primusque accurrit Acestes, aequaevumque ab humo miserans attollit amicum.
 At non tardatus casu neque territus heros acrior ad pugnam redit, ac vim suscitatur ira.

*Entellus defeats Dares ; then, to show his strength, he brains
 the bull which he won as a prize*

Tum pudor incendit viris et conscia virtus, 455
 praecipitemque Daren ardens agit aequore toto, nunc dextra ingeminans ictus, nunc ille sinistra ;
 nec mora, nec requies ; quam multa grandine nimbi culminibus crepitant, sic densis ictibus heros creber utraque manu pulsatur versaturque Dareta. 460 Tum pater Aeneas procedere longius iras et saevire animis Entellum haud passus acerbis ;
 sed finem imposuit pugnae, fessumque Dareta eripuit, mulcens dictis, ac talia fatur :
 ' Infelix, quae tanta animum dementia cepit ? 465
 Non viris alias conversa numina sentis ?
 Cede deo.' Dixitque et proelia voce diremit.

Ast illum fidi aequales, genua aegra trahentem, iactantemque utroque caput, crassumque cruorem ore eiectantem mixtosque in sanguine dentes, 470 ducunt ad navis; galeamque ensemque vocati accipiunt; palmam Entello taurumque relinquunt.

Hic victor, superans animis tauroque superbus:

'Nate dea, vosque haec,' inquit, 'cognoscite, Teucri, et mihi quæ fuerint iuvenali in corpore vires, 475 et qua servetis revocatum a morte Dareta.'

Dixit, et adversi contra stetit ora iuveni, qui donum adstabat pugnae, durosque reducta libravit dextra media inter cornua caestus, arduus, effractoque inlisit in ossa cerebro. 480

Sternitur exanimisque tremens procumbit humi bos.

Ille super talis effundit pectore voces:

'Hanc tibi, Eryx, meliorem animam pro morte Daretis persolvo; hic victor caestus artemque repono.'

The contest in archery

Protinus Aeneas celeri certare sagitta 485
 invitat qui forte velint, et praemia ponit, ingentique manu malum de nave Seresti erigit, et volucrem traiecto in fune columbam quo tendant ferrum, malo suspendit ab alto.

Convenere viri, deiectamque aerea sortem 490
 accepit galea; et primus clamore secundo Hyrtacidae ante omnis exit locus Hippocoöntis;
 quem modo navali Mnestheus certamine victor consequitur, viridi Mnestheus evinctus oliva.

Tertius Eurytion, tuus, O clarissime, frater, 495
 Pandare, qui quondam, iussus confundere foedus, in medios telum torsisti primus Achivos.

Extremus galeaque ima subsedit Acestes, ausus et ipse manu iuvenum temptare laborem.

Tum validis flexos incurvant viribus arcus 500
 pro se quisque viri, et depromunt tela pharetris.
 Primaque per caelum, nervo stridente, sagitta Hyrtacidae iuvenis volucris diverberat auras;
 et venit, adversique infigitur arbore mali.
 Intremuit malus, timuitque exterrita pinnis 505
 ales, et ingenti sonuerunt omnia plausu.
 Post acer Mnestheus adducto constitit arcu, alta petens, pariterque oculos telumque tetendit.
 Ast ipsam miserandus avem contingere ferro non valuit; nodos et vincula linea rupit, 510 quis innexa pedem malo pendebat ab alto:
 illa notos atque atra volans in nubila fugit.
 Tum rapidus, iamdudum arcu contenta parato
 tela tenens, fratrem Eurytion in vota vocavit, iam vacuo laetam caelo speculatus, et alis 515
 plaudentem nigra figit sub nube columbam.
 Decidit exanimis, vitamque reliquit in astris aetheriis, fixamque refert delapsa sagittam.

The arrow of Acestes takes fire in the sky: he is awarded a special prize

Amissa solus palma superabat Acestes; qui tamen aërias telum contendit in auras, 520
 ostentans artemque pater arcumque sonantem.
 Hic oculis subito obicitur magnoque futurum augurio monstrum; docuit post exitus ingens, seraque terrifici cecinerunt omina vates.
 Namque volans liquidis in nubibus arsit harundo, 525 signavitque viam flammis, tenuisque recessit consumpta in ventos; caelo ceu saepe refixa transcurrunt crinemque volantia sidera ducunt.
 Attonitis haesere animis, superosque precati Trinacrii Teucrique viri; nec maximus omen 530

abnuît Aeneas ; sed laetum amplexus Acesten muneribus cumulat magnis, ac talia fatur :

‘Sume, pater ; nam te voluit rex magnus Olympi talibus auspiciis exsortem ducere honores.

Ipsius Anchisae longaevi hoc munus habebis, 535

cratera impressum signis, quem Thracius olim Anchisae genitori in magno munere Cisseus ferre sui dederat monumentum et pignus amoris.’

Sic fatus cingit viridanti tempora lauro, et primum ante omnis victorem appellat Acesten. 540

Nec bonus Eurytion praelato invidit honori, quamvis solus avem caelo deiecit ab alto.
Proximus ingreditur donis, qui vincula rupit ;
extremus, volucris qui fixit harundine malum.

An equestrian game is performed by Ascanius and other boys

At pater Aeneas, nondum certamine misso, 545

custodem ad sese comitemque impubis Iuli
Epytiden vocat, et fidam sic fatur ad aurem :
‘Vade age, et Ascanio, si iam puerile paratum agmen habet secum cursusque instruxit equorum, ducat avo turmas et sese ostendat in armis 550 dic,’ ait. Ipse omnem longo decedere circo infusum populum, et campos iubet esse patentis.

Incedunt pueri, pariterque ante ora parentum frenatis lucent in equis, quos omnis euntis Trinacriae mirata fremit Troiaeque iuventus. 555

Omnibus in morem tona coma pressa corona :
cornea bina ferunt praefixa hastilia ferro :
pars levis umero pharetras ; it pectore summo flexilis obtorti per collum circulus auri.

Tres equitum numero turmae ternique vagantur 560
ductores : pueri bis seni quemque secuti agmine partito fulgent paribusque magistris.

Una acies iuvenum, ducit quam parvus ovantem nomen avi referens Priamus,—tua clara, Polite, progenies, auctura Italos,—quem Thracius albis 565
portat equus bicolor maculis, vestigia primi alba pedis frontemque ostentans arduus albam.

Alter Atys, genus unde Atii duxere Latini, parvus Atys, pueroque puer dilectus Iulo.
Extremus, formaque ante omnis pulcher, Iulus 570
Sidonio est invectus equo quem candida Dido esse sui dederat monumentum et pignus amoris.
Cetera Trinacriis pubes senioris Acestae fertur equis.

Excipiunt plausu pavidos, gaudentque tuentes 575
Dardanidae, veterumque agnoscunt ora parentum.
Postquam omnem laeti consessum oculosque suorum lustravere in equis, signum clamore paratis Epytides longe dedit insonuitque flagello.

Olli discurrere pares, atque agmina terni 580
diductis solvere choris, rursusque vocati convertere vias infestaque tela tulere.
Inde alios ineunt cursus aliosque recursus adversi spatiis, alternosque orbibus orbis impediunt, pugnaeque cient simulacra sub armis; 585 et nunc terga fuga nudant, nunc spicula vertunt infensi, facta pariter nunc pace feruntur.

Ut quondam Creta fertur Labyrinthus in alta parietibus textum caecis iter, ancipitemque mille viis habuisse dolum, qua signa sequendi 590 falleret indeprencus et inremeabilis error;
haud alio Teucrum nati vestigia cursu impediunt, texuntque fugas et proelia ludo, delphinum similes, qui per maria umida nando
Carpathium Libycumque secant luduntque per undas. 595
Hunc morem cursus atque haec certamina primus

Ascanius, Longam muris cum cingeret Albam, rettulit, et priscos docuit celebrare Latinos,
 quo puer ipse modo, secum quo Troia pubes ;
 Albani docuere suos ; hinc maxima porro 600
 accepit Roma, et patrium servavit honorem ;
 Troiaque nunc pueri, Troianum dicitur agmen.
 Hac celebrata tenus sancto certamina patri.

Iris, sent by Juno, rouses the Trojan women to set fire to the ships and so end their wanderings

Hic primum fortuna fidem mutata novavit.
 Dum variis tumulo referunt sollemnia ludis, 605
 Irim de caelo misit Saturnia Iuno Iliacam ad classem, ventosque adspirat eunti multa movens, necdum antiquum saturata dolorem.
 Illa, viam celerans per mille coloribus arcum,
 nulli visa cito decurrit tramite virgo. 610
 Conspicit ingentem concursum, et litora lustrat, desertosque videt portus classemque relictam.
 At procul in sola secretae Troades acta amissum Anchisen flebant, cunctaeque profundum pontum aspectabant flentes. 'Heu tot vada fessis 615 et tantum superesse maris!' vox omnibus una.
 Urbem orant ; taedet pelagi perferre laborem.
 Ergo inter medias sese haud ignara nocendi conicit, et faciemque deae vestemque reponit ;
 fit Beroë, Tmarii coniunx longaeva Dorycli, 620
 cui genus et quondam nomen natiq̃ue fuissent ;
 ac sic Dardanidum mediam se matribus infert :
 'O miserae, quas non manus,' inquit, 'Achaïca bello traxerit ad letum patriae sub moenibus ! O gens infelix, cui te exitio Fortuna reservat ? 625 Septima post Troiae excidium iam vertitur aestas, cum freta, cum terras omnis, tot inhospita saxa

IRIS

sideraque emensae ferimur, dum per mare magnum Italiam sequimur fugientem, et volvitur undis.
 Hic Erycis fines fraterni, atque hospes Acestes : 630
 quis prohibet muros iacere et dare civibus urbem ?
 O patria et rapti nequiquam ex hoste penates, nullane iam Troiae dicentur moenia ? Nusquam Hectoreos amnis, Xanthum et Simoënta, videbo ?
 Quin agite et mecum infaustas exurite puppis. 635
 Nam mihi Cassandrae per somnum vatis imago ardentis dare visa faces : Hic quaerite Troiam ;
hic domus est, inquit, vobis. Iam tempus agi res, nec tantis mora prodigiis. En quattuor arae Neptuno ; deus ipse faces animumque ministrat.' 640

The women fire the ships

Haec memorans, prima infensum vi corripit ignem, sublataque procul dextra conixa coruscat,
 et iacit : arrectae mentes stupefactaque corda
 Iliadum. Hic una e multis, quae maxima natu,
 Pyrgo, tot Priami natorum regia nutrix : 645
 'Non Beroë vobis, non haec Rhoeteia, matres, est Dorycli coniunx ; divini signa decoris ardentisque notate oculos ; qui spiritus illi, qui voltus, vocisque sonus, vel gressus eunti.
 Ipsa egomet dudum Beroën digressa reliqui 650
 aegram, indignantem, tali quod sola careret munere, nec meritos Anchisae inferret honores.'
 Haec effata.

At matres primo ancipites, oculisque malignis ambiguae spectare rates miserum inter amorem 655 praesentis terrae fatisque vocantia regna, cum dea se paribus per caelum sustulit alis, ingentemque fuga secuit sub nubibus arcum.

Tum vero attonitae monstris actaeque furore conclamant, rapiuntque focis penetralibus ignem; 660 pars spoliant aras, frondem ac virgulta facesque coniciunt. Furit immissis Volcanus habenis transtra per et remos et pictas abiete puppis.

Ascanius appeals to the matrons

Nuntius Anchisae ad tumulum cuneosque theatri incensas perfert navis Eumelus, et ipsi 665 respiciunt atram in nimbo volitare favillam.
 Primus et Ascanius, cursus ut laetus equestris ducebat, sic acer equo turbata petivit castra, nec exanimes possunt retinere magistri.
 'Quis furor iste novus? Quo nunc, quo tenditis,' inquit, 670
 'heu, miserae cives? Non hostem inimicaque castra Argivum, vestras spes uritis. En, ego vester Ascanius!' Galeam ante pedes proiecit inanem, qua ludo indutus belli simulacra ciebat;
 accelerat simul Aeneas, simul agmina Teucrum. 675
 Ast illae diversa metu per litora passim diffugiunt, silvasque et sicubi concava furtim saxa petunt; piget incepti lucisque, suosque mutatae agnoscunt, excussa pectore Iuno est.
 Sed non idcirco flammae atque incendia viris 680
 indomitas posuere; udo sub robore vivit stuppa vomens tardum fumum, lentusque carinas est vapor, et toto descendit corpore pestis, nec vires heroum infusaque flumina prosunt.

Aeneas prays to Jupiter, and the flames are stayed

Tum pius Aeneas umeris abscindere vestem, 685 auxilioque vocare deos, et tendere palmas:
 'Iuppiter omnipotens, si nondum exosus ad unum Troianos, si quid pietas antiqua labores respicit humanos, da flammam evadere classi nunc, Pater, et tenuis Teucrum res eripe leto. 690 Vel tu,—quod superest,—infesto fulmine morti, si mereor, demitte, tuaque hic obrue dextra.

 Vix haec ediderat, cum effusis imbribus atra tempestas sine more furit, tonitruque tremescunt ardua terrarum et campi; ruit aethere toto 695 turbidus imber aqua densisque nigerrimus austris;
 implenturque super puppes; semusta madescunt robora; restinctus donec vapor omnis, et omnes, quattuor amissis, servatae a peste carinae.

Æneas is advised by Nautes to leave a part of his company to settle in Sicily

At pater Aeneas, casu concussus acerbo, 700
 nunc huc ingentis, nunc illuc pectore curas mutabat versans, Siculo sine resideret arvis, oblitus fatorum, Italasne capesseret oras.
 Tum senior Nautes, unum Tritonia Pallas quem docuit multaue insignem reddidit arte, 705 haec responsa dabat, vel quae portenderet ira magna deum, vel quae fatorum posceret ordo, isque his Aeneas solatus vocibus infit:

'Nate dea, quo fata trahunt retrahuntque, sequamur;
 quidquid erit, superanda omnis fortuna ferendo est. 710
 Est tibi Dardanius divinae stirpis Acestes:
 hunc cape consiliis socium et coniunge volentem;
 huic trade, amissis superant qui navibus, et quos pertaesum magni incepti rerumque tuarum est;
 longaeque senes ac fessas aequore matres, 715 et quidquid tecum invalidum metuensque pericli est, delige, et his habeant terris sine moenia fessi:
 urbem appellabunt permissio nomine Acestam.'

Anchises, in a vision, bids Æneas follow the counsel of Nautes

Talibus incensus dictis senioris amici, tum vero in curas animo diducitur omnis. 720
 Et nox atra polum bigis subvecta tenebat:
 visa dehinc caelo facies delapsa parentis Anchisæ subito talis effundere voces:
 'Nate, mihi vita quondam, dum vita manebat, care magis, nate, Iliacis exercite fati, 725
 imperio Iovis huc venio, qui classibus ignem depulit et caelo tandem miseratus ab alto est.
 Consiliis pare, quæ nunc pulcherrima Nautes dat senior; lectos iuvenes, fortissima corda, defer in Italiam. Gens dura atque aspera cultu 730 debellanda tibi Latio est.

Anchises urges Æneas to visit the Lower World

Ditis tamen ante
 infernas accede domos, et Averna per alta congressus pete, nate, meos. Non me impia namque Tartara habent, tristes umbræ, sed amoena piorum concilia Elysiumque colo. Huc casta Sibylla 735 nigrarum multo pecudum te sanguine ducet:
 tum genus omne tuum, et quæ dentur moenia, disces.
 Iamque vale: torquet medios Nox umida cursus, et me saevus equis Oriens adflavit anhelis.'
 Dixerat, et tenuis fugit, ceu fumus, in auras. 740
 Aeneas, 'Quo deinde ruis, quo proripis?' inquit,
 'Quem fugis, aut quis te nostris complexibus arcet?'
 Haec memorans cinerem et sopitos suscitât ignis, Pergameumque Larem et canaë penetralia Vestæ farre pio et plena supplex veneratur acerra. 745

The feeble are left in Sicily, and the other Trojans sail sadly away

Extemplo socios primumque arcessit Acesten, et Iovis imperium et cari praecepta parentis edocet, et quae nunc animo sententia constet.
Haud mora consiliis, nec iussa recusat Acestes.
Transcribunt urbi matres, populumque volentem 750
deponunt, animos nil magnae laudis egentis.
Ipsi transtra novant, flammisque ambesa reponunt robora navigiis, aptant remosque rudentisque, exigui numero, sed bello vivida virtus.
Interea Aeneas urbem designat aratro 755 sortiturque domos; hoc Ilium et haec loca Troiam esse iubet. Gaudet regno Troianus Acestes, indicitque forum et patribus dat iura vocatis.
Tum vicina astris, Erycino in vertice sedes fundatur Veneri Idaliae, tumuloque sacerdos 760
ac lucus late sacer additur Anchiseo.

Iamque dies epulata novem gens omnis, et aris factus honos: placidi straverunt aequora venti, creber et adspirans rursus vocat Auster in altum.
Exoritur procurva ingens per litora fletus; 765
complexi inter se noctemque diemque morantur.
Ipsae iam matres, ipsi, quibus aspera quondam visa maris facies et non tolerabile nomen, ire volunt, omnemque fugae perferre laborem.
Quos bonus Aeneas dictis solatur amicis, 770 et consanguineo lacrimans commendat Acestae.
Tris Eryci vitulos et Tempestatibus agnam caedere deinde iubet, solvique ex ordine funem.
Ipse, caput tonsae foliis evinctus olivae, stans procul in prora pateram tenet, extaque salsos 775

porricit in fluctus ac vina liquentia fundit.
 Prosequitur surgens a puppi ventus euntis.
 Certatim socii feriunt mare et aequora verrunt.

Venus appeals to Neptune for a safe voyage for the Trojans

At Venus interea Neptunum exercita curis adloquitur, talisque effundit pectore questus : 780
 'Iunonis gravis ira nec exsaturabile pectus cogunt me, Neptune, preces descendere in omnis ;
 quam nec longa dies, pietas nec mitigat ulla,
 nec Iovis imperio fatisque infracta quiescit.
 Non media de gente Phrygum exedisce nefandis 785
 urbem odiis satis est, nec poenam traxe per omnem :
 reliquias Troiae, cineres atque ossa peremptae insequitur : causas tanti sciat illa furoris.
 Ipse mihi nuper Libycis tu testis in undis quam molem subito excierit : maria omnia caelo 790 miscuit, Aeoliis nequiquam freta procellis, in regnis hoc ausa tuis.
 Per scelus ecce etiam Troianis matribus actis exussit foede puppis, et classe subegit amissa socios ignotae linquere terrae. 795 Quod superest, oro, liceat dare tuta per undas vela tibi, liceat Laurentem attingere Thybrim,— si concessa peto, si dant ea moenia Parcae.'

Neptune promises that the Trojans shall reach Italy, and calms the sea

Tum Saturnius haec domitor maris edidit alti :
 'Fas omne est, Cytherea, meis te fidere regnis, 800
 unde genus ducis : merui quoque ; saepe furores compressi et rabiem tantam caelique marisque.

Nec minor in terris, Xanthum Simoëntaque testor, Aeneae mihi cura tui. Cum Troïa Achilles exanimata sequens impingeret agmina muris, 805 milia multa daret leto, gementque repleti amnes, nec reperire viam atque evolvere posset in mare se Xanthus, Pelidae tunc ego forti congressum Aenean nec dis nec viribus aequis nube cava rapui, cuperem cum vertere ab imo 810
 structa meis manibus periuræ moenia Troiae.
 Nunc quoque mens eadem perstat mihi; pelle timores.
 Tutus, quos optas, portus accedet Averni.
 Unus erit tantum, amissum quem gurgite quaeres;
 unum pro multis dabitur caput.' 815

His ubi laeta deae permulsit pectora dictis, iungit equos auro Genitor, spumantiaque addit
 frena feris, manibusque omnis effundit habenas.
 Caeruleo per summa levis volat aequora curru;
 subsidunt undae, tumidumque sub axe tonanti 820
 sternitur aequor aquis; fugiunt vasto aethere nimbi.
 Tum variae comitum facies, immania cete,
 et senior Glauci chorus, Inousque Palaemon, Tritonesque citi, Phorcique exercitus omnis;
 laeva tenet Thetis, et Melite, Panopeaque virgo, 825 Nisaeae, Spioque, Thaliaque, Cymodoceque.

Hic patris Aeneae suspensam blanda vicissim gaudia pertemptant mentem: iubet ocius omnis attolli malos, intendi bracchia velis.
 Una omnes fecere pedem, pariterque sinistros, 830
 nunc dextros solvere sinus; una ardua torquent cornua detorquentque; ferunt sua flamina classem.
 Princeps ante omnis densum Palinurus agebat agmen; ad hunc alii cursum contendere iussi.

Palinurus, pilot of the fleet, is cast into the sea by the god of sleep

Iamque fere mediam caeli nox umida metam 835 contigerat : placida laxabant membra quiete sub remis fusi per dura sedilia nautae :
cum levis aetheriis delapsus Somnus ab astris aëra dimovit tenebrosum et dispulit umbras, te, Palinure, petens, tibi somnia tristia portans 840
insonti ; puppique deus consedit in alta, Phorbanti similis, funditque has ore loquelas :
'Iaside Palinure, ferunt ipsa aequora classem ;
aequatae spirant aerae ; datur hora quieti.
Pone caput, fessosque oculos furare labori : 845
ipse ego paulisper pro te tua munera inibo.'
Cui vix attollens Palinurus lumina fatur :
'Mene salis placidi voltum fluctusque quietos ignorare iubes ? Mene huic confidere monstro ?
Aenean credam quid enim fallacibus auris, 850 et caeli totiens deceptus fraude sereni ?'
Talia dicta dabat, clavumque adfixus et haerens nusquam amittebat, oculosque sub astra tenebat.
Ecce deus ramum Lethaeo rore madentem, vique soporatum Stygia, super utraque quassat 855
tempora, cunctantique natantia lumina solvit.
Vix primos inopina quies laxaverat artus, et super incumbens cum puppis parte revolsa, cumque gubernaclo, liquidas proiecit in undas praecipitem ac socios nequiquam saepe vocantem ; 860
ipse volans tenuis se sustulit ales ad auras.
Currit iter tutum non setius aequore classis, promissisque patris Neptuni interrita fertur.

Iamque adeo scopulos Sirenum advecta subibat, difficilis quondam multorumque ossibus albos, 865
tum rauca adsiduo longe sale saxa sonabant :
cum pater amisso fluitantem errare magistro sensit, et ipse ratem nocturnis rexit in undis, multa gemens, casuque animum concussus amici :
'O nimium caelo et pelago confise sereno, 870
nudus in ignota, Palinure, iacebis harena !'

LIBER VI

THE WORLD BELOW

Æneas arrives at Cumæ, and seeks the Sibyl's cave: the temple of Phœbus, constructed by Dædalus (1-41). Inspiration of the Sibyl: she prophesies war (42-97). Æneas solicits that he may enter the abode of Hades: the required gift to Proserpine of the Golden Bough (98-155). Death of Misenus. While the trees are felled for his funeral pile, Æneas, guided by doves to the mouth of Acheron, finds the sacred bough: the funeral rites (156-235). After due rites have been paid, he follows the Sibyl to the world of shadows: apparitions of horror at its entrance: Charon and his skiff (236-336). Shade of Palinurus on the hither side (337-381). The passage of the Styx: Cerberus, and the judge Minos. The abode of suicides and unhappy lovers: the angry shade of Dido (382-476). Shades of fallen heroes. Deiphobus accosts Æneas, but is checked by the Sibyl (477-547). Phlegethon, and the fiery dungeons of the damned: the judge Rhadamanthus; the Giants, Tityos, Ixion, Theseus (548-627). The branch is fixed at the entrance of the palace of Dis: the Elysian Fields; ancient heroes of Troy (628-678). The shade of Anchises is met in a secluded vale: he explains the system and divine life of things (679-755). Anchises unfolds the heroic story and future glories of Rome (756-854). Vision of the young Marcellus: the two Gates of Sleep (855-901).

Æneas arrives at Cumæ and visits the temple of Apollo

SIC fatur lacrimans, classique immittit habenas, et tandem Euboïcis Cumarum adlabitur oris.
Obvertunt pelago proras; tum dente tenaci ancora fundabat navis, et litora curvae praetexunt puppes. Iuvenum manus emicat ardens 5 litus in Hesperium; quaerit pars semina flammae abstrusa in venis silicis, pars densa ferarum tectâ rapit silvas, inventaque flumina monstrat.

At pius Aeneas arces, quibus altus Apollo praesidet, horrendaeque procul secreta Sibyllae 10
 antrum immane petit, magnam cui mentem animumque Delius inspirat vates, aperitque futura.
 Iam subeunt Triviae lucos atque aurea tecta.

The doors of the temple, the work of Dædalus, are described Daedalus, ut fama est, fugiens Minoïa regna, praepetibus pinnis ausus se credere caelo, 15

 insuetum per iter gelidas enavit ad Arctos, Chalcidicaque levis tandem super adstitit arce.
 Redditus his primum terris, tibi, Phoebe, sacravit remigium alarum, posuitque immania templa.
 In foribus letum Androgeo: tum pendere poenas 20
 Cecropidae iussi—miserum!—septena quotannis corpora natorum; stat ductis sortibus urna.
 Contra elata mari respondet Gnosia tellus:
 hic crudelis amor tauri, suppositaque furto
 Pasiphaë, mixtumque genus prolesque biformis 25
 Minotaurus inest, Veneris monumenta nefandae;
 hic labor ille domus et inextricabilis error;
 magnum reginae sed enim miseratus amorem Daedalus ipse dolos tecti ambagesque resolvit, caeca regens filo vestigia. Tu quoque magnam 30
 partem opere in tanto, sineret dolor, Icare, haberes.
 Bis conatus erat casus effingere in auro;
 bis patriae cecidere manus.

The Cumæan Sibyl greets Æneas

Quin protinus omnia perlegerent oculis, ni iam praemissus Achates adforet, atque una Phoebi Triviaeque sacerdos, 35
 Deiphobe Glauci, fatur quae talia regi:

'Non hoc ista sibi tempus spectacula poscit ;
 nunc grege de intacto septem mactare iuencos praestiterit, totidem lectas de more bidentis.' Talibus adfata Aenean (nec sacra morantur iussa viri), Teucros vocat alta in templa sacerdos.

THESEUS AND THE MINOTAUR

Æneas is made aware of the presence of Apollo and offers prayer

Excisum Euboïcae latus ingens rupis in antrum, quo lati ducunt aditus centum, ostia centum ;
 unde ruunt totidem voces, responsa Sibyllae.
 Ventum erat ad limen, cum virgo, 'Poscere fata

45 tempus,' ait; 'deus, ecce, deus!' Cui talia fanti ante foris subito non voltus, non color unus, non comptae mansere comae; sed pectus anhelum, et rabie fera corda tument; maiorque videri, nec mortale sonans, adflata est numine quando 50

iam propiore dei. 'Cessas in vota precesque, Tros,' ait, 'Aenea? Cessas? Neque enim ante dehiscent attonitae magna ora domus.' Et talia fata conticuit. Gelidus Teucris per dura cucurrit ossa tremor, funditque preces rex pectore ab imo: 55

The prayer of Æneas: he beseeches Phæbus to continue his favor and begs the Sibyl to utter a prophecy

'Phoebe, gravis Troiae semper miserate labores, Dardana qui Paridis direxti tela manusque corpus in Aeacidae, magnas obeuntia terras
tot maria intravi duce te, penitusque repostas Massylum gentis praetentaque syrtibus arva, 60
iam tandem Italiae fugientis prendimus oras;
hac Troiana tenus fuerit Fortuna secuta.
Vos quoque Pergameae iam fas est parcere genti, dique deaeque omnes quibus obstitit Ilium et ingens gloria Dardaniae. Tuque, O sanctissima vates, 65 praescia venturi, da, non indebita posco regna meis fatis, Latio considerare Teucros errantisque deos agitataque numina Troiae.
Tum Phoebos et Triviae solido de marmore templum instituum, festosque dies de nomine Phoebi. 70
Te quoque magna manent regnis penetralia nostris:
hic ego namque tuas sortes arcanaque fata,
dicta meae genti, ponam, lectosque sacrabo, alma, viros. Foliis tantum ne carmina manda, ne turbata volent rapidis ludibria ventis; 75
ipsa canas oro.' Finem dedit ore loquendi.

The Sibyl prophesies wars in Italy for the Trojans

At, Phoebi nondum patiens, immanis in antro bacchatur vates, magnum si pectore possit excussisse deum; tanto magis ille fatigat os rabidum, fera corda domans, fingitque premendo. 80 Ostia iamque domus patuere ingentia centum sponte sua, vatisque ferunt responsa per auras:

'O tandem magnis pelagi defuncte periclis!
 Sed terrae graviora manent. In regna Lavini Dardanidae venient; mitte hanc de pectore curam; 85
 sed non et venisse volent. Bella, horrida bella, et Thybrim multo spumantem sanguine cerno.
 Non Simoïs tibi, nec Xanthus, nec Dorica castra defuerint; alius Latio iam partus Achilles, natus et ipse dea; nec Teucris addita Iuno 90
 usquam aberit; cum tu supplex in rebus egenis quas gentis Italum aut quas non oraveris urbes!
 Causa mali tanti coniunx iterum hospita Teucris externique iterum thalami.

Tu ne cede malis, sed contra audentior ito, 95
 qua tua te Fortuna sinet. Via prima salutis, quod minime reris, Graia pandetur ab urbe.'

Talibus ex adyto dictis Cumaea Sibylla horrendas canit ambages antroque remugit, obscuris vera involvens: ea frena furenti 100
 concutit, et stimulos sub pectore vertit Apollo.

Aeneas begs the Sibyl to guide him to his father in the Lower World

Ut primum cessit furor et rabida ora quierunt, incipit Aeneas heros: 'Non ulla laborum,
 O virgo, nova mi facies inopinave surgit;
 omnia praecepi atque animo mecum ante peregi. 105

Unum oro : quando hic inferni ianua regis dicitur, et tenebrosa palus Acheronte refuso, ire ad conspectum cari genitoris et ora contingat ; doceas iter et sacra ostia pandas.
 Illum ego per flammās et mille sequentia tela 110
 eripui his umeris, medioque ex hoste recepi ;
 ille meum comitatus iter, maria omnia mecum atque omnis pelagique minas caelique ferebat, invalidus, viris ultra sortemque senectae.
 Quin, ut te supplex peterem et tua limina adirem, 115
 idem orans mandata dabat. Gnatique patrisque, alma, precor, miserere ; — potes namque omnia, nec te nequiquam lucis Hecate praefecit Avernīs ; — si potuit Manis arcessere coniugis Orpheus, Threïcia fretus cithara fidibusque canoris, 120
 si fratrem Pollux alterna morte redemit, itque reditque viam totiens. Quid Thesea, magnum quid memorem Alciden ? Et mi genus ab Iove summo.'

The Sibyl directs Æneas to find the Golden Bough as an offering to Proserpine

Math.
7, 13
 Talibus orabat dictis, arasque tenebat, cum sic orsa loqui vates : ' Sate sanguine divum, 125
 Tros Anchisiade, facilis descensus Averno ;
 noctes atque dies patet atri ianua Ditis ;
 sed revocare gradum superasque evadere ad auras, hoc opus, hic labor est. Pauci, quos aequus amavit Iuppiter, aut ardens evexit ad aethera virtus, 130 dis geniti potuere. Tenent media omnia silvae, Cocytusque sinu labens circumvenit atro.
 Quod si tantus amor menti, si tanta cupido,
 bis Stygios innare lacus, bis nigra videre Tartara, et insano iuvat indulgere labori, 135

accipe, quae peragenda prius. Latet arbore opaca aureus et foliis et lento vimine ramus, Iunoni infernae dictus sacer ; hunc tegit omnis lucus, et obscuris claudunt convallibus umbrae.
Sed non ante datur telluris operta subire, 140
auricomos quam quis decerpserit arbore fetus.
Hoc sibi pulchra suum ferri Proserpina munus instituit. Primo avolso non deficit alter aureus, et simili frondescit virga metallo.
Ergo alte vestiga oculis, et rite repertum 145
carpe manu ; namque ipse volens facilisque sequetur, si te fata vocant ; aliter non viribus ullis vincere, nec duro poteris convellere ferro.
Praeterea iacet exanimum tibi corpus amici—heu nescis—totamque incestat funere classem, 150
dum consulta petis nostroque in limine pendes.
Sedibus hunc refer ante suis et conde sepulcro.
Duc nigras pecudes ; ea prima piacula sunt :
sic demum lucos Stygis et regna invia vivis aspicies.' Dixit, pressoque obmutuit ore. 155

Aeneas finds the body of Misenus on the shore, and the Trojans prepare for its burial

Aeneas maesto defixus lumina voltu ingreditur, linquens antrum, caecosque volutat eventus animo secum. Cui fidus Achates it comes, et paribus curis vestigia figit.
Multa inter sese vario sermone serebant, 160
quem socium exanimem vates, quod corpus humanum diceret. Atque illi Misenum in litore sicco, ut venere, vident indigna morte peremptum, Misenum Aeoliden, quo non praestantior alter
aere ciere viros, Martemque accendere cantu. 165

Hectoris hic magni fuerat comes, Hectora circum et lituo pugnâ insignis obibat et hasta :
 postquam illum vitâ victor spoliavit Achilles, Dardanio Aeneae sese fortissimus heros addiderat socium, non inferiora secutus. 170
 Sed tum, forte cava dum personat aequora concha, demens, et cantu vocat in certamina divos,
 aemulus exceptum Triton, si credere dignum est,
 inter saxa virum spumosa immerserat unda.
 Ergo omnes magno circum clamore fremebant, 175 praecipue pius Aeneas. Tum iussa Sibyllae, haud mora, festinant flentes, aramque sepulcri congerere arboribus caeloque educere certant.
 Itur in antiquam silvâ, stabula alta ferarum ;
 procumbunt piceae, sonat icta securibus ilex, 180 fraxineaeque trabes cuneis et fissile robur scinditur, advolvunt ingentis montibus ornos.
 Nec non Aeneas opera inter talia primus hortatur socios, paribusque accingitur armis.

Doves guide Æneas in his search for the Golden Bough

Atque haec ipse suo tristi cum corde volutat, 185 aspectans silvâ immensam, et sic forte precatur :
 'Si nunc se nobis ille aureus arbore ramus ostendat nemore in tanto, quando omnia vere heu nimium de te vates, Misene, locuta est.'
 Vix ea fatus erat, geminae cum forte columbae 190
 ipsa sub ora viri caelo venere volantes, et viridi sedere solo. Tum maximus heros maternas agnoscit aves, laetusque precatur :
 'Este duces, O, si qua via est, cursumque per auras dirigite in lucos, ubi pinguem dives opacat 195 ramus humum. Tuque, O, dubiis ne defice rebus, diva parens.' Sic effatus vestigia pressit, observans quae signa ferant, quo tendere pergant.

 Pascentes illae tantum prodire volando, quantum acie possent oculi servare sequentum. 200
 Inde ubi venere ad fauces grave olentis Averni, tollunt se celeres, liquidumque per aëra lapsae sedibus optatis geminae super arbore sidunt, discolor unde auri per ramos aura refulsit.
 Quale solet silvis brumali frigore viscum 205
 fronde virere nova, quod non sua seminat arbos, et croceo fetu teretis circumdare truncos, talis erat species auri frondentis opaca ilice, sic leni crepitabat brattea vento.
 Corripit Aeneas extemplo avidusque refringit 210
 cunctantem, et vatis portat sub tecta Sibyllae.

The funeral of Misenus is held on the shore

Nec minus interea Misenum in litore Teucri flebant, et cineri ingrato suprema ferebant.
 Principio pinguem taedis et robore secto ingentem struxere pyram, cui frondibus atris 215 intexunt latera, et feralis ante cupressos constituunt, decorantque super fulgentibus armis.
 Pars calidos latices et aëna undantia flammis expediunt, corpusque lavant frigentis et unguunt.
 Fit gemitus. Tum membra toro defleta reponunt, 220 purpureasque super vestes, velamina nota, coniciunt. Pars ingenti subiere feretro, triste ministerium, et subiectam more parentum aversi tenuere facem. Congesta cremantur turea dona, dapes, fuso crateres olivo. 225 Postquam conlapsi cineres et flamma quievit, reliquias vino et bibulam lavere favillam,

ossaque lecta cado texit Corynaeus aëno.
 Idem ter socios pura circumtulit unda, spargens rore levi et ramo felicis olivae, 230
 lustravitque viros, dixitque novissima verba.
 At pius Aeneas ingenti mole sepulcrum imponit, suaque arma viro, remumque tubamque, monte sub aërio, qui nunc Misenus ab illo dicitur, aeternumque tenet per saecula nomen. 235

Æneas sacrifices to the gods of the Lower World

^l His actis, propere exsequitur praecepta Sibyllae.
 Spelunca alta fuit vastoque immanis hiatu, scrupea, tuta lacu nigro nemorumque tenebris, quam super haud ullae poterant impune volantes tendere iter pinnis—talís sese halitus atris 240 faucibus effundens supera ad convexa ferebat :
 unde locum Grai dixerunt nomine Aornon.
 Quattuor hic primum nigrantis terga iuencos constituit, frontique invergit vina sacerdos ;
 et summas carpens media inter cornua saetas 245
 ignibus imponit sacris, libamina prima, voce vocans Hecaten, Caeloque Ereboque potentem.
 Supponunt alii cultros, tepidumque cruorem suscipiunt pateris. Ipse atri velleris agnam Aeneas matri Eumenidum magnaëque sorori 250
 ense ferit, sterilemque tibi, Proserpina, vaccam.
 Tum Stygio regi nocturnas incohat aras, et solida imponit taurorum viscera flammis, pingue super oleum fundens ardentibus extis.
 Ecce autem, primi sub lumina solis et ortus, 255
 sub pedibus mugire solum, et iuga coepta moveri silvarum, visaeque canes ululare per umbram, adventante dea. ‘Procul, O procul este, profani,’ conclamat vates, 'totoque absistite luco;

 tuque invade viam, vaginaque eripe ferrum: 260
 nunc animis opus, Aenea, nunc pectore firmo.'

Æneas and the Sibyl begin the descent to the Lower World

Tantum effata, furens antro se immisit aperto;
 ille ducem haud timidis vadentem passibus aequat.

Di, quibus imperium est animarum, umbraeque silentes, et Chaos, et Phlegethon, loca nocte tacentia late, 265 sit mihi fas audita loqui; sit numine vestro pandere res alta terra et caligine mersas!

Ibant obscuri sola sub nocte per umbram, perque domos Ditis vacuas et inania regna:
 quale per incertam lunam sub luce maligna 270
 est iter in silvis, ubi caelum condidit umbra
 Iuppiter, et rebus nox abstulit atra colorem.

The dire shapes at the entrance

Vestibulum ante ipsum, primisque in faucibus Orci, Luctus et ultrices posuere cubilia Curae;
 pallentesque habitant Morbi, tristisque Senectus, 275 et Metus, et malesuada Fames, ac turpis Egestas, terribiles visu formae: Letumque, Labosque;
 tum consanguineus Leti Sopor, et mala mentis Gaudia, mortiferumque adverso in limine Bellum, ferreique Eumenidum thalami, et Discordia demens, 280
 vipereum crinem vittis innexa cruentis.

In medio ramos annosaque brachia pandit ulmus opaca, ingens, quam sedem Somnia volgo vana tenere ferunt, foliisque sub omnibus haerent.
 Multaque praeterea variarum monstra ferarum: 285
 Centauri in foribus stabulant, Scyllaeque bifformes, et centumgeminus Briareus, ac belua Lernae horrendum stridens, flammisque armata Chimaera, Gorgones Harpyiaequae et forma tricorporis umbrae.

 Corripit hic subita trepidus formidine ferrum 290
 Aeneas, strictamque aciem venientibus offert, et, ni docta comes tenuis sine corpore vitas admoneat volitare cava sub imagine formae, inruat, et frustra ferro diverberet umbras.

Æneas and the Sibyl reach the Styx, where many ghosts are waiting for Charon to ferry them across

Hinc via, Tartarei quae fert Acherontis ad undas. 295
 Turbidus hic caeno vastaue voragine gurgis aestuat, atque omnem Coccyto eructat harenam.
 Portitor has horrendus aquas et flumina servat terribili squalore Charon, cui plurima mento canities inculta iacet; stant lumina flamma, 300 sordidus ex umeris nodo dependet amictus.
 Ipse ratem conto subigit, velisque ministrat, et ferruginea subvectat corpora cymba,
 iam senior, sed cruda deo viridisque senectus.

Huc omnis turba ad ripas effusa ruebat, 305
 matres atque viri, defunctaque corpora vita magnanimum heroum, pueri innuptaeque puellae, impositique rogis iuvenes ante ora parentum:
 quam multa in silvis autumnii frigore primo lapsa cadunt folia, aut ad terram gurgite ab alto 310 quam multae glomerantur aves, ubi frigidus annus trans pontum fugat, et terris immittit apricis.
 Stabant orantes primi transmittere cursum,
 tendebantque manus ripae ulterioris amore.
 Navita sed tristis nunc hos nunc accipit illos, 315
 ast alios longe submotos arcet harena.

Aeneas, miratus enim motusque tumultu,
 'Dic,' ait, 'O virgo, quid volt concursus ad amnem?

Quidve petunt animae, vel quo discrimine ripas hae linqunt, illae remis vada livida verrunt ?'

320

Olli sic breviter fata est longaeva sacerdos :

'Anchisa generate, deum certissima proles,

CHARON

Cocyti stagna alta vides Stygiamque paludem, di cuius iurare timent et fallere numen.

Haec omnis, quam cernis, inops inhumataque turba est ;
portitor ille Charon ; hi, quos vehit unda, sepulti.

326

Nec ripas datur horrendas et rauca fluenta transportare prius quam sedibus ossa quierunt.

Centum errant annos volitantque haec litora circum ;
tum demum admissi stagna exoptata revisunt.'

330

Constitit Anchisa satus et vestigia pressit, multa putans, sortemque animi miseratus iniquam.
 Cernit ibi maestos et mortis honore carentis Leucaspim et Lyciae ductorem classis Oronten, quos, simul a Troia ventosa per aequora vectos, 335
 obruit Auster, aqua involvens navemque virosque.

The ghost of Palinurus tells the story of his death

Ecce gubernator sese Palinurus agebat, qui Libyco nuper cursu, dum sidera servat,
 exciderat puppi mediis effusus in undis.
 Hunc ubi vix multa maestum cognovit in umbra, 340
 sic prior adloquitur: 'Quis te, Palinure, deorum eripuit nobis, medioque sub aequore mersit?
 Dic age. Namque, mihi fallax haud ante repertus, hoc uno responso animum delusit Apollo, qui fore te ponto incolumem, finisque canebat 345 venturum Ausonios. En haec promissa fides est?'
 Ille autem: 'Neque te Phoebi cortina fefellit, dux Anchisiade, nec me deus aequore mersit.
 Namque gubernaculum multa vi forte revolsum, cui datus haerebam custos cursusque regebam, 350 praecipitans traxi mecum. Maria aspera iuro non ullum pro me tantum cepisse timorem, quam tua ne, spoliata armis, excussa magistro,
 deficeret tantis navis surgentibus undis.
 Tris Notus hibernas immensa per aequora noctes 355
 vexit me violentus aqua; vix lumine quarto prospexi Italiam summa sublimis ab unda.
 Paulatim adnabam terrae; iam tuta tenebam, ni gens crudelis madida cum veste gravatum prensantemque uncis manibus capita aspera montis 360 ferro invasisset, praedamque ignara putasset.

Nunc me fluctus habet, versantque in litore venti.
 Quod te per caeli iucundum lumen et auras,
 per genitorem oro, per spes surgentis Iuli, eripe me his, invicte, malis: aut tu mihi terram 365
 inice, namque potes, portusque require Velinos;
 aut tu, si qua via est, si quam tibi diva creatrix ostendit—neque enim, credo, sine numine divum flumina tanta paras Stygiamque innare paludem—da dextram misero, et tecum me tolle per undas, 370 sedibus ut saltem placidis in morte quiescam.'

Talia fatus erat, coepit cum talia vates:
 'Unde haec, O Palinure, tibi tam dira cupido?
 Tu Stygias inhumatus aquas amnemque severum
 Eumenidum aspicias. ripamve iniussus adibis? 375
 Desine fata deum flecti sperare precando.
 Sed cape dicta memor, duri solacia casus.
 Nam tua finitimi, longe lateque per urbes prodigiis acti caelestibus, ossa piabunt, et statuent tumulum, et tumulo sollemnia mittent, 380
 aeternumque locus Palinuri nomen habebit.'
 His dictis curae emotae, pulsusque parumper corde dolor tristi: gaudet cognomine terrae.

Charon refuses to take Æneas and the Sibyl across the Styx, but consents on seeing the Golden Bough

Ergo iter inceptum peragunt fluvioque propinquant.
 Navita quos iam inde ut Stygia prospexit ab unda 385 per tacitum nemus ire pedemque advertere ripae, sic prior adgreditur dictis, atque increpat ultro:
 'Quisquis es, armatus qui nostra ad flumina tendis,
 fare age, quid venias, iam istinc, et comprime gressum.
 Umbrarum hic locus est, somni noctisque soporae; 390
 corpora viva nefas Stygia vectare carina.

Nec vero Alciden me sum laetatus euntem accepisse lacu, nec Thesea Pirithoumque, dis quamquam geniti atque invicti viribus essent.
 Tartareum ille manu custodem in vincla petivit, 395
 ipsius a solio regis, traxitque trementem;
 hi dominam Ditis thalamo deducere adorti.'

Quae contra breviter fata est Amphrysia vates:
 'Nullae hic insidiae tales; absiste moveri;
 nec vim tela ferunt; licet ingens ianitor antro 400
 aeternum latrans exsanguis terreat umbras, casta licet patrui servet Proserpina limen.
 Troïus Aeneas, pietate insignis et armis, ad genitorem imas Erebi descendit ad umbras.
 Si te nulla movet tantae pietatis imago, 405 at ramum hunc' (aperit ramum, qui veste latebat)
 'agnoscas.' Tumida ex ira tum corda residunt.
 Nec plura his. Ille admirans venerabile donum fatalis virgae, longo post tempore visum, caeruleam advertit puppim, ripaeque propinquat. 410
 Inde alias animas, quae per iuga longa sedebant, deturbat, laxatque foros; simul accipit alveo ingentem Aenean. Gemuit sub pondere cymba sutilis, et multam accepit rimosa paludem.
 Tandem trans fluvium incolumis vatemque virumque 415
 infirmi limo glaucaque exponit in ulva.

The Sibyl drugs Cerberus

Cerberus haec ingens latratu regna trifauci personat, adverso recubans immanis in antro.
 Cui vates, horrere videns iam colla colubris, melle soporatam et medicatis frugibus offam 420 obicit. Ille fame rabida tria guttura pandens corripit obiectam, atque immania terga resolvit fusus humi, totoque ingens extenditur antro.

 Occupat Aeneas aditum custode sepulto, evaditque celer ripam inremeabilis undae.

425

Aeneas sees the ghosts of the untimely dead

Continuo auditae voces, vagitus et ingens, infantumque animae flentes in limine primo, quos dulcis vitae exsortis et ab ubere raptos abstulit atra dies et funere mersit acerbo.
 Hos iuxta falso damnati crimine mortis.
 Nec vero hae sine sorte datae, sine iudice, sedes :
 quaesitor Minos urnam movet ; ille silentum conciliumque vocat vitasque et crimina discit.
 Proxima deinde tenent maesti loca, qui sibi letum insontes peperere manu, lucemque perosi proiecere animas. Quam vellent aethere in alto nunc et pauperiem et duros perferre labores !
 Fas obstat, tristisque palus inamabilis unda
 alligat, et noviens Styx interfusa coercet.

The fields of mourning

Nec procul hinc partem fusi monstrantur in omnem lugentes campi : sic illos nomine dicunt.
 Hic, quos durus amor crudeli tabe peredit, secreti celant calles et myrtea circum
 silva tegit ; curae non ipsa in morte relinquunt.
 His Phaedram Procrimque locis, maestamque Eriphylen crudelis nati monstrantem volnera, cernit,

The shade of Dido

Inter quas Phoenissa recens a vulnere Dido 450
 errabat silva in magna; quam Troïus heros ut primum iuxta stetit agnovitque per umbras obscuram, qualem primo qui surgere mense aut videt, aut vidisse putat, per nubila lunam, demisit lacrimas, dulcique adfatus amore est: 455

‘Infelix Dido, verus mihi nuntius ergo venerat exstinctam, ferroque extrema secutam?
 Funeris heu tibi causa fui? Per sidera iuro, per superos, et si qua fides tellure sub ima est,
 invitus, regina, tuo de litore cessi. 460
 Sed me iussa deum, quae nunc has ire per umbras, per loca senta situ cogunt noctemque profundam, imperiis egere suis; nec credere quivi
 hunc tantum tibi me discessu ferre dolorem.
 Siste gradum, teque aspectu ne subtrahe nostro. 465
 Quem fugis? Extremum fato, quod te adloquor, hoc est.’

Talibus Aeneas ardentem et torva tuentem lenibat dictis animum, lacrimasque ciebat.
 Illa solo fixos oculos aversa tenebat, nec magis incepto voltum sermone movetur, 470
 quam si dura silex aut stet Marpesia cautes.
 Tandem corripuit sese, atque inimica refugit in nemus umbriferum, coniunx ubi pristinus illi respondet curis aequatque Sychaeus amorem.
 Nec minus Aeneas, casu concussus iniquo, 475 prosequitur lacrimis longe, et miseratur euntem.

Æneas meets the shades of dead warriors, Trojan and Greek

Inde datum molitur iter. Iamque arva tenebant ultima, quae bello clari secreta frequentant.
 Hic illi occurrit Tydeus, hic inclutus armis

Parthenopaeus et Adrasti pallentis imago ; 480
 hic multum fleti ad superos belloque caduci Dardanidae, quos ille omnis longo ordine cernens ingemuit, Glaucumque Medontaque Thersilochumque, tris Antenoridas, Cererique sacrum Polyboeten, Idaeumque, etiam currus, etiam arma tenentem. 485
 Circumstant animae dextra laevaue frequentes ;
 nec vidisse semel satis est ; iuvat usque morari,
 et conferre gradum, et veniendi discere causas.
 At Danaum proceres Agamemnoniaequae phalanges ut videre virum fulgentiaque arma per umbras, 490 ingenti trepidare metu ; pars vertere terga, ceu quondam petiere rates ; pars tollere vocem exiguam, inceptus clamor frustratur hiantis.

Aeneas listens to the story of Deiphobus

Atque hic Priamiden laniatum corpore toto Deiphobum videt et lacerum crudeliter ora, 495 ora manusque ambas, populataque tempora raptis auribus, et trucas inhonesto vulnere naris.
 Vix adeo agnovit pavitantem et dira tegentem supplicia, et notis compellat vocibus ultro :
 'Deiphobe armipotens, genus alto a sanguine Teucri, 500
 quis tam crudelis optavit sumere poenas ?
 Cui tantum de te licuit ? Mihi fama suprema nocte tulit fessum vasta te caede Pelasgum procubuisse super confusae stragis acervum.
 Tunc egomet tumulum Rhoeteo litore inanem 505
 constitui, et magna Manis ter voce vocavi.
 Nomen et arma locum servant ; te, amice, nequivi conspicere, et patria decedens ponere terra.'
 Ad quae Priamides : 'Nihil O tibi amice relictum ;
 omnia Deiphobo solvisti et funeris umbris. 510
 Sed me fata mea et scelus exitiale Lacaenae his mersere malis ; illa haec monumenta relinquit.

 Namque ut supremam falsa inter gaudia noctem egerimus, nosti ; et nimium meminisse necesse est.
 Cum fatalis equus saltu super ardua venit 515
 Pergama, et armatum peditem gravis attulit alvo, illa, chorum simulans, euhantis orgia circum
 ducebat Phrygias ; flammam media ipsa tenebat ingentem, et summa Danaos ex arce vocabat.
 Tum me, confectum curis somnoque gravatum, 520
 infelix habuit thalamus, pressitque iacentem dulcis et alta quies placidaeque simillima morti.
 Egregia interea coniunx arma omnia tectis amovet, et fidum capiti subduxerat ensem ;
 intra tecta vocat Menelaum, et limina pandit, 525
 scilicet id magnum sperans fore munus amanti, et famam exstingui veterum sic posse malorum.
 Quid moror ? Inrumpunt thalamo ; comes additur una hortator scelerum Aeolides. Di, talia Graeis instaurate, pio si poenas ore reposco ! 530
 Sed te qui vivum casus, age, fare vicissim, attulerint. Pelagine venis erroribus actus, an monitu divum ? An quae te fortuna fatigat, ut tristis sine sole domos, loca turbida, adires ?
 Hac vice sermonum roseis Aurora quadrigis 535
 iam medium aetherio cursu traiecerat axem ;
 et fors omne datum traherent per talia tempus ;
 sed comes admonuit, breviterque adfata Sibylla est :
 ' Nox ruit, Aenea ; nos flendo ducimus horas.
 Hic locus est, partis ubi se via findit in ambas : 540
 dextera quae Ditis magni sub moenia tendit, hac iter Elysium nobis ; at laeva malorum exercet poenas, et ad impia Tartara mittit.'
 Deiphobus contra : ' Ne saevi, magna sacerdos ;

discedam, explebo numerum, reddarque tenebris. 545
 I decus, i, nostrum; melioribus utere fati!
 Tantum effatus, et in verbo vestigia torsit.

Æneas beholds Tartarus, and its horrors are described by the Sibyl

Respicit Aeneas subito, et sub rupe sinistra moenia lata videt, triplici circumdata muro, quae rapidus flammis ambit torrentibus amnis, 550
 Tartareus Phlegethon, torquetque sonantia saxa.
 Porta adversa ingens, solidoque adamante columnae, vis ut nulla virum, non ipsi excindere bello caelicolae valeant; stat ferrea turris ad auras, Tisiphoneque sedens, palla succincta cruenta, 555
 vestibulum exsomnis servat noctesque diesque.
 Hinc exaudiri gemitus, et saeva sonare verbera; tum stridor ferri, tractaeque catenae.

Constitit Aeneas, strepituque exterritus hausit.
 'Quae scelerum facies, O virgo, effare; quibusve 560 urgentur poenis? Quis tantus plangor ad auras?'
 Tum vates sic orsa loqui: 'Dux inclute Teucrum, nulli fas casto sceleratum insistere limen;
 sed me cum lucis Hecate praefecit Avernis,
 ipsa deum poenas docuit, perque omnia duxit. 565 Gnosius haec Rhadamanthus habet, durissima regna, castigatque auditque dolos, subigitque fateri,
 quae quis apud superos, furto laetatus inani,
 distulit in seram commissa piacula mortem.
 Continuo sontis ultrix accincta flagello 570
 Tisiphone quatit insultans, torvosque sinistra intentans anguis vocat agmina saeva sororum.
 Tum demum horrissono stridentes cardine sacrae panduntur portae. Cernis custodia qualis vestibulo sedeat, facies quae limina servet?

 Quinquaginta atris immanis hiatibus Hydra saevior intus habet sedem. Tum Tartarus ipse bis patet in praeceps tantum tenditque sub umbras, quantus ad aetherium caeli suspectus Olympum.

 Hic et Aloïdas geminos immania vidi

 Vidi et crudelis dantem Salmonea poenas, dum flammās Iovis et sonitus imitatur Olympi.

ibat ovans, divumque sibi poscebat honorem, demens, qui nimbos et non imitabile fulmen 590
 aere et cornipedum pulsu simularet equorum.
 At pater omnipotens densa inter nubila telum contorsit, non ille faces nec fumea taedis lumina, praecipitemque immani turbine adegit.
 Nec non et Tityon, Terrae omniparentis alumnum, 595 cernere erat, per tota novem cui iugera corpus porrigitur, rostroque immanis voltur obunco immortale iecur tondens fecundaque poenis viscera, rimaturque epulis, habitatque sub alto pectore, nec fibris requies datur ulla renatis. 600 Quid memorem Lapithas, Ixiona Pirithoumque?—
 quos super atra silex iam iam lapsurâ cadentique imminet adsimilis; lucent genialibus altis aurea fulcra toris, epulaeque ante ora paratae regifico luxu; Furiarum maxima iuxta 605 accubat, et manibus prohibet contingere mensas, exsurgitque facem attollens, atque intonat ore.

Punishments of the impious

'Hic, quibus invisi fratres, dum vita manebat, pulsatusve parens, et fraus innexa clienti, aut qui divitiis soli incubuere repertis, 610
 nec partem posuere suis (quae maxima turba est), quique ob adulterium caesi, quique arma secuti impia nec veriti dominorum fallere dextas, inclusi poenam expectant. Ne quaere doceri quam poenam, aut quae forma viros fortunave mersit. 615 Saxum ingens volvunt alii, radiisque rotarum districti pendent; sedet, aeternumque sedebit, infelix Theseus; Phlegyasque miserrimus omnis admonet, et magna testatur voce per umbras:

Discite iustitiam moniti, et non temnere divos. 620
 Vendidit hic auro patriam, dominumque potentem imposuit; fixit leges pretio atque refixit;
 hic thalamum invasit natae vetitosque hymenaeos;
 ausi omnes immane nefas, ausoque potiti.
 Non, mihi si linguae centum sint oraque centum, 625
 ferrea vox, omnis scelerum comprehendere formas, omnia poenarum percurrere nomina possim.'

Æneas and the Sibyl reach the palace of Pluto, where Æneas deposits the Golden Bough

Haec ubi dicta dedit Phoebi longaeva sacerdos:
 'Sed iam age, carpe viam et susceptum perforce munus;
 acceleremus,' ait; 'Cyclopum educta caminis 630
 moenia conspicio atque adverso fornice portas, haec ubi nos praecepta iubent deponere dona.'
 Dixerat, et pariter, gressi per opaca viarum, corripiunt spatium medium, foribusque propinquant.
 Occupat Aeneas aditum, corpusque recenti 635
 spargit aqua, ramumque adverso in limine figit.

Æneas views the Elysian Fields

His demum exactis, perfecto munere divae, devenere locos laetos et amoena virecta fortunatorum nemorum sedesque beatas.
 Largior hic campos aether et lumine vestit 640
 purpureo, solemque suum, sua sidera norunt.
 Pars in gramineis exercent membra palaestris,
 contendunt ludo et fulva luctantur harena;
 pars pedibus plaudunt choreas et carmina dicunt.
 Nec non Threïcius longa cum veste sacerdos 645
 obloquitur numeris septem discrimina vocum, iamque eadem digitis, iam pectine pulsat eburno.

Hic genus antiquum Teucris, pulcherrima proles, magnanimi heroes, nati melioribus annis,
 Ilusque Assaracusque et Troiae Dardanus auctor. 650
 Arma procul currusque virum miratur inanis.
 Stant terra defixae hastae, passimque soluti per campum pascuntur equi. Quae gratia currum armorumque fuit vivis, quae cura nitentis pascere equos, eadem sequitur tellure repostos. 655

Conspicit, ecce, alios dextra laevaue per herbam vescentis, laetumque choro paeana canentis inter odoratum lauri nemus, unde superne plurimus Eridani per silvam volvitur amnis.
 Hic manus ob patriam pugnando volnera passi, 660 quique sacerdotes casti, dum vita manebat, quique pii vates et Phoebæ digna locuti, inventas aut qui vitam excoluere per artis, quique sui memores aliquos fecere merendo, omnibus his nivea cinguntur tempora vitta. 665

Musæus conducts Æneas to Anchises

Quos circumfusus sic est adfata Sibylla, Musaeum ante omnis, medium nam plurima turba
 hunc habet, atque umeris exstantem suspicit altis:
 'Dicite, felices animae, tuque, optime vates, quae regio Anchisen, quis habet locus? Illius ergo 670
 venimus, et magnos Erebi tranavimus amnis.'
 Atque huic responsum paucis ita reddidit heros:
 'Nulli certa domus; lucis habitamus opacis, riparumque toros et prata recentia rivis incolimus. Sed vos, si fert ita corde voluntas, 675 hoc superate iugum; et facili iam tramite sistam.'
 Dixit, et ante tulit gressum, camposque nitentis desuper ostentat; dehinc summa cacumina linquunt.

Æneas meets his father

At pater Anchises penitus convalle virenti inclusas animas superumque ad lumen ituras 680 lustrabat studio recolens, omnemque suorum forte recensebat numerum carosque nepotes, fataque fortunasque virum moresque manusque.
 Isque ubi tendentem adversum per gramina vidit Aenean, alacris palmas utrasque tetendit, 685 effusaeque genis lacrimae, et vox excidit ore :

‘Venisti tandem, tuaque exspectata parenti vicit iter durum pietas? Datur ora tueri, nate, tua, et notas audire et reddere voces?
 Sic equidem ducebam animo rebarque futurum, 690
 tempora dinumerans, nec me mea cura fefellit.
 Quas ego te terras et quanta per aequora vectum accipio! quantis iactatum, nate, periclis!
 Quam metui, ne quid Libyae tibi regna nocerent!’
 Ille autem: ‘Tua me, genitor, tua tristis imago, 695 saepius occurrens, haec limina tendere adegit:
 stant sale Tyrrheno classes. Da iungere dextram, da, genitor, teque amplexu ne subtrahe nostro.’
 Sic memorans, largo fletu simul ora rigabat.
 Ter conatus ibi collo dare bracchia circum, 700
 ter frustra comprehensa manus effugit imago,
 par levibus ventis volucrique simillima somno.

At the river Lethe Æneas sees the souls of those who are to live again in the Upper World

Interea videt Aeneas in valle reducta seclusum nemus et virgulta sonantia silvae, Lethaeumque, domos placidas qui praenatat, amnem. 705
 Hunc circum innumerae gentes populique volabant;
 ac—velut in pratis ubi apes aestate serena

ÆNEAS AND ANCHISES

floribus insidunt variis, et candida circum
lilia funduntur—strepit omnis murmure campus.

Horrescit visu subito, causasque requirit 710
inscius Aeneas, quae sint ea flumina porro, quive viri tanto complerint agmine ripas.

Tum pater Anchises: 'Animae, quibus altera fato corpora debentur, Lethaei ad fluminis undam securos latices et longa oblivia potant. 715

Has equidem memorare tibi atque ostendere coram, iam pridem hanc prolem cupio enumerare meorum, quo magis Italia mecum laetere reperta.'

'O pater, anne aliquas ad caelum hinc ire putandum est sublimis animas, iterumque ad tarda reverti 720 corpora? Quae lucis miseris tam dira cupido?'
'Dicam equidem, nec te suspensum, nate, tenebo,' suscipit Anchises, atque ordine singula pandit.

Anchises discourses of the nature of the soul, and of its purification after death

'Principio caelum ac terras camposque liquentis lucentemque globum Lunae Titaniaque astra 725 spiritus intus alit, totamque infusa per artus mens agitat molem et magno se corpore miscet.

Inde hominum pecudumque genus, vitaeque volantum, et quae marmoreo fert monstra sub aequore pontus.
Igneus est ollis vigor et caelestis origo 730

seminibus, quantum non noxia corpora tardant, terrenique hebetant artus moribundaque membra.
Hinc metuunt cupiuntque, dolent gaudentque, neque auras dispiciunt clausae tenebris et carcere caeco.

Quin et supremo cum lumine vita relinquit, 735 non tamen omne malum miseris nec funditus omnes corporeae excedunt pestes, penitusque necesse est

multa diu concreta modis inolescere miris.
 Ergo exercentur poenis, veterumque malorum supplicia expendunt : aliae panduntur inanes 740 suspensae ad ventos ; aliis sub gurgite vasto infectum eluitur scelus, aut exuritur igni ;
 quisque suos patimur Manis ; exinde per amplum mittimur Elysium, et pauci laeta arva tenemus ;
 donec longa dies, perfecto temporis orbe, 745 concretam exemit labem, purumque relinquit aetherium sensum atque aurai simplicis ignem.
 Has omnis, ubi mille rotam volvere per annos, Lethaeum ad fluvium deus evocat agmine magno, scilicet immemores supera ut convexa revisant, 750
 rursus et incipiant in corpora velle reverti.'

Anchises points out to Æneas the Alban kings and Romulus

Dixerat Anchises, natumque unaque Sibyllam conventus trahit in medios turbamque sonantem, et tumulum capit, unde omnis longo ordine possit adversos legere, et venientum discere voltus. 755

'Nunc age, Dardaniam prolem quae deinde sequatur gloria, qui maneant Itala de gente nepotes, inlustris animas nostrumque in nomen ituras,
 expediam dictis, et te tua fata docebo.
 Ille, vides, pura iuvenis qui nititur hasta, 760
 proxima sorte tenet lucis loca, primus ad auras aetherias Italo commixtus sanguine surget, Silvius, Albanum nomen, tua postuma proles, quem tibi longaevo serum Lavinia coniunx educet silvis regem regumque parentem, 765 unde genus Longa nostrum dominabitur Alba.

'Proximus ille Procas, Troianae gloria gentis, et Capys, et Numitor, et qui te nomine reddet

Silvius Aeneas, pariter pietate vel armis egregius, si umquam regnandam acceperit Albam. 770 Qui iuvenes! Quantas ostentant, aspice, viris, atque umbrata gerunt civili tempora quercu!
 Hi tibi Nomentum et Gabios urbemque Fidenam, hi Collatinas imponent montibus arces,
 Pometios Castrumque Inui Bolamque Coramque. 775
 Haec tum nomina erunt, nunc sunt sine nomine terrae.
 'Quin et avo comitem sese Mavortius addet Romulus, Assaraci quem sanguinis Ilia mater educet. Viden, ut geminae stant vertice cristae, et pater ipse suo superum iam signat honore? 780
 En, huius, nate, auspiciis illa incluta Roma imperium terris, animos aequabit Olympo, septemque una sibi muro circumdabit arces, felix prole virum: qualis Berecynthia mater invehitur curru Phrygias turrita per urbes, 785
 laeta deum partu, centum complexa nepotes, omnis caelicolas, omnis supera alta tenentis.

Anchises points out the descendants of Iulus (the Julian Line), among them Augustus

'Huc geminas nunc flecte acies, hanc aspice gentem Romanosque tuos. Hic Caesar et omnis Iuli progenies, magnum caeli ventura sub axem. 790
 Hic vir, hic est, tibi quem promitti saepius audis, Augustus Caesar, Divi genus, aurea condet
 saecula qui rursus Latio regnata per arva Saturno quondam, super et Garamantas et Indos proferet imperium: iacet extra sidera tellus, 795 extra anni solisque vias, ubi caelifer Atlas
 axem umero torquet stellis ardentibus aptum.
 Huius in adventum iam nunc et Caspia regna responsis horrent divum et Maeotia tellus, et septemgemi turbant trepida ostia Nili. 800 Nec vero Alcides tantum telluris obivit, fixerit aeripedem cervam licet, aut Erymanthi pacarit nemora, et Lernam tremefecerit arcu;

 nec, qui pampineis victor iuga flectit habenis,
 Liber, agens celso Nysae de vertice tigris. 805
 Et dubitamus adhuc virtutem extendere factis, aut metus Ausonia prohibet consistere terra?

The Roman kings and the heroes of the early republic are seen

‘Quis procul ille autem ramis insignis olivae sacra ferens? Nosco crinis incanaque menta regis Romani, primum qui legibus urbem 810 fundabit, Curibus parvis et paupere terra missus in imperium magnum. Cui deinde subibit, otia qui rumpet patriae residesque movebit Tullus in arma viros et iam desueta triumphis agmina. Quem iuxta sequitur iactantior Ancus, 815 nunc quoque iam nimium gaudens popularibus auris.
 Vis et Tarquinius reges, animamque superbam ultoris Bruti, fascisque videre receptos?
 Consulis imperium hic primus saevasque secures accipiet, natosque pater nova bella moventis 820 ad poenam pulchra pro libertate vocabit—infelix, utcumque ferent ea facta minores:
 vincet amor patriae laudumque immensa cupido.
 Quin Decios Drususque procul saevumque securi aspice Torquatam et referentem signa Camillum. 825

The spirits of Cæsar and Pompey come into view

‘Illae autem, paribus quas fulgere cernis in armis, concordēs animae nunc et dum nocte premuntur, heu quantum inter se bellum, si lumina vitae attigerint, quantas acies stragemque ciebut !

 Aggeribus socer Alpinis atque arce Monoeci

Æneas sees other heroes of the republic and is told the mission of Rome

‘ Ille triumphata Capitolia ad alta Corintho victor aget currum, caesis insignis Achivis.
 Eruet ille Argos Agamemnoniasque Mycenæ, ipsumque Aeaciden, genus armipotentis Achilli, ultus avos Troiæ, templa et temerata Minervæ. 840
 Quis te, magne Cato, tacitum, aut te, Cosse, relinquat ?

Quis Gracchi genus, aut geminos, duo fulmina belli,
 Scipiadas, cladem Libyaë, parvoque potentem
 Fabricium vel te sulco, Serrane, serentem?
 Quo fessum rapitis, Fabii? Tu Maximus ille es, 845 unus qui nobis cunctando restituis rem.
 Excudent alii spirantia mollius aëra, credo equidem, vivos ducent de marmore vultus, orabunt causas melius, cœlique meatus describent radio, et surgentia sidera dicent: 850
 tu regere imperio populos, Romane, memento;
 hæc tibi erunt artes; pacique imponere morem, parcere subiectis, et debellare superbos.'

Æneas sees the young Marcellus and hears of his sad fate

Sic pater Anchises, atque hæc mirantibus addit:
 'Aspice, ut insignis spoliis Marcellus opimis 855 ingreditur, victorque viros supereminet omnis!
 Hic rem Romanam, magno turbante tumultu, sistet, eques sternet Poenos Gallumque rebellem, tertiaque arma patri suspendet capta Quirino.'

Atque hic Aeneas,—una namque ire videbat 860
 egregium forma iuvenem et fulgentibus armis, sed frons læta parum, et deiecto lumina vultu:
 'Quis, pater, ille, virum qui sic comitatur euntem?
 Filius, anne aliquis magna de stirpe nepotum?
 Qui strepitus circa comitum! Quantum instar in ipso! 865
 Sed nox atra caput tristi circumvolat umbra.'

Tum pater Anchises lacrimis ingressus obortis:
 'O gnate, ingentem luctum ne quaere tuorum;
 ostendent terris hunc tantum fata, neque ultra esse sinent. Nimium vobis Romana propago 870 visa potens, Superi, propria hæc si dona fuissent.
 Quantos ille virum magnam Mavortis ad urbem campus aget gemitus, vel quæ, Tiberine, videbis funera, cum tumulum praeterlabere recentem !

 Nec puer Iliaca quisquam de gente Latinos 875 in tantum spe tollet avos, nec Romula quondam ullo se tantum tellus iactabit alumno.
 Heu pietas, heu prisca fides, invictaque bello dextera ! Non illi se quisquam impune tulisset obviis armato, seu cum pedes iret in hostem, 880 seu spumantis equi foderet calcaribus armos.
 Heu, miserande puer, si qua fata aspera rumpas, tu Marcellus eris. Manibus date lilia plenis, purpureos spargam flores, animamque nepotis his saltem accumulem donis, et fungar inani 885 munere.'—Sic tota passim regione vagantur aëris in campis latis, atque omnia lustrant.
 Quae postquam Anchises natum per singula duxit, incenditque animum famae venientis amore,
 exin bella viro memorat quae deinde gerenda, 890
 Laurentisque docet populos urbemque Latini, et quo quemque modo fugiatque feratque laborem.

Through the gates of sleep Æneas and the Sibyl return to the Upper World

Sunt geminae Somni portae, quarum altera fertur

ÆNEAS AND THE SIBYL

SUMMARY OF THE ÆNEID, BOOKS VII-XII

BOOK VII

ÆNEAS LANDS IN ITALY AND WAR BREAKS OUT WITH THE INHABITANTS

Leaving the harbor of Caieta, Æneas sails northward along the coast of Italy, passing so close to the realm of Circe the enchantress that he can hear the howls of the men whom she has transformed into wild beasts by her magic arts. Next morning his fleet enters the River Tiber, and the Trojans land on the bank.

At that time this region (Latium) was governed by an aged king, Latinus, whose wife was named Amata. They had but one child—a daughter, Lavinia, whom many princes sought in marriage. Chief among them was Turnus, the brave young king of the Rutulians, a neighboring tribe. He was favored by Queen Amata, but Latinus hesitated, for signs and omens had shown the purpose of the gods that Lavinia should marry some foreign hero, and this had also been plainly revealed by the voice of the god Faunus, father of King Latinus, speaking an oracle from his sacred grove. This oracle had become known throughout the neighboring cities by the time that Æneas landed.

Æneas and his companions prepare a scanty meal, using flat cakes for lack of plates. These cakes they afterwards eat, thus fulfilling the prophecy of the Harpy Celæno (iii. 245-257) that they should "devour their tables" before they could settle in Italy. Their wanderings, then, are finished, and next day they build and fortify a camp.

An embassy is sent to Latinus. He receives them well, tells them that he has heard that their ancestor Dardanus was of Italian origin, and asks what they desire. Ilioneus, in reply, requests the king's permission to settle in his realm. Latinus accepts their friendship and offers Lavinia to Æneas in marriage, according to the omens that assigned her a husband from a distant land.

Meantime Juno, angry at the failure of her efforts to keep the Trojans away from Italy, summons the Fury Allecto from the infernal regions and despatches her to stir up discord. Allecto drives Amata frantic and then visits Turnus, inciting him to make war upon the strangers.

While Turnus is calling the Rutulians to arms, Allecto visits the Trojans, and contrives that Iulus, while hunting, shall kill a pet stag, belonging to the daughter of King Latinus' chief herdsman. An affray follows, and the shepherds appeal to the king. Turnus urges Latinus to make war on the Trojans. He consents reluctantly, and shuts himself up in his house in despair. The gates of war in the Temple of Janus are opened by Juno.

The poet enumerates the Italian tribes that combine against Æneas and describes their chieftains. Among those who come to the aid of the Latins is the warlike Volscian maiden Camilla.

BOOK VIII

PREPARATIONS FOR WAR. ALLIANCE OF ÆNEAS WITH EVANDER. THE ARMS OF ÆNEAS

Turnus gives the signal for war. The chieftains muster their forces and send to Apulia to ask help from Diomedes, the Grecian hero, who had settled there since the end of the Trojan War. Father Tiber appears to Æneas in a dream, bids him be of good courage, and tells him to seek aid from Evander, an Arcadian, who had founded a city called Pallanteum on what was afterwards the site of Rome.

Next morning Evander suggests to Æneas an alliance with the Etruscans, who have revolted against Mezentius, their cruel king. Mezentius has taken refuge at the court of Turnus, and the Etruscans, eager to get him into their power, are awaiting a foreign leader foretold by one of their prophets. Evander himself is too old for warfare but offers his son Pallas to Æneas as companion and ally. Prompted by an omen from Venus, Æneas accepts, sends part of his followers back to the camp, and sets out for Etruria with Pallas and certain picked men.

When near the camp of the insurgent Etruscans, Æneas and his companions stop to rest in a grove, and Venus appears, bringing the arms which Vulcan has made. The shield is embossed with scenes from the future history of Rome, from the time of Romulus to the triumph of Augustus after the Battle of Actium.

BOOK IX

THE WAR WITH THE ITALIANS

Juno sends her messenger Iris to urge Turnus to attack the Trojans before Æneas returns. The Trojans see the dust of the approaching army and shut themselves up in camp as Æneas had ordered, though their impulse is to meet the foe in the open field. Turnus, astonished at their inaction, prepares to set fire to the ships, which are anchored by the side of the camp. His purpose is to induce the Trojans to come out of their shelter. The ships are saved by a miracle: Jupiter, at the prayer of Cybele, causes them to break their moorings and sail out into deep water, where they are transformed into nymphs.

Turnus, nothing daunted, addresses his troops, declaring that this prodigy is unfavorable to the Trojans, who cannot now escape. He stations guards to blockade the camp by land and draws off his army for a night's rest.

Nisus, a Trojan hero, proposes to his friend Euryalus to make their way through the besiegers' camp in the darkness and carry the news of the attack to Æneas. The Trojan commanders approve, and the two set out on their desperate attempt. They pass through the enemy's lines in safety. They slaughter many of their sleeping foes and take booty, but are surprised at the last moment by a troop of Latins who are on their way to join the besiegers. Nisus escapes, but, missing his companion, turns back to seek him, and both are killed, fighting bravely.

At dawn Turnus attacks the camp anew, and the Trojans recognize the heads of Nisus and Euryalus carried on spear-points. The mother of Euryalus laments his fall.

The camp is stoutly defended, and many fall on both sides. The Trojans make a sally. Turnus rushes in at the open gate and is shut in. Single-handed he almost causes a panic among the Trojans, but they rally and he is forced back. He escapes by swimming the Tiber.

BOOK X

THE BATTLE CONTINUES

Jupiter calls a council of the gods. "Why," he asks, "is this battle going on when I have forbidden war between the Italians and the Trojans?" Venus blames Turnus and his Rutulians; Juno retorts with spirit, and both goddesses have their partisans among the divinities. Jupiter decides that the fight must continue, but declares that the fates will find a way to be fulfilled in the outcome.

The battle still rages. The Rutulians strive to take the camp by storm, and the Trojans defend it with difficulty.

Meanwhile Æneas has formed an alliance with Tarchon, leader of the Etruscan insurgents, and, accompanied by him and other chiefs of Etruria, is sailing down the river in the night. He is met by the sea-nymphs—the transformed ships—and one of them, Cymodocea, warns him of the perilous situation of the camp and the danger to Ascanius.

Æneas reaches the camp at daybreak, but Turnus resists his landing. In the fight that follows, Pallas is slain and despoiled by Turnus, who proudly decks himself with the young hero's splendid girdle. Æneas rages in the conflict like the hundred-armed giant Ægæon when he attempted to scale the heavens and defied the thunderbolts of Jupiter. The siege of the Trojan camp is broken, and Ascanius makes a sally with his companions.

Juno beseeches Jupiter to allow her to save Turnus. He consents, but warns her that the destined result of the war cannot be changed. She sends a shade or phantom in the shape of Æneas. This Turnus pursues. It takes refuge in one of the ships. Turnus follows, but no sooner has he leapt on board than Juno unmoors the ship and he is swept away from the scene of the struggle, sorely against his will. Thrice Turnus tries to kill himself with his own sword, thrice to plunge into the river and swim back, but the goddess prevents.

Æneas wounds Mezentius, who is rescued by his son Lausus, but Lausus is slain. Mezentius returns to the fight to avenge his son and also meets his death at the hands of Æneas.

BOOK XI

A TRUCE FOR BURIAL OF THE DEAD. THE WAR RESUMED AFTER THE TRUCE

Æneas erects a trophy of the arms of Mezentius, encourages his men, and mourns for Pallas. The body of Pallas is carried to his father's city, escorted by a thousand soldiers.

Ambassadors arrive from King Latinus, asking for a truce for burial of the dead. Æneas grants their request. He declares that he has none but friendly feelings toward the Latins, and that he should have preferred to decide his quarrel with Turnus by single combat. The envoys admire the justice and moderation of Æneas and express their wish for an alliance. The truce is to last for twelve days. Evander receives the corpse of his son Pallas and laments his death. Both Trojans and Italians build pyres near the Tiber, and the bodies of the slain are burned with funeral rites.

There is mourning in the city of King Latinus. Drances, one of the ambassadors who had been sent to ask for the truce, declares that Turnus alone is to blame. Others take Turnus' part, and the influence of Queen Amata works in his favor. In the midst of the tumult, the envoys return from the city of Diomedes and bring word of his refusal to join the Latins against Æneas. A council is held. Latinus wishes to make peace. Drances, always an opponent of Turnus, advises that Lavinia be given to Æneas in marriage, or, at all events, that Turnus accept the challenge of Æneas to end the war by single combat. Turnus replies with vigor: he is not afraid to meet Æneas man to man, but urges the Latins not to give up the struggle.

In the midst of the debate, word comes that Æneas is advancing with his host, the truce having expired. The Latins and Rutulians rush to arms, and Turnus once more takes command. At the city gates he is met by the warrior-maiden Camilla with her Volscian horsemen, who offers to encounter the forces of Æneas while Turnus protects the city with his infantry. He directs her to oppose the enemy's cavalry, who have been sent ahead, while he himself lays an ambush for the main body of Æneas' army in a mountain pass near-by.

The poet tells the story of Camilla. Her father Metabus, driven from his Volscian kingdom when she was an infant, carried her in his arms. In his flight he came to the river Amasenus, then in high flood. The pursuers were close at hand. Tying the baby to the shaft of his spear, he hurled the weapon to the farther bank, with a vow to Diana that Camilla should be her maiden if her life were saved. The spear remained fixed in the ground across the river, and Metabus swam the stream and carried off his little daughter in triumph. Camilla was reared in the forest and was trained in warfare from her early youth, refusing all offers of marriage and remaining Diana's votaress. And now Diana, seeing her about to fight with the Trojans, sends the nymph Opis to slay with an arrow whoever shall harm the maiden, be it Trojan or Italian.

Meantime the Trojan and Etruscan cavalry approach. In the battle that follows, Camilla performs heroic exploits, but is killed with a javelin by Arruns, an Etruscan, who falls in his turn by the avenging arrow of Opis. The cavalry of Camilla and of the Rutulians are routed and take refuge in the city, but many are shut out in the confusion, and there is great slaughter.

Turnus, learning of the disaster, abandons his ambushade and hastens to the town. Thus Æneas and the main body of his troops approach without opposition. Night comes on, and both Turnus and Æneas encamp outside the walls.

BOOK XII

END OF THE WAR. VICTORY OF ÆNEAS AND DEATH OF TURNUS

Turnus, seeing that the fortune of war has been unfavorable to the Italians, addresses King Latinus, offering to meet Æneas in single combat. Latinus begs him to renounce his claim to Lavinia and allow Æneas to marry her, since that is the manifest will of the gods; but he refuses. Queen Amata beseeches Turnus to yield, but he insists on the combat. A solemn treaty is made: if Turnus is victorious, the Trojans shall give up the contest; if Æneas conquers, he is to marry Lavinia, and Trojans and Latins shall form one people forever.

Turnus has a sister named Juturna, a water-nymph, who—fearing that her brother is no match for Æneas, and prompted by Juno, the inveterate foe of the Trojans—takes the form of an Italian warrior and urges the Rutulians to renew the fight. A sign from heaven, caused by Juturna, adds to their zeal: an eagle seizes a swan in his talons, but, pursued by the rest of the flock, drops his prey and takes to flight. Tolumnius, a Rutulian augur, interprets this as a favorable omen and violates the treaty by throwing a spear, which strikes down one of Æneas' allies.

Both sides rush to arms. Æneas does his best to restore peace, but is wounded by an arrow from an unknown hand and forced to retire. During his absence Turnus works havoc among the Trojans, none of whom can stand against him. The surgeon Iapyx tries in vain to extract the arrow, and a complete rout seems imminent. But Venus, concealed in a cloud, heals the wound, and Æneas returns to the fray, followed by a host of heroes. The Rutulians are put to flight. Æneas seeks everywhere for Turnus, but Juturna takes the shape of Turnus' charioteer, Metiscus, and always guides his horses in some other direction. At length Æneas resolves to storm the city.

Queen Amata, terrified by the assault on the town, and believing that Turnus has been killed, hangs herself in despair. A wounded horseman makes his way through the host and summons Turnus to the aid of the city, which is about to fall into the hands of the Trojans. Turnus leaps from his chariot and forces his way through the combatants to the place where Æneas is attacking the wall. Æneas turns to meet him, and both armies cease fighting as the two leaders join at last in single combat.

Jupiter bids Juno give up her enmity to the Trojans. She consents, on condition that the Trojan race shall be absorbed in that of the Latins.

Turnus is struck down. Æneas is moved to spare his life, but he sees the belt of the slain Pallas, which Turnus is wearing, and he slays him in wrath and grief as an atoning sacrifice for Pallas' death.

SELECTIONS FROM OVID AND OTHER LATIN POETS

ORPHEUS AND THE BEASTS
FROM A POMPEIAN WALL PAINTING

INTRODUCTION

OVID'S LIFE

VID (Publius Ovidius Naso) was born in 43 B.C. at Sulmo (now Sulmona) in Central Italy. The family was wealthy and had for generations belonged to the Equestrian Order. Like Virgil, Ovid was designed for the legal profession; and, with that in view, he received a thorough training in rhetoric and oratory at Rome and, as part of his education, visited Athens and Asia Minor. Unlike Virgil, however, Ovid did not immediately abandon a professional career: he practised law in Rome and held a number of judicial offices. But he was too rich and too easy-going to be politically ambitious, and he found society and literature more to his taste than the courts. We are told that he was a "good speaker" (bonus declamator), but that he "disliked argument."

Ovid at Rome. Ovid soon became a prime favorite in the brilliant and dissolute society of his time. He was witty and accomplished, his fortune was ample, and he was by nature amiable and generous, appreciative of merit in others, and free from jealousy and pettiness. Though fond of ease and pleasure, there is no reason to believe that he was given to dissipation. He had an unrivalled talent for fluent, elegant, and melodious expression in verse. "His oratory," it is said, "was like a prose song," and he himself tells us that "whatever he undertook to say, took form in verse" — Quidquid tentabam dicere versus erat. He had published several works and was in the full tide of literary and social success when suddenly, at the age of fifty (A.D. 8), he was banished by the emperor, Augustus.

Banishment. The alleged reason for Ovid's banishment was the immorality of one of his works, but this must have been a mere pretext. The poem in question (Ars Amatoria) had been before the public for about ten years. Ovid himself mentions (besides the poem) some "error" on his own part. This word error is intentionally ambiguous; but Ovid insists, again and again, that he had not been guilty of any crime (scelus), though he admits that the emperor was justly offended. Probably the poet was somehow involved in a scandal affecting the imperial family. No evidence is available, however, and the whole affair must always remain a mystery.

Place of exile. The place to which Ovid was banished was Tomis or Tomi, an insignificant port in Mœsia on the Black Sea (Pontus Euxinus) near the modern Kustendje. He was not an exile (exsul) in the full Roman sense of the term, for he was allowed to retain his property. Thus he cannot have suffered actual hardship. Still, his situation was disagreeable enough. Rome was to Ovid what Paris is to a Parisian. He was separated from his wife and daughter, from his literary and personal friends, who were many, and from all that made life worth living to a man of his tastes and habits. The climate seemed to him unendurably harsh and cold, and the rude inhabitants of the district were a poor substitute for the aristocratic society of the metropolis. The townsfolk of Tomis were largely Getæ, with some intermixture of the descendants of Greek colonists. Outside the walls, the country was swept clean by periodical raids of the native barbarians, whose "poisoned darts" were especially feared. These bands, indeed, sometimes attacked the town itself.

Life at Tomis. Neither by nature nor by training was Ovid enabled to bear adversity with fortitude. He poured forth constant laments in verse, with humble petitions for pardon and restoration, or at least for a less disagreeable place of exile. His complaints often sound unmanly to us, and his flattery of Augustus seems downright slavish. In that regard, however, one should make allowance for the manners of an age when even Virgil had not scrupled to style the emperor the offspring of the gods (Æneid, vi. 792). Though Ovid's spirit was broken, his temper was not soured. He made friends with his Getic neighbors, learned to speak and write their language, and even composed a Getic poem in praise of Augustus, which is unfortunately lost.

Death of Ovid. Ovid had lived in banishment between five and six years when Augustus died (A.D. 14). There is some reason to believe that he was beginning to relent. At least, Ovid thought so, and he continued his appeals to the succeeding emperor, Tiberius. But all was in vain, and Ovid died at Tomis A.D. 17 or 18 and was buried near-by.

OVID'S WORKS

The Metamorphoses. Ovid's masterpiece, the Metamorphoses, extends to fifteen books. It had occupied his leisure for some years before his exile, and it was substantially complete, though lacking a final revision, when disaster overtook him. In his despair, he burnt the manuscript just before setting out for Tomis, but other copies were in existence.

Plan of the Metamorphoses. The design of the poem is to tell of Transformations — of "forms changed into new bodies" — in an unbroken narrative from the Creation to the time of the author.

In nova fert animus mutatas dicere formas corpora. Di, coeptis (nam vos mutastis et illas) adspirate meis, primaque ab origine mundi ad mea perpetuum deducite tempora carmen !

He begins, accordingly, with primeval Chaos and the moulding of the universe out of the four elements, describes the Four Ages (of Gold, Silver, Bronze, and Iron), and the Destruction of the Giants, the Deluge, and the repopling of the earth. Then, one after another, woven into a continuous narrative with marvellous ease and skill, Ovid tells scores of the best stories of Greek mythology — grave and gay, romantic and tragic, in infinite variety. In the fourteenth book he passes over to the myths of Italy, and in the fifteenth he closes the series with the Apotheosis of Julius Cæsar, whose soul ascends to heaven in the shape of a comet. He concludes with a justifiable expression of confidence in his own literary immortality: "And now I have finished a work which neither Jove's wrath nor fire, neither iron nor devouring time, can ever destroy. . . . Throughout the conquered earth, as far as the dominion of Rome extends, I shall be read by the people and shall live through all ages in fame."

Iamque opus exegi quod nec Iovis ira nec ignis nec poterit ferrum nec edax abolere vetustas.
Cum volet, illa dies, quae nil nisi corporis huius ius habet, incerti spatium mihi finiat aevi;
parte tamen meliore mei super alta perennis
astra ferar, nomenque erit indelebile nostrum.
Quaque patet domitis Romana potentia terris, ore legar populi, perque omnia saecula fama,
si quid habent veri vatum praesagia, vivam.

Style of the Metamorphoses. The style and metre of the Metamorphoses are easy, flexible, fluent, and expressive. Now and then the author's uncanny cleverness at turning phrases may run away with him for a line or two, but even in such cases the cleverness is undeniable, and we should beware of taking the poet too seriously. Matter and manner are well suited to each other. The variety of expression is marvellous and matches the variety of subject and of treatment. There is no suggestion of monotony. Subtle and delicate touches in description and narration abound. The characters stand out clearly. The scenery is vivid. The zest of the author never fails and the reader's interest never flags.

Object of the Metamorphoses. The object of the Metamorphoses is that of all good story-telling — to entertain. And there is no more entertaining book in the world, just as Ovid has no superior as a story-teller. In the opinion of Dryden — the most competent and least prejudiced of critics — he divides the palm with Chaucer alone. The Metamorphoses is the world's Wonder Book. It has enjoyed an uninterrupted and well-deserved popularity from the moment of its publication to the present day.

OVID'S OTHER WORKS

Besides the Metamorphoses, Ovid wrote the following poems :

Amores, three books of love elegies ; De Medicamine Faciei, " On the Treatment of the Complexion," a poem on cosmetics ; Heroides, " The Heroines," a collection of letters in verse, most of them supposed to be written by Penelope, Dido, Medea, and other ladies of the heroic age to their faithless or absent lovers or husbands ; Ars Amatoria, " The Art of Love," and Remedia Amoris, " Remedies for Love," two mock didactic poems ; Medea, a tragedy (lost) ; Fasti, " The Calendar," an account of the festivals, etc., of the Roman year, arranged by months (planned for twelve books, but only half finished) ; Tristia, " Sorrows," in five books, and Epistulae ex Ponto, " Letters from Pontus," in four, — both written in exile, — consisting of laments, petitions to the emperor, messages to his wife and friends at Rome, etc. ; Ibis, a fierce attack on some enemy at Rome ; Halieutica, " Fishing," a fragmentary didactic poem ; lost poems in honor of Augustus and Tiberius, one of them in the Getic language.

CATULLUS

Catullus (C. Valerius Catullus) was born about 84 B.C. at Verona. His family was well-to-do, and, though he occasionally complains of an empty purse, we are not to suppose that he was ever in serious difficulties in this regard. At all events, he possessed a residence on the lovely promontory of Sirmio and an estate near Tibur, and he was the owner of a fast yacht which he celebrates in one of his most delightful poems. He went to Rome in early manhood and, like Ovid, played a lively part in the gay society of the metropolis. Near the end of his life he visited Bithynia in the train of the prætor Memmius, probably in the hope of improving his fortunes, but a year's experience with this provincial governor was quite enough, and he was glad to return to his home at Sirmio. He died soon after, when about thirty years of age, in or about the year 54 B.C.

Catullus is regarded as the greatest of Roman lyric poets. Though he wrote under the influence of the Greeks of the Alexandrian school, he shows marked originality. He has left us a collection of a hundred and sixteen poems — most of them very short — many of them the vivid expression (serious or sportive) of emotions of the moment. We have love lyrics, affectionate or humorous addresses to friends, satirical epigrams (often frankly abusive, though the abuse is not always to be taken seriously), and "occasional poems" in great variety. His love poems, addressed to Lesbia (who is thought to have been really the beautiful and dissolute Clodia, sister of Clodius the demagogue) appear to be the genuine record of an unhappy passion. Larger pieces are two marriage odes; Attis, which deals with the orgies of Cybele; and The Marriage of Peleus and Thetis (408 lines), which introduces the episode of Ariadne and Theseus with Ariadne's Lament.

HORACE

Horace (Q. Horatius Flaccus) was born on December 8, 65 B.C., at Venusia (now Venosa) on the Apulian border. His father had been a slave but had been freed before Horace was born, and, like many freedmen (libertini), enjoyed a respectable position in society, though he was neither rich nor distinguished. He gave his clever son every possible advantage, taking him to Rome at about the age of twelve and attending carefully to his education and behavior. In his eighteenth year—his father having died in the meantime—Horace went to Athens (as students now visit a foreign university) to finish his training in literature and philosophy.

Civil war broke out on the assassination of Julius Cæsar in 44 B. C., and Horace became an officer in the Republican army of Brutus. Two years later, the Republican cause collapsed at the Battle of Philippi. Horace fled from the field, as he tells us himself, but there is no evidence that he played a coward's part. The victory of Octavius (afterwards known as Augustus) and Antony was decisive, and Horace merely shared in the general rout. He made his peace with the victors and returned to Rome, a ruined man, for his inherited estate at Venusia was confiscated. He obtained a small office, however, and managed to live on the income until his talents attracted the attention of Mæcenas, one of Octavius's ministers and a generous patron of literature. Mæcenas presented him with a farm in the Sabine territory, which, with occasional gifts, enabled him to live comfortably thereafter. He often visited Rome and soon came to enjoy the favor of the Emperor Augustus. The poets Virgil and Tibullus were among his personal friends. He died suddenly in November, 8 B. C.

The chief works of Horace are his Odes, his Satires, and his Epistles. His Odes, which follow the best Greek models, reach a high degree of perfection as works of art, though they can hardly claim to be the expression of a master spirit in lyric poetry. His Satires are far more original. These concern themselves rather with the follies and weaknesses than with the sins of mankind. His aim, he tells us, is to correct men's foibles by humorous and friendly raillery. His subjects are discontent, vulgar display, avarice, legacy-hunting, and so on; and he does not spare himself in his criticism of his neighbors. Some of the pieces are not satire at all in our modern sense. As a whole the collection has been well compared to what we call "the comedy of manners." Horace shows himself throughout a keen observer of social conditions, and he writes with amazing vivacity, wit, humor, and urbanity.

In the Epistles, Horace's masterpiece, these qualities are even more remarkable. These poems deal, like the Satires, with the manners of the time, and present a philosophy of life which is marked by common sense and practical wisdom. Some of them deal with literature, and here Horace takes high rank as a literary critic. The Satires and Epistles have exercised a powerful influence upon English authors. This is especially evident in the eighteenth century, and most of all in the Imitations of Horace, by Alexander Pope.

METRE

1. A trochee consists of a long accented syllable followed by a short unaccented syllable, as régis.

2. An iambus consists of a short unaccented syllable followed by a long accented syllable, as fěró-cis.

3. Substitutes for the trochee are the irrational spondee ($\angle >$) and the cyclic dactyl ($\angle \cup \cup$).

The irrational spondee ($\angle >$ or $> \angle$) consists of two long syllables, but occupies only the time of one long and one short syllable. The symbol $>$ denotes a long syllable shortened.

The cyclic dactyl ($\angle \cup \cup$) consists of one long and two short syllables, but occupies only the time of one long and one short syllable.

Thus each of these two feet is equivalent in time to a trochee, and the irrational spondee (in the form $> \angle$) may be equivalent to an iambus ($\cup \angle$).

4. A single long syllable may be so prolonged as to occupy the time of one long and one short syllable. Such prolongation is indicated by the symbol \sqcup .

5. One or more syllables placed before the proper beginning of the measure are called an anacrusis (that is, a prelude).

6. A verse lacking a syllable at the end is called catalectic, that is, having a pause to fill the measure. Such a pause may be represented by the sign \wedge .

7. Four of the extracts from Catullus (iii, xiii, xlvi, xlix) are in hendecasyllabics (that is, verses of eleven syllables). There are five feet. The movement is trochaic. Thus (iii),

$$\begin{array}{ccccccc} \angle > & | & \angle \cup \cup & | & \angle \cup & | & \angle \cup \\ \text{Lū-gē-te,} & | & \text{Ō Ve-nērēs} & | & \text{Cu-pī-di-nēs-que.} & & \end{array}$$

The first foot is usually an irrational spondee ($\angle >$), equivalent to a trochee ($\angle \cup$), but may be a regular trochee ($\angle \cup$, as in iii. 7, ipsă)

or an iambus ($\cup \text{ } \text{—}$, as in iii. 17, tuā). The second foot is a cyclic dactyl ($\text{—} \cup \cup$), equivalent in time to a trochee. The third, fourth, and fifth feet are trochees. The last syllable in the verse may be long in itself (as in iii. 3), but is treated as short (syllaba anceps).

This metre is also called Phalæcean.

The general effect of hendecasyllabic verse has been imitated in English by Tennyson:

Ó you | chórus of | indo|lént re|viéwers.

Lóok, I | cóme to the | tést, a | tíny | póem,
Áll com|pósed in a | métre | óf Ca|túllus.

8. Catullus, iv, is in the iambic trimeter. Every verse consists of two measures, each consisting of two iambs. Thus,

$\cup \text{ } \text{—} \cup \text{ } \text{—} \cup \text{ } \text{—} \cup \text{ } \text{—} \text{ } | \text{ } \text{—} \cup \text{ } \text{—} \cup \text{ } \text{—} \cup \text{ } \text{—} \text{—}$
Pha-sel-lus il|le || quem vi-dē|tis ho-spi-tēs.

The last syllable may, of course, be short (syllaba anceps).

9. Catullus, xxxi, is in the so-called choliambic verse. Thus,

$> \text{ } \vdots \text{ } \text{—} \cup \text{ } \text{—} > \text{ } | \text{ } \text{—} \cup \text{ } | \text{ } \text{—} \cup \text{ } \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—}$
Pae-ne : in-su|lā-rum, | Sir-mi-o, | in-su|lā-rum-que.

The movement is trochaic with anacrusis. The anacrusis may consist of a short syllable (\cup) or of a long syllable shortened ($>$). Note the irrational spondee ($\text{—} >$), equivalent to a trochee, in the second foot, and the prolonged long syllable (—), equivalent to a trochee, in the fifth foot. The second foot may be a trochee, as in v. 8.

10. Three of the extracts from Horace (i. 2, i. 22, and ii. 10) are in the Sapphic stanza. Thus (i. 2),

Iam sa|tis ter|rīs || ni-vis | at-que | dī|rae

gran-di|nis mī|sit || pa-ter, | et ru|ben|te

$\text{—} \cup \text{ } \text{—} > \text{ } | \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} | \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—} \text{—}$
dex-te|rā sa|crās || ia-cu|lā-tus | ar|cīs

$\text{—} \cup \text{ } \text{—} | \text{—} \cup \text{ } \text{—}$
ter-ru-it | ur-bem.

The first three verses are alike. Each consists of six feet in a trochaic movement. Note the irrational spondee ($\angle >$) in the second foot, the cyclic dactyl ($\angle \cup \cup$) in the third foot, and the prolonged monosyllable (\angle) in the fifth. These three verses are catalectic.

The fourth verse consists of a cyclic dactyl followed by a trochee.

The last syllable of each verse may be either long or short (syllaba anceps).

11. Three of the extracts from Horace (i. 34, iii. 2, and iii. 5) are in the Alcaic stanza. Thus (i. 34),

The first and the second verse begin with a monosyllabic anacrusis (which may be a short syllable or a long syllable shortened) and continue with five feet in a trochaic movement. Note the irrational spondee ($\angle >$) in the second foot and the cyclic dactyl ($\angle \cup \cup$) in the third. The final foot is an incomplete trochee. Thus the verse is catalectic. The final syllable may be short in itself (as in i. 34. 9), but counts as long (syllaba anceps).

The third verse begins, like the first two, with anacrusis, and continues with four feet in a trochaic movement. Note the irrational spondee ($\angle >$) in the second foot.

The fourth verse consists of two cyclic dactyls ($\angle \cup \cup$) and two trochees ($\angle \cup$). The final syllable may be either long or short, but counts as short (syllaba anceps).

12. Two of the extracts from Horace (i. 14 and iii. 13) are in the Third Asclepiadean stanza. Thus (i. 14),

$\frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} > \mid \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup \mid \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \mid \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \wedge$
 por-tum! | Nōn-ne vi|dēs | ut $\frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} > \mid \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup \mid \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup \mid \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \wedge$
 nū-dum | rē-mi-gi|ō la|tus.

The first and the second verse consist of six feet in a trochaic movement. In the third foot one long syllable is prolonged ($\frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}}$) so as to occupy the time of one long and one short ($\frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup$). Note the cyclic dactyls ($\frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup$) in the second and the fourth foot. The verses are catalectic.

The third verse consists of four feet in a trochaic movement. Note the prolonged syllable in the third foot ($\frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}}$). The verse is catalectic.

The fourth verse (also catalectic) consists of four feet in a trochaic movement. Note the cyclic dactyl ($\frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup$) in the second foot.

The last syllable of every verse is counted as long, even if it is short in itself (syllaba anceps).

13. One of the extracts from Horace (ii. 18) alternates a catalectic verse consisting of two trochaic measures (each consisting of two trochaic feet) with a verse consisting of three iambic measures (each consisting of two iambic feet). Thus,

$\text{—} \cup \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup \mid \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \wedge$
 Nōn e-bur ne-que | au-re-um $\cup \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \mid \cup \parallel \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \mid \cup \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}}$
 me-ā re-nī-det || in do-mō | la-cū-nar.

In the first verse, the last trochee is incomplete, consisting of a single syllable. This, though either long or short in itself, counts as long (syllaba anceps).

In the second verse note that the last measure (equivalent to two iambs) consists of a short syllable, followed by a prolonged long syllable ($\frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}}$ equivalent to $\frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup$) and by a syllable which may be either long or short but is scanned as long (syllaba anceps). The first iambus may be replaced by an irrational spondee ($> \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}}$), as in vv. 6, 34. 1.

This second verse may be scanned as catalectic trochaic with anacrusis. Thus,

$\cup \mid \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup \parallel \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup \mid \frac{\text{—}}{\text{—}} \cup \wedge$
 me:ā re-nī-det || in do-mō la|cū-nar.

PYRAMUS AND THISBE

Pyramus and Thisbe, who live at Babylon in adjacent houses, fall in love, but their parents forbid their marriage. They discover a cleft in the wall between the houses and through this exchange their vows. At last they arrange to meet at the tomb of Ninus, outside the city. Thisbe arrives first, but is frightened by a lioness and hides in a cave near-by. She drops her mantle, which is torn by the lioness. Pyramus finds it stained with blood, and, thinking that Thisbe has been devoured, kills himself. Thisbe returns and kills herself with Pyramus' sword (Metamorphoses, iv. 55-166). See Gayley, Classic Myths, pp. 147-149.

The story of Pyramus and Thisbe is retold by Chaucer in The Legend of Good Women and forms the plot of the play presented before Theseus by the Athenian artisans in A Midsummer Night's Dream.

PYRAMUS et Thisbe, iuvenum pulcherrimus alter, altera quas oriens habuit praelata puellis, 56
 contiguas tenuere domos, ubi dicitur altam coctilibus muris cinxisse Semiramis urbem.
 Notitiam primosque gradus vicinia fecit;
 tempore crevit amor. Taedae quoque iure coissent, 60
 sed vetuere patres: quod non potuere vetare, ex aequo captis ardebant mentibus ambo.
 Consciis omnis abest: nutu signisque loquuntur;
 quoque magis tegitur, tectus magis aestuat ignis.
 Fissus erat tenui rima, quam duxerat olim 65
 cum fieret, paries domui communis utrique.
 Id vitium nulli per saecula longa notatum—quid non sentit amor?—primi vidistis amantes, et vocis fecistis iter; tutaeque per illud murmure blanditiae minimo transire solebant. 70
 Saepe, ubi constiterant hinc Thisbe, Pyramus illinc, inque vices fuerat captatus anhelitus oris,

'Invide,' dicebant, 'paries, quid amantibus obstas?
 Quantum erat, ut sineres toto nos corpore iungi, aut, hoc si nimium, vel ad oscula danda pateres? 75
 Nec sumus ingrati: tibi nos debere fatemur quod datus est verbis ad amicas transitus aures.'
 Talia diversa nequiquam sede locuti, sub noctem dixere 'Vale,' partique dedere oscula quisque suae non pervenientia contra. 80

Postera nocturnos aurora removerat ignes, solque pruinosas radiis siccaverat herbas:
 ad solitum coiere locum. Tum murmure parvo multa prius questi, statuunt ut nocte silenti fallere custodes foribusque excedere temptent, 85
 cumque domo exierint, urbis quoque tecta relinquant;
 neve sit errandum lato spatiantibus arvo, convenient ad busta Nini lateantque sub umbra arboris. Arbor ibi niveis uberrima pomis ardua morus erat, gelido contermina fonti. 90
 Pacta placent; et lux, tarde discedere visa, praecipitatur aquis, et aquis nox exit ab isdem.
 Callida per tenebras, versato cardine, Thisbe egreditur fallitque suos, adopertaque vultum pervenit ad tumultum dictaque sub arbore sedit. 95 Audacem faciebat amor. Venit ecce recenti caede leaena boum spumantes oblita rictus, depositura sitim vicini fontis in unda.
 Quam procul ad lunae radios Babylonia Thisbe vidit, et obscurum trepido pede fugit in antrum, 100 dumque fugit, tergo velamina lapsa reliquit.
 Ut lea saeva sitim multa compescuit unda, dum redit in silvas, inventos forte sine ipsa ore cruentato tenues laniavit amictus.

Serius egressus, vestigia vidit in alto 105
 pulvere certa ferae totoque expalluit ore

Pyramus. Ut vero vestem quoque sanguine tinctam repperit, 'Una duos,' inquit, 'nox perdet amantes;
e quibus illa fuit longa dignissima vita, nostra nocens anima est. Ego te, miseranda, peremi, 110 in loca plena metus qui iussi nocte venires, nec prior huc veni. Nostrum divellite corpus,
et scelerata fero consumite viscera morsu,
O quicumque sub hac habitatis rupe leones!
Sed timidi est optare necem.' Velamina Thisbes 115 tollit et ad pactae secum fert arboris umbram;
utque dedit notae lacrimas, dedit oscula vesti,
'Accipe nunc,' inquit, 'nostri quoque sanguinis haustus!'
Quoque erat accinctus, demisit in ilia ferrum;
nec mora, ferventi moriens e vulnere traxit 120 et iacuit resupinus humo. Cruor emicat alte, non aliter quam cum vitiato fistula plumbo scinditur, et tenui stridente foramine longas eiaculatur aquas atque ictibus aëra rumpit.
Arborei fetus adspergine caedis in atram 125
vertuntur faciem, madefactaque sanguine radix purpureo tingit pendentia mora colore.

Ecce, metu nondum posito, ne fallat amantem,
illa redivit iuvenemque oculis animoque requirit, quantaque vitarit narrare pericula gestit. 130
Utque locum et visa cognoscit in arbore formam, sic facit incertam pomi color: haeret an haec sit.
Dum dubitat, tremebunda videt pulsare cruentum membra solum, retroque pedem tulit, oraque buxo pallidiora gerens exhorruit aequoris instar, 135 quod tremit, exigua cum summum stringitur aura.
Sed postquam remorata suos cognovit amores,
percutit indignos claro plangore lacertos, et laniata comas amplexaque corpus amatum vulnera supplevit lacrimis, fletumque cruori 140

miscuit, et gelidis in vultibus oscula figens,
'Pyrame,' clamavit, 'quis te mihi casus ademit?
Pyrame, responde! tua te carissima Thisbe nominat: exaudi vultusque attolle iacentes!'
Ad nomen Thisbes oculos a morte gravatos 145
Pyramus erexit, visaque recondidit illa.
Quae postquam vestemque suam cognovit et ense vidit ebur vacuum, 'Tua te manus,' inquit, 'amorque perdidit, infelix! Est et mihi fortis in unum hoc manus; est et amor: dabit hic in vulnera vires. 150 Persequar extinctum, letique miserrima dicar causa comesque tui. Quique a me morte revelli heu sola poteris, poteris nec morte revelli.
Hoc tamen amborum verbis estote rogati,
O multum miseri, meus illiusque parentes, 155
ut quos certus amor, quos hora novissima iunxit, componi tumulo non invideatis eodem.
At tu, quae ramis arbor miserabile corpus nunc tegis unius, mox es tectura duorum, signa tene caedis, pullosque et luctibus aptos 160 semper habe fetus, gemini monimenta cruoris.'
Dixit, et aptato pectus mucrone sub imum, incubuit ferro, quod adhuc a caede tepebat.
Vota tamen tetigere deos, tetigere parentes;
nam color in pomo est, ubi permaturuit, ater, 165
quodque rogis superest, una requiescit in urna.

PERSEUS AND ANDROMEDA

Cassiopeia, the wife of the Æthiopian king Cepheus, had boasted that she was more beautiful than the sea-nymphs. As a punishment, a sea-monster had laid waste the coast region. To put an end to his ravages, Andromeda, the king's daughter, is bound to a rock on the shore (in obedience to an oracle of Ammon), to be devoured by the monster. Perseus slays the monster and wins Andromeda as his bride (Metamorphoses, iv. 662-763). See Gayley, Classic Myths, pp. 211-213.

CLAUSERAT Hippotades aeterno carcere ventos, admonitorque operum caelo clarissimus alto Lucifer ortus erat: pennis ligat ille resumptis parte ab utraque pedes teloque accingitur unco, 665 et liquidum motis talaribus aëra findit.
 Gentibus innumeris circumque infraque relictis,
 Aethiopum populos Cepheaque conspicit arva.
 Illic immeritam maternae pendere linguae
 Andromedan poenas iniustus iusserat Hammon. 670
 Quam simul ad duras religatam bracchia cautes vidit Abantiades (nisi quod levis aura capillos moverat, et tepido manabant lumina fletu, marmoreum ratus esset opus), trahit inscius ignes, 675 et stupet, et visae correptus imagine formae paene suas quater est oblitus in aëre pennas.
 Ut stetit, 'O,' dixit, 'non istis digna catenis, sed quibus inter se cupidi iunguntur amantes,
 pande requirenti nomen terraeque tuumque, et cur vincla geras.' Primo silet illa nec audet 680 appellare virum virgo; manibusque modestos celasset vultus, si non religata fuisset.
 Lumina, quod potuit, lacrimis implevit abortis.
 Saepius instanti, sua ne delicta fateri nolle videretur, nomen terraeque suumque, 685 quantaque maternae fuerit fiducia formae, indicat. Et, nondum memoratis omnibus, unda insonuit, veniensque immenso belua ponto imminet et latum sub pectore possidet aequor.

 Conclamat virgo. Genitor lugubris et una 690 mater adest, ambo miseri, sed iustius illa;
 nec secum auxilium, sed dignos tempore fletus plangoremque ferunt, vinctoque in corpore adhaerent, cum sic hospes ait: 'Lacrimarum longa manere tempora vos poterunt; ad opem brevis hora ferendam est.
 Hanc ego si peterem Perseus, Iove natus . . ., 696
 Gorgonis anguicomae Perseus superator, et alis aetherias ausus iactatis ire per auras, praeferret cunctis certe gener. Addere tantis 700
 dotibus et meritum, faveant modo numina, tempto.
 Ut mea sit, servata mea virtute, paciscor.'
 Accipiunt legem (quis enim dubitaret?) et orant promittuntque super regnum dotale parentes.
 Ecce velut navis praefixo concita rostro 705
 sulcat aquas, iuvenum sudantibus acta lacertis, sic fera, dimotis impulsu pectoris undis, tantum aberat scopulis quantum Balearica torto funda potest plumbo medii transmittere caeli, cum subito iuvenis, pedibus tellure repulsa, 710 arduus in nubes abiit. Ut in aequore summo umbra viri visa est, visam fera saevit in umbram;
 utque Iovis praepes, vacuo cum vidit in arvo praebentem Phoebos liventia terga draconem, occupat aversum, neu saeva retorqueat ora, 715
 squamigeris avidos figit cervicibus ungues, sic, celeri missus praeceps per inane volatu,
 terga ferae pressit, dextroque frementis in armo
 Inachides ferrum curvo tenus abdidit hamo.
 Vulnere laesa gravi modo se sublimis in auras 720
 attollit, modo subdit aquis, modo more ferocis

PERSEUS FREEING ANDROMEDA

versat apri quem turba canum circumsona terret.
 Ille avidos morsus velocibus effugit alis;
 quaque patet, nunc terga cavis super obsita conchis, nunc laterum costas, nunc qua tenuissima cauda desinit in piscem, falcato vulnerat ense.
 Belua puniceo mixtos cum sanguine fluctus

MEDUSA

ore vomit: maduere graves adspergine pennae.
 Nec bibulis ultra Perseus talaribus ausus credere conspexit scopulum, qui vertice summo stantibus exstat aquis, operitur ab aequore moto.
 Nixus eo, rupisque tenens iuga prima sinistra, ter quater exegit repetita per ilia ferrum.
 Litora cum plausu clamor superasque deorum implevere domos. Gaudent generumque saluant auxiliumque domus servatoremque fatentur Cassiope Cepheusque pater. Resoluta catenis incedit virgo, pretiumque et causa laboris.

735

Ipsæ manus hausta victrices abluit unda ;
anguiferumque caput dura ne laedat harena, 740
mollit humum foliis, natasque sub aequore virgas
sternit et imponit Phorcynidos ora Medusæ.
Virga recens bibulaque etiam nunc viva medulla vim rapuit monstri, tactuque induruit huius, percepitque novum ramis et fronde rigorem. 745
At pelagi nymphae factum mirabile temptant pluribus in virgis, et idem contingere gaudent, seminaque ex illis iterant iactata per undas ;
nunc quoque curialiis eadem natura remansit, duritiam tacto capiant ut ab aëre, quodque 750
vimen in aequore erat, fiat super aequora saxum.

Dis tribus ille focus totidem de caespite ponit, laevum Mercurio, dextrum tibi, bellica virgo ;
ara Iovis media est. Mactatur vacca Minervæ, alipedi vitulus, taurus tibi, summe deorum. 755 Protinus Andromedan et tanti praemia facti indotata rapit. Taedas Hymenaeus Amorque praecutiunt, largis satiantur odoribus ignes, sertaque dependent tectis, et ubique lyraeque tibiaque et cantus, animi felicia laeti 760 argumenta, sonant. Reseratis aurea valvis atria tota patent, pulchroque instructa paratu Cepheni procures ineunt convivia regis.

DÆDALUS AND ICARUS

Minos, king of Crete, had employed Dædalus, a skilful Athenian, to construct the famous Labyrinth in which the Minotaur (afterwards killed by Theseus) was confined. To escape from Crete—since Minos would not let him go and had seized all the ships—Dædalus made wings for himself and his young son Icarus. As they flew through the sky, Icarus approached too near the sun, which melted the wax that fastened the feathers, and, falling into the sea, he was drowned (Metamorphoses, viii. 183–235). See Gayley, Classic Myths, pp. 246–248. For Theseus and the Minotaur see p. 301.

D AEDALUS interea, Creten longumque perosus exsiliū tactusque loci natalis amore, clausus erat pelago. 'Terras licet,' inquit, 'et undas obstruat, at caelum certe patet: ibimus illac. 186
 Omnia possideat, non possidet aëra Minos.'
 Dixit, et ignotas animū dimittit in artes, naturamque novat. Nam ponit in ordine pennas, a minima coeptas, longam breviorē sequente, 190 ut clivo crevisse putes. Sic rustica quondam fistula disparibus paulatim surgit avenis.
 Tum lino medias et ceris adligat imas,
 atque ita compositas parvo curvamine flectit, ut veras imitetur aves. Puer Icarus una 195
 stabat et, ignarus sua se tractare pericla, ore renidenti modo quas vaga moverat aura captabat plumas, flavam modo pollice ceram molliabat, lusuque suo mirabile patris impediēbat opus. Postquam manus ultima coepto 200 imposita est, geminas opifex libravit in alas
 ipse suum corpus, motaque pependit in aura.
 Instruit et natum, 'Medio'que 'ut limite curras, Icare,' ait, 'moneo, ne, si demissior ibis,
 unda gravet pennas, si celsior, ignis adurat. 205

Inter utrumque vola; nec te spectare Boöten aut Helicen iubeo strictumque Orionis ensem.
Me duce carpe viam.' Pariter praecepta volandi tradit et ignotas umeris accommodat alas.

DÆDALUS AT WORK

Inter opus monitusque genae maduere seniles, 210 et patriae tremuere manus. Dedit oscula nato (non iterum repetenda) suo, pennisque levatus ante volat comitique timet, velut ales, ab alto quae teneram prolem produxit in aëra nido; hortaturque sequi damnosasque erudit artes, 215 et movet ipse suas et nati respicit alas.
Hos aliquis, tremula dum captat harundine pisces, aut pastor baculo stivave innixus arator, vidit et obstipuit, quique aethera carpere possent credidit esse deos. Et iam Iunonia laeva 220 parte Samos (fuerant Delosque Parosque relictæ), dextra Lebinthos erat fecundaque melle Calymne, cum puer audaci coepit gaudere volatu, deseruitque ducem, caelique cupidine tactus altius egit iter. Rapidi vicinia solis 225 mollit odoratas, pennarum vincula, ceras.

Tabuerant cerae: nudos quatit ille lacertos, remigioque carens non ullas percipit auras;
oraeque caerulea patrium clamantia nomen excipiuntur aqua, quae nomen traxit ab illo. 230
At pater infelix, nec iam pater, 'Icare,' dixit,
'Icare,' dixit, 'ubi es? qua te regione requiram?
Icare,' dicebat. Pennas adspexit in undis;
devovitque suas artes, corpusque sepulcro condidit; et tellus a nomine dicta sepulti. 235

ORPHEUS AND EURYDICE

Orpheus, best of musicians, had married Eurydice, whom he tenderly loved. Soon after, Eurydice was bitten by a serpent and died. Orpheus descended to Hades, made his way into the presence of Pluto and Proserpine, king and queen of the World of Shades, and sang a song of petition, begging that his wife might be restored to him. His prayer was granted, on condition that he should not look back at Eurydice as she followed him on the path to the world of the living. When they had almost reached this world, Orpheus, in love and longing, stole one glance at his wife, and Eurydice vanished, never to return (Metamorphoses, x. 1-77). See Gayley, Classic Myths, pp. 165-168.

INDE per immensum, croceo velatus amictu, aethera digreditur Ciconumque Hymenaeus ad oras tendit, et Orphea nequiquam voce vocatur.

Adfuit ille quidem, sed nec sollemnia verba nec laetos vultus nec felix attulit omen.

5

Fax quoque quam tenuit lacrimoso stridula fumo usque fuit, nullosque invenit motibus ignes.

Exitus auspicio gravior. Nam nupta per herbas dum nova Naïadum turba comitata vagatur, occidit, in talum serpentis dente recepto.

10

Quam satis ad superas postquam Rhodopeïus auras deflevit vates, ne non temptaret et umbras, ad Styga Taenaria est ausus descendere porta, perque leves populos simulacraque functa sepulcro

Persephonen adiit inamoenaque regna tenentem

15 umbrarum dominum; pulsisque ad carmina nervis

sic ait: 'O positi sub terra numina mundi, in quem reccidimus, quicquid mortale creamur!

si licet et, falsi positis ambagibus oris,

vera loqui sinitis, non huc, ut opaca viderem

20

Tartara, descendi, nec uti villosa colubris

terna Medusaei vincirem guttura monstri.

Causa viae est coniunx, in quam calcata venenum vipera diffudit, crescentesque abstulit annos.
Posse pati volui, nec me temptasse negabo: 25
vicit Amor. Supera deus hic bene notus in ora est:
an sit et hic, dubito. Sed et hic tamen auguror esse;
famaque si veteris non est mentita rapinae, vos quoque iunxit Amor. Per ego haec loca plena timoris, per Chaos hoc ingens vastique silentia regni, 30
Eurydices, oro, properata retexite fata!
Omnia debemus vobis, paulumque morati,
serius aut citius sedem properamus ad unam.
Tendimus huc omnes, haec est domus ultima; vosque humani generis longissima regna tenetis. 35
Haec quoque, cum iustos matura peregerit annos, iuris erit vestri: pro munere poscimus usum.
Quod si fata negant veniam pro coniuge, certum est
nolle redire mihi: leto gaudete duorum.’ 40

Talia dicentem nervosque ad verba moventem 40
exsanguis flebant animae; nec Tantalus undam

Virgil tells the story in his Georgics, iv. 454-527.

MAGNA luis commissa: tibi has miserabilis Orpheus altaque Pangaea et Rhesi Mavortia tellus atque Getae atque Hebrus et Actias Orithyia.

 Ipse, cava solans aegrum testudine amorem, te, dulcis coniunx, te solo in litore secum, 465
 te veniente die, te decedente canebat.
 Taenarias etiam fauces, alta ostia Ditis,

Iamque pedem referens casus evaserat omnis, 485

redditaque Eurydice superas veniebat ad auras, pone sequens (namque hanc dederat Proserpina legem),
cum subita incautum dementia cepit amantem, ignoscenda quidem, scirent si ignoscere Manes:

restitit, Eurydicenque suam, iam luce sub ipsa, 490

immemor (heu!) victusque animi, respexit. Ibi omnis effusus labor atque immitis rupta tyranni foedera, terque fragor stagnis auditus Avernīs.

Illa, 'Quis et me,' inquit, 'miseram et te perdidit, Orpheu, quis tantus furor? En iterum crudelia retro 495

fata vocant, conditque natantia lumina somnus.

Iamque vale! Feror ingenti circumdata nocte, invalidasque tibi tendens (heu non tua!) palmas.'

Dixit, et ex oculis subito, ceu fumus in auras commixtus tenuis, fugit diversa, neque illum, 500

prensantem nequiquam umbras et multa volentem dicere, praeterea vidit; nec portitor Orci amplius obiectam passus transire paludem.

Quid faceret? Quo se rapta bis coniuge ferret?

Quo fletu Manis, qua numina voce moveret? 505

Illa quidem Stygia nabat iam frigida cymba.

Septem illum totos perhibent ex ordine menses,

rupe sub aëria deserti ad Strymonis undam, flevisse et gelidis haec evoluisse sub antris, mulcentem tigris et agentem carmine quercus; 510

qualis populea maerens philomela sub umbra amissos queritur fetus, quos durus arator observans nido inplumis detraxit; at illa flet noctem, ramoque sedens miserabile carmen integrat, et maestis late loca questibus implet. 515

MIDAS AND THE GOLDEN TOUCH

Silenus, foster father of Bacchus, is found by Phrygian peasants while he is wandering aimlessly about, and is conducted to their king Midas, an old friend. Midas entertains him hospitably and restores him to his foster son. In gratitude, Bacchus gives Midas his choice of gifts. Midas asks that whatever he touches may turn to gold. The boon proves a curse, for even his food and drink become gold under his magic touch. Midas prays for release. Bacchus bids him bathe in the source of the River Pactolus. The wondrous gift passes from the king to the river, which ever since has rolled down golden sands (Metamorphoses, xi. 85-145). See Gayley, Classic Myths, pp. 157-158.

NEC satis hoc Baccho est: ipsos quoque deserit agros
 cumque choro meliore sui vineta Timoli 86
 Pactolonque petit, quamvis non aureus illo tempore nec caris erat invidiosus harenis.
 Hunc adsueta cohors, Satyri Bacchaeque, frequentant, at Silenus abest. Titubantem annisque meroque 90 ruricolae cepere Phryges, vinctumque coronis ad regem duxere Midan, cui Thracius Orpheus orgia tradiderat cum Cecropio Eumolpo.

MIDAS

- Qui simul agnovit socium comitemque sacrorum, hospitibus adventu festum genialiter egit 95 per bis quinque dies et iunctas ordine noctes.
 Et iam stellarum sublime coegerat agmen Lucifer undecimus, Lydos cum laetus in agros rex venit, et iuveni Silenum reddit alumno.
- Huic deus optandi gratum, sed inutile, fecit 100
 muneris arbitrium, gaudens altore recepto.
 Ille, male usurus donis, ait, 'Effice quicquid corpore contigero fulvum vertatur in aurum.'
 Adnuat optatis nocituraque munera solvit
 Liber, et indoluit quod non meliora petisset. 105
- Laetus abit gaudetque malo Berecynthius heros;
 pollicitique fidem tangendo singula temptat.
 Vixque sibi credens, non alta fronde virentem
 ilice detraxit virgam: virga aurea facta est.
 Tollit humo saxum: saxum quoque palluit auro. 110
 Contigit et glaebam: contactu glaeba potenti massa fit. Arentes Cereris decerpsit aristas:
 aurea messis erat. Dempsum tenet arbore pomum:
 Hesperidas donasse putes. Si postibus altis admovit digitos, postes radiare videntur. 115
 Ille etiam liquidis palmas ubi laverat undis, unda fluens palmis Danaën eludere posset.
 Vix spes ipse suas animo capit, aurea fingens omnia. Gaudenti mensas posuere ministri exstructas dapibus nec tostae frugis egentes. 120 Tum vero, sive ille sua Cerealia dextra munera contigerat, Cerealia dona rigeabant;
 sive dapes avido convellere dente parabat,
 lamina fulva dapes admoto dente premebat.
 Miscuerat puris auctorem muneris undis: 125
 fusile per rictus aurum fluitare videres.

Attonitus novitate mali, divesque miserque,
 effugere optat opes, et quae modo voverat, odit.
 Copia nulla famem relevat; sitis arida guttur urit, et invisio meritus torquetur ab auro. 130

Ad caelumque manus et splendida bracchia tollens,
 'Da veniam, Lenaee pater! Peccavimus,' inquit,
 'sed miserere, precor, speciosoque eripe damno!'
 Mite deum numen Bacchus peccasse fatentem restituit; factique fide data munera solvit. 135

'Neve male optato maneat circumlitus auro, vade,' ait, 'ad magnis vicinum Sardibus amnem,
 perque iugum ripae labentibus obvius undis carpe viam, donec venias ad fluminis ortus; spumigeroque tuum fonti, qua plurimus exit, 140
 subde caput corpusque simul, simul elue crimen.'

Rex iussae succedit aquae. Vis aurea tinxit flumen, et humano de corpore cessit in amnem.
 Nunc quoque iam veteris percepto semine venae arva rigent auro madidis pallentia glaebis. 145

THE DESTRUCTION OF CACUS

One of the tasks imposed on Hercules by Eurystheus was to capture the oxen of Geryon, a three-headed monster who dwelt in the island of Erythia off the coast of Spain. While returning with the cattle, Hercules spent a night in Latium, where Evander, an Arcadian, had established a city called Pallanteum on the site of what was afterwards Rome. There some of the cattle were stolen by Cacus, a fire-breathing giant who lived in a cave on the Aventine Mount. The story of the theft and of the destruction of Cacus by Hercules is found in both Virgil and Ovid. In Virgil (Æneid, viii. 190-267), Evander tells the tale to Æneas, as follows :

I
AM primum saxis suspensam hanc aspice rupem, 190 disiectae procul ut moles desertaque montis stat domus et scopuli ingentem traxere ruinam.

Hic spelunca fuit, vasto summota recessu, semihominis Caci facies quam dira tenebat, solis inaccessam radiis; semperque recenti 195
 caede tepebat humus, foribusque adfixa superbis ora virum tristi pendebant pallida tabo.

Huic monstro Volcanus erat pater: illius atros ore vomens ignis magna se mole ferebat.
 Attulit et nobis aliquando optantibus aetas 200 auxilium adventumque dei. Nam maximus ultor, tergemini nece Geryonae spoliisque superbus, Alcides aderat taurosque hac victor agebat ingentis, vallemque boves amnemque tenebant.

At furiis Caci mens effera, ne quid inausum 205
 aut intractatum scelerisve dolive fuisset, quattuor a stabulis praestanti corpore tauros avertit, totidem forma superante iuventas;
 atque hos, ne qua forent pedibus vestigia rectis, cauda in speluncam tractos versisque viarum 210
 indiciis raptos saxo occultabat opaco:
 quaerenti nulla ad speluncam signa ferebant.

Interea, cum iam stabulis saturata moveret Amphitryoniades armenta abiturumque pararet, discessu mugire boves atque omne querelis 215
 impleri nemus et colles clamore relinqui.

Reddidit una boum vocem vastoque sub antro
 mugiit et Caci spem custodita fefellit.
 Hic vero Alcidae furiis exarserat atro felle dolor: rapit arma manu nodisque gravatum 220
 robur et aërii cursu petit ardua montis.

Tum primum nostri Cacum videre timentem turbatumque oculis: fugit ilicet ocior Euro speluncamque petit, pedibus timor addidit alas.
 Ut sese inclusit ruptisque immane catenis 225
 deiecit saxum, ferro quod et arte paterna pendebat, fultosque emuniit obice postis, ecce furens animis aderat Tirynthius omnemque accessum lustrans huc ora ferebat et illuc, 230 dentibus infrendens. Ter totum fervidus ira lustrat Aventini montem, ter saxea temptat limina nequiquam, ter fessus valle resedit.

Stabat acuta silex, praecisis undique saxis speluncae dorso insurgens, altissima visu, dirarum nidis domus opportuna volucrum. 235
 Hanc, ut prona iugo laevum incumbibat in amnem,
 dexter in adversum nitens concussit et imis avolsam solvit radicibus; inde repente impulit, impulsu quo maximus intonat aether, dissultant ripae refluitque exterritus amnis. 240
 At specus et Caci detecta apparuit ingens regia, et umbrosae penitus patuere cavernae:
 non secus ac si qua penitus vi terra dehiscens infernas reseret sedes et regna recludat pallida, dis invisā, superque immane barathrum 245
 cernatur, trepident immisso lumine Manes.

Ergo insperata depreſsum luce repente incluſumque cavo ſaxo atque inſueta rudentem deſuper Alcides telis premit omniaque arma advocat et ramis vaſtiſque molaribus inſtat. 250
 Ille autem, neque enim fuga iam ſuper ulla pericli, faucibus ingentem fumum (mirabile dictu)
 evomit involvitque domum caligine caeca,

HERCULES AND THE LION

proſpectum eripiens oculis, glomeratque ſub antro fumiferam noctem commixtis igne tenebris. 255
 Non tulit Alcides animis ſequē ipſe per ignem præcipiti iecit ſaltu, qua plurimus undam fumus agit nebulaque ingens ſpecus aëſtuat atra.
 Hic Cacum in tenebris incendia vana vomentem corripit in nodum complexus et angit inhaerens 260 eliſos oculos et ſiccum ſanguine guttur.

Panditur extemplo foribus domus atra revoliſis, abstractaeque boves abiurataeque rapinae caelo ostenduntur, pedibusque informe cadaver protrahitur. Nequeunt expleri corda tuendo 265 terribilis oculos, voltum villosaque saetis pectora semiferi atque exstinctos faucibus ignis.

Ovid (Fasti, i. 543-582) gives this account of the death of Cacus:

ECCCE boves illuc Erytheïdas applicat heros emensus longi claviger orbis iter.
 Dumque huic hospitium domus est Tegeaea, vagantur incustoditae lata per arva boves. 546 Mane erat: excussus somno Tirynthius actor de numero tauros sentit abesse duos.
 Nulla videt quaerens taciti vestigia furti.
 Traxerat aversos Cacus in antra ferox, 550
 Cacus, Aventinae timor atque infamia silvae, non leve finitimis hospitibusque malum.
 Dira viro facies, vires pro corpore, corpus grande (pater monstri Mulciber huius erat), proque domo longis spelunca recessibus ingens, 555
 abdita, vix ipsis invenienda feris.
 Ora super postes adfixaque brachia pendent, squalidaque humanis ossibus albet humus.
 Servata male parte boum Iove natus abibat:
 mugitum rauco furta dedere sono. 560
 'Accipio revocamen,' ait, vocemque secutus
 impia per silvas ultor ad antra venit.
 Ille aditum fracti praestruxerat obice montis:
 vix iuga movissent quinque bis illud opus.
 Nititur hic umeris (caelum quoque sederat illis) 565 et vastum motu conlabefactat onus.
 Quod simul eversum est, fragor aethera terruit ipsum, ictaque subsedit pondere molis humus.

Prima movet Cacus collata proelia dextra remque ferox saxis stipitibusque gerit. 570 Quis ubi nil agitur, patrias male fortis ad artes confugit et flammis ore sonante vomit.
 Quas quotiens proflat, spirare Typhoëa credas et rapidum Aetnaeo fulgur ab igne iaci.
 Occupat Alcides, adductaque clava trinodis 575
 ter quater adverso sedit in ore viri.
 Ille cadit mixtosque vomit cum sanguine fumos et lato moriens pectore plangit humum.
 Immolat ex illis taurum tibi, Iuppiter, unum victor et Euandrum ruricolaeque vocat 580 constituitque sibi, quae Maxima dicitur, aram, hic ubi pars urbis de bove nomen habet.

ARION AND THE DOLPHIN

Arion, a musician and lyric poet of Lesbos, sang so sweetly to the accompaniment of his harp that, like Orpheus, he charmed birds and beasts and running water. Once, as Ovid tells in the following verses (Fasti, ii. 83-118), when threatened with death by sailors who wished to rob him, Arion arrayed himself in his singing robes, played as it were his swan-song, and leaped overboard. A dolphin, charmed by the music, bore him to safety on its back.

QUOD mare non novit, quae nescit Ariona tellus?
 Carmine currentes ille tenebat aquas.
 Saepe sequens agnam lupus est a voce retentus;
 saepe avidum fugiens restitit agna lupum; 86
 saepe canes leporesque umbra iacuere sub una, et stetit in saxo proxima cerva leae;
 et sine lite loquax cum Palladis alite cornix
 sedit, et accipitri iuncta columba fuit. 90 Cynthia saepe tuis fertur, vocalis Arion, tamquam fraternis obstipuisse modis.

ARION AND THE DOLPHIN

Nomen Arionium Siculas impleverat urbes, captaque erat lyricis Ausonis ora sonis.
 Inde, domum repetens, puppem conscendit Arion 95
 atque ita quaesitas arte ferebat opes.
 Forsitan, infelix, ventos undasque timebas?
 At tibi nave tua tutius aequor erat.
 Namque gubernator destricto constitit ense ceteraque armata conscia turba manu. 100
 Quid tibi cum gladio? Dubiam rege, navita, puppem!
 Non haec sunt digitis arma tenenda tuis.
 Ille metu vacuus, 'Mortem non deprecor,' inquit,
 'sed liceat sumpta pauca referre lyra.' Dant veniam ridentque moram. Caput ille coronam, 105
 quae possit crines, Phoebe, decere tuos;
 induerat Tyrio bis tinctam murice pallam;
 reddidit icta suos pollice chorda sonos, flebilibus numeris veluti canentia dura traiectus pinna tempora cantat olor. 110
 Protinus in medias ornatus desilit undas;
 spargitur impulsa caerulea puppis aqua.
 Inde—fide maius—tergo delphina recurvo se memorant oneri supposuisse novo.
 Ille sedens citharamque tenet, pretiumque vehendi, 115
 cantat et aequoreas carmine mulcet aquas.
 Di pia facta vident. Astris delphina recepit Iuppiter et stellas iussit habere novem.

Ut celeri passus Cremeram tetigere rapacem,— 205 turbidus hibernis ille fluebat aquis,— castra loco ponunt; destrictis ensibus ipsi Tyrrhenum valido Marte per agmen eunt, non aliter quam cum Libyca de gente leones invadunt sparsos lata per arva greges. 210 Diffugiunt hostes inhonestaque volnera tergo accipiunt; Tusco sanguine terra rubet.
 Sic iterum, sic saepe cadunt. Ubi vincere aperte non datur, insidias armaque tecta parant.
 Campus erat: campi claudebant ultima colles 215
 silvaeque montanas occulere apta feras.
 In medio paucos armentaque rara relinquunt, cetera virgultis abdita turba latet.
 Ecce velut torrens, undis pluvialibus auctus aut nive quae zephyro victa tepente fluit, 220 per sata perque vias fertur, nec, ut ante solebat, riparum clausas margine finit aquas:
 sic Fabii vallem latis discursibus implent,
 quodque vident, sternunt; nec metus alter inest.
 Quo ruitis, generosa domus? Male creditis hosti! 225
 Simplex nobilitas, perfida tela cave!
 Fraude perit virtus. In apertos undique campos prosiliunt hostes et latus omne tenent.
 Quid faciant pauci contra tot milia fortes?
 Quidve, quod in misero tempore restet, adest? 230
 Sicut aper longe fulvis latrantibus actus fulmineo celeres dissipat ore canes, mox tamen ipse perit: sic non moriuntur inulti volneraque alterna dantque feruntque manu.
 Una dies Fabios ad bellum miserat omnes; 235
 ad bellum miseros perdidit una dies.
 Ut tamen Herculeae superessent semina gentis, credibile est ipsos consuluisse deos.

Nam puer impubes at adhuc non utilis armis unus de Fabia gente relictus erat: 240
 scilicet ut posses olim tu, Maxime, nasci, cui res cunctando restituenda foret.

THE DEIFICATION OF ROMULUS

After a reign of almost forty years, one day, while Romulus was administering the laws, a storm scattered the people. When they returned, he had disappeared. His father, Mars, had taken him up to heaven. Henceforth the Romans worshipped him as the god Quirinus (Ovid, Fasti, ii. 491-512).

EST locus, antiqui Capreae dixere Paludem.
 Forte tuis illic, Romule, iura dabas.
 Sol fugit, et removent subeuntia nubila caelum, et gravis effusis decidit imber aquis.
 Hinc tonat, hinc missis abrumpitur ignibus aether. 495
 Fit fuga. Rex patriis astra petebat equis.
 Luctus erat, falsaeque patres in crimine caedis;
 haesissetque animis forsitan illa fides;
 sed Proculus Longa veniebat Iulius Alba, lunaque fulgebat, nec facis usus erat, 500
 cum subito motu saepes tremuere sinistrae.
 Rettulit ille gradus, horrueruntque comae.
 Pulcher et humano maior trabeaque decorus Romulus in media visus adesse via et dixisse simul, 'Prohibe lugere Quirites, 505 nec violent lacrimis numina nostra suis.
 Tura ferant placentque novum pia turba Quirinum et patrias artes militiamque colant.'
 Iussit, et in tenues oculis evanuit auras.
 Convocat hic populos iussaue verba refert. 510
 Templata deo fiunt, collis quoque dictus ab illo est, et referunt certi sacra paterna dies.

KING NUMA RECEIVES THE ANCILE

In response to King Numa's appeals to Jupiter, an oval shield, called an ancile, was dropped from heaven and came into the possession of the king. This shield was regarded as a pledge of Roman power and its preservation as necessary for the prosperity of Rome. Numa had eleven other shields exactly like it made, that the genuine shield might not be stolen. Every March the twelve shields were carried in procession through the streets of the city by priests called Salii, and were then restored to their place in the Temple of Mars. Ovid gives an account of the reception of the ancile (Fasti, iii. 285-382).

ECCE deum genitor rutilas per nubila flammas 285
 spargit et effusis aethera siccant aquis.
 Non alias missi cecidere frequentius ignes.
 Rex pavet, et volgi pectora terror habet.
 Cui dea 'Ne nimium terrere! Piabile fulmen est,' ait, 'et saevi flectitur ira Iovis. 290 Sed poterunt ritum Picus Faunusque piandi tradere, Romani numen utrumque soli.
 Nec sine vi tradent: adhibeto vincula captis.'
 Atque ita, qua possint erudit arte capi.
 Lucus Aventino suberat niger ilicis umbra, 295 quo posses viso dicere, 'Numen inest!'
 In medio gramen muscoque adoperta virenti manabat saxo vena perennis aquae.
 Inde fere soli Faunus Picusque bibebant.
 Huc venit et fonti rex Numa mactat ovem 300
 plenaque odorati disponit pocula Bacchi, cumque suis antro conditus ipse latet.
 Ad solitos veniunt silvestria numina fontes et relevant multo pectora sicca mero.
 Vina quies sequitur. Gelido Numa prodit ab antro, 305 vinclaque sopitas addit in arta manus.
 Somnus ut abscessit, pugnando vincula temptant rumpere: pugnantes fortius illa tenent.

JUPITER

Tunc Numa: 'Di nemorum, factis ignoscite nostris, si scelus ingenio scitis abesse meo; 310
 quoque modo possit fulmen monstrate piari.'
 Sic Numa; sic quatiens cornua Faunus ait:
 'Magna petis, nec quae monitu tibi discere nostro fas sit. Habent finis numina nostra suos.
 Di sumus agrestes, et qui dominemur in altis 315
 montibus: arbitrium est in sua tela Iovi.
 Hunc tu non poteris per te deducere caelo;
 at poteris nostra forsitan usus ope.'
 Dixerat haec Faunus; par est sententia Pici.
 'Deme tamen nobis vincula,' Picus ait. 320
 'Iuppiter huc veniet, valida perductus ab arte.
 Nubila promissi Styx mihi testis erit.'
 Emissi laqueis quid agant, quae carmina dicant quaque trahant superis sedibus arte Iovem, scire nefas homini. Nobis concessa canentur, 325
 quaeque pio dici vatis ab ore licet.
 Eliciunt caelo te, Iuppiter. Unde minores nunc quoque te celebrant Eliciumque vocant.
 Constat Aventinae tremuisse cacumina silvae, terraque subsedit pondere pressa Iovis. 330
 Corda micant regis, totoque e corpore sanguis
 fugit, et hirsutae deriguere comae.
 Ut rediit animus, 'Da certa piamina,' dixit,
 'fulminis, altorum rexque paterque deum,
 si tua contigimus manibus donaria puris,— 335
 hoc quoque, quod petitur, si pia lingua rogat.'
 Adnuat oranti; sed verum ambage remota abdidit et dubio terruit ore virum.
 'Caede caput' dixit. Cui rex 'Parebimus' inquit:
 'caedenda est hortis eruta cepa meis.' 340
 Addidit hic 'Hominis.' 'Summos,' ait ille, 'capillos.'
 Postulat hic animam; cui Numa 'Piscis' ait.

THE CHARIOT OF THE SUN

Risit et 'His,' inquit, 'facito mea tela procures,
 O vir colloquio non abigende deum.
 Sed tibi, protulerit cum totum crastinus orbem 345
 Cynthus, imperii pignora certa dabo.'
 Dixit, et ingenti tonitru super aethera motum fertur, adorantem destituitque Numam.
 Ille redit laetus memoratque Quiritibus acta.
 Tarda venit dictis difficilisque fides. 350
 'At certe credemur,' ait, 'si verba sequetur exitus. En audi crastina, quisquis ades.
 Protulerit terris cum totum Cynthus orbem, Iuppiter imperii pignora certa dabit.'
 Discedunt dubii, promissaque tarda videntur, 355
 dependetque fides a veniente die.
 Mollis erat tellus rorata mane pruina;
 ante sui populus limina regis adest.
 Prodit, et in solio medius consedit acerno:
 innumeri circa stantque silentque viri. 360

Ortus erat summo tantummodo margine Phoebus:
sollicitae mentes speque metuque pavent.
Constitit atque, caput niveo velatus amictu,
iam bene dis notas sustulit ille manus atque ita, 'Tempus adest promissi muneris,' inquit: 365
'pollicitam dictis, Iuppiter, adde fidem.'
Dum loquitur, totum iam sol emoverat orbem, et gravis aetherio venit ab axe fragor.
Ter tonuit sine nube deus, tria fulmina misit.
Credite dicenti: mira, sed acta, loquor. 370
A media caelum regione dehiscere coepit;
summisere oculos cum duce turba suo.
Ecce levi scutum versatum leniter aura decidit. A populo clamor ad astra venit.
Tollit humo munus, caesa prius ille iuvenca 375
quae dederat nulli colla premenda iugo;
atque ancile vocat, quod ab omni parte recisum est,
quaque notes oculis, angulus omnis abest.
Tunc, memor imperii sortem consistere in illo, consilium multae calliditatis init: 380
plura iubet fieri simili caelata figura, error ut ante oculos insidiantis eat.

TRIPTOLEMUS

While Ceres was seeking her lost daughter, Proserpine, who had been carried down to the Lower World by Pluto to be his queen, she traversed the whole earth. At last in her wanderings she came to the place in Greece where afterwards was the city Eleusis. Here, worn out, she sat down on a stone and for nine days and nights remained there in the open air without sleep or food. Near-by was the humble home of an old man named Celeus, whose son Triptolemus lay sick of a fever. Celeus and his daughter took pity on the tired woman (for they did not know she was a goddess) and persuaded her to come into their cottage. Ovid (Fasti, iv. 507-562) tells how Ceres saved the life of Triptolemus, how she tried in vain to make him immortal, and how she promised that he should teach men to plow, to sow, and to harvest their crops. See Gayley, Classic Myths, pp. 159-161.

FORS sua cuique loco est. Quo nunc Cerealis Eleusin, dicitur hoc Celei rura fuisse senis.

Ille domum glandes excussa que mora rubetis
portat et arsuris arida ligna focis. 510

Filia parva duas redigebat monte capellas, et tener in cunis filius aeger erat.

'Mater!' ait virgo—mota est dea nomine matris—
'Quid facis in solis incommitata locis?'

Restitit et senior, quamvis onus urget, et orat, 515 tectae suae subeat quantulumque casae.

Illa negat. Simularat anum, mitraque capillos presserat. Instanti talia dicta refert:

'Sospes eas semperque parens! Mihi filia rapta est.
Heu, melior quanto sors tua sorte mea est!' 520

Dixit et, ut lacrimae (neque enim lacrimare deorum est), decidit in tepidos lucida gutta sinus.

Flent pariter molles animis virgoque senexque;
e quibus haec iusti verba fuere senis:

- 'Sic tibi, quam raptam quereris, sit filia sospes : 525 surge nec exiguae despice tecta casae !'
 Cui dea 'Duc' inquit. 'Scisti qua cogere posses.'
 Seque levat saxo subsequiturque senem.
 Dux comiti narrat quam sit sibi filius aeger,
 nec capiat somnos invigiletque malis. 530
 Illa soporiferum, parvos initura penates, colligit agresti lene papaver humo.
 Dum legit, oblito fertur gustasse palato longamque imprudens exsoluisse famem.
 Quae quia principio posuit ieiunia noctis, 535
 tempus habent mystae sidera visa cibi.
 Limen ut intravit, luctus videt omnia plena ;
 iam spes in puero nulla salutis erat.
 Matre salutata—mater Metanira vocatur—iungere dignata est os puerile suo. 540 Pallor abit, subitasque vident in corpore vires :
 tantus caelesti venit ab ore vigor.
 Tota domus laeta est (hoc est, materque paterque nataque tres illi tota fuere domus).
 Mox epulas ponunt, liquefacta coagula lacte 545
 pomaque et in ceris aurea mella suis.
 Abstinet alma Ceres, somnique papavera causas dat tibi cum tepido lacte bibenda, puer.
 Noctis erat medium placidique silentia somni :
 Triptoleum gremio sustulit illa suo 550
 terque manu permulsit eum ; tria carmina dixit, carmina mortali non referenda sono, inque foco corpus pueri vivente favilla obruit, humanum purget ut ignis onus.
 Excutitur somno stulte pia mater, et amens, 555
 'Quid facis?' exclamat membraque ab igne rapit.
 Cui dea, 'Dum non es,' dixit, 'sclerata fuisti :
 inrita materno sunt mea dona metu.

CERES

Iste quidem mortalis erit, sed primus arabit et seret et culta praemia tollet humo.' 560 Dixit, et egrediens nubem trahit inque dracones transit et alifero tollitur axe Ceres.

THE FOUNDING OF ROME AND THE DEATH OF REMUS

Romulus and Remus were the grandsons of Numitor, whose kingdom had been stolen from him by his brother Amulius. When they grew up, they put Amulius to death and restored the kingdom to their grandfather. Later it became necessary to build a new city for the growing number of shepherds and farmers under the rule of the two brothers. A question arose as to which of the brothers should have the honor of founding the city. The consultation of the omens by Romulus and Remus; the building of the city wall by Romulus; and the death of Remus, who had leaped over the low wall in derision at its apparent weakness, are described by Ovid in the following verses (Fasti, iv. 809-852):

IAM luerat poenas frater Numitoris, et omne pastorum gemino sub duce volgus erat. 810 Contrahere agrestes et moenia ponere utrique convenit; ambigitur moenia ponat uter.
 'Nil opus est,' dixit 'certamine' Romulus 'ullo:
 magna fides avium est. Experiamur aves.'
 Res placet. Alter adit nemorosi saxa Palati, 815 alter Aventinum mane cacumen init.
 Sex Remus, hic volucres bis sex videt ordine. Pacto statur, et arbitrium Romulus urbis habet.
 Apta dies legitur, qua moenia signet aratro.
 Sacra Palis suberant; inde movetur opus. 820
 Fossa fit ad solidum; fruges iaciuntur in ima et de vicino terra petita solo.
 Fossa repletur humo, plenaque imponitur ara, et novus accenso fungitur igne focus.

VESTA

- Inde premens stivam designat moenia sulco : 825 alba iugum niveo cum bove vacca tulit.
Vox fuit haec regis : 'Condenti, Iuppiter, urbem, et genitor Mavors Vestaque mater, ades!
Quosque pium est adhibere deos, advertite cuncti!
Auspicibus vobis hoc mihi surgat opus. 830
Longa sit huic aetas dominaeque potentia terrae, sitque sub hac oriens occiduusque dies!
Ille precabatur. Tonitru dedit omina laevo Iuppiter, et laevo fulmina missa polo.
Augurio laeti iaciunt fundamina cives, 835 et novus exiguo tempore murus erat.
Hoc Celer urget opus, quem Romulus ipse vocarat,
'Sint'que, 'Celer, curae' dixerat 'ista tuae.
Neve quis aut muros aut factam vomere fossam
transeat, audentem talia dede neci.' 840 Quod Remus ignorans humiles contemnere muros coepit et 'His populus' dicere 'tutus erit?'
Nec mora, transiluit. Rutro Celer occupat ausum.
Ille premit duram sanguinolentus humum.
Haec ubi rex didicit, lacrimas introrsus obortas 845
devorat et clausum pectore volnus habet.
Flere palam non volt exemplaque fortia servat,
'Sic'que 'meos muros transeat hostis!' ait.
Dat tamen exsequias; nec iam suspendere fletum sustinet, et pietas dissimulata patet. 850 Osculaque applicuit posito suprema feretro atque ait, 'Invito frater adempte, vale!'

FLORA'S DELIGHT IN THE SPRING

Ovid makes Flora, goddess of the flowers, delight especially in the Spring (Fasti, v. 207-220).

VERE fruor semper: vere est nitidissimus annus, arbor habet frondes, pabula semper humus.
 Est mihi fecundus dotalibus hortus in agris:

aura fovet, liquidæ fonte rigatur
 aquæ. 210

Hunc meus implevit generoso flore maritus
 atque ait, 'Arbitrium tu, dea, floris habe.'

Sæpe ego digestos volui numerare colores
 nec potui: numero copia maior erat.

Roscida cum primum foliis excussa pruina est, 215
 et variae radiis intepuere comæ, conveniunt pictis incinctæ vestibus Horæ

inque leves calathos munera nostra legunt.

Protinus accedunt Charites nectuntque coronas sartaque caelestes implicitura comas. 220

IPHIGENIA AMONG THE TAURIANS

When the Greeks were gathered at Aulis, ready to set out for Troy, no fair wind filled the sails of their ships. Calchas, a priest, explained the continued calm as due to the anger of Diana, who was offended because Agamemnon, leader of the Greek host, had killed a stag sacred to her. He also declared that the only way to appease the goddess was to offer Agamemnon's own daughter, Iphigenia, as a sacrifice. Agamemnon finally yielded, and preparations were made for the horrible rite. At the last moment, however, Diana was moved to pity. She carried away Iphigenia in a cloud to a distant place on the Black Sea and there made her a priestess in her temple among the barbarous Taurians. Ovid, in one of his Epistles from Pontus (iii. 2. 35-100), recounts an incident that happened while Iphigenia was a priestess of the Tauric Diana. See Gayley, Classic Myths, pp. 280-281, 316.

VOS etiam seri laudabunt saepe nepotes, 35
 claraque erit scriptis gloria vestra meis.
 Hic quoque Sauromatae iam vos novere Getaeque, et tales animos barbara turba probat.
 Cumque ego de vestra nuper probitate referrem (nam didici Getice Sarmaticeque loqui), 40 forte senex quidam, coetu cum staret in illo, reddidit ad nostros talia verba sonos:
 'Nos quoque amicitiae nomen, bone, novimus, hospes,
 quos procul a vobis Pontus et Hister habet.
 Est locus in Scythia (Tauros dixere priores) 45
 qui Getica longe non ita distat humo;
 hac ego sum terra (patriae nec paenitet) ortus.
 Consortem Phoebi gens colit illa deam.
 Templa manent hodie vastis innixa columnis, perque quater denos itur in illa gradus. 50
 Fama refert illic signum caeleste fuisse:
 quoque minus dubites, stat basis orba dea;
 araque, quae fuerat natura candida saxi, decolor adfuso tincta cruore rubet.

DIANA

Femina sacra facit taedae non nota iugali, quae superat Scythicas nobilitate nurus.
 Sacrifici genus est (sic instituere parentes) advena virgineo caesus ut ense cadat.

55

Regna Thoans habuit Maeotide clarus in ora, nec fuit Euxinis notior alter aquis.

60

ORESTES AND THE TAURIANS

Sceptra tenente illo, liquidas fecisse per auras nescio quam dicunt Iphigenian iter, quam levibus ventis sub nube per aethera vectam creditur his Phoebe deposuisse locis.

Praefuerat templo multos ea rite per annos, invita peragens tristia sacra manu;
 cum duo velifera iuvenes venere carina presseruntque suo litora nostra pede.

Par fuit his aetas et amor; quorum alter Orestes, ast Pylades alter: nomina fama tenet.

70

Protinus immitem Triviae ducuntur ad aram, evincti geminas ad sua terga manus.

Spargit aqua captos lustrali Graia sacerdos, ambiit ut fulvas infula longa comas.

Dumque parat sacrum, dum velat tempora vittis, dum tardae causas invenit ipsa morae, "Non ego crudelis, iuvenes. Ignoscite!" dixit, "Sacra suo facio barbariora loco. Ritus is est gentis. Qua vos tamen urbe venitis? quodve parum fausta puppe petistis iter?"	75 80
Dixit. Et audito patriae pia nomine virgo consortes urbis comperit esse suae. "Alteruter votis," inquit, "cadat hostia sacris; ad patrias sedes nuntius alter eat." Ire iubet Pylades carum periturus Oresten; hic negat, inque vices pugnat uterque mori. Exstitit hoc unum quo non convenerit illis; cetera par concors et sine lite fuit. Dum peragunt iuvenes pulchri certamen amoris, ad fratrem scriptas exarat illa notas.	 85 90
Ad fratrem mandata dabat; cuique illa dabantur (humanos casus aspice!) frater erat. Nec mora: de templo rapiunt simulacra Dianae clamque per immensas puppe feruntur aquas. Mirus amor iuvenum, quamvis abiere tot anni, in Scythia magnum nunc quoque nomen habet. Fabula narrata est postquam vulgaris ab illo, laudarunt omnes facta piamque fidem. Scilicet hac etiam, qua nulla ferocior ora est, nomen amicitiae barbara corda movet.	 95 100

PENELOPE TO ULYSSES

In the first letter of the Heroides (vv. 25-84), Ovid makes Penelope chide her husband Ulysses for his long delay in returning home to Ithaca after the fall of Troy. See Gayley, Classic Myths, pp. 338-344.

ARGOLICI rediere duces, altaria fumant, 25
 ponitur ad patrios barbara praeda deos.
 Grata ferunt nymphae pro salvis dona maritis;
 illi victa suis Troïca fata canunt.
 Mirantur iustique senes trepidaeque puellae;
 narrantis coniunx pendet ab ore viri. 30
 Atque aliquis posita monstrat fera proelia mensa, pingit et exiguo Pergama tota mero:
 'Hac ibat Simois, hac est Sigeia tellus, hic steterat Priami regia celsa senis;
 illic Aeacides, illic tendebat Ulixes, 35
 hic alacer missos terruit Hector equos.'
 Omnia namque tuo senior, te quaerere misso, rettulerat nato Nestor, at ille mihi.
 Rettulit et ferro Rhesumque Dolonaque caesos, utque sit hic somno proditus, ille dolo. 40
 Ausus es, O nimium nimiumque oblite tuorum, Thracia nocturno tangere castra dolo
 totque simul mactare viros, adiutus ab uno!
 At bene cautus eras et memor ante mei?
 Usque metu micuere sinus, dum victor amicum 45
 dictus es Ismariis isse per agmen equis.
 Sed mihi quid prodest vestris disiecta lacertis
 Ilios, et murus quod fuit, esse solum, si maneo qualis Troia durante manebam, virque mihi dempto fine carendus abest? 50
 Diruta sunt aliis, uni mihi Pergama restant, incola captivo quae bove victor arat.

Iam seges est ubi Troia fuit, resecandaque falce luxuriat Phrygio sanguine pinguis humus ; semisepulta virum curvis feriuntur aratris 55
ossa ; ruinas occulit herba domos.
Victor abes ; nec scire mihi quae causa morandi,
aut in quo lateas ferreus orbe licet.
Quisquis ad haec vertit peregrinam litora puppim, ille mihi de te multa rogatus abit ; 60
quamque tibi reddat, si te modo viderit usquam, traditur huic digitis charta novata meis.
Nos Pylon, antiqui Neleïa Nestoris arva, misimus : incerta est fama remissa Pylo.
Misimus et Sparten : Sparte quoque nescia veri. 65
Quas habitas terras, aut ubi lentus abes ?
Utilius starent etiam nunc moenia Phoebi (irascor votis heu levis ipsa meis !) :
scirem ubi pugnares, et tantum bella timerem, et mea cum multis iuncta querella foret. 70
Quid timeam ignoro ; timeo tamen omnia demens, et patet in curas area lata meas.
Quaecumque aequor habet, quaecumque pericula tellus,
tam longae causas suspicor esse morae.
Haec ego dum stulte metuo, quae vestra libido est, 75
esse peregrino captus amore potes.
Forsitan et narres quam sit tibi rustica coniunx,
quae tantum lanas non sinat esse rudes.
Fallar, et hoc crimen tenues vanescat in auras, neve, revertendi liber, abesse velis ! 80
Me pater Icarius viduo discedere lecto cogit et immensas increpat usque moras.
Increpet usque licet ! Tua sum, tua dicar oportet :
Penelope coniunx semper Ulixis ero.

PENELOPE AND ULYSSES

DIDO

DIDO TO ÆNEAS

In the seventh letter of the Heroides of Ovid, Dido closes her appeal to the departing Æneas (vv. 181-194). Cf. Æneid, iv. 296 ff.

A SPICIAS utinam quae sit scribentis imago!
 Scribimus, et gremio Troïcus ensis adest;
 perque genas lacrimae strictum labuntur in ensem,
 qui iam pro lacrimis sanguine tinctus erit.
 Quam bene conveniunt fato tua munera nostro! 185
 Instruis impensa nostra sepulcra brevi.
 Nec mea nunc primum feriuntur pectora telo:
 ille locus saevi volnus Amoris habet.
 Anna soror! soror Anna! meae male conscia culpa,
 iam dabis in cineres ultima dona meos. 190

Nec consumpta rogis inscribar 'Elissa Sychaei,' hoc tamen in tumuli marmore carmen erit:
'Praebuit Aeneas et causam mortis et ensem.
Ipsa sua Dido concidit usa manu.'

ARIADNE FALLS IN LOVE WITH THESEUS

King Minos of Crete had a son Androgeos, a champion wrestler, who was murdered by the Athenians, envious of his triumphs. To avenge the murder, Minos forced the Athenians to pay him yearly tribute, consisting of seven young men and seven young women, whom he shut up in the Cretan Labyrinth to be destroyed by the Minotaur, a horrible monster, half-man and half-bull.

Theseus, son of the Athenian king Ægeus, resolved to put an end to the tribute and sailed to Crete to slay the Minotaur. The king's daughter, Ariadne, fell in love with Theseus. She gave him a ball of twine, bidding him unwind the twine as he entered the Labyrinth, so that he might have something to guide him out of the maze. When Theseus left Crete, after slaying the Minotaur, he took Ariadne with him; but he deserted her in the island of Naxos. See Gayley, Classic Myths, pp. 252-257. Catullus (lxiv. 76-102) thus describes the coming of Theseus to Crete and Ariadne's love for him:

NAM perhibent olim, crudeli peste coactam Androgeoneae poenas exsolvere caedis, electos iuvenes simul et decus innuptarum
Cecropiam solitam esse dapem dare Minotauo.
Quis angusta malis cum moenia vexarentur, 80
ipse suum Theseus pro caris corpus Athenis proicere optavit, potius quam talia Cretam funera Cecropiae, nec funera, portarentur;
atque ita, nave levi nitens ac lenibus auris, magnanimum ad Minoa venit sedesque superbas. 85
Hunc simul ac cupido conspexit lumine virgo regia,—quam suavis exspirans castus odores lectulus in molli complexu matris alebat, quales Eurotae progignunt flumina myrtos aurave distinctos educit verna colores,— 90 non prius ex illo flagrantia declinavit lumina quam cuncto concepit corpore flammam funditus atque imis exarsit tota medullis.

 Heu! misere exagitans immiti corde furores, sancte puer, curis hominum qui gaudia misces, 95
 quaeque regis Golgos quaeque Idalium frondosum, qualibus incensam iactastis mente puellam fluctibus in flavo saepe hospite suspirantem!
 Quantos illa tulit languenti corde timores!
 Quanto saepe magis fulgore expalluit auri, 100 cum, saevum cupiens contra contendere monstrum, aut mortem appeteret Theseus aut praemia laudis.

ARIADNE'S LAMENT

Ariadne, deserted by Theseus on the island of Naxos, complains of her desertion (Catullus, lxiv. 132-201).

SICINE me patriis avectam, perfide, ab aris, perfide, deserto liquisti in litore, Theseu?
 Sicine discedens, neglecto numine divum, immemor ah! devota domum periuria portas? 135
 Nullane res potuit crudelis flectere mentis consilium? Tibi nulla fuit clementia praesto immite ut nostri vellet miserescere pectus?
 At non haec quondam blanda promissa dedisti voce mihi, non haec miserae sperare iubebas, 140 sed conubia laeta, sed optatos hymenaeos:
 quae cuncta aerii discernunt inrita venti.
 Nunc iam nulla viro iuranti femina credat,
 nulla viri speret sermones esse fideles, quis dum aliquid cupiens animus praegestit apisci, 145

ARIADNE DESERTED

nil metuunt iurare, nihil promittere parcant;
 sed simul ac cupidae mentis satiata libido est,
 dicta nihil meminere, nihil periuria curant.
 Certe ego te, in medio versantem turbine leti, eripui, et potius germanum amittere crevi quam tibi fallaci supremo in tempore deessem;

150

SCYLLA

pro quo dilaceranda feris dabor alitibusque praeda, neque iniecta tumulabor mortua terra.
 Quanam te genuit sola sub rupe leaena?
 Quod mare conceptum spumantibus expuit undis, quae Syrtis, quae Scylla rapax, quae vasta Charybdis, talia qui reddis pro dulci praemia vita?
 Si tibi non cordi fuerant conubia nostra,
 saeva quod horrebas prisci praecepta parentis,
 at tamen in vestras potuisti ducere sedes,

155

160

quae tibi iucundo famularer serva labore, candida permulcens liquidis vestigia lymphis,
purpureave tuum consternens veste cubile.
Sed quid ego ignaris nequiquam conqueror auris, exsternata malo, quae, nullis sensibus auctae, 165
nec missas audire queunt nec reddere voces?
Ille autem prope iam mediis versatur in undis,
nec quisquam apparet vacua mortalis in alga.
Sic, nimis insultans extremo tempore, saeva
Fors etiam nostris invidit questibus auris. 170
Iuppiter omnipotens, utinam ne tempore primo Gnosia Cecropiae tetigissent litora puppes, indomito nec dira ferens stipendia tauro perfidus in Creta religasset navita funem, nec malus hic, celans dulci crudelia forma 175
consilia, in nostris requiesset sedibus hospes!
Nam quo me referam? Quali spe perdita nitor?
Idaeosne petam montes,—ah! gurgite lato discernens ponti truculentum ubi dividit aequor?
An patris auxilium sperem, quemne ipsa reliqui 180
respersum iuvenem fraterna caede secuta?
Coniugis an fido consoler memet amore,
quine fugit lentos incurvans gurgite remos?
Praeterea nullo litus, sola insula, tecto, nec patet egressus pelagi cingentibus undis; 185
nulla fugae ratio, nulla spes; omnia muta, omnia sunt deserta; ostentant omnia letum.
Non tamen ante mihi languescent lumina morte,
nec prius a fesso secedent corpore sensus, quam iustam a divis exposcam prodita multam 190
caelestumque fidem postrema comprecser hora.
Quare, facta virum multantes vindice poena Eumenides, quibus anguino redimita capillo frons expirantis praeportat pectoris iras, huc, huc adventate, meas audite querelas, 195

 quas ego (vae miserae!) extremis proferre medullis cogor inops, ardens, amenti caeca furore.
 Quae quoniam verae nascuntur pectore ab imo,
 vos nolite pati nostrum vanescere luctum;
 sed, quali solam Theseus me mente reliquit, 200
 tali mente, deae, funestet seque suosque!

OVID'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY

In one of his poems Ovid left to posterity an account of his life (Tristia, iv. 10). An extract follows.

ILLE ego qui fuerim, tenerorum lusor amorum quem legis, ut noris, accipe, posteritas.
 Sulmo mihi patria est, gelidis uberrimus undis,
 milia qui novies distat ab urbe decem.
 Editus hinc ego sum; nec non ut tempora noris, 5 cum cecidit fato consul uterque pari.
 Si quid id est, usque a proavis vetus ordinis heres,
 non sum fortunae munere factus eques.
 Nec stirps prima fui. Genito sum fratre creatus, qui tribus ante quater mensibus ortus erat. 10
 Lucifer amborum natalibus adfuit idem:
 una celebrata est per duo liba dies.
 Haec est armiferae festis de quinque Minervae, quae fieri pugna prima cruenta solet.
 Protinus excolimur teneri, curaue parentis 15
 imus ad insignes urbis ab arte viros.
 Frater ad eloquium viridi tendebat ab aevo, fortia verbosi natus ad arma fori;
 at mihi iam parvo caelestia sacra placebant,
 inque suum furtim Musa trahebat opus. 20

Saepe pater dixit, 'Studium quid inutile temptas?

Maeonides nullas ipse reliquit opes.'

Motus eram dictis totoque Helicone relictō scribere conabar verba soluta modis:

sponte sua carmen numeros veniebat ad aptos;

25

quicquid temptabam dicere, versus erat.

Interea, tacito passu labentibus annis, liberior fratri sumpta mihique toga est,

induiturque umeris cum lato purpura clavo,

et studium nobis, quod ante fuit, manet.

30

Iamque decem frater vitae geminaverat annos, cum perit, et coepi parte carere mei.

Cepimus et tenerae primos aetatis honores,

deque viris quondam pars tribus una fui.

Curia restabat; clavi mensura coacta est;

35

maius erat nostris viribus illud onus;

nec patiens corpus, nec mens fuit apta labori,

sollicitaeque fugax ambitionis eram.

Et petere Aoniae suadebant tuta sorores otia, iudicio semper amata meo.

40

Temporis illius colui fovique poetas, quotque aderant vates, rebar adesse deos.

Saepe suas volucres legit mihi grandior aevo, quaeque necet serpens, quae iuвет herba, Macer.

Saepe suos solitus recitare Propertius ignes, iure sodalicii qui mihi iunctus erat.

45

Ponticus heroo, Bassus quoque clarus iambis dulcia convictus membra fuere mei.

Detinuit nostras numerosus Horatius aures, dum ferit Ausonia carmina culta lyra.

50

Vergilium vidi tantum; nec amara Tibullo tempus amicitiae fata dedere meae.

Successor fuit hic tibi, Galle; Propertius illi;

quartus ab his serie temporis ipse fui.

Utque ego maiores, sic me coluere minores, 55
 notaque non tarde facta Thalia mea est.
 Carmina cum primum populo iuvenalia legi, barba resecta mihi bisve semelve fuit.

OVID'S LAST NIGHT IN ROME

In the Tristia (i. 3. 1-62) Ovid describes the last night he spent in Rome before leaving the city for his place of exile on the Black Sea.

CUM subit illius tristissima noctis imago qua mihi supremum tempus in urbe fuit, cum repeto noctem qua tot mihi cara reliqui,
 labitur ex oculis nunc quoque gutta meis.
 Iam prope lux aderat qua me discedere Caesar 5
 finibus extremae iusserat Ausoniae.
 Nec spatium fuerat, nec mens satis apta parandi:
 torpuerant longa pectora nostra mora.
 Non mihi servorum, comites non cura legendi, non aptae profugo vestis opisve fuit. 10
 Non aliter stupui quam qui Iovis ignibus ictus vivit et est vitae nescius ipse suae.
 Ut tamen hanc animi nubem dolor ipse removit, ut tandem sensus convaluere mei, adloquor extremum maestos abiturus amicos, 15
 qui modo de multis unus et alter erant.
 Uxor amans flentem flens acrius ipsa tenebat,
 imbre per indignas usque cadente genas.
 Nata procul Libycis aberat diversa sub oris:
 non poterat fati certior esse mei. 20
 Quocumque aspiceres, luctus gemitusque sonabant, formaque non taciti funeris intus erat.
 Femina virque meo, pueri quoque, funere maerent;
 inque domo lacrimas angulus omnis habet.

Si licet exemplis in parvo grandibus uti, 25
 haec facies Troiae, cum caperetur, erat.

Iamque quiescebant voces hominumque canumque,
 Lunaque nocturnos alta regebat equos.

Hanc ego suspiciens et ab hac Capitolia cernens, quae nostro frustra iuncta fuere Lari, 30

'Numina vicinis habitantia sedibus,' inquam,
 'iamque oculis numquam templa videnda meis,
 dique relinquendi, quos urbs habet alta Quirini,
 este salutati tempus in omne mihi!

Et quamquam sero clipeum post volnera sumo, 35
 attamen hanc odiis exonerate fugam, caelestique viro, quis me deceperit error

 dicite, pro culpa ne scelus esse putet, ut quod vos scitis, poenae quoque sentiat auctor:

 placato possum non miser esse deo.' 40

Hac prece adoravi superos ego: pluribus uxor, singultu medios impediens sonos.

Illa etiam ante Lares sparsis astrata capillis contigit extinctos ore tremante focos, multaque in adversos effudit verba Penates 45 pro deplorato non valitura viro.

Iamque morae spatium nox praecipitata negabat, versaque ab axe suo Parrhasis Arctos erat.

Quid facerem? Blando patriae retinebar amore;
 ultima sed iussae nox erat illa fugae. 50

A! quotiens aliquo dixi properante, 'Quid urges?
 Vel quo festines ire, vel unde, vide!'

A! quotiens certam me sum mentitus habere horam, propositae quae foret apta viae.

Ter limen tetigi, ter sum revocatus, et ipse 55
 indulgens animo pes mihi tardus erat.

Saepe 'Vale' dicto, rursus sum plura locutus, et quasi discedens oscula multa dedi.

Saepe eadem mandata dedi meque ipse fefelli, respiciens oculis pignora cara meis. 60
 Denique 'Quid propero? Scythia est quo mittimur,' inquam:
 'Roma relinquenda est. Utraque iusta mora est.'

OVID'S SHIP

Ovid praises his ship, and prays that it may carry him safely to the place of his exile on the Black Sea (Tristia, i. 10. 1-14).

EST mihi (sitque, precor!) flavae tutela Minervae, navis, et a picta casside nomen habet.
 Sive opus est velis, minimam bene currit ad auram;
 sive opus est remo, remige carpit iter.
 Nec comites volucris contenta est vincere cursu, 5
 occupat egressas quamlibet ante rates;
 et patitur fluctus fertque assilientia longe
 aequora, nec saevis icta fatiscit aquis.
 Illa, Corinthiacis primum mihi cognita Cenchreis, fida manet trepidae duxque comesque fugae, 10
 perque tot eventus et iniquis concita ventis aequora Palladio numine tuta fuit.
 Nunc quoque tuta, precor, vasti secet ostia Ponti, quasque petit, Getici litoris intret aquas.

THAT YACHT OF MINE!

On his return to Sirmio from Bithynia, Catullus hung up as an offering in a shrine at his villa a model of the ship that had brought him safely home. The poem which follows (iv) seems to have been a dedicatory inscription for the offering.

PHASELLUS ille quem videtis, hospites, ait fuisse navium celerrimus, neque ullius natantis impetum trabis nequisse praeterire, sive palmulis opus foret volare sive linteo. 5
Et hoc negat, minacis Hadriatici negare litus insulasve Cycladas
Rhodumque nobilem horridamque Thraciam Propontida trucemve Ponticum sinum, ubi iste post phasellus antea fuit 10
comata silva: nam Cytorio in iugo loquente saepe sibilum edidit coma.
Amastri Pontica et Cytore buxifer, tibi haec fuisse et esse cognitissima ait phasellus; ultima ex origine 15
tuo stetisse dicit in cacumine, tuo imbuisse palmulas in aequore, et inde tot per impotentia freta erum tulisse, laeva sive dextera vocaret aura, sive utrumque Iuppiter 20 simul secundus incidisset in pedem;
neque ulla vota litoralibus diis sibi esse facta, cum veniret a mari novissimo hunc ad usque limpidum lacum.
Sed haec prius fuere: nunc recondita 25
senet quiete seque dedicat tibi, gemelle Castor et gemelle Castoris.

A HOMESICK POET

In his homesick moments Ovid wrote the following poem from his place of banishment on the Black Sea (Tristia, iii. 8).

NUNC ego Triptolemi cuperem conscendere currus, misit in ignotam qui rude semen humum;
 nunc ego Medae vellem frenare dracones,
 quos habuit fugiens arce, Corinthe, tua;
 nunc ego iactandas optarem sumere pinnas, 5
 sive tuas, Perseu, Daedale, sive tuas:
 ut, tenera nostris cedente volatibus aura,
 aspicerem patriae dulce repente solum, desertaeque domus vultus, memoresque sodales
 caraque praecipue coniugis ora meae! 10
 Stulte, quid haec frustra votis puerilibus optas, quae non ulla tibi fertque feretque dies?
 Si semel optandum est, Augustum numen adora, et quem sensisti, rite precare, deum.
 Ille potest pinnasque tibi currusque volucres 15
 tradere. Det redditum: protinus ales eris.
 Si precer haec (neque enim possum maiora precari),
 ne mea sint timeo vota modesta parum.
 Forsitan hoc olim, cum iam satiaverit iram, tunc quoque sollicita mente rogandus erit. 20
 Quod minus interea est, instar mihi muneris ampli,— ex his me iubeat quolibet ire locis.
 Nec caelum nec aquae faciunt nec terra nec aurae.
 Ei mihi! perpetuus corpora languor habet, seu vitiant artus aegrae contagia mentis, 25
 sive mei causa est in regione mali.
 Ut tetigi Pontum, vexant insomnia, vixque ossa tegit macies nec iuvat ora cibus.

Quique per autumnum percussis frigore primo est color in foliis, quae nova laesit hiems, 30 is mea membra tenet; nec viribus adlevor ullis, et numquam queruli causa doloris abest.
 Nec melius valeo, quam corpore, mente; sed aegra est
 utraque pars aequae, binaque damna fero.
 Haeret et ante oculos veluti spectabile corpus 35
 astat fortunae forma legenda meae;
 cumque locum moresque hominum cultusque sonumque cernimus, et quid sim quid fuerimque subit, tantus amor necis est, querar ut cum Caesaris ira quod non offensas vindicet ense suas. 40
 At quoniam semel est odio civiliter usus, mutato levior sit fuga nostra loco.

WINTER IN THRACE

Ovid thus describes the cold and gloom of Thrace in winter (Tristia, iii. 10. 1-40).

SI quis adhuc istic meminit Nasonis adepti et superest sine me nomen in urbe meum, suppositum stellis numquam tangentibus aequor me sciat in media vivere barbarie.
 Sauromatae cingunt, fera gens, Bessique Getaeque, 5
 quam non ingenio nomina digna meo!
 Dum tamen aura tepet, medio defendimur Histro;
 ille suis liquidus bella repellit aquis.
 At cum tristis Hiems squalentia protulit ora, terraque marmoreo candida facta gelu est, 10
 dum vetat et boreas et nix habitare sub Arcto, tum liquet has gentes axe tremente premi.
 Nix iacet, et iactam nec sol pluviaeque resolvunt, indurat boreas perpetuamque facit.

Ergo ubi deliquit nondum prior, altera venit, 15 et solet in multis bima manere locis.
Tantaque commoti vis est aquilonis ut altas aequet humo turres tectaque rapta ferat.
Pellibus et sutis arcent mala frigora braxis,
20 oraque de toto corpore sola patent. 20
Saepe sonant moti glacie pendente capilli, et nitet inducto candida barba gelu.
Nudaque consistunt, formam servantia testae,
vina; nec hausta meri, sed data frusta bibunt.
Quid loquar ut vincti concrescant frigore rivi, 25
deque lacu fragiles effodiantur aquae?
Ipse, papyrifero qui non angustior amne miscetur vasto multa per ora freto, caeruleos ventis latices durantibus Hister
30 congelat et tectis in mare serpit aquis. 30
Quaque rates ierant, pedibus nunc itur, et undas frigore concretas ungula pulsat equi;
perque novos pontes, subter labentibus undis,
ducunt Sarmatici barbara plaustra boves.
Vix equidem credar; sed cum sint praemia falsi 35
nulla, ratam debet testis habere fidem: 35
vidimus ingentem glacie consistere pontum, lubricaque immotas testa premebat aquas.
Nec vidisse sat est: durum calcavimus aequor,
40 undaque non udo sub pede summa fuit. 40

UPON THE DEATH OF MY LADY'S SPARROW

Catullus (iii) mourns the death of a pet sparrow that had belonged to his sweetheart Clodia, whom he calls Lesbia. With this poem may be compared Burns's poem 'To a Mouse, on turning her up with his plough.'

LUGETE, O Veneres Cupidinesque et quantum est hominum venustiorum!
 Passer mortuus est meae puellae, passer, deliciae meae puellae, quem plus illa oculis suis amabat; 5 nam mellitus erat, suamque norat ipsa tam bene quam puella matrem;
 nec sese a gremio illius movebat,
 sed, circumsiliens modo huc modo illuc,
 ad solam dominam usque pipiabat. 10
 Qui nunc it per iter tenebricosum illuc unde negant redire quemquam.
 At vobis male sit, malae tenebrae
 Orci, quae omnia bella devoratis:
 tam bellum mihi passerem abstulistis. 15
 Vae factum male! Vae miselle passer!
 Tua nunc opera meae puellae flendo turgiduli rubent ocelli.

AN INVITATION TO DINNER

Catullus (xiii) invites Fabullus to dinner, but tells him that he must furnish the meal himself.

CENABIS bene, mi Fabulle, apud me paucis, si tibi di favent, diebus, si tecum attuleris bonam atque magnam cenam, non sine candida puella et vino et sale et omnibus cachinnis. 5

Haec si, inquam, attuleris, venuste noster, cenabis bene; nam tui Catulli plenus sacculus est aranearum.
 Sed contra accipies meros amores seu quid suavius elegantiusve est; nam unguentum dabo quod meae puellae donarunt Veneres Cupidinesque, quod tu cum olfacies, deos rogabis totum ut te faciant, Fabulle, nasum.

10

HOME AGAIN!

Catullus (xxxi) expresses his joy at returning to his villa at Sirmio after a year in Bithynia.

PAENE insularum, Sirmio, insularumque ocelle, quascumque in liquentibus stagnis marique vasto fert uterque Neptunus, quam te libenter quamque laetus invisio,
 vix mi ipse credens Thyniam atque Bithynos liquisse campos et videre te in tuto!
 O quid solutis est beatius curis, cum mens onus reponit, ac peregrino labore fessi venimus larem ad nostrum desideratoque adquiescimus lecto?
 Hoc est quod unum est pro laboribus tantis.
 Salve, O venusta Sirmio, atque ero gaude!
 Gaudete vosque, O Lydiae lacus undae!
 Ridete, quidquid est domi cachinnorum!

FAREWELL TO BITHYNIA!

Out of pure joy at the prospect of leaving Bithynia on his homeward journey Catullus wrote the following poem (xlv).

IAM ver egelidos refert tepores;
 iam caeli furor aequinoctialis iucundis Zephyri silescit auris.
 Linquantur Phrygii, Catulle, campi, Nicaeaeque ager uber aestuosae; 5
 ad claras Asiae volemus urbes.
 Iam mens praetrepidans avet vagari;
 iam laeti studio pedes vigescunt.
 O dulces comitum valete coetus, longe quos simul a domo profectos 10
 diversae variae viae reportant!

AT THE TOMB OF A BROTHER

While in Asia Minor, Catullus made funeral offerings at the tomb of his brother, who had died and been buried in the Troad some time before. In connection with the offering he wrote verses of farewell (ci).

MULTAS per gentes et multa per aequora vectus advenio has miseras, frater, ad inferias, ut te postremo donarem munere mortis et mutam nequiquam adloquerer cinerem, quandoquidem fortuna mihi tete abstulit ipsum, 5
 heu miser indigne frater adempte mihi!
 Nunc tamen interea haec, prisco quae more parentum tradita sunt tristi munere ad inferias, accipe fraterno multum manantia fletu, atque in perpetuum, frater, ave atque vale! 10

THANKS TO CICERO

Cicero on some unknown occasion gave Catullus assistance, either at law or in the Forum. Catullus expresses his thanks in these verses (xlix).

ODE TO AUGUSTUS

An ode addressed by Horace to the Emperor Augustus, praying that he may live long as the guide and guardian of the Roman state (Odes, i. 2).

IAM satis terris nivis atque dirae grandinis misit pater, et rubente dextera sacras iaculatus arcis
 terruit urbem,

terrui gentis, grave ne rediret saeculum Pyrrhae nova monstra questae, omne cum Proteus pecus egit altos visere montis,

5

piscium et summa genus haesit ulmo, nota quae sedes fuerat columbis, et superiecto pavidae natarunt aequore dammae.

10

CICERO

THE TIBER AS A RIVER GOD

Vidimus flavum Tiberim, retortis litore Etrusco violenter undis, ire deiectum monumenta regis templaque Vestae,

15

Iliae dum se nimium querenti iactat ultorem, vagus et sinistra labitur ripa, Iove non probante, uxorius amnis.

20

Audiet civis acuisse ferrum, quo graves Persae melius perirent;
audiet pugnas vitio parentum
 rara iuventus.

Quem vocet divum populus ruentis imperi rebus? Prece qua fatigent virgines sanctae minus audientem carmina Vestam?

25

AUGUSTUS

Cui dabit partis scelus expiandi Iuppiter? Tandem venias precamur, 30 nube candentis umeros amictus, augur Apollo;

sive tu mavis, Erycina ridens,
quam Iocus circum volat et Cupido;
sive neglectum genus et nepotes 35
respicis, auctor,

heu! nimis longo satiate ludo,
quem iuvat clamor galeaeque leves acer et Marsi peditis cruentum vultus in hostem; 40

sive mutata iuvenem figura ales in terris imitatis almae filius Maiae, patiens vocari Caesaris ultor:

serus in caelum redeas diuque 45
laetus intersis populo Quirini, neve te nostris vitiis iniquum ocior aura

tollat; hic magnos potius triumphos, hic ames dici pater atque princeps, 50
neu sinas Medos equitare inultos te duce, Caesar!

THE SHIP OF STATE

The ship of state is shattered by the civil wars and cannot weather another storm. Let her seek safety in harbor and there rest in peace (Odes, i. 14).

NAVIS, referent in mare te novi fluctus! O quid agis? Fortiter occupa portum! Nonne vides ut nudum remigio latus

et malus celeri saucius Africo 5 antemnaeque gemant ac sine funibus vix durare carinae possint imperiosius

aequor? Non tibi sunt integra lintea, non di quos iterum pressa voces malo. 10
Quamvis Pontica pinus, silvae filia nobilis,

iactes et genus et nomen inutile, nil pictis timidus navita puppibus fdit. Tu nisi ventis 15
debes ludibrium, cave.

Nuper sollicitum quae mihi taedium, nunc desiderium curaque non levis, interfusa nitentis
vites aequora Cycladas! 20

INTEGER VITAE

Horace declares that an innocent and victorious man need fear no dangers (Odes, i. 22). Cf. Milton, Comus, 589-590:

Virtue may be assailed, but never hurt,
Surprised by unjust force, but not enthralled.

INTEGER vitae scelerisque purus non eget Mauris iaculis neque arcu nec venenatis gravida sagittis, Fusce, pharetra,

sive per Syrtis iter aestuosas 5
sive facturus per inhospitalem Caucasum vel quae loca fabulosus lambit Hydaspes.

Namque me silva lupus in Sabina, dum meam canto Lalagen et ultra 10
terminum curis vagor expeditis, fugit inermem,—

quale portentum neque militaris Daunias latis alit aesculetis nec Iubae tellus generat, leonum 15
arida nutrix.

Pone me pigris ubi nulla campis arbor aestiva recreatur aura, quod latus mundi nebulae malusque Iuppiter urget; 20

pone sub curru nimium propinqui solis, in terra domibus negata:
 dulce ridentem Lalagen amabo, dulce loquentem.

DIVINE PROVIDENCE

For a time Horace believed, with the Epicureans, that the gods, if they exist at all, do not manifest themselves to mortals or concern themselves with human affairs, but live apart in

The lucid interspace of world and world,
 Where never creeps a cloud or moves a wind. . .
 Nor sound of human sorrow mounts to mar
 Their everlasting calm.

In the following ode, however, he tells us that his confidence in that senseless creed (insanientis sapientiae) has become shaken; for he has heard something that the Epicureans declare to be a physical impossibility but that the common people accept as a voice of God, namely, thunder out of a clear sky (Odes, i. 34).

PARCUS deorum cultor et infrequens, insanientis dum sapientiae consultus erro, nunc retrorsum vela dare atque iterare cursus cogor relictos. Namque Diespiter, 5 igni corusco nubila dividens plerumque, per purum tonantis egit equos volucremque currum, quo bruta tellus et vaga flumina, quo Styx et invisi horrida Taenari 10

 sedes Atlanteusque finis concutitur. Valet ima summis mutare et insignem attenuat deus, obscura promens. Hinc apicem rapax Fortuna cum stridore acuto sustulit; hic posuisse gaudet.

THE GOLDEN MEAN

In this ode, one of the most famous and finished of his poems, Horace sets forth his favorite doctrine of the golden mean, or moderation in all things, as the best guide for conduct (Odes, ii. 10).

RECTIUS vives, Licini, neque altum semper urgendo neque, dum procellas cautus horrescis, nimium premendo litus iniquum.

Auream quisquis mediocritatem diligit, tutus caret obsoleti sordibus tecti, caret invidenda sobrius aula.

5

Saepius ventis agitur ingens pinus, et celsae graviore casu decidunt turres, feriuntque summos fulgura montis.

10

Sperat infestis, metuit secundis alteram sortem bene praeparatum pectus. Informis hiemes reducit Iuppiter; idem

15 submovet. Non, si male nunc, et olim sic erit. Quondam cithara tacentem suscitât musam neque semper arcum tendit Apollo.

20

ATLAS

Rebus angustis animosus atque fortis appare; sapienter idem contrahes vento nimium secundo turgida vela.

EVER THE GOLDEN MEAN

Horace, happy and contented in his small property and in the possession of good character and good friends, contrasts his own lot with that of some unnamed person who is never satisfied with what he has acquired but goes on adding to his property and constructing buildings, forgetting that death ends all both for the poor and for the rich (Odes, ii. 18).

NON ebur neque aureum mea renidet in domo lacunar;
 non trabes Hymettiae
 premunt columnas ultima recisas Africa; neque Attali 5
 ignotus heres regiam occupavi, nec Laconicas mihi
 trahunt honestae purpuras clientae:
 at fides et ingeni
 benigna vena est, pauperemque dives 10 me petit. Nihil supra
 deos lacesso nec potentem amicum largiora flagito,
 satis beatus unicus Sabinis.
 Truditur dies die 15
 novaeque pergunt interire lunae:
 tu secanda marmora
 locas sub ipsum funus, et sepulcri immemor struis domos, marisque Bais obstrepentis urges 20

APOLLO

 parum locuples continente ripa.
 Quid quod usque proximos revellis agri terminos et ultra

 Nulla certior tamen

THE GOLDEN MEAN IN LIFE

In one of the poems of the Tristia (iii. 4. 1-34), Ovid, out of his own experience, advises a friend that there is a golden mean which will bring peace and comfort in life.

MIHI care quidem semper, sed tempore duro cognite, res postquam procubuere meae:
usibus edocto si quicquam credis amico,
vive tibi et longe nomina magna fuge.
Vive tibi, quantumque potes, praelustria vita:	5
saevum praelustri fulmen ab igne venit.
Nam quamquam soli possunt prodesse potentes,
non prosit potius, si quis obesse potest.
Effugit hibernas demissa antemna procellas,
lataque plus parvis vela timoris habent.	10
Aspicias ut summa cortex levis innatet unda cum grave nexa simul retia mergat onus?
Haec ego si monitor monitus prius ipse fuisset,
in qua debebam forsitan urbe forem.
Dum tecum vixi, dum me levis aura ferebat,	15
haec mea per placidas cumba cucurrit aquas.
Qui cadit in plano (vix hoc tamen evenit ipsum),
sic cadit ut tacta surgere possit humo;
at miser Elpenor, tecto delapsus ab alto,
occurrit regi debilis umbra suo.	20

Quid fuit ut tutas agitare Daedalus alas,
 Icarus immensas nomine signet aquas?
 Nempe quod hic alte, demissius ille volabat;
 nam pennas ambo non habuere suas.
 Crede mihi: bene qui latuit, bene vixit, et intra 25
 fortunam debet quisque manere suam.
 Non foret Eumedes orbus, si filius eius stultus Achilleos non adamasset equos;
 non natum in flamma vidisset, in arbore natus, cepisset genitor si Phaëthonta Merops. 30
 Tu quoque formida nimium sublimia semper, propositique, precor, contrahe vela tui.
 Nam pede inoffenso spatium decurrere vitae dignus es et fato candidiore frui.

TRUE MANLINESS

In this ode Horace declares that to cultivate the characteristic Roman virtues of manly courage and loyalty (virtus and fides) is the best object that a young man can have as he sets out in life (Odes, iii. 2).

AUGUSTAM amice pauperiem pati robustus acri militia puer condiscat, et Parthos ferocis vexet eques metuendus hasta, vitamque sub divo et trepidis agat 5 in rebus. Illum ex moenibus hosticis matrona bellantis tyranni prospiciens et adulta virgo suspiret (eheu!) ne rudis agminum sponsus lacesat regius asperum 10

 tactu leonem, quem cruenta per medias rapit ira caedes.

Dulce et decorum est pro patria mori.
Mors et fugacem persequitur virum, nec parcit imbellis iuventae poplitibus timidoque tergo. 15

Virtus, repulsae nescia sordidae, intaminatis fulget honoribus, nec sumit aut ponit securis arbitrio popularis aerae. 20

Virtus, recludens immeritis mori caelum, negata temptat iter via, coetusque vulgaris et udam spernit humum fugiente penna.

Est et fideli tuta silentio merces. Vetabo qui Cereris sacrum vulgarit arcanæ sub isdem sit trabibus fragilemque mecum 25

solvat phaselon. Saepe Diespiter neglectus incesto addidit integrum;
raro antecedentem scelestum deseruit pede Poena claudo. 30

REGULUS

The Romans always pointed to Regulus as a man of honor and a true patriot. While in command of an army in Africa in the First Punic War, he was defeated by the Carthaginians and captured. They sent him to Rome with an embassy to ask for an exchange of prisoners. He gave his word that he would return if the exchange were not effected. On arriving in Italy, he refused to kiss his wife and children, because, being a prisoner, he was no longer a Roman citizen and was unfit to associate with his family or friends. He persuaded the senate to refuse the exchange, and went back to suffer torture and death. Horace celebrates Regulus in one of his Odes (iii. 5. 41-56).

FERTUR pudicae coniugis osculum parvosque natos, ut capitis minor, ab se removisse et virilem torvus humi posuisse voltum, donec labantis consilio patres 45

firmaret auctor numquam alias dato, interque maerentis amicos
egregius properaret exsul.

Atqui sciebat quae sibi barbarus 50 tortor pararet. Non aliter tamen dimovit obstantis propinquos et populum reditus morantem quam si clientum longa negotia,

diiudicata lite, relinqueret, tendens Venafranos in agros 55
aut Lacedaemonium Tarentum.

TO THE SPRING OF BANDUSIA

An ode (iii. 13) written by Horace to a spring that was very dear to him. Perhaps it was near his birthplace at Venusia, perhaps on his own Sabine farm.

FONS Bandusiae, splendidior vitro, dulci digne mero non sine floribus,
cras donaberis haedo,
cui frons turgida cornibus primis et venerem et proelia destinat: 5 frustra; nam gelidos inficiet tibi rubro sanguine rivos, lascivi suboles gregis.

Te flagrantis atrox hora Caniculae nescit tangere, tu frigus amabile 10 fessis vomere tauris
praebes et pecori vago.

Fies nobilium tu quoque fontium, me dicente cavis impositam ilicem saxis unde loquaces 15
lympphae desiliunt tuae.

AN ANCIENT OXCART

THE GOLDEN AGE

In the Golden Age, when Saturn reigned, there were no roads for travel, and men lived happily in their native homes. There were no ships either, and therefore no foreign trade. All was peace and plenty. But now, under Jupiter's rule, there is war, there is seafaring, there are countless ways of sudden death (Tibullus, i. 3. 35-50).

QUAM bene Saturno vivebant rege, priusquam 35
 tellus in longas est patefacta vias!
 Nondum caeruleas pinus contempserat undas, effusum ventis praebueratque sinum,
 nec vagus, ignotis repetens compendia terris, presserat externa navita merce ratem. 40
 Illo non validus subiit iuga tempore taurus;
 non domito frenos ore momordit equus;
 non domus ulla fores habuit; non fixus in agris,
 qui regeret certis finibus arva, lapis.

Ipsae mella dabant quercus, ultroque ferebant 45
 obvia securis ubera lactis oves.
 Non acies, non ira fuit, non bella, nec ensem
 immiti saevus duxerat arte faber.
 Nunc Iove sub domino caedes et volnera semper, nunc mare, nunc leti mille repente viae. 50

Ovid gives a similar description of the Golden Age in his Metamorphoses, i. 89-112.

AUREA prima sata est aetas, quae vindice nullo, sponte sua, sine lege fidem rectumque colebat; 90
 poena metusque aberant, nec verba minacia fixo aere legebantur, nec supplex turba timebat

NOTES

I. THE ÆNEID

BOOK I

1. Arma virumque: this is the theme of the Æneid, — the conflicts attending the settlement of the Trojans in Italy, and the adventures of the hero (first named in v. 92) who led the expedition from Troy. The wars in Italy are described in Books vii–xii, and the adventures in Books i–vi. For construction see Introd. § 37. — Troiae: see the account of the Trojan War, Introd., pp. 11–12. — primus venit: the Trojan Antenor came to northern Italy before Æneas (v. 242); but Virgil here disregards his arrival, perhaps because northern Italy (Cisalpine Gaul) was not until 42 B.C. regarded as belonging to Italy proper.

2. Italiam: acc. of place to which, with the preposition omitted (Introd. § 47). — fato: abl. of means with profugus (Introd. § 55). — profugus: Æneas was not a mere adventurer, but was driven from his home by fate; the verbal adjective is equivalent to a perf. participle, exiled. — Lavinia litora: i.e. the shores of Latium. Lavinium, an ancient town in Latium, was thought to have been the original Trojan settlement in Italy, and to have been named after Lavinia (daughter of Latinus, king of the Latins), whom Æneas married. Lavinia is pronounced in three syllables, the last i having the sound of y, and being treated as a consonant (Introd. § 112).

3. multum: adv. acc. with the participle iactatus (Introd. § 41). — ille: repeats the subject (qui, v. 1) with emphasis, the man [who was] long (lit. much) tossed about. — terris, alto: abl. of place where, with preposition omitted (Introd. § 67).

4. vi: the immediate cause, while ob iram is the more remote cause. — superum: gen. pl. m. (Introd. § 91, c). — memorem, ever-mindful: this adj. logically belongs with Iunonis, but it is poetically transferred to iram. Juno is represented as filled with a relentless hatred of Troy, which does not stop at the destruction of the city but pursues Æneas into his distant exile.

NOTE. The grammars cited are those of Allen and Greenough (A.), D'Ooge (D.), Bennett (B.), and Gildersleeve and Lodge (G.) References with Introd. and the mark § are to the Grammatical Summary in the Introduction.

5. multa quoque et bello passus, and who likewise suffered much in war also. The participle passus, having suffered, may be translated by a relative clause. — quoque connects multa passus with multum iactatus: Æneas' sufferings did not end with his arrival, but continued in the subsequent wars. — bello: for case see Introd. § 67. — dum conderet, until he could found: the clause denotes purpose (A. 553; D. 765; B. 293, III, 2; G. 572); although the gods thwarted him to please Juno, yet they meant that he should succeed in the end. — urbem: Lavinium.

6. deos, his gods: i.e. the penates, or household gods, statues of whom Æneas carried with him (v. 68). From ii. 717–720 they appear to be the special gods of Æneas' household, but other passages treat them as gods of the Trojan state (so ii. 293). — Latium: dat. after inferret (Introd. § 27). — genus Latinum: Æneas, having married Lavinia and founded the town Lavinium, succeeded Latinus as king and united the Trojans and Latins into one people.

7. Albani patres . . . Romae: Ascanius, son of Æneas, founded Alba Longa, from which city Romulus and Remus came to found Rome. Virgil has in mind, also, great senatorial families of his time, which traced their descent from Alba Longa, and so back to Troy.

8. Musa, etc.: Virgil follows the regular epic method, invoking the Muse, and referring all the plot to the gods. — mihi: final i of this word may be either long or short; A. 604, f, exc.; D. 961; B. 363, 3; G. 707, 4, exc. 4. — quo numine laeso, what divine purpose [of Juno] having been thwarted: abl. abs. (Introd. § 65).

9. quid, feeling pain at what; doleo is often transitive. — regina deum: i.e. Juno, wife of Jupiter, identified with the Greek Hera as the enemy of the Trojans, and with the Phœnician Astarte as the patroness of Carthage. — deum: see n. on superum, v. 4. — volvere, to run the round of (as if the misfortunes were a circle arranged by destiny). For inf. see Introd. § 79.

10. pietate includes the devotion of Æneas to his father as well as his reverence for the gods. The gods could pursue with vengeance even a pious man, either because under the power of Fate he thwarted their purposes, or because his ancestors had committed crimes. For case see Introd. § 52.

11. impulerit: indir. question; A. 574; D. 812; B. 300, 1; G. 467. — animis: dat. of possessor; supply sunt (Introd. § 29). — irae, wrath; for use of plur. see Introd. § 96.

12. antiqua: i.e. in reference to Virgil's time. Carthage was founded by Phœnicians from Tyre about three centuries later than the date (1184 B.C.) traditionally assumed for the fall of Troy. — tenuere: for form see Introd. § 91, l; eam is to be supplied. Such omission of words is common in poetry.

13. longe: modifying contra.

14. ostia: for plur. see Introd. § 96. — opum: gen. of specification with dives, a poetical construction (Introd. § 17). — studiis, in its passion for: abl. of specification (Intro. § 63). Virgil had in mind the experience of Rome in the Punic Wars. — belli: obj. gen. with studiis (Intro. § 14).

15. quam . . . coluisse, which Juno is said to have cherished: Intro. § 80. The gods were supposed to be especially fond of the places where they were most worshipped, or whence their worship first came. — terris omnibus: abl. of comparison (Intro. § 54); omnibus = ceteris. — unam: often used with superlatives for emphasis; here magis omnibus = a superlative.

16. posthabita Samo, holding [even] Samos in less regard: abl. abs. (Intro. § 65). Juno had an old and famous temple at Samos. See Fig. 1 (from a coin). — Samo; hic: hiatus (Intro. § 108). — illius: note the short i (Intro. § 111). — arma, currus: Juno is sometimes represented with shield and spear; see Fig. 2 (from coins).

The reference here is probably to some arms long preserved as relics in her temple.

17. hoc refers to Carthage but takes the gender of regnum: A. 296, a; B. 246, 5; G. 211, R.⁵ — tenditque fovetque, this the goddess — if by any means the fates permit — already aims and fondly hopes to make the seat of royal power for the nations. — gentibus: dat. of reference (Intro. § 31). — esse: cf. the inf. with impulerit, v. 9.

18. fata: even the gods must yield to the fates. — sinant: fut. protasis, of which the apodosis is absorbed in tendit esse, etc. — iam tum, even then, while Carthage was in its infancy and before Rome was founded.

19. sed enim, but [she feared for Carthage] for, etc., referring to the doubt implied in si . . . sinant: the context easily suggests the words omitted in such an ellipsis. — duci: pres. tense, because Æneas, the founder of the race, was still living.

20. Tyrias: i. e. Carthaginian (cf. v. 12). — quae verteret, which was to overthrow: rel. clause of purpose; A. 531; D. 715; B. 282, 2; G. 630.

21. populum late regem, a people widely ruling. The noun regem is used as an adj., and so may be modified by the adv. late: A. 321, c; D. 506, b; G. 288, R. — bello: see Intro. § 63. Cf. Milton, Comus, 33: "An old and haughty nation, proud in arms."

22. excidio Libyae: double dative (Introd. § 33). Libya, the name of a district in northern Africa, is here used for all of Africa under Carthaginian rule. — sic volvere Parcas, so the Fates spin [the thread of destiny]. Three Parcae, or Destinies, are conceived as spinning the threads of human fate: Clotho holds a spindle; Lachēsis draws the thread, and Atrōpos cuts it off. Notice that Fate, or the Fates, have now been mentioned three times.

23. veteris belli: the Trojan War (Introd., p. 11). — Saturnia, daughter of Saturn, is subj. of arcebat, v. 31. Saturnus was an ancient Italian divinity of agriculture, identified with the Greek Cronos and thus regarded as the father of Jupiter (Zeus), Juno (Hera), Ceres, Neptune, and Pluto. His reign in Italy was regarded as a Golden Age of peace and plenty.

24. prima, as chief: Juno had taken the lead in helping the Greeks. — ad Troiam, round Troy: A. 428, d; D. 431; B. 182, 3; G. 386, *R.*² — pro caris Argis: Juno (Hera) was worshipped with especial veneration at Argos, where she had a great temple. Argos is here put for all Greece.

25. necdum etiam, nor even now. — irarum: plur., referring to the many manifestations of her wrath (Introd. § 96).

26. animo: Introd. § 68. — alta mente, etc., laid away deep in her mind (Introd. § 67). — repostum for repositum: Virgil sometimes uses forms from which a syllable has been omitted (cf. i. 249; ii. 379); such forms are called syncopated (Introd. § 91, n).

27. iudicium Paridis: Introd., p. 12. Tennyson's Ænone tells the story. — spretæ iniuria formæ, the insult to (lit. of) her slighted beauty; i.e. the disparagement shown to her beauty in the decision of Paris. For construction see A. 497; D. 866; B. 337, 6.

28. genus invisum: Juno hated the Trojans also from jealousy, since Dardanus, the founder of the Trojan race, was son of Jupiter and Electra. — rapti Ganymedis honores: the selection of Ganymede, Priam's brother, to be cupbearer of the gods in place of Juno's daughter, Hebe, was a third reason for Juno's hatred of the Trojans. Ganymede was carried off to Olympus by an eagle.

29. his accensa, inflamed by these things, i.e. what has been told in the foregoing verses: for case of his see Introd. § 55. — super (= insuper), besides, i.e. in addition to her anxiety for Carthage. — aequore: Introd. § 67.

30. Troas: Greek acc. plur. of Trōs (Introd. § 92). — reliquias Danaum, those left by the Greeks, i.e. those who escaped from them. For Danaum see Introd. §§ 91, c; 8. — Achilli: a Greek noun (Introd. § 93).

31. Latio: abl. of separation (Introd. § 49).

32. errabant, had wandered (and still were wandering); A. 471, b; D. 654; B. 260, 4; G. 234. — circum: for position of preposition see Introd. § 89, d.

33. tantæ molis, [a task] of so great toil it was: gen. of quality in the predicate, limiting condere, subj. of erat (Introd. § 12).

34. Here begins the account of the wanderings of the Trojans. The story is begun in the middle. The Trojans have passed in Sicily the sixth winter of their wanderings, have just left Drepanum (iii. 707), and are now sailing away for Italy, as they hope. The earlier adventures are told by the hero himself (books ii and iii). This is a natural device to rouse interest (as in many modern novels). Cf. Paradise Lost, which, as Milton himself says, "hastes into the midst of things, presenting Satan with his angels now fallen into hell" (i. 50), the story of their fall not being fully told until v. 563 ff.

35. dabant, they (the Trojans) were spreading. — laeti: they thought that the end of their wanderings was near. — salis, of the sea (lit. salt): Introd. §§ 98, 99. — aere, bronze beaks (of the ships). The most ancient metal work was made of bronze, an alloy of copper and tin, much easier to melt than pure copper, as well as harder. — ruebant, were ploughing up; ruo = eruo.

36. cum Iuno . . . secum, sc. loquitur. The construction with "cum inverse" would require the omitted verb in the indic.: A. 546, a; D. 751; B. 288, 2; G. 581. — sub pectore, in her heart.

37. mene . . . desistere, what! I desist! (Introd. § 83). — incepto: Introd. § 49.

38. nec posse, and be unable. — Italia: for construction cf. Latio, τ. 31. — Teucrorum, of the Trojans, often called Teucri from their earliest (mythical) king, Teucer. See Introd. § 98.

39. quippe, to be sure (expressing indignation by giving an ironical explanation of the facts). — Pallasne . . . potuit: i.e. could Pallas do this while I, the queen of the gods, am baffled in my efforts? This is a reply to the ironical suggestion of vetor.

40. Argivum: for form see Introd. § 91, c. Pallas destroyed the fleet of Ajax Oileus when the Greeks were returning from Troy. — ipsos, the men themselves. — ponto: either means, or place where.

41. unius: opposed to classem, — a whole fleet for one man's crime. — furias, madness (Introd. § 96). The great crimes of antiquity were thought to have been committed in a frenzy induced by the Furies, the agents of divine wrath. Hence furiae is often used of ungovernable passion. Ajax, son of Oileus (a hero less distinguished than Ajax, son of Telamon), is said to have offered violence to Cassandra, daughter of Priam and priestess of Pallas, and that, too, at the altar of the goddess. — Oilei: trisyllabic; ei is read as one syllable (synizesis: Introd. § 115).

42. ipsa iaculata, hurling with her own hands. Pallas was the only deity except Jupiter who might wield the thunderbolt. See Fig. 3 (from a coin).

43. que . . . que, both . . . and (or simply and).

44. illum: Ajax. — pectore: abl. of separation (Introd. § 49).

45. turbine: abl. of means (Intro. § 55). — infixit, impaled. — scopulo: either dat. (Intro. § 27) or abl. (§ 67). Cf. Paradise Lost, ii. 178 ff.:

While we, perhaps,
Designing or exhorting glorious war,
Caught in a fiery tempest, shall be hurl'd
Each on his rock transfix'd, the sport and prey
Of racking whirlwinds.

46. ast: old form of at. — incedo, move: the word suggests dignity by mentioning the gait at all when there is no need of it. The gait (incessus) of the gods was supposed to be an even, gliding movement, not the mere human act of walking. Cf. Gray, Progress of Poesy (of Venus): "In gliding state she wins her easy way."

47. annos: Intro. § 46.

48. gero, have been (and still am) waging; A. 466; D. 650; B. 259, 4; G. 230: cf. n. on errabant, v. 32. — quisquam: implying a negative; A. 311; D. 573; B. 252, 4; G. 317. — adoret: deliberative subjunc.; A. 444; D. 678; B. 277; G. 466.

49. praeterea, any more, or hereafter. — aris: dat. (Intro. § 27). — imponet: the future in this usage differs little from the deliberative subjunctive. — honorem, an offering.

50. corde: Intro. § 67.

51. patriam, luctantis, indignantes: since these words belong strictly only to persons, their use makes a lively personification of the winds. — austis: one of the most violent winds used for them all (Intro. § 66).

52. Aeoliam: one of the Lipari Islands, northeast of Sicily. — Aeolus: god of the winds. Ulysses was said to have visited his island and to have received from him — to ensure good weather — the winds tied up in a bag; but the sailors, thinking the bag contained treasure, untied it, and a storm was the result (Odyssey). — antro: Intro. § 67.

54. imperio: Intro. § 55. — vinclis: syncopated form of vinculis (Intro. § 91, o). — frenat, curbs: as if the winds were horses; cf. premere et laxas dare habenas, v. 63.

55. magno cum murmure: abl. of manner (Intro. § 58). Observe the alliteration: A. 641; B. 375, 3.

56. arce: a lofty seat or citadel within the cave or beside it, not the mountain itself.

57. sceptrā: the plur. is here used for metrical reasons (Intro. § 96). — animos, passions; regular in the plural for the feelings, especially pride.

58. ni: this old form of nisi is retained in laws, religious formulas, and poetry. — ni faciat . . . ferant . . . verrant: the pres. subjunc. instead of the imperf. is found in poetry in present conditions contrary to fact (A. 517, e; D. 799; G. 596, R.¹). Here the present is more vivid than the imperf., as suggesting what would happen if Æolus should ever neglect his duty.

59. quippe, doubtless they would bear away; not ironical as in v. 39. — verrant, sweep.

60. pater omnipotens: Jupiter.

61. molem et montis, a mass of lofty mountains. The use of two nouns connected by a conjunction instead of one modified noun is known as hendiadys; A. 640; D. 944; B. 374, 4; G. 698. — insuper, above them.

62. foedere certo, under fixed conditions: abl. of accordance (Introd. § 64). Æolus is to release the winds only when ordered.

63. sciret, etc., should know, when bidden, both how to check and how to give loose rein. — sciret: subjunc. in a rel. clause of purpose; A. 531, 2; D. 715; B. 282, 2; G. 630. — premere, from the motion of the hand in drawing the reins, is opposed to laxas dare; habenae is object of both verbs. For the use of the infin. see Introd. § 75. — iussus: A. 496; D. 861; B. 337, 2; G. 664.

64. vocibus: Introd. § 56. — usa est: elide, reading usa'st; A. 13, N.; D. 982; G. 719, exc. For the monosyllabic word at the end of the verse see Introd. § 117.

65. namque introduces the reason of her coming to him. — rex: Introd. § 117.

66. mulcere, tollere: objects of dedit: in prose ut mulceas, tollas would be used (Introd. § 77). — vento: the winds were thought to calm as well as raise the sea.

67. Tyrrhenum aequor: south and west of Italy. — aequor: a kind of cognate acc. (Introd. § 37).

68. Ilium: they "carried Ilium" because they were on their way to found a new city to continue the old race. — victos: as the old home of the penates was destroyed, they might be called conquered. — penatis: the penates were the Roman household gods, under whose protection were the food and the store-room of the house and the material prosperity of the family. Associated with the penates as guardian deities of the household were the lares, spirits of the dead who hovered round the dwelling they had inhabited in life, and watched over its safety (see n. on v. 744). The images of the lares and penates were placed near the hearth, where offerings of food and drink were made to them at each meal. The Roman state, as well as the private family, had its lares and penates, for whom a fire was always kept burning in the temple of Vesta. So old was the worship of these deities that the Romans were pleased to believe that Æneas brought the penates with him from Troy.

69. incute vim ventis, give force to the winds, as it were by a blow of the sceptre. — submersas obrue, overwhelm so that they will be sunk, or overwhelm and sink. This use of a word in a clause preceding the one where it would naturally appear is called prolepsis (i.e. anticipation): A. 640; B. 374, 5.

70. age diversos, drive them (the men) scattered; cf. n. on submersas, v. 69. — disice: the first syllable is long; A. 11, e; D. 968, n.; B. 9, 3.

71. mihi: Introd. § 29. — praestanti corpore: abl. of quality (Introd. § 61).

72. quarum: Introd. § 13. — formā: Introd. § 63. — Deiopea, instead of being in the acc. as object of iungam, is attracted into the case of the relative quae.

73. conubio: i is treated as a consonant and the word is pronounced in three syllables (Introd. § 112). — iungam: sc. tibi. Juno bribes him because the act is beyond his lawful province. — propriam dicabo, will assign [her] to you as your own.

74. meritis, services.

75. exigat: purpose; A. 531, 1; D. 713; B. 282, 1; G. 545. — faciat te parentem: two accusatives (Introd. § 39). — prole: abl. of means with faciat.

76. haec: sc. dicit (Introd. § 99). — tuus . . . explorare, yours [is] the task to determine what you will have (Introd. § 73). — optes: indir. question; A. 574; D. 812; B. 300, 1; G. 467.

77. mihi: dat. of reference (Introd. § 31). — capessere: for kind of verb see A. 263, 2, b; D. 290, b, 1; G. 191, 5.

78. tu mihi . . . concilias, you win for me whatever rule I have, implying that it is small. — hoc: sc. est. — regni: partitive gen. with quodcumque (Introd. § 13). — sceptra Iovemque, the sceptre (i.e. power) from Jove: hendiadys; cf. n. to v. 61.

79. accumbere: see n. on mulcere, v. 66. The Romans reclined at meals, and Virgil attributes the same custom to earlier nations and to the gods, though in fact the Greeks sat, as we do.

80. nimborum: obj. gen. (Introd. § 14). — facis: sc. me.

81. dicta: sc. sunt. — conversa cuspidē, with spear-point turned.

82. impulit in latus, he struck on its side. — velut agmine facto (abl. abs.), like an assaulting column: a brief simile. Simile and metaphor, the two most important figures of speech, are especially common in poetry. Both are founded on comparison. A simile expresses a figurative resemblance between two objects, actions, or ideas in the form of a definite comparison, usually with like or as. A metaphor indicates the resemblance by applying to one of the objects, actions, or ideas a word that literally designates the other. Thus, in the present case, in an assaulting column (without like) would be a metaphor.

83. qua, where. — data: sc. est. — turbine: abl. of manner (Introd. § 58).

84. incubuerē: the perf. suddenly shifts the point of view to indicate the swiftness of the act; and now they have fallen upon the sea, and are ploughing up. — mari: dat. (Introd. § 27). — totum: sc. mare.

85. una: adv. — Eurusque, etc.: the winds from all quarters are conceived as let loose together and, by their simultaneous action in opposite directions, causing the storm. — ruunt = eruunt. — procellis, gusts: abl. of means with creber (Introd. § 55).

86. Africus: the southwest wind, blowing hot from Africa, is often one of the most violent on the Italian coast.

87. virum: cf. superum, v. 4.

90. intonuere poli, the heavens thunder: see n. on incubuerē, v. 84. — micat, flashes.

92. solvuntur, etc., his limbs are paralyzed by the chill of terror. The ancients betrayed their emotions in a far more lively way than would be allowable in a modern hero. Æneas is here mentioned by name for the first time.

93. duplicis palmas, both his hands. The ancient attitude of prayer was not with clasped hands, but with the palms spread upward, as if to receive the blessing.

94. talīa voce refert, thus he speaks. — O terque quaterque beati: Introd. § 71.

95. quīs = quibus: dat. with contigit (Introd. § 91, g); for case see Introd. § 25. — ante ora: a happy lot, because their friends were witnesses of their deeds and glorious death.

96. contigit, befell: usually said of good fortune, as here. — oppetere: sc. mortem, hence, to die.

97. Tydidē, the son of Tydeus, Diomedes, who met Æneas in single combat, and would have killed him had he not been saved by Venus, his mother. Tydidē is a patronymic: Introd. § 98; A. 244; D. 282, g; B. 148, 6; G. 182, 11. — menē . . . potuisse, to think that I could not have, etc.: cf. v. 37. — campis: abl. of place where.

98. dextra: abl. of means.

99. saevus, stern, not sparing the foe. — Æacidæ: Achilles, grandson of Æacus. For case form see A. 44; D. 81; B. 22; G. 65. — telo iacet, lies slain by the spear.

100. Sarpēdon: a Lycian prince, son of Jupiter, and an ally of the Trojans. In Homer his body is said to have been borne home by Sleep and Death, but Virgil does not care for this detail. — Simois, etc., the Simois rolls the shields, and helmets, and stalwart forms of so many heroes carried away beneath its waves; grammatically tot belongs to all the accusatives. The Simois was a small river near Troy.

102. iactanti, as he utters: dat. of reference, sc. ei (Introd. § 31). — stridens Aquilone procella, a hurricane howling with the north wind. For the case of Aquilone see Introd. § 55.

103. velum adversa ferit, strikes the sail in front; adversa (adj. with procella) is equivalent to an adverb. The ancient ship had a square sail, suspended from a yard. The ship of Æneas is sailing before a southerly wind, when suddenly a north wind strikes the sail from an opposite quarter, swinging the vessel round broadside to the waves (cf. v. 104). — ad sidera tollit: exaggerated language, such as this, is known as hyperbole. This particular passage set a literary fashion which lasted for about two thousand years. Cf. Shakspeare, Othello, ii. 1. 11 ff.:

For do but stand upon the foaming shore,
The chidden billow seems to pelt the clouds;
The wind-shaked surge, with high and monstrous mane,
Seems to cast water on the burning Bear
And quench the guards of the ever-fixed pole:
I never did like molestation view
On the enchafed flood.

104. remi: oars as well as sails were used on the ancient ship. — prora is subj. both of avertit and dat. — avertit [se], swings round (lit. turns away).

105. cumulo: abl. of manner. — mons: Introd. § 117.

106. his: dat. of reference.

107. terram . . . aperit: Virgil continues his hyperbole. — furit aestus harenis, the seething flood rages with the sands. They are approaching the syrtes (v. 111).

108. tris: sc. navis. — Notus: a north wind would appear to be needed to drive the ships from west of Sicily to the coast of Africa, but Virgil here mentions the various winds without much regard to their direction. — abreptas torquet, seizes and hurls. — latentia, hidden by the roaring waves; in calm weather they are visible (dorsum immane, v. 110) at the surface. These reefs are supposed to lie just outside the Bay of Carthage.

109. Parenthetical: rocks like what, in midwater, the Italians call "altars," — not necessarily this particular group, which they probably knew nothing about.

111. in brevia et syrtis, on the shoals and sandbanks: i.e., probably, the shoals of the great syrtis, though these are east of Carthage. Poetry pays little attention to geographical accuracy. — visu: A. 510; D. 882, 11; B. 340, 2; G. 436.

112. vadis: Introd. § 34. — aggere, embankment.

114. ipsius, the leader himself (Æneas). For ī cf. illius, v. 16. — ingens pontus: like our phrase "a heavy sea." — a vertice, from above: the prepositional phrase belongs grammatically with ferit, but in sense serves as an adj. with pontus.

115. puppim: A. 75, b; D. 102, c; B. 38, 1; G. 57. — excutitur, is washed overboard. — pronus volvitur in caput, is thrown (lit. rolled) headlong.

116. illam, her: the ship, in distinction from the helmsman.
117. torquet agens circum, whirls round (lit. whirls, driving her round). — rapidus, greedy (cf. rapio, seize). — aequore: locative abl.
118. rari, scattered here and there. — gurgite, the sea (Intro. § 98).
119. arma: the shields, for instance, would float visibly for a while, but the word may refer to any of their equipments.
120. Ilionei: ei is pronounced as one syllable (Intro. § 115).
121. quā, that in which: properly abl. of instrument (Intro. § 55); the antecedent (eam) is implied.
122. laxis compagibus, with loosened joints: instrumental abl.
123. imbrem: properly rain-flood; but here water in general. — rimis: abl. of manner; cf. vv. 83, 105.
124. murmure: abl. of manner. Observe the alliteration.
125. emissam: sc. esse. — Neptunus: Neptune, god of the ocean, was a brother of Jupiter. His palace was in the depths of the sea; but he made his home on Olympus when he chose. The symbol of his power was the trident, or three-pronged spear, with which he could shatter rocks, call forth or subdue storms, and shake the shores. He created the horse and was the patron of horse races. His own steeds were brazen-hoofed and golden-maned. They drew his chariot over the sea, which became smooth before him, while dolphins and other monsters of the deep gamboled about his path. In his honor black and white bulls, white boars, and rams were sacrificed (Gayley).
126. stagna refusa, that the still waters had been forced up (lit. poured back) from the lowest depths. — vadis: abl. of separation (Intro. § 49). — commotus, disturbed (in mind); but as a god he must be represented with placidum caput. — alto prospiciens, looking forth over the deep; alto is locative abl.
127. unda: abl. of separation.
128. aequore: locative abl.
129. caeli ruina, the wreck of the sky: the violent rain is regarded as an actual downfall of the sky itself.
130. fratrem: obj. of latuere, were hidden from; A. 396, c; D. 406, c. — doli, irae: her craft (known to him as her brother), and the wrath which led to its exercise.
131. dehinc: here monosyllabic by synizesis (Intro. § 115).
132. generis fiducia vestri, confidence in your origin: the winds were the sons of Aurora and the Titan Astræus; and so on the one side of divine origin, and on the other sprung from the rivals of the gods.
133. iam, at length. — caelum, etc.: cf. Paradise Lost, iv. 452-453:

I heard the wrack,
As earth and sky would mingle.

134. miscere: Introd. § 75. — tantas moles, such huge waves.

135. quos ego: he leaves his unfinished threat to their imagination; he can spare no time for words. Such a break is called aposiopēsis (i.e. a sudden silence): A. 641; D. 941; G. 691. — praestat, it is better. — componere: Introd. § 73.

136. post, hereafter. — commissa, your misdeeds. — non simili poena (abl. of instrument), by no penalty like this (i.e. by a punishment greater than the offence): litotes; see A. 641; D. 947; B. 375, 1; G. 700. — luetis, you shall atone for.

138. non illi, not to HIM (emphatic).

139. sorte datum: sc. esse. Jupiter, Neptune, and Pluto were said to have chosen their realms by lot when they divided the universe which had been ruled by their father Saturn.

140. vestras: though addressing Eurus, he includes them all. — se iactet, let him play the king (lit. vaunt himself). — aula: as a king, he must have his court somewhere.

141. clauso: i.e. reign over the imprisoned winds, without power to let them loose.

142. dicto citius, quicker than the word: abl. of comparison; A. 406, a; D. 446, b; cf. B. 217, 3; G. 398, N.¹

144. Cymothoë, a sea nymph, and Triton, Neptune's trumpeter, blowing a conch shell, are mentioned to suggest all the minor sea divinities. — adnixus, pushing against the ships.

145. navis: the three ships mentioned, v. 108. — scopulo: abl. of separation. — levat: using the trident as a lever.

146. aperit, clears a passage through. — syrtis: the sandbanks piled against the ships; cf. v. 112.

147. lēvibus, light, skimming the surface. See Fig. 4 (from a gem). — rotis: abl. of manner.

148. veluti, just as: introducing one of the most celebrated of Virgil's similes (see n. on v. 82). The ferocity of a mob and the power of an eloquent speaker were things very familiar to the Romans. Cf. the opening scene of Shakspeare's Coriolanus. — magno in populo: the greater the crowd, the more striking the effect of the speaker. — saepe belongs properly to the whole idea, and so is equivalent to as often happens.

149. seditio, riot, lit. a going apart (= se-itio). — animis (abl. of manner), with passion: cf. v. 57, n. — ignobile, mean or obscure. — volgus: for declension see A. 48, a; D. 87; B. 26, 2; G. 34.

150. iam: see n. on v. 133. — faces, firebrands. Rome, then largely built of wood, was very vulnerable to this favorite weapon of the mob.

151. tum: correlative with cum, v. 148. — gravem, of weight or influence. — meritis, services (to the state). — si quem belongs with virum; quem, some, any, is the usual indefinite pronoun with si.

152. conspexere: plur. because here the individuals are thought of, though a collective noun (volgus) is used before. — arrectis auribus adstant, stand by with listening ears.

153. regit . . . animos, sways their minds by words (addressed to their reason): pectora mulcet, calms their passion (whose seat was supposed to be in the breast). — mulcet: used originally of the stroking of an animal, and so of soothing the blind passion of the crowd.

154. sic: correlative with veluti, v. 148. — pelagi: for declension see A. 48, a; D. 87; B. 26, 2. — fragor, crash of the breakers. — aequora prospiciens, looking forth on the waters.

155. caelo aperto, under a clear sky: locative abl. — invectus, riding (Intro. § 95). See Fig. 4 (from an ancient gem).

156. curru: dat. (Intro. § 91, d). — secundo, smoothly gliding (lit. following).

157. Aeneadae, companions of Æneas (Intro. § 98). — quae proxima (sc. erant), the nearest.

158. vertuntur, turn: used in the reflexive or middle sense (Intro. § 94).

159. insula, etc., an island makes a harbor by the opposition of its sides [like a breakwater], against which every billow from the deep breaks (lit. is broken) and divides into receding waves (lit. into drawn-back curves).

160. quibus: abl. of instrument with scinditur. — ab alto: cf. n. to a vertice, v. 114.

162. hinc atque hinc, on this side and that (i.e. on both sides of the harbor, at each of the two entrances). — rupes, cliffs: the shore in general was rocky. — gemini . . . scopuli, twin peaks or headlands (one on each side).

164, 165. silvis, etc., like a scene with waving woods, a dark forest with bristling shade (referring to the forms of the firs, etc.) juts over from above. Literally scaena and nemus (referring to the same thing, though connected by et) are subjects of imminet. — silvis: abl. of quality (Intro. § 61). — scaena is properly the decorated wall at the back of the stage in Roman theatres (see Fig. 5): here, the background of wooded hills as seen from the shore. — umbra: abl. of manner. Cf. Milton, Comus, 37-39:

Fig. 4

This drear wood,
The nodding horror of whose shady brows
Threats the forlorn and wandering passenger.

166. fronte sub adversa, under the opposite cliff, i.e. the cliff at the far end of the harbor as one looked in from the entrance. — scopulis pendentibus, of overhanging rocks: abl. of quality.

167. aquae dulces, fresh springs. — vivo saxo, of living rock, i.e. rock in its natural state: abl. of material (Intro. § 51).

168. nympharum domus: the ancient imagination associated nymphs with any beautiful or romantic spots in the natural world (woods, lakes, etc.).

Fig. 5

170. omni ex numero: there had been twenty in all (v. 381); one was lost; twelve were scattered but afterwards came to shore (v. 393).

171. amore: abl. of manner.

172. harena: Intro. § 56.

173. sale tabentis, dripping with the brine: abl. of means.

174. silici, from flint (Intro. § 32).

175. suscepit, caught. — foliis, dry leaves, used as tinder (Intro. § 55). — circum goes with dedit. This separation of the parts of a compound verb is called tnesis ("cutting"). It is really the poetical retention of an earlier form of expression, when the preposition (originally adv.) had not become united with the verb. A. 640; D. 992; B. 367, 7; G. 726.

176. nutrimenta: anything that would keep the spark alive, — chips, stubble, etc. — rapuit, etc., he kindled a blaze in dry fuel.

177. Cererem, corn: identified with the goddess herself by the so-called figure metonymy (Intro. § 100). Ceres (the Greek Demeter) was goddess of the growing grain and hence of agriculture in general. She was daughter of Saturn and mother of Proserpina (Pluto's wife). — corruptam, damaged. — Cerealia arma, utensils of Ceres, or cooking utensils: such as a mortar and pestle, baking-pans, etc.

178. expediunt: i.e. from the ships. — fessi rerum, weary of toil: gen. of specification (Intro. § 17). — fruges receptas, the grain that was recovered (from the sea).

179. torrere, to parch, before grinding (frangere).

180, 181. omnem prospectum . . . petit, surveys (lit. seeks) the whole view, far and wide over the sea. — pelago: locative abl. — Anthea si quem videat, [to see] if he can see anything of Antheus (lit. any Antheus): indir. quest.; A. 576, a; D. 814, c; B. 300, 3; G. 460, b. — Anthea: for form see A. 81; D. 112; B. 47, 1; G. 65.

182. Phrygias, Trojan.

183. Capyn: for form see A. 82; D. 112. — puppibus: Intro. § 96. — arma, shields, perhaps arranged in order along the quarter.

184. navem nullam, tris cervos: an example of chiasmus: A. 598, f and n.; D. 934, f; B. 350, 11, c; G. 682 and R.

187. hic: adverb.

188. tela: attracted into the relative clause; A. 307, e; D. 559; B. 251, 4; G. 616, 2.

190. cornibus arboreis: abl. of quality. — volgus, the herd. — omnem . . . turbam, driving them with his weapons, he scatters the whole mass among the leafy woods: i.e. he breaks up the herd (which had been an orderly agmen) and disperses it among the trees so that trees and deer are in a manner mixed.

193. fundat, aequet: A. 551, c; D. 759 and N.²; cf. B. 292; G. 577. — humi: locative (Intro. § 72).

194. partitur: sc. cervos. — in = inter, among.

195. deinde: dissyllabic (Intro. § 115). — cadis onerarat, had laden in jars; cadis is dat.: A. 364; D. 374; B. 187, 1, a; G. 348. — Acestes: a king of Sicily whose hospitable court the Trojans had just left. This is not distinctly stated here, though implied in v. 34, because Æneas is to stop in Sicily again on his later voyage (Book v).

196. litore Trinacrio: Sicily, so called because of its three promontories and triangular shape. — heros: Acestes.

198. neque practically = non. — ignari, without knowledge. — ante: adv. equivalent to an adj. qualifying malorum, which is itself used as a noun.

199. O passi graviora, ye who have suffered heavier woes. — deus, some god.

200. Scyllaeam = Scyllae, of Scylla. She was a six-headed monster, destructive to mariners, who lived in a cave on the Italian side of the Strait of Messina. The Trojans had been warned not to sail through this strait

(iii. 410 ff.), and when they came to this point they had turned south round Sicily (iii. 555 ff.).—rabieim, madness, especially of animals: appropriate of Scylla, who was surrounded by dogs or wolves (iii. 424–432).—penitus sonantis scopulos, rocks resounding far within (i.e. with the barking of Scylla's dogs, which represents the breaking waves).

201. accessis = accessistis: Introd. § 91, n.—Cyclopia saxa: i.e. the caves of the Cyclopes on the eastern side of Sicily. During their landing in this part of Sicily, the Trojans had had an exciting encounter with Polyphemus, one of these giants (iii. 655 ff.).

202. experti: sc. estis.

203. mittite = dimittite.—et, even.—meminisse: Introd. § 73.

204. discrimina rerum, crises, or doubts and dangers.

205. tendimus (sc. iter), we are making our way.

206. regna: Introd. § 96.

207. vosmet = vos + the emphatic particle -met: A. 143, d; D. 180, a; B. 84, 2; G. 102, N.²—rebus secundis, for happier days (Introd. § 24).

208. curis: abl. of cause.—aeger, though sick at heart.

209. spem simulat, premit dolorem: chiasmus; cf. n. on v. 184.—voltu: abl. of means.—altum corde, deep in his heart.

210. se praedae accingunt, they gird themselves for their prey, i.e. to prepare the feast: the loose-hanging clothes of the ancients had to be buckled up for any active work.—praedae: dat. of purpose (Introd. § 33).

211. tergora, skin.—costis: abl. of separation.—viscera, the flesh.

212. pars secant: plur. verb with a collective noun; the object is still viscera.—veribus: abl. of instrument.

214. fusi, reclining: cf. n. on vertuntur, v. 158.

215. implentur: Introd. § 94.—Bacchi, ferinae: Introd. § 22; cf. n. on Cererem, v. 177, for the metonymy.

216. exempta [est], when their hunger had been satisfied (lit. taken away): A. 543; D. 745; B. 287, 1; G. 561.—mensae remotae [sunt], when the meal was ended, lit. when the tables were removed. The phrase comes from the Roman custom of removing the table at the end of a meal.

217. requirunt, ask after: i.e. they question one another as to the probable fate of each of their missing comrades.

218. spem inter = inter spem.—seu credant: indir. quest. depending on dubii, wavering. The direct question would have been deliberative, credamus? shall we believe? A. 575, b; D. 816; B. 300, 2; G. 467.

219. extrema, the last extremity, i.e. death.—nec iam exaudire, and no longer hear from afar. Virgil alludes to the custom of calling the dead (conclamatio) as a part of the funeral rites.

221. secum, in his own breast (lit. with himself)—so as not to dishearten his companions (see v. 209).

223. finis: of their sad conversation, as night fell.

223-225. Cf. Milton, Paradise Lost, iii. 56 ff.:

Now had th' Almighty Father from above,
From the pure empyrean where he sits
High thron'd above all highth, bent down his eye,
His own works and their works at once to view.

224. despiciens, looking down upon.—velivolum, winged with sails.—iacentis, low-lying (as they appear when seen from on high).

225. sic: i.e. looking down.—vertice caeli, at the summit of the heavens.

226. regnis: abl. of place where.

227. iactantem, revolving, or pondering, properly shifting his cares about like a heavy load.—talis curas, such cares as became the ruler of the world, indicated by despiciens, etc.

228. tristior, sadder than her wont. Sorrow is unusual with her. See A. 291. a; D. 154. n.; B. 240. 1; G. 297.—oculos suffusa nitentis, her bright eyes filled with tears; oculos is acc. of specification (Introd. § 42) with suffusa.

229. Venus (the Greek Aphrodite), goddess of love and beauty, was daughter of Jupiter and mother of Cupid and Æneas. According to one myth, she arose from the foam of the sea near the island of Cythera (see v. 257). The rose and the myrtle were sacred to her and she was borne through the air in a chariot drawn by doves, her sacred birds.—O qui, O thou who.—-que . . . -que, both . . . and.

231. quid . . . tantum, what offence so great can my Æneas have committed against you?

232. quibus: dat. of reference.—tot funera passis, having suffered so many losses, particularly in the fall of Troy.

233. ob Italiam: i.e. on account of Juno's unwillingness for them to reach Italy.—terrarum orbis: the whole earth (lit. the circle of the lands).

234. hinc: from him and his race.—Romanos . . . fore: indir. disc. depending on pollicitus; A. 579; D. 884; B. 314. 1; G. 650.—volventibus annis, as the years roll by.

235. revocato a sanguine, from the restored race (lit. recalled, i.e. from destruction).—Teucri: cf. n. on v. 38.

236. tenerent, shall hold: imperf. by sequence of tenses for the fut. of direct discourse; A. 585; D. 889; B. 318; G. 654.

237. pollicitus: sc. es.—sententia, purpose.

238. hoc (abl. of means), with this, i.e. the promised glory of the Trojan race.—equidem, at least.

239. fatis . . . rependens, compensating adverse fates with fate, i.e. with the hope of a happier fate.—fatis: abl. of means.

240. nunc: opposed to the time indicated by solabar; I used to find comfort for the fall of Troy; but now I find that hope was vain.

242. Antenor: cf. n. on primus, v. 1.—elapsus Achivis: i.e. at the fall of Troy.

243. intima regna Liburnorum, the realms of the Liburni far within, i.e. far up the Adriatic.—tutus, in safety: he had escaped the perils of the Adriatic as well as the danger from a hostile people.

244. superare, pass beyond (with the suggestion also of surmounting difficulties).

245. per ora novem: the Timavus is a small river and bay, or creek, at the head of the Adriatic, where several springs—the actual number is seven—flow by underground channels in the limestone into the salt water. When the waters are forced back by a storm, the salt water finds its way through these crevices, so as to disgorge “with roaring flood” through the springs upon the land,—pelago premit arva sonanti.—vasto . . . montis: the noise of the water rushing forth is reëchoed by the mountain.

246. it mare proruptum, it bursts forth, a raging sea: the river is called a sea because it overflows the fields.—pelago sonanti, with roaring flood.

247. urbem Patavi: Introd. § 10.

248. arma fixit: i.e. in the temples, in gratitude for the peace which made them useless. This refers to an ancient custom by which the implement of an abandoned vocation was made a votive offering.

249. compositus = compositus, undisturbed (lit. settled to rest after the turmoils of his former wars).

250. nos, yet we.—tua progenies: Venus was a daughter of Jupiter, and Æneas was the son of Venus.—caeli arcem, the height of heaven, i.e. deification for Æneas.—adnuis, dost promise (by thy nod).

251. infandum, O horror (lit. unspeakable thing): Introd. § 44.—unius: Juno.

253. hic, etc., is this the honor shown to piety? Hic refers to the previously stated facts, but agrees in gender with honor.—sic . . . reponis, is it thus that you restore us to our rule? i.e. give to us that which is already ours by your promise.

254. olli: old form for illi; dat. with subridens (Introd. § 27).

255. voltu, look, i.e. expression (of countenance).

256. oscula (diminutive of os), the pretty lips: A. 243; D. 282, a; B. 148, 1; G. 181, 12.—libavit, gently kissed.—dehinc: one syllable (Introd. § 115).

257. parce metu, spare your fears: for form of metu cf. curru, v. 156; for case see Introd. § 26.—Cytherea: Venus is called Cytherea from the island of Cythera, south of the Peloponnesus, near which she was said to have been born from the foam of the sea.

258. tibi: dat. of reference (Introd. § 31).—Lāvini: cf. Lāvinia, v. 2; freedom in the quantity of vowels in proper names is permissible in poetry.

259. sublimem, on high: referring again to the deification of Æneas (cf. v. 250).

260. neque . . . vertit: a reply to the question of Venus in v. 237.

261. tibi: ethical dat. (Intro. § 31).

262. longius et volvens, and unrolling farther (the scroll of fate). See Fig. 6.—arcana: with volvens and movebo.—movebo, will disclose. Observe that Jupiter himself must obey the fates.

263. bellum: the war with Turnus, recounted in the last six books of the Æneid.—Italia: abl. of place where (Intro. § 67).

264. mores, institutions.—ponet, shall establish.

265. tertia aestas: he shall live to reign three years in peace.—dum . . . viderit: A. 553. N.²: D. 765. N.: B. 293, III, 1: G. 571.

266. terna . . . hiberna, three winters: the distributive is used instead of a cardinal when a noun plural in form but usually singular in meaning is used in a plural sense.

—Rutulis subactis, after the Rutulians have been subdued: dat. of reference. The Rutulians were a Volscian people who, under the leadership of their king, Turnus, were the chief antagonists of Æneas in his settlement in Italy (see Book vii).

267. at: though Æneas' reign shall be short, yet, etc.—puer Ascanius: son of Æneas.—Iūlo: attracted from the nom. to the dat. to agree with cui; A. 373, a; D. 390, a; B. 190, 1; G. 349, R.⁵ Virgil reminds his readers that the Julian family, of which Augustus was a member, claimed descent from Ascanius (Iūlus).

268. res . . . Ilia, the Ilian (= Trojan) state.—stetit . . . regno, stood firm in regal power; regno is abl. of specification.

269. volvendis mensibus (abl. of quality with orbis), cycles (years) of revolving months.—volvendis: the gerundive is here equivalent to a present participle (volventibus).

271. Alba Longa was about fifteen miles southeast of Rome.

272. hic: at Alba.—iam, in turn, i.e. after the transfer.—totos, unbroken.—regnabitur, the dynasty shall last, impers.: A. 208, d; D. 266, b; B. 256, 3; G. 208, 2.

Fig. 6

273. Hectorea: the Trojan race is so called after its greatest hero, Hector, son of Priam.—regina sacerdos, a priestess of royal blood. She was daughter of King Numitor and priestess of Vesta.

274. Marte gravis, pregnant by Mars. Mars (the Greek Ares), son of Jupiter and Juno, was god of war. Battle and slaughter were his delight. He was armed with spear, plumed helmet, and shield. He fought on foot or in a four-horse chariot.—geminam . . . prolem, shall give birth to twin children (Romulus and Remus).—Ilia: i.e. of the house of Ilus; she is commonly called Rhea Silvia.

275. lupae: a she-wolf was nursing Romulus and Remus when they were found by Faustulus, a shepherd.—tegmine: Introd. § 66. Romulus was no doubt represented in pictures, etc., as clad in a wolf's skin.—laetus, exulting.

276. excipiet, shall next receive.—Mavortia moenia, the walls sacred to Mars, i.e. Rome. Mars was the patron deity of Rome.

277. Romanos . . . dicet, shall call them Romans. Roma was fancifully supposed to be derived from the name Romulus.

278. metas . . . tempora, neither boundaries for their state nor limits of time: rerum goes in sense with both accusatives.

280. metu: abl. of means.—fatigat, harasses.

281. consilia . . . referet, shall change her plans for the better.

282. rerum dominos, lords of affairs (practically = lords of the world).—togatam: the toga was the peculiar garb of the Romans, and was required to be worn on all state occasions. As it was the robe of peace, the phrase here alludes to their civil greatness, while rerum dominos indicates their military dominion.

283. placitum: sc. est.—lustris labentibus (abl. abs.), as the years glide by: a lustrum is the period between two successive public purifications,—in theory four years, but in later practice five: here the word is used indefinitely.

284. domus Assaraci: i.e. the Trojan race. Ilus and Assaracus, sons of Tros, were the founders of the two royal families of Troy.—Phthia (the home of Achilles, in Thessaly), Mycenae (the royal city of Agamemnon, in Argolis), and Argos (the home of Diomedes, in Argolis) represent all Greece, which was made subject to Rome 146 B.C.

285. Argis: dative (Introd. § 28).

286. Caesar: i.e. Augustus.

287. Oceano: abl. of means. The ancients supposed that a great river, Oceanus, flowed round the earth.—terminet: rel. clause of purpose; A. 531, 2; D. 715; B. 282, 2; G. 630. Cf. Paradise Lost, xii. 369-371:

He shall ascend

The throne hereditary, and bound his reign

With earth's wide bounds, his glory with the heavens.

288. Iulius: i.e. Augustus (C. Julius Cæsar Octavianus Augustus).

289. caelo: abl. of place where. Augustus was honored as a divinity even before his death.—spoliis . . . onustum: the allusion is to the surrender by the Parthians of the standards taken from Crassus in 53 B.C., as well as to the victory of Augustus at Actium in 31 B.C.

290. vocabitur . . . votis: another allusion to the deification of Augustus.—hic quoque, he too, as well as Æneas.

291. aspera . . . mitescent saecula: in this verse and the following verses the return of the Golden Age is prophesied, in which there shall be a restoration of good faith, simple homely virtues, brotherly love, and peace both private and public. See Eclogue iv and Pope's adaptation of it in his Messiah.

292. cana Fides, venerable Faith (lit. white-haired).—Vesta: goddess of the Hearth; here used for the dignity and sanctity of domestic life. See Vocabulary.—Remo cum fratre Quirinus: here Romulus (called Quirinus after his death) is represented as ruling with his brother, not as having slain him according to the common legend.

293. ferro . . . artis, with close-fitting joints of iron (hendiadys): abl. of means with claudentur.

294. Belli portae: i.e. the gates of the temple of Janus, which were open in time of war and closed in peace. They were closed by Augustus for the first time after two hundred years (and the third time in Roman history) in 29 B.C. and again in 25 B.C. For the temple see Fig. 7 (from a coin). Janus was the ancient Italian god of entrances (cf. ianua, gate, door) and of beginnings. He is represented with two faces, "looking before and after." The first month of the year was named after him Ianuarius.—Furor impius: alluding to civil war, called impius because it is a conflict between persons bound together by a common kindred and religion. Note the personification of Furor. Personification is a figure of speech which represents (1) a lifeless object, (2) one of the lower animals, or (3) an idea, quality, or other abstraction, as a person, i.e. as capable of thought, feeling, or speech. Cf. v. 55, where the Winds are personified.

295. vinctus, with his hands bound.

296. horridus (adj.) may be translated by an adv., horribly.—ore: abl. of instrument with fremet.

297. Maia genitum, the son of Maia, Mercury (Introd. § 50).

298. novae: modifies Karthaginis.—pateant, arceret: the historical present (demittit) is followed by primary sequence, which changes to secondary in v. 300 (arceret); A. 485, e; D. 700; B. 268, 3; G. 511, R.¹

Fig. 7

299. hospitio, in hospitality: abl. of manner.

300. aëra: for form see Introd. § 92.

301. remigio alarum, by the oarage of his wings. The winged cap of Mercury (petäsus) and the winged sandals (talaria) are compared to a ship's banks of oars. This figure of speech is called metonymy (Introd. § 100).—adstitit, has alighted: see note on incubueret, v. 84.

302. -que, and accordingly.

303. quietum animum, calm feelings, i.e. free from alarm, which might lead her to oppose their coming.

304. mentem benignam, friendly thoughts, implying active good will and help.

306. lux alma, the kindly light.—exire: depends on constituit, v. 309.

307. quas . . . oras: indir. question, object of quaerere, v. 309.

308. qui teneant, sc. eas: indir. question, object of quaerere.—nam: introduces the reason of his doubt. He sees they are not cultivated, but he is in doubt whether they are the waste lands of a people, or absolutely wild.—inculta, wilderness: adj. used as a noun (Introd. § 97).—vidēt: the older quantity is here retained in the final syllable.—-ne . . . -ne = utrum . . . an, in a double question, sometimes occurs in poetry.

309. exacta, his discoveries (lit. things found out).

310. convexo, a hollow: cf. vv. 164–165.

312. comitatus: the perf. participle of a deponent verb sometimes has a passive sense, as here.—Achate: abl. of means.

313. bina: because usually borne in pairs.—lato ferro, with broad iron head: abl. of quality.—crispans, brandishing.

314. cui sese tulit obvia, came to meet him: for the case of cui see A. 370, c; D. 384; cf. B. 192, i; G. 359.

315. virginis: to address a mortal, a divinity must take mortal shape; here, that of a huntress maid is appropriate to the locality.—habitus, appearance.—gerens, having, or with.—arma: loosely used of dress as well as the equipments.

316. Spartanae: used as if in apposition with virginis, i.e. either of a Spartan maid, or such a one as Thracian Harpalyce when she tires, etc.

317. Harpalyce: a female warrior of Thrace.—Hebrum: to ancient poets rivers are a type of swiftness. Virgil seems unaware that the Hebrus (a river in Thrace) is not swift.

318. umeris: abl. of place from which.—de more, after the manner of hunters.—habilem, light (for handling).

319. venatrix, as a huntress.—diffundere: infinitive of purpose (Introd. § 84).

320. genu: acc. of specification (Introd. § 42).—nodo . . . fluentis, having the flowing folds [of her garment] gathered in a knot, to aid her in her movements. Sinus is acc. with collecta, a participle used in a middle sense. See Fig. 8 (from a statuette of Diana).

321. prior: she was the first to speak. — monstrate, tell me (lit. show) if you have seen, etc.

322. errantem, ranging (in quest of game); prementem, pressing close in pursuit, and so following a long distance: in either case they might lose their way.

323. succinctam, girt with; cf. gerens, v. 315.

325. Venus, Veneris filius: brought together, to put more sharply the fact that they do not meet as mother and son.

326. mihi: dat. of agent (Intro. § 30).

327. memorem: deliberative subjunctive; A. 444; D. 678; B. 277; G. 265. The question takes the place of a name. In addressing a divinity it was thought to be important to use the correct name; otherwise the god might not regard the prayer. — namque gives the reason for the doubt implied by the question. — tibi: sc. est (Intro. § 29).

328. nec, etc., nor does your voice sound like a mortal's. — hominem: cogn. acc. (Intro. § 37).

329. Phoebe soror (sc. es): Diana, as he judges from her dress. Diana, goddess of hunting, and Phœbus Apollo were the children of Latona. They were born on the island of Delos. Diana is a maiden goddess, the ideal of modesty, grace, and maidenly vigor. She is associated with her brother, the prince of archery, in nearly all his adventures, and in attributes she is his feminine counterpart. As he is identified with sunlight, so is she, his fair-tressed sister, with the chaste brilliance of the moon. Despising the weakness of love, Diana imposed upon her nymphs vows of perpetual maidenhood, any violation of which she was swift and severe to punish. Graceful in form and free of movement, equipped for the chase, and surrounded by a bevy of fair companions, the swift-rushing goddess was wont to scour hill, valley, forest, and plain (Gayley). — sanguinis: partitive genitive (Intro. § 13).

330. sis felix, grant me favor (lit. may you be gracious): optative subjunctive; A. 441; D. 681, I; B. 279, I; G. 260. — quaecumque: sc. es.

331. tandem, I pray.

332. locorumque: -que is elided before erramus in the next verse (Intro. § 114).

334. multa hostia, many a victim, in case you grant my prayer. — nostra . . . dextra: abl. of means.

Fig. 8

335. equidem, it is true. — honore : for case see A. 418, b, N.¹; D. 479, N.; B. 226, 2; G. 397, N.²

336. virginibus : dat. of possession. — Tyriis : Carthaginian; cf. note on v. 12. — mos est : this is only the usual dress of Carthaginian maidens, and does not indicate a goddess, as you suppose.

337. purpureo : the purple (or crimson) dye of Tyre was famous. — cothurno : the high-laced boot was a part of the hunting dress.

338. Punica : a word kindred with Phœnician. — Tyrios, Agenoris : added to explain Punica, of which Æneas could be expected to know nothing, as well as to indicate a civilized race; hence sed in the next verse. Agenor was founder of Sidon, the metropolis of Tyre. The lands, however, are not Phœnician, but Libyan.

339. genus : in apposition with the noun implied in Libyci.

340. imperium regit, holds the sovereignty.

341. fulgens : present in reference to profecta. — longa est : it would be a long story to recount the wrongs.

342. ambages, details. — fastigia, the main points.

343. huic . . . erat, she once had. — ditissimus, etc., richest of the Phœnicians in land (Intro. § 17).

344. miserae (dat. of agent), by his unhappy wife : why unhappy, she goes on to tell.

345. intactam, a maid. — primis ominibus, in her first marriage (abl. of means) : the ritual of consulting omens (used in all important matters, and especially in marriage) is put for marriage rites in general. — iugarat : a syncopated form (Intro. § 91, n).

347. ante alios omnis, than all others. Virgil combines two phrases : ante omnis alios immanis and aliis omnibus immanior. — scelere : abl. of specification.

348. quos . . . furor, in the midst between them came a feud. — medius = an adv. — Sychaeum : the y is here short, though long in v. 343.

349. impius ante aras, clam ferro incautum : the arrangement of the words heightens the impiety and treachery of the act. Pygmalion's crime was impious both because it violated the sanctity of the family and especially because he committed the murder at the altars of the household gods — the penates (iv. 20–21).

350. amorum is gen. with securus = immemor (Intro. § 16), heedless of the love of his sister for her husband.

352. multa simulans, devising many falsehoods (lit. pretending many things). — malus, wickedly. — amantem : translate with aegram, the loving wife, sick at heart.

353. ipsa sed : Pygmalion's false stories to account for the disappearance of Sychæus were in vain, for the ghost of Sychæus came and revealed the crime. — inhumati, unburied : the ancients believed that the spirit of a murdered man haunted the place of the crime, especially if the body had not been buried with due rites.

355. aras, pectora: the plurals have no real force (Intro. § 96).

356. nudavit, laid bare the altars as the scene, and his breast as the evidence of the crime: zeugma; A. 640; D. 950, h; B. 374, 2, a; G. 690. — caecum, hidden. — retexit, uncovered: cf. recludit, v. 358.

357. celerare: cf. n. on mulcere, v. 66; sc. ei (her).

358. auxilium viae, as an aid for her journey. — veteres, old, and so not discovered by Pygmalion.

359. ignotum, unknown: i.e. kept secret, apart from his other wealth.

360. his commota: i.e. the crime produces fear: the treasures give hope of escape. — parabat, began to make ready: zeugma; cf. n. on v. 356.

361. conveniunt, those gather, in whom, etc. — quibus: dat. (Intro. § 29). — odium crudele, fierce hatred for past wrongs. — tyranni: obj. gen. (Intro. § 14).

362. metus acer: i.e. for wrongs to come. The contrast with odium crudele is indicated by placing the two pairs in the same order. This arrangement is called anaphora: A. 598, f; D. 939; B. 350, 11, b; G. 682.

363. avari, etc.: his greed is contrasted with the distance to which his treasures are gone.

364. pelago, over the sea: A. 429, a; D. 474; B. 218, 9; G. 389.

365. devenere locos, they landed at the spot (lit. came down to the places): for case of locos see Intro. § 47.

367. mercati: sc. sunt. — Byrsam, called Byrsa from the name of the deed. The colonists, according to the story, bought as much land as they could cover with a bull's hide. By cutting the hide into strips, they were able to enclose a generous site for their town. The legend probably arose from a confusion of the Phœnician bursa, "citadel," with the Greek word βύρσα (bursa), "hide."

368. possent: subjunctive in indir. disc. depending on the verb of saying implied in mercati.

369. vos: expressed for emphasis on account of the change of subject. — qui: sc. estis.

370. talibus [sc. verbis], as follows: sc. respondit.

371. imo: A. 293; D. 510; B. 241, 1; G. 291, R.²

372. dea: Æneas still believes her a goddess. — repetens, going back. — pergam, I should continue on, i.e. give the whole story in detail from the very beginning. For condition see A. 516, b; D. 789; B. 303; G. 596.

373. vacet (impersonal). if you should have time (i.e. empty time, leisure).

374. ante . . . Olympo, before I should finish, Vesper would bring the day to an end, closing [the gate of] Olympus. Mount Olympus in Thessaly, the residence of the gods, had come to be the conventional poetic term for heaven.

375. Troia : abl. of place from which with vectos. — vestras : instead of tuas, because Æneas includes her fellow Carthaginians.

377. forte sua, by its own chance, or by mere chance : i.e. the Trojans had not come intentionally and therefore had no hostile designs. — oris : cf. Latio, v. 6.

378. pius : properly so called on account of his filial piety in carrying his father : however, the word was probably not restricted to that, but indicates Virgil's whole idea of his character ; cf. n. on pietate, v. 10. — ex, from the midst of.

379. fama . . . notus : a boast quite in keeping with ancient notions. Modesty, real or assumed, is a late growth of civilization. — aethera : Intro. § 92.

380. patriam : because the founder of the Trojan race, Dardanus (son of Jupiter and Electra), came originally from Italy.

381. bis denis : the distributive is used in place of a cardinal, because ten are counted each time. — Phrygium conscendi aequor, I climbed the Phrygian sea, because the sea seems to rise as it recedes ; or, abandoning the figure, translate by embarked upon. — navibus, Intro. § 55.

382. data fata : Æneas speaks of himself as guided by the fates, which have been spoken (data) to him at various times (see ii. 771 ff. ; iii. 94 ff., 154 ff.). — secutus : present in sense (Intro. § 95).

383. vix septem, barely seven : i.e. only seven have been saved and these with difficulty.

384. ipse : opposed to the ships. — ignotus : his person is unknown, though his fame has spread (cf. fama notus, v. 379). — Libyae : Africa is the only continent left, for he has been driven from Asia (Troy) and Europe (Thrace, iii. 13-68), and is still forbidden to reach Italy.

385. plura : cognate acc. — querentem : the prose construction with passa would be eum queri.

387. haud invisus caelestibus, not hateful to the gods (litotes ; cf. n. on v. 136), for it is by the favor of heaven that you have arrived in this hospitable land. — auras vitalis carpis, you breathe the breath of life.

388. adveneris : subjunctive in a rel. clause of cause ; A. 535, e ; D. 730, I ; B. 283, 3 ; G. 633.

389. perge modo, only go on, and you will find good fortune.

390. tibi, etc., I report to you your companions returned and your fleet brought back. It is not necessary to supply esse : reduces (adj.) and relatam serve as pred. acc. with nuntio ; A. 393, N. ; D. 417, a ; B. 177, 2 ; G. 340.

391. in tutum, into a safe harbor. — versis aquilonibus (abl. abs.), by a change in the winds.

392. vani, falsely, not implying intentional deceit on the parents' part. — docuere : sc. me ; then the verb has two objects (Intro. § 40). — parentes : Venus still pretends she is a mortal.

393. aspice, etc.: the swans are in two groups, one alighting (terras capere), the other looking down on the place where the first has alighted (terras captas), and preparing to join them. These groups are again described, the former as reduces, the latter in cinxere etc. in v. 398. The ships correspond to the two groups: those already in the harbor (portum tenet), to the former, and those just coming in (subit ostia), to the latter. — senos: cf. n. on denis, v. 381. Observe that the number is that of the missing ships. — laetantis agmine, flying joyously in a flock (lit. rejoicing in a flock): they have escaped the eagle. — cycnos: sacred to Venus.

394. lapsa, swooping down on the swans, which flew low like most other waterfowl. — plaga: abl. of place from which. — Iovis ales: the eagle. — aperto caelo: where they were exposed, as were the ships on the open sea.

395. turbabat, of late was scattering; but now (nunc), etc. — ordine: they are reunited after their dispersion.

396. captas [terras] iam despectare, to be looking down on the place already covered (by the birds that have alighted).

397. ut, as.

398. coetu (abl. of manner) cinxere polum, have encircled the sky in a flock. — cantus: showing their freedom from alarm. This picture of security is a good omen for the ships.

399. haud aliter, just so (lit. not otherwise). — pubes tuorum, the band of your youths (lit. the youth of yours).

400. subit ostia, are making the entrance.

402. avertens, as she turned away, and not till then, she allowed her divine nature to appear.

403. ambrosiae, ambrosial (properly, immortal). Most commonly applied to the food of the gods; but the gods used ambrosia also for ointment and perfume.

404. vestis defluxit: all the goddesses except Diana (v. 329) had flowing garments. — imos: see n. on v. 371.

405. patuit (used in a kind of passive sense), was manifest a goddess: cf. n. on incedo, v. 46; dea is pred. nominative. — dea ille: note the hiatus (Intro. § 108).

407. natum, your [true] son: emphatic by its position. — tu quoque: i.e. as well as the other divinities.

408. dextrae iungo may have an abl. of accompaniment or, in poetry, a dat., as here (Intro. § 28). — iungere: infin. as subject (Intro. § 73).

409. veras: i.e. in our true character, as mother and son.

410. talibus: sc. verbis.

411. obscuro aere, a dark mist (i.e. one that concealed them). Such concealment by a supernatural mist is very common in epic poetry and in old tradition. — gradientis: sc. eos.

412. circum . . . fudit : tmesis ; cf. n. on v. 175. — multo . . . amictu, with the ample folds of a cloud.

415. Paphum : Paphos, in Cyprus, the seat of the most noted temple and worship of Venus. — sublimis, on high, or through the air.

416. laeta : cf. tristior, v. 228. She is now more confident about the well-being of the Trojans. — illi : dat. of possession ; sc. est. — Sabaeo : Saba was a town in Arabia famous, among other things, for its spices. Cf. Paradise Lost, iv. 162 :

Sabæan odors, from the spicy shore
Of Araby the blest.

417. ture, sertis : no blood was shed on the altars of Venus. The garland had a prominent part in religious and other rites. The manufacture of garlands as an article of trade is shown in Fig. 9.

Fig. 9

418. corripuere viam, they sped on their way.

419. ascendebant, they were now climbing (descriptive imperf., as the poet here takes a new point of view). — plurimus, high above, i.e. so large that much of its bulk was above the city.

420. adversas arces, the towers opposite.

421. molem : the mass (of buildings). — magalia quondam, but now (i.e. shortly before) a cluster of huts.

422. miratur . . . viarum : he wonders at these signs of a great city in what he thought a desert. — strata (pavements) viarum = stratas vias, the paved streets.

423. pars . . . pars, some to . . . some to : in appos. with Tyrii. — ducere : complementary with instant (Introd. § 75).

424. subvolvere, to roll up (by putting levers, etc., under).

425. tecto, for a group of buildings: dat. of purpose (Intro. § 33).

426. iura . . . legunt: zeugma, they make laws and select magistrates; see n. on v. 356. Mention of the government is out of place at this point and the verse seems inconsistent with v. 507; consequently it is regarded as spurious.

427. alta, deep. — theatri: Virgil is thinking of his own time rather than of primitive Carthage. Even Rome had no permanent theatre until 58 B.C., and none of stone until 55 B.C. To the poet, however, a great theatre was a matter of course in a great city.

429. rupibus: abl. of place from which. — scaenis . . . futuris, lofty decorations for the future stage: cf. n. on v. 164.

430. qualis . . . labor: talis, the antecedent of qualis, is omitted; such toil was theirs as busies the bees. A celebrated simile, often imitated (as by Milton in Paradise Lost, i. 768–775): cf. n. on v. 82. The fourth book of Virgil's Georgics is about bees, from which this description is repeated here (iv. 162–169). — aestate nova: abl. of time (Intro. § 70).

434. venientum: poetical form of genitive; A. 121, b. 2; D. 149, N.; B. 70, 7; G. 83, N.²

435. ignavum, lazy, or inefficient for lack of skill. — pecus: in app. with fucos.

436. fervet, is all alive: a figure derived from the agitation of boiling.

437. O . . . surgunt: Æneas, who knows that he is destined to found a city, is impressed by the good fortune of those whose city is already founded.

438. suspicit, looks up to. He has now come down the hill and approached the walls.

440. miscet: sc. se. — viris: dat. (Intro. § 28). — ulli: dat. of agent (Intro. § 30).

441. umbrae: Intro. § 17.

442. quo . . . loco = ubi, the spot where. — primum . . . effodere . . . signum, dug up the first token (of rest and security).

444. monstrarat, had told of. — caput equi: a horse or horse's head as a symbol of the city, was common on Carthaginian coins. — acris, spirited: an omen of their energy and warlike disposition. The adjective is, as often in poetry, a descriptive epithet, not denoting an individual, but expressing a general characteristic, as we should say "the cruel tiger." — sic: i.e. if they dug up the head and built the city on that spot. — fore: a continuation of the omen, in indir. disc. dependent on monstrarat; for thus, [she said,] the race should be, etc.

445. facilem victu, easily subsisting: A. 510; D. 882, II; B. 340, 2; G. 436. The horse is represented as an omen both of prosperity in peace and success in war.

446. Sidonia, Phœnician (Intro. § 98); see n. on v. 338.

447. donis opulentum et numine divae, rich in gifts (i. e. offerings) and in the divine presence of the goddess.

448. cui . . . limina, a bronze threshold crowned its steps (lit. rose on the steps): cui is dat. of reference (Intro. § 31). — nexaeque . . . trabes, beams cased with bronze. The abundance of metal work shows the costliness and splendor of the structure. — -que is elided before aere in the next verse: see v. 332 (Intro. § 114).

449. foribus: dat. of reference. — cardo stridebat: Roman doors (which were usually double; hence the plur. foribus) were hung upon pivots, one of which fitted into the lintel, the other into the sill. See Fig. 22, p. 68.

450. hoc primum, etc.: the temple gives the first hint of Dido's interest in his fortunes (see the description that follows). — nova res oblata, an unexpected sight which presented itself.

452. rebus: abl. with confidere: A. 431; D. 376, N.²; B. 219, 1; G. 401, N.⁶

453. sub: Æneas and Achates have entered the temple. — lustrat dum, as he surveys; A. 556; D. 763; B. 293, 1; G. 229, R. — singula, various objects in turn (one by one).

454. reginam opperiens: Æneas takes it for granted that Dido will visit the temple for a morning sacrifice. — quae . . . sit: miratur has as objects a noun clause (indir. quest.) and two nouns.

455. artificum manus, the artists' skill. — inter se, comparing them with each other. — operum laborem, the toil of the work, i. e. the toilsome work. There is nothing to indicate that the temple was unfinished.

456. pugnas: probably painted in the vestibule or colonnade. These pictures could have no significance for the Phoenicians. Virgil here transfers to this nation the arts and customs of the Greeks and Romans, who constantly made use of mural paintings.

457. iam, by this time.

458. Atridas: Agamemnon and Menelaus, sons of Atreus, were leaders among the Greeks. — saevum ambobus: enraged against Agamemnon as well as hostile to Troy. His quarrel with Agamemnon, in consequence of which he withdrew from the fighting, caused severe losses to the Greeks. It is the subject of the Iliad.

459. lacrimans: cf. n. on v. 92.

460. nostri laboris, of our suffering (Intro. § 16).

461. en Priamus: probably in the scene of the ransom of Hector's body (v. 484). See Fig. 10 (from a vase painting). — sunt sua praemia laudi, merit has its fit reward: dat. of possession. — sua: the reflexive, instead of referring back to the grammatical subject, refers to laudi (the subject of the thought); A. 301, b; D. 523; B. 244, 4; G. 309, 2.

462. rerum, for trials: objective genitive (Intro. § 14).

463. aliquam salutem, some [degree of] safety. — haec fama, this renown (of Troy).

464. inani, lifeless (lit. empty, without reality).

465. multa: cognate acc. (Intro. § 37).

466. uti, how: introducing the indirect questions. Most of the scenes are taken from the Iliad. — circum: Intro. § 89, d.

467. hac, here (in this picture). — premeret (sc. eos), were in close pursuit. Note that the omission of the conjunction between fugerent and premeret (asyndeton) sharpens the contrast: A. 323, b; D. 619; B. 346; G. 474, N.

468. hac: in another picture. — Phryges: sc. fugerent. — cristatus: the helmet of the Homeric warrior was decorated with waving plumes.

469. nec procul hinc: i.e. in the next picture. — Rhesi: Rhesus was a Thracian king who came to the aid of the Trojans. An oracle had foretold that Troy would not be taken by the Greeks if the horses of Rhesus should eat the grass of Troy or drink the water of the Trojan river Xanthus. He was killed and his horses seized by Ulysses and Diomedes (Tydidēs) on the night of his arrival. — niveis velis: an anachronism: huts thatched with straw were used in the Homeric period.

470. primo somno: abl. of time.

471. vastabat: imperf. describing the scene shown by the picture.

472. avertit: perf. because Virgil is narrating a fact about Diomedes, and not merely describing something shown by the picture. — priusquam . . . gustassent, before they should taste: subjunctive as showing the motive; A. 551, b, N.¹; D. 759, N.¹; B. 292, I, b; G. 577.

474. parte alia: in still another picture. — Troilus: the youngest son of Priam, slain by Achilles.

475. infelix . . . Achilli, luckless youth, no match for Achilles in combat (lit. having encountered Achilles unequal). — Achilli: poetical dat. with a verb of contending (Intro. § 28).

476. fertur, haeret: the pres. tense describes the picture; cf. vastabat, v. 471. — curru: abl. with haeret. — resupinus: on his back, and feet foremost.

477. huic : dat. of reference.

478. versa . . . hasta, with his spear-shaft (lit. his turned spear). — pulvis : ī is possibly the original quantity retained.

479. interea : another picture. — non aequae (= iniquae), unfriendly (to the Trojans).

480. crinibus passis (pando), with dishevelled hair (lit. spread loosely over their shoulders); a sign of mourning, especially of women, which is closely connected with supplication in all ages. — peplum : as an offering to the goddess. The peplum was the outside garment of the Grecian women. Virgil has in mind the costly robe, adorned with the great deeds of the goddess, which the Athenians bore to the temple of Pallas yearly in the Panathenaic festival.

Fig. 11

481. tunsae pectora, beating their breasts (Intro. § 43). The participle has the meaning of a present, like secutus in v. 382 (Intro. § 95).

482. solo : abl. of place where (Intro. § 67).

483, 484. raptaverat . . . vendebat : the scene is that of the ransom of Hector's body by Priam at Achilles' tent after Achilles had dragged it about the walls of Troy (see Fig. 10, vase painting). — auro : abl. of price (Intro. § 62).

485. tum dat : the common historical present; the preceding verbs have been present because descriptive of the actual pictures. — vero : introducing as usual the most important moment of the narrative.

486. currus : plur. for metrical reasons (Intro. § 96).

487. tendentem manus : in supplication.

488. se quoque : i.e. in another battle scene. — principibus : cf. n. on viris, v. 440.

489. Euas, Memnonis : Memnon, son of Tithonus and Aurora, led the Æthiopian allies of Troy. The myth, however, places Æthiopia in the East; hence Euas. Memnon was killed by Achilles.

490. Amazonidum : the Amazons were a nation dominated by warlike women. It was their custom to bring up only the female children, whom they hardened by martial discipline; the boys were either dispatched to the neighboring nations or put to death. In the Trojan War Penthesilea, queen of the Amazons, came with a band of her warriors to the aid of Troy. Having slain many of the bravest Greeks, she was at last slain by Achilles.

But when the hero bent over his fallen foe and contemplated her beauty, youth, and valor he bitterly regretted his victory (Gayley). See Fig. 11 (from a statue in the Vatican). — lunatis, crescent (in form). — peltis, abl. of quality (Intro. § 61).

491. mediis, in the midst.

492. aurea . . . cingula (acc. plur.), a golden girdle bound beneath (lit. binding a golden girdle beneath). — exsertae, uncovered.

493. bellatrix, virgo: the contrast suggested in these words is heightened by their position as first and last in the verse. — viris: cf. n. on Achilli, v. 475.

494. Dardanio, Trojan (and therefore particularly interested in these pictures). — miranda: pred. after videntur; seem marvellous.

497. stipante, thronging about, an almost technical word for escorting a great personage.

498. qualis: correlative with talis, v. 503. — Eurotae, the Eurotas, a river of Sparta; here Diana was worshipped. — Cynthi: Mount Cynthus on Delos was also a favorite haunt of Diana.

499. Diana: notice the i; elsewhere in the Æneid it is short. — choros, the dancing bands.

500. glomerantur, gather: used in a middle sense (Intro. § 94). — Oreades: nymphs of the mountains. — illa, she.

501. deas: the Oreads.

502. Latonae: mother of Diana and Apollo. Notice with what effect the human element is introduced, the mother's pride heightening the daughter's glory.

504. instans, intent upon.

505. foribus divae, in the doorway of the goddess. — media testudine templi (abl. of place where), in the middle of the vaulted temple. In the front part of a temple was a porch, beyond which began the cella, or interior temple. It was at the entrance to this inner part that Dido took her place. The temple had a vaulted roof (called testudo, as resembling the shell of a tortoise). See Figs. 12 (plan of the Temple of Venus at Pompeii) and 13 (vaulted chamber in the Baths at Pompeii).

506. armis: i. e. by armed men (metonymy, see Intro. § 100). — alte subnixa, sitting on high.

507. iura dabat : a Roman picture. From the close relation of government and religion in Rome, temples were used for all public purposes: the senate met, the treasury was kept, and courts were held in temples. — iura legesque, laws and decrees : i.e. she acted both as judge and lawgiver.

508. aequabat, trahebat : she makes the shares as equal as possible, or assigns them by lot, — as the Romans divided provinces, etc., among their magistrates.

509. cum subito : Dido was thus occupied when suddenly, etc. — concurso, a crowd that had flocked about them as strangers.

Fig. 13

510. videt : indicative with "cum inverse"; A. 546, a; D. 751; B. 288, 2; G. 581.

511. aequore : abl. of place where.

512. penitus, far away, i.e. far out of their course. — oras : acc. of place to which; cf. Italiam, v. 2.

514. coniungere : depends on ardebant (as if volebant); Introd. § 77.

515. res incognita, their uncertain situation : they are puzzled by this embassy from the ships and uncertain how they themselves may be received by Dido.

516. dissimulant, they remain hidden (they conceal something, that is, their presence). — speculantur, they watch to see.

517. quae fortuna [sit] : the indir. questions are objects of speculantur.

518. lecti, picked men (as envoys).

519. orantes veniam, begging for mercy (or favor). — clamore : abl. of manner (Introd. § 58). They are protesting loudly against their treatment when they landed; cf. vv. 539-541.

520. coram fandi, of speaking [to the queen] in person.

521. maximus [sc. natu], the eldest, and so first in rank. — placido . . . pectore, with calm breast: as suited his age and dignity (contrasted with clamore in v. 519).

522. condere: object of dedit; cf. n. on v. 66.

523. iustitia, with just restraint, as representing a superior civilization among the savage tribes of Africa (gentis superbas). In reality, Dido had built her city only by sufferance; but this address might properly be spiced with flattery.

524. ventis . . . vecti, carried by the winds over every sea.

525. infandos, inhuman, as violating the right of peaceful strangers.

526. propius . . . nostras, look more closely at our condition: though coming in an armed fleet, we have no hostile purposes.

527. populare: poetical infin. of purpose (Intro. § 84). — penatis, homes.

528. vertere, to drive away (as booty).

529. non ea vis, etc.: i.e. we have no such thought of violence: conquered men are of course capable of no such insolence. — animo, victis: dat. of possession; sc. est.

530. Hesperiam: i.e. "the Western Land," a name for Italy borrowed from the Greeks.

532. Oenotri: Ænotria means "Land of Vines" (which were much cultivated in Italy). — nunc: this implies that Ænotria was its former name.

— fama: sc. est. — minores, descendants.

533. ducis: according to this account the name Italia (which is really akin to vitulus, a bull, and means "land of herds") is derived from Italus, a leader of the Ænotrians.

534. hic cursus fuit, this (namely, to this land) was our voyage. This is the first of the many incomplete verses found in the Æneid, evidences of the unfinished state in which the poem was left by Virgil's untimely death.

535. cum subito, when suddenly (as in v. 509). — adsurgens fluctu, rising over the wave; fluctu is abl. — nimbosus Orion: the rising of Orion near sunrise, which occurred about midsummer, and the setting, which was the beginning of winter, were times of stormy weather for the peoples about the Mediterranean.

536. tulit: sc. nos. — penitus, far. — austris (abl. of means): one wind put generally for all.

537. superante salo (abl. abs.), while the sea dashed over us.

538. pauci, only a few of us. — oris: dat. of place to which (Intro. § 34).

539. tam barbara, i.e. is so barbarous as to, etc.

541. prima terra: the very margin of the land (the beach).

543. at sperate, at least expect. — deos: sc. esse. — fandi, nefandi, right, wrong: for gen. see Intro. § 16.

544. erat: he does not know that Æneas is still alive. — quo, etc., than whom no other man was, etc.

545. pietate: abl. of specification with iustior; i.e. scrupulous in performing his duties to the gods.

546. vescitur, breathes (lit. feeds on, air being as necessary to life as food). — aura: Introd. § 56.

547. aetheria, of heaven, as opposed to the Lower World. — neque . . . occubat, and does not yet lie low. — crudelibus . . . umbris: abl. of place where; the Lower World, the place of the shades, is meant.

548. non metus, you need have no fear, for Æneas will repay the obligation. Some translate we have no fear (supplying est nobis); but this makes poor connection with what follows. — officio . . . paeniteat, and do not regret to have been first in the rivalry of kind deeds, i.e. by making Æneas your debtor in receiving us hospitably. — officio: abl. of specification. — certasse = certavisse.

549. paeniteat: A. 439; D. 674; B. 275, 1; G. 263, 3. — sunt et, etc.: i.e. in the event of his death (which Ilioneus, to avoid the omen of speaking of such a calamity, does not mention), the cities and fields (arva) of Sicily will be our refuge, and you will have the friendship of Acestes to repay your kindness to us.

551. liceat subducere, let it be allowed us to haul up our storm-racked ships: hortatory or jussive subjunctive; cf. note on v. 549.

552. silvis: abl. of place where. — aptare, to hew out (lit. to fit, adjust): the beams would have to be hewed and fitted. — stringere, to fashion (lit. to trim): the oars, hardly more than saplings, would only need to be stripped and slightly trimmed.

553. si . . . tendere: translate after ut . . . petamus. — tendere [sc. iter], to hold our course to Italy.

554. ut . . . petamus: expresses the purpose of subducere.

555. sin, but if (on the other hand). — salus, hope of safety. — Teucrum: gen. plur. (Introd. § 91, c).

556. nec . . . iam, and no longer. — Iuli: obj. gen. (Introd. § 14).

557. freta, seas. — sedes paratas: i.e. the cities of Acestes, in contrast to those they hoped to build themselves.

559. ore fremebant, murmured their applause.

561. voltum demissa, with downcast face (in womanly modesty): for case of voltum see Introd. § 42.

563. res dura, my hard situation. — talia: i.e. the attack on the Trojans as they attempted to land (v. 541). This is Dido's apology for the inhospitable conduct of her subjects.

564. late tueri: for fear of Pygmalion she cannot safely allow strangers even to land.

565. Aeneadum (gen. plur.), the Trojans generally, but with a courteous reference to their chief. For form see Introd. § 91, b. — Troiae: Introd. § 10. — quis . . . nesciat, who can be ignorant? deliberative subjunctive; A. 444; D. 678; B. 277; G. 265.

566. virtutesque virosque (hendiadys), the brave deeds of its heroic men. — tanti, that great.

567. obtusa adeo, so blunted or dulled by our own misfortunes as to be ignorant of the Trojans.

568. nec . . . urbe, nor does the Sun harness his horses so far away from the Tyrian city: i.e. their hearts are not chilled by unkindly skies, as men's might be in cold regions, far from the sun's course.

569. Saturnia arva: i.e. Italy, where Saturn was supposed to have ruled as king in the Golden Age.

570. Erycis finis: i.e. Sicily. Eryx, a son of Butes and Venus, gave his name to a mountain in the west of Sicily, where was a celebrated temple of Venus. He is mentioned later in the Æneid as a famous pugilist (v. 392).

571. auxilio: men and arms. — opibus: supplies of food, money, etc.

572. voltis et = et si voltis, and again if you wish.

573. urbem quam statuo: more commonly the relative would precede the noun, and a demonstrative (ea) would stand in the antecedent clause; as, quam urbem statuo, ea vestra est.

574. mihi: dat. of agent (Introd. § 30). — agetur, shall be dealt with.

575. Noto = vento: cf. austis, v. 536.

576. adforet, were [now] here: A. 441, 442; D. 680, 681, II; B. 279, I, 2; G. 260, 261. — equidem, in fact: I will even go so far as to send in search of him. — certos, trustworthy men.

578. si, in case. — eiectus, shipwrecked.

579. animum: acc. of specification (Introd. § 42).

580. iamdudum . . . ardebant, had long been eager: A. 471, b; D. 654; B. 260, 4; G. 234.

582. dea: abl. of source (Introd. § 50). — sententia, purpose.

584. unus abest, one only is missing: Orontes (v. 113).

585. dictis matris: vv. 390–400.

586. circumfusa, surrounding (lit. poured about them).

587. scindit se . . . purgat, breaks and clears.

588. restitit, stood forth.

589. os umerosque: i.e. in face, form, and build (acc. of specification). — ipsa, herself, the goddess of beauty.

590. nato: dat. with adflarat (= adflaverat). — lumen . . . purpureum, the ruddy glow.

591. laetos . . . honores, joyous charms: of the sparkling of the eyes in joy.

592. quale . . . decus, such beauty as art gives to ivory (i.e. by inlaying or setting it in gold): strictly there would be an antecedent, tale decus, in app. with the objects of adflarat.

593. Parius lapis: the white marble from the island of Paros in the Ægean was famous.

594. cunctis improvisus, unexpectedly to all; cunctis is dat. of agent with improvisus.

595. coram adsum, am here before you.

597. O sola miserata, O you who alone have had pity! (i.e. the only stranger to show pity). Acestes had helped them (vv. 195-196), but he was a kinsman.

598. quae . . . socias, who make us sharers in your city and home. — reliquias Danaum: see n. on v. 30.

599. omnium: Introd. § 16.

600. urbe, domo: abl. of place where. Note the omission of the conjunction (asyndeton): A. 323, b; D. 619; B. 346; G. 474, N.

601. non opis est nostrae, it is not within our power (Introd. § 9). — nec quicquid, nor [within that of] whatever exists of the Trojan race anywhere.

602. sparsa: there were settlements of Trojan exiles in Crete, Epirus, and Sicily, which Æneas and his comrades had visited.

603. di . . . ferant, may the gods repay: optative subjunctive; A. 441; D. 681, I; B. 279 and I; G. 260. — si quid, etc., if justice is of any account.

604. sibi: dat. of reference. — recti: Introd. § 16.

605. quae te, etc., what age has been so blest as to, etc.

606. tanti, (so) illustrious. — talem, such a daughter.

607. montibus: dat. of reference for a gen. modifying convexa.

608. convexa, the rounded masses. — polus pascet, the sky feeds: the æther of the sky was thought to feed the perpetual fire of the stars.

609. honos, an old form of honor. — manebunt, shall abide with us.

610. quae me cumque: tmesis; see n. on v. 175.

612. post = postea.

613. primo modifies aspectu, but is to be translated as an adv.: first Dido's feeling was astonishment at the sudden appearance of Æneas; then her interest was awakened by the strange fate (casu) which had brought him.

615. quis . . . casus, what destiny: the usual adj. form is qui.

616. vis: not merely power but violence, as usual in the singular. — immanibus oris, these wild shores, as inhabited by the barbarous African tribes: dat. of place to which.

617. Dardanio Anchisæ: hiatus (Introd. § 108). The verse is spondaic (Introd. § 104).

618. alma, fostering, a regular epithet of Venus.

619. atque equidem, and in fact: now I think of it, I do remember. — Teucrum: this Teucer was a son of Telamon, king of Salamis, and a nephew of Priam. He fought against the Trojans. Upon his return from the Trojan War, he was driven from home by his father because he did not bring back his brother Ajax, and sought a home in Cyprus, where he built a second Salamis. He is here represented as stopping on the way at Sidon, apparently to make terms with Belus, who was then master of Cyprus. — venire: A. 584, a and n.; D. 830; G. 281, n.

621. Beli: father of Dido.

623. iam, even.

624. Pelasgi, Grecian: properly, the race inhabiting Greece before the Hellenic.

625. ipse, emphasizing hostis, though an enemy. — ferebat, extolled.

626. volebat, would have it that. His mother, Hesione, was a daughter of Laomedon, king of Troy.

627. agite, come! — tectis: Intro. § 34.

630. mali, miseris: observe the effect of the juxtaposition of these words and of the alliteration. — disco, I learn how, etc. This is one of the most famous verses of the Æneid.

Who, by the art of known and feeling sorrows,

Am pregnant to good pity.

King Lear, iv. 6. 226.

What sorrow was, thou bad'st her know,

And from her own she learned to melt at others' woe.

GRAY, Hymn to Adversity, vv. 15-16.

632. templis: abl. of place where. — indicit honorem, proclaims a sacrifice of thanksgiving.

633. nec minus, moreover: the two negatives counteract each other.

634. magnorum . . . suum, a hundred bristling carcasses of great swine: terga, backs, is used for the whole body ("the part for the whole"); see Intro. § 100.

635. suum: gen. plur. of sus.

636. munera, laetitiam: in app. with tauros, terga, agnos; translate gifts for the enjoyment of the day. These gifts were as well the usual marks of hospitality (munera) as a means to enable the Trojans to join in the festivities (laetitiam). — dii: archaic form of diei.

637. domus interior, the interior of the house: A. 293; cf. D. 510; B. 241, 1; G. 291, R.² — splendida, magnificently.

638. instruitur, is decked, temporarily, for the occasion. — mediis tectis: not in the ordinary dining room (triclinium), but in the great state apartment (atrium).

639. arte laboratae, skilfully embroidered. — vestes: the robes which were thrown over the couches. — ostro superbo, of gorgeous purple.

precious on account of the royal and costly dye: abl. of quality. There were both embroidered and plain coverlets.

640. ingens argentum, a vast amount of silver plate.—auro: instead of directly mentioning the golden goblets and vases, Virgil speaks of the heroic figures chased and embossed (caelata) upon them.

642. ducta, brought down (i.e. continued in unbroken series).

643. neque, not.—patrius amor, fatherly love.

644. rapidum, in haste: adj. for adv.

645. ferat, ducat: subjunctives without ut after the idea of commanding in praemittit; A. 565, a; D. 720, d; B. 295, 8; G. 546, R.²

646. cari, fond.—stat, centres.

647. munera: the guest also was expected to offer gifts.—ruinis: dat. of separation (Introd. § 32).

648. pallam: a rectangular mantle of wool reaching to the feet. Cf. Milton, Il Penseroso, v. 97: "Gorgeous Tragedy, in sceptred pali."—signis auroque rigentem, stiff with figures of gold: hendiadys; see n. on v. 61. For an ornamented robe see Fig. 14; for other articles of apparel mentioned, see Fig. 15.

649. velamen: in Homer the various articles of headdress, especially the veils, are treated as most important points of feminine apparel: hence the veil is a suitable gift to Dido.—acantho: the acanthus leaf was often used in art by the Greeks.

650. Argivae Helenae, Mycenis: Helen was the wife of Menelaus, king of Sparta. Argos and Mycenae were cities of Agamemnon, his brother, the latter being Agamemnon's capital. The names are poetically used to indicate that part of Greece where the brothers held sway. The objects are of all the more value from their associations.

651. Pergama: i.e. Troy (properly, the citadel of Troy).—peterët: for the quantity of the last syllable see note on v. 308.—hymenaeos: i.e. with Paris.

652. Ledae: Helen was the daughter of Jupiter and Leda.

653. Ilione: Priam's eldest daughter, wife of Polymestor, king of Thrace.

654. maxima [sc. natu], eldest.—collo monile, a necklace (lit. a necklace for the neck): collo is an unusual instance of the dat. of purpose without a verb; cf. A. 382, 2; D. 395, a; G. 356, N.³

655. duplicem . . . coronam: a coronet of two rings, one set with jewels and the other of gold.—gemmis, auro: abl. of manner.

656. haec celerans, speeding these commands.

657. Cytherea: see n. on v. 257.

658. consilia: Venus is making plans to circumvent Juno; see v. 674.

—ut: the clauses which follow are substantive clauses of purpose, in app. with consilia.—faciem . . . et ora, form and features: see n. on oculos, v. 228.—Cupido: Cupid, the god of love, was the son of Venus, and her constant companion. He was often represented with eyes covered because of the blindness of his actions. With his bow and arrows, he shot the darts of desire into the bosoms of gods and men (Gayley).

659. furentem . . . reginam, inflame the queen to madness (proleptic use of the adjective; cf. v. 69).

660. ossibus, in her frame: dat. (Introd. § 27).—ignem, the fire of love.

661. quippe, for, in truth.—domum ambiguum, the treacherous house, as described in vv. 348–368.—bilinguis, deceitful: saying one thing and meaning another. The bad faith of the Carthaginians (Punica fides) was proverbial, at least among their enemies the Romans.

662. urit atrox Iuno, the thought of cruel Juno inflames her with anxiety.

663. Amorem: Cupid.

664. solus: i.e. who alone art; nom., as if it were in a rel. clause, and not vocative though in apposition with nate; A. 340, a; D. 323; B. 171, 2; G. 201, R.²

665. patris summi: Jupiter.—tela Typhoia: i.e. thunderbolts, the weapons with which Jupiter killed the giant Typhoeus. The idea that Cupid scorned the thunderbolts of Jupiter was a favorite one with the ancients, who sometimes even represented him as wielding the thunderbolts, an indication of the resistless force of love.

666. numina: i.e. the exercise of your power.

Fig. 15

667. frater ut iactetur, how thy brother is tossed: indir. question, subj. of nota [sunt].

668. iactetur: the last syllable is long (Intro. § 110).

669. nota [sc. sunt], are things known to you.—nostro, my.

671. vereor quo, I am anxious as to what turn Juno's hospitality may take (lit. whither, etc.); quo introduces an indirect question.—Iunonia: since Carthage is especially devoted to Juno as its protecting goddess, Venus fears that Dido is acting under Juno's influence.

672. cessabit: sc. Iuno.—cardine, crisis (lit. hinge or turning point): Intro. § 70.

673. capere, cingere: military phrases. The infinitives are complementary with meditor.—ante, in advance.—flamma: the flames of love, but still with an allusion to military operations.

674. ne quo numine, lest by the influence of some divinity (i.e. Juno).

675. mecum teneatur, and that she may be bound to me: sc. ut.

676. qua . . . possis, in what way you may: an indir. question depending on the idea of thought implied in mentem.

677. accitu, at the summons: abl. of cause.

678. cura, object of care.

679. pelago . . . restantia, remaining from the sea and the flames: Intro. § 49.

680. sopitum somno, slumbering in sleep (abl. of manner). This alliterative use of words from the same root is common in poetry.—

Cythera: see n. to v. 257.

681. Idalium: a town and grove in Cyprus where Venus was worshipped.

682. medius occurrere [sc. dolis], to come in to interrupt them; medius is adverbial in sense.

683. noctem non amplius unam, one night, no more: A. 407, c; D. 450; B. 217, 2; G. 296, R.⁴

684. falle, counterfeit or assume.—puer, boy that you are: as Cupid is also a boy the disguise will be easy.

686. regalis . . . Lyaeum, at the royal table when the wine is flowing (lit. in the midst of the royal tables and the wine of Bacchus). Lyaeus (used here as an adjective) is a name of Bacchus.

688. inspires (with ut, v. 685): purpose of indue (v. 684).—ignem: see n. on v. 660.—fallas veneno: i.e. poison her unnoticed, the same idea as in occultum ignem.

690. gaudens incedit: he practises his steps with a mischievous delight in the masquerading trick.

691. Ascanio: dat. of reference.

692. inrigat, sheds like dew.—fotum gremio, fondled in her embrace.

693. Idaliae: the same as Idalium (v. 681).

694. floribus, umbra: ablatives of means with complectitur.—adspirans, breathing its fragrance.

696. duce Achate, rejoicing to be guided by Achates (lit. rejoicing in his guide Achates): he imitates the feeling and action which Ascanius would naturally have shown (different from the mischief implied in v. 690).

697. venit: historical present.—aulaeis superbis, among the gorgeous hangings (of the banqueting hall).

698. aurea: i.e. adorned with gold; contracted into two syllables (Introd. § 115).—mediam locavit, placed herself in the midst, i.e. at the middle place of the middle couch, with Æneas on her left and Bitias (v. 738) on her right, with the rest on the side couches.

700. strato ostro, on the purple coverlets (lit. on the outspread purple).—discumbitur, they recline (in their several places): the passive verb is impersonal: A. 208, d; D. 266, b; B. 138, IV; G. 208, 2; cf. regnabitur in v. 272.

701. dant lymphas: this washing of hands was usual at ancient banquets.—manibus: dat. of reference.—Cererem, bread: cf. n. on v. 177. canistris, from baskets.

702. tonsis villis, with the nap clipped close (abl. of quality).

703. intus: i.e. in the rooms where the food was prepared.—quibus . . . cura . . . struere, whose care it was to set forth: sc. est with cura; quibus is dat. of possession.—ordine . . . penum: the banquet in long array (consisting of many courses).

704. flammi . . . penatis, to sacrifice to the penates with flames: a poetical way of saying to keep the fires burning in the kitchen. The kitchen, the place of the hearth, was sacred to the household gods.

706. qui . . . onerent: rel. clause of purpose; A. 531, 2; D. 715; B. 282, 2; G. 630.

707. nec non et, and the Carthaginians too.—limina laeta, the glad doorways, as if they shared the joy of the feasters.—frequentes, in throngs.

708. pictis, embroidered (lit. painted).

710. flagrantis, ruddy as flame, i.e. of more than human beauty.

712. pesti, ruin: i.e. her love for Æneas with its consequences, ruinous to herself.

713. expleri mentem, satisfy her heart: for case of mentem see Introd. § 42.—tuendo, with gazing: abl. of means.

715. complexu . . . colloque, on the neck of Æneas and in his embrace: ablatives of place where.

717. oculis, pectore: abl. of means.

718. Dido: the repetition of the subject gives added pathos, as if it were "alas, poor Dido!"

719. insidat, is clinging to her: indirect question.

720. matris Acidaliae: Venus, so called from a fountain (Acidalius) in Bœotia, sacred to Venus and the Graces.

721. praevertere, turn away, i.e. from Sychæus to a new object.—vivo amore (abl. of means): as opposed to the dead Sychæus.

722. iam pridem resides (plur. of reses), long at rest.—desueta corda, her heart disused to love.

Fig. 16

723. postquam: sc. est or fuit; A. 543; D. 745; B. 287; G. 561. The wine was not brought in till after the feast.—epulis: dat. of possession.—mensae remotae: cf. n. on v. 216.

724. craterās: for form see Introd. § 92. The crater was a large bowl in which the wine and water were mixed.—coronant, wreathe with a garland.

725. fit, then arises.—strepitus: i.e. of conversation.—tectis, through the hall.

726. atria: see n. on v. 638.—dependent: night has come on before they finish.—lychni: see Fig. 16.—laquearibus: the panels between the cross-beams of the ceiling were decorated with gilding, an arrangement often imitated in modern buildings.—aureis: two syllables (synizesis; Introd. § 115).

727. funalia, torches, in which a stout cord (funis) did service as wicking.

728. hic, hereupon.

729. pateram: a shallow bowl or saucer used for libations, here an heirloom in the royal house; it is brought out to honor the guest. See Fig. 17.—Belus: obviously a remote ancestor of Dido, not her father (v. 621).—et omnes a Belo, and all the descendants of Belus.

730. soliti: sc. erant and implere.—silentia: the first bringing in of the wine had a sacred character, and, before the drinking began, a small quantity was always poured out as a libation.

Fig. 17

731. Iuppiter: as the god of hospitality.—hospitibus, hosts and guests: the word includes both meanings.—dare iura, define the rights.

732. Tyriis: dat. after laetum (Introd. § 35).—Troia: abl. of place from which.

733. velis, grant: A. 439 and a; D. 674, a; B. 275, 2; G. 263, 2, a.—huius [sc. diei]: Introd. § 18.

734. Iuno: Juno's favor is invoked along with that of Bacchus, since she is the protecting divinity of Carthage.

735. coetum . . . celebrate, through the assembly. — favescentes, with joyous mien: they were to attend with expressions of joy, and without wrangling to disturb the hallowed rites. Ill-omened words, among which were reckoned all expressions of hatred or sorrow, were supposed to mar the effect of religious observances.

736. in mensam: on the table as on an altar sacred to hospitality. — laticum honorem, an offering of wine.

737. prima, she first, as the first in rank. — libato (impersonal), when the libation had been made: A. 419, c: D. 483; G. 410, n.⁴ — summo tenuis . . . ore, with (lit. as far as) the tips of her lips. As hostess Dido must go through the form of drinking, but she keeps the feminine proprieties.

738. Bitiae: a Carthaginian noble. — increpitans, with a challenge (to drink deep). — impiger, nothing loath, contrasted with Dido's summo ore.

739. se proluit, took a deep draught.

740. cithara, on his lyre, abl. of means. — crinitus: ancient bards, as well as Apollo, the god of song, were represented with flowing hair.

741. personat, plays (lit. resounds). — Atlas: Atlas, fabled to have been the earliest astronomer, was identified with Mount Atlas in north-western Africa, which bounded the western horizon of the ancients. So here, Iopas, coming from the same vicinity, is represented as a Numidian taught by Atlas. The subject of his song was common matter for poetical treatment among the ancients.

742. labores, the eclipses: literally the toils or struggles, since the sun was regarded as in difficulties during an eclipse.

743. unde [sc. sint or sit]: indir. question. — ignes, lightnings.

744. Arcturum, Hyadas, Triones: these constellations are mentioned for the stars in general. — pluvias Hyadas: a group of seven stars, whose rising with the sun was accompanied by rainy weather. — geminos Triones, the two Bears (the Great and the Little Bear). Each of these constellations consists of seven stars which the Romans called Triones, plough-oxen, or Septentriones, the seven plough-oxen.

745. quid . . . properent: i.e. why the days are so short in winter.

746. quae . . . obstet: what delay retards the lingering nights, i.e. the long nights of winter. Night was thought to have its course through the heavens as well as day.

747. ingeminant plausu, redouble their applause (lit. with applause; abl. of means).

748. nec non et, so also, as another part of the entertainment; cf. v. 707.

749. longum . . . amorem, long draughts of love.

750. Priamo: abl. with super, concerning, about.

751. quibus armis: his arms, which were famous, had been made by Vulcan. — Auroræ filius: Memnon, the Æthiopian king who came to the aid of Troy (v. 489).

752. quantus, how tall, or how mighty.

753. immo, nay rather (always with a negative force). Here it introduces the request for a complete narration from the beginning (a prima origine), as contrasted with the preceding separate details.—age: cf. agite, v. 627.

BOOK II

Æneas' tale to Dido takes up Books ii and iii and brings the story of the poem down to the point at which Book i opens.

1. conticuere: perf. indicating a momentary act; were hushed.—intentī ora tenebant: imperf. of continued action; looked toward him with eager attention (lit. were holding their faces, etc.).

2. toro: the couch on which he reclined at table.

3. infandum: emphatic because of its position. The effect may be produced in English by translating, 'Unspeakable, O queen, is the sorrow that you bid me renew.'

4. ut eruerint: indir. quest. depending on the verb "to tell" implied in dolorem renovare; how the Greeks utterly destroyed, etc.

5. quae, etc.: distressful things which; this clause and that in the next verse are in app. with dolorem.—que . . . et: both . . . and.

6. et quorum, etc.: may be translated literally.—fando, in speaking; compare tuendo, i. 713.

7. Myrmidonum Dolopumve: Thessalian soldiers of Achilles.—Ulixi: genitive, see Introd. § 93.

8. temperet a lacrimis: could refrain from tears. Deliberative subjunctive; A. 444; D. 678; B. 277; G. 466.—caelo: from the sky.

9. praecipitat: night is regarded as running its course through the heaven in the same way as the day or the sun.—cadentia: setting; indicating the approach of morning.

10. cognoscere: complem. inf. with amor [est], which is equivalent to a verb of wishing; Introd. §§ 76, 77. Cognoscendi would be the prose construction: A. 504; D. 874; B. 338, 1; G. 428.

11. supremum laborem: the last agony; labor implies suffering as well as struggle.

12. meminisse horret: shudders to recall. Verbs of fearing regularly take the infinitive in this sense, though usually only vereor is in fact so used; A. 456; D. 837; B. 328, 1; G. 550, n.⁵—luctu refūgit, shrinks (lit. has shrunk) back from the grief.

14. Danaum: gen. plur.; Introd. § 91.—labentibus (abl. abs.): i. e. having passed and still continuing to glide away; it was the tenth year of the war.

15. instar montis, huge as a mountain: instar (lit. the image) is really an indecl. noun in appos. with equum (Introd. § 23).—Palladis: Minerva was the patroness of all kinds of handicraft.

16. aedificant, build, indicating the size by the very use of a word which is used of houses. — intexunt abiete costas, line the ribs with hewn fir, i.e. with strips running across the ribs. — abiete: trisyllable — ˘ ˘ ˘; for the synaeresis see Introd. § 112.

17. reditu: i.e. to Greece.

18. huc includunt, they shut up in it (lit. hither). — delecta corpora: since only the bravest chiefs were to dare the perilous ambushade.

19. lateri: dat., in a sort of apposition with huc, but governed by includunt: Introd. § 27. — penitus, deep within: another hint at the immense size.

20. milite (collective), soldiery.

21. est, there is. — Tenedos: about four miles from the coast of Troy.

22. opum: Introd. § 17.

23. tantum sinus, a mere bay. — male fida, ill-faithful, i.e. treacherous. — male has with adjs. expressing good qualities a negative force; with those expressing bad, an intensive force (cf. iv. 8).

24. condunt: i.e. the Greeks.

25. abiisse rati [sumus], supposed they had gone: the subject of abiisse (eos) is omitted; A. 581, N.¹; D. 887, I, a; B. 314, 5; G. 527, R.³ — Mycenas: a very ancient city near Argos, and the home of Agamemnon. Its remains, in a very archaic style of art, are among the most interesting in Greece. Here used for all Greece generally (Introd. § 98).

26. luctu: abl. of separation (Introd. § 49).

27. Dorica, Grecian: see Introd. § 98.

29-30. Quoted as specimens of the remarks of the Trojans. — tendebat, had his camp (lit. used to spread (his tents)).

30. classibus: dat. of reference (Introd. § 31); the fleet had been hauled up on the shore. — acie: abl. of manner (Introd. § 58).

31. stupet: as equivalent to a strong miratur, here governs an acc. — exitiale, fatal (to the Trojans). — Minervae: obj. gen.: the horse, according to the lying story told to the Trojans by Sinon (ii. 162 ff.), was intended to take the place of the Palladium, which the Greeks had stolen from the citadel of Troy, thereby offending Minerva.

33. duci [sc. equum]: in prose a substantive clause of purpose would be used (Introd. § 78).

34. dolo, treachery. According to an oracle, a child born on a certain day was to be the destruction of Troy. Both Paris and a son of Thymœtes were born on that day, and Priam put to death the son of Thymœtes. — iam: i.e. the time had now come for this destiny. — ferabant, ordained.

35. quorum . . . menti, those in whose mind was a better (i.e. wiser) thought: dat. of possession (Introd. § 29).

 — ibi, at this moment.
 41. ab arce : where he had been occupied as priest.
 42. quae, etc., what madness is this? Such use of tam, talis, and tantus in nearly the sense of our simple demonstratives is very common.
 43. avectos : sc. esse.
 44. dolis : ablative of separation. — Danaum : modifies dona.
 47. inspectura, ventura, to look down on our houses, etc. : fut. part. of purpose; A. 499, 2; D. 868; B. 337, 4; G. 438, N. One of the common means of siege was to build towers overtopping the walls, and move them forward on wheels. The huge horse is suspected to be such an engine of war. — urbi : dat. of place to which.
 48. error, trick. — ne credite : Introd. § 87; in prose, nolite credere.
 49. et, even. — ferentis : acc. plural. Cf. Paradise Lost, ii. 391: "And count thy specious gifts no gifts, but guiles."
 51. inque feri, etc., against the belly of the monster rounded with jointed framework. — compagibus : abl. of manner or means.
 52. stetit, stuck there. — illa, the spear. — utero recusso, the belly of the horse reëchoing (lit. of the sound, struck back): abl. abs.
 53. insonuere, etc. : cf. Paradise Lost, ii. 788, 789:

Hell trembled at the hideous name, and sigh'd
 From all her caves, and back resounded Death!

54-56. si fata, etc. : a condition cont. to fact, with past prot. (fuisse) and mixed apod. (impulerat, staret, maneres). — impulerat : used for impulisset for metrical reasons.

54. mens, our minds. — laeva, as applied to the fates, means unpropitious; as applied to minds, it means dull, blinded. The first meaning is derived from the language of augury. An appearance on the left was inauspicious (cf. sinister) among the Greeks, whom Virgil here follows, though originally the left was the fortunate quarter among the Romans. The second meaning comes from the awkwardness (gaucherie) of the left hand. Such uses of words in a double sense are avoided in modern style, and in the classics we explain them by the so-called rhetorical figure zeugma; but they probably seemed neither irregular nor objectionable to the ancients.

55. Argolicas, of the Greeks. The Latin uses an adj. of possession when it can, often where English prefers of. — foedare : infinitive instead of a substantive clause with ut (as in v. 33).

56. arx : vocative.

57. manūs : Greek acc. with revinctum, which agrees with iuvēnem (Introd. § 42).

59. Dardanidae: in apposition with pastores. — qui: subject of obtulerat. — venientibus, to them (the shepherds) as they came: dat. with obtulerat.

60. hoc . . . aperiret, to contrive this very thing, that is, to open, etc.: the subjunc. aperiret explains hoc ipsum.

61. fidens animi, confident in heart: A. 358; D. 357, N.²; B. 232, 3; G. 374, N.⁷

62. versare dolos, to practise wiles (if he should succeed) or to die if discovered: the infinitives are in apposition with utrumque.

64. circumfusa ruit, gather about him. — certant: the number changes because they vie with each other individually, though they gather in a body.

65. accipe, learn.

66. disce omnes: i.e. the nature of all the Greeks.

67. turbatus: although fidens animi, he is frightened when he finds himself in the midst of his enemies.

68. A spondaic verse: Introd. § 104.

70. iam, any longer.

71. cui neque locus, etc., who have no place anywhere among the Greeks, and besides even the Trojans, etc.: cui is dat. of possession.

72. poenas poscunt, demand my punishment by a bloody death (as he infers from their fierce looks: cf. also v. 64).

73. animi, feelings.

74. fari: inf. instead of a substantive clause; sc. eum. — cretus: sc. sit.

75. quidve ferat, or what news he brings: indir. question. — memoret, let him tell = tell us (we say): in indir. disc. for imperative of direct; A. 588; D. 887, III; B. 316; G. 652. — quae . . . capto, on what is his reliance as a captive (lit. what reliance is to him captured): dat. of possession (sc. ei with capto).

76. formidine, pavitions (v. 107): the embarrassment was genuine and natural; not enough to destroy his presence of mind and so spoil his scheme, but enough to make a favorable impression on his captors.

77. equidem: makes the whole expression more forcible, like our "I will, indeed I will." — fuerit quodcumque, whatever shall come of it: fut. perf.

78. vera, truly. — me: sc. esse. — Argolica: in answer to the question in v. 74.

79. hoc primum, this first! i.e. let this compromising fact be stated once for all: sc. dictum esto. — miserum: pred. adj.

80. improba, malicious goddess that she is.

81. fando, by report: abl. of means; A. 507; D. 879; B. 338, 4, a; G. 431. — aliquod . . . Palamedis, if perchance any such name as Palamedes, etc. (lit. any name of Palamedes).

82. Belidae, descendant of Belus: this Belus was king of Egypt. — Palamedis: Ulysses, to avoid joining in the Trojan expedition, feigned madness, yoking together a horse and a bull, ploughing a field with this team, and sowing it with salt. Palamedes laid Telemachus in the furrow. Ulysses turned out, and being thus proved sane, was held to the service. In revenge he procured the death of Palamedes in the way hinted at in the text. — incluta famā gloria, his renown made famous by the speech of men. — famā : i. e. the talk about his renown. — gloria : the renown itself.

83. falsa sub, etc., under a false and treacherous accusation.

84. indicio, charge: to prove treachery, Ulysses hid money and a forged letter from Priam in the tent of Palamedes. — vetabat, tried to stop: conative imperf.; A. 471, c; D. 653; B. 260, 3; G. 233.

85. nunc cassum lumine, now when he is dead (lit. deprived of light): abl. of separation.

86. illi : dat. of reference.

87. pauper : his poverty was his reason for sending the boy, as war was with the ancients a regular means of gaining wealth. — primis ab annis : i. e. at an early age — as soon as he was old enough to serve.

88. stabat : the subject is Palamedes. — regno : locative abl.

89. consiliis : locative abl.

90. invidia : abl. of cause or means.

91. haud ignota : to win confidence, he weaves in well-known facts. — superis ab oris, from the world above (this world).

92. trahebam, tacui : notice the change of tense.

93. mecum, alone by myself.

94-96. me . . . ultorem : indir. disc. dependent on promisi. Me . . . ultorem (to which promisi gives a future sense) = me ulturum [esse]. Thus it stands for a fut. apod. (dir. disc.: ultor ero = ulciscar); the prot. is tulisset, remeassem (dir. disc.: tulerit, remeavero). — tulisset, should allow.

95. Argos : used for Greece in general. Sinon's home was in Eubœa.

97. mihi : dat. of reference.

98. terrere, spargere, quaerere : historical infinitives (Introd. § 82). Cf. Paradise Lost, v. 702-703 :

Tells the suggested cause, and casts between Ambiguous words and jealousies.

99. volgum : masc. here, but usually neut. — quaerere, etc., conscious of his guilt, he began to seek arms of defence against him who might be his accuser.

100. nec enim (the negative of etenim, in which the force of et is lost), for he did not rest, etc., referring back to prima labes. — donec : Sinon artfully breaks off just when he has roused the keenest curiosity. — Calchante ministro : abl. abs. Calchas was a soothsayer who came to Troy with the Greeks.

101. sed autem = merely but; the repetition is pleonastic and colloquial. — haec ingrata, this thankless story: i.e. unpleasant and useless for me to tell and uninteresting for you to hear.

102. quidve moror, or why do I delay you? — uno ordine (abl. of manner): in one degree of estimation, i.e. as all alike.

103. id: i.e. the fact that I am a Greek. — iamdudum sumite poenas, inflict (lit. take) the punishment long since due, i.e. which you have long been eager to inflict. — sumite: punishment is regularly looked on as a fine or forfeit which the inflicter takes (hence sumere, 'to inflict') and the sufferer gives (hence dare, 'to suffer').

104. Ithacus: Ulysses; his home was on the island of Ithaca. — velit, would like it: apodosis for fut. less vivid condition, of which the protasis is omitted: so also mercentur; A. 516, b; D. 789; B. 303; G. 596. — magno: abl. of price (Intro. § 62). — Atridae: Agamemnon and Menelaus, sons of Atreus.

105. tum vero, then more than ever. Notice that these words regularly introduce the most important point or the decisive moment in the narrative. — ardemus: i.e., before we were eager, but now we long.

107. prosequitur, proceeds with his tale.

108. Troia relictā: abl. abs.

109. bello: to be taken with both fessi and discedere; they were wearied with the war, and anxious to depart from it.

110. fecissent: optative subjunctive; A. 441, 442; D. 680, 681, II; B. 279; G. 260, 261.

111. euntis, as they were just going.

112. praecipue: the previous occurrences were omens forbidding departure, and now still more were there signs of divine wrath. — cum iam, when now. — acernis: cf. v. 16, where the construction is said to be of fir. This variety is merely an epic convention, not a blunder; compare the use of various names for the Greeks, etc. (Intro. § 98).

114. scitantem, to inquire: pres. part. expressing purpose; A. 490. 3; G. 670, 3, N. — oracula, the responses (the proper meaning of the word); the most famous oracles of Apollo were at Delphi and Delos.

116. sanguine: i.e. the sacrifice of Iphigenia at Aulis (on the Eubœan Strait), where the Greek fleet mustered for the Trojan expedition, and where it was detained by head winds until Agamemnon consented to the sacrifice of his daughter to Diana. See Tennyson's Dream of Fair Women, sts. 25–30. Fig. 18 (from an ancient wall painting) represents the scene. — placastis: syncopated form of placavistis.

118. reditus: plur. because the Greeks would return to their homes in various parts of Greece. — anima: abl. of means (a regular construction for the thing sacrificed). — litandum [est], expiation must be made: impersonal.

120. gelidusque . . . cucurrit: cf. Paradise Lost, ix. 888–890:

Adam . . . amaz'd,
Astonied stood, and blank, while horror chill
Ran through his veins, and all his joints relax'd.

121. cui fata parent, [in doubt] for whom the fates are preparing (such a destiny): an indir. question depending on the doubt implied in tremor, etc. The response itself is supposed to be a preliminary arrangement for the death of some one. The cause of the agitation of the people is explained by v. 130.

Fig. 18

122. hic, at this moment.

123. numina: i.e. expressions of the divine will.

124. flagitat: implies violence or insistence. — iam canebant, began to foretell (prophecies being usually given in verse).

125. artificis, the trickster: i.e. Ulysses. — taciti: i.e. some also saw, but were silent. — ventura, what would happen.

126. quinos: the distributive is regularly used with numeral adverbs; cf. i. 381, note. — ille: Calchas. — tectus, hiding his thoughts.

128. vix tandem, at length reluctantly: i.e. with pretended reluctance, as composito shows.

129. composito, according to compact, strictly an impersonal ablative absolute; cf. i. 737, note. — rumpit, breaks his silence; rumpit is in a manner causative: he makes his voice break the bands that held it.

130. quae . . . tulere, what each dreaded for himself, they bore (i.e. permitted) when turned to one wretch's ruin. The emphatic position of unius and tulere suggests this as the best interpretation.

132. sacra: arrangements for the sacrifice. — parari: hist. inf.

133. salsae fruges: coarse meal mixed with salt (called also mola) was regularly sprinkled on the victim's head before a sacrifice. — vittae, fillets: bands which were wound round the victim's head.

134. fateor: it was sacrilege to escape, for he was already devoted (sacer) to the god. — leto: dative of separation (Intro. § 32). — vincula rupi: i.e. escaped from confinement.

136. darent: A. 553; D. 765; B. 293, III, 2; G. 572. — dedissent: subjunctive of integral part; the pluperfect is used by sequence of tenses for fut. perf.: A. 593; D. 907; B. 324, I; G. 663, I.

137. nec iam, no longer. — mihi: dat. of possession; sc. est.

139. quos poenas reposcent, of whom they, perchance, will exact the penalty for my escape: Intro. § 40.

141. quod, therefore (lit. as to which): acc. of specification. The word regularly introduces adjurations. — te: Sinon is speaking to Priam. — veri: Intro. § 16.

142. per [sc. eam fidem], by whatever inviolate truth yet remains to mortals anywhere. — si qua est: the perfidy of the Greeks makes him doubt if good faith anywhere exists. — restet: rel. cl. of characteristic; A. 535, a; D. 726; B. 283, 2; G. 631, 2.

143. laborum: Intro. § 20.

144. non digna, undeserved misfortunes.

145. lacrimis: dat., a bold synecdoche; what is given to him on account of the tears is said to be given to the tears themselves: A. 641; G. 695. — ultra, besides (lit. beyond his asking, which was only for his life).

146. viro: dat. of reference; translate as if genitive modifying manicas.

147. dictis: abl. of manner.

148. hinc iam, from henceforth. — Graios: for case see Intro. § 18.

149. noster, one of us.

150. quo, to what end? — quis auctor: i.e., by whose counsel?

151. quae religio, what religious vow (or offering)? The repeated questions in various forms show the old man's eager curiosity as well as his doubt.

153. vinclis = vīncūlis, which would be impossible in hexameter. — ad sidera, toward the stars (including all the heavenly bodies).

154. non violabile: i.e. an oath by these divine powers must not be broken.

156. deum (gen. plur.): i.e. worn in honor of the gods. — quas hostia gessi: and hence so much the more sacred an oath to him.

157. fas: sc. est. — sacrata, consecrated by religious obligation, like the oath of enlistment of the Roman soldier. — resolvere, to break (lit. to unbind, that is, to loose the obligation): infinitive used as subject (Introd. § 73). — iura, i.e. iura iuranda, oaths.

158. ferre sub auras, bring out to light (lit. to air) from their hiding-place.

159. si qua tegunt, whatever they (the Greeks) conceal.

160. promissis: locative abl. — maneas: abide by your promises: poetical use of hortatory (jussive) subjunc.; A. 439, a; D. 674, a; B. 275, 2; G. 263, 2, a.

161. Troia: an appeal to the holy city itself, more impressive than one to the king alone. — magna rependam, greatly repay: the protasis of a fut. more vivid condition, of which the apodosis is found in maneas and serves.

162. belli: obj. gen.

163. auxiliis stetit, depended on the help: abl. of place where. — ex quo, ever since.

164. sed enim, but [their hopes began to fail] for, etc. For the ellipsis see n. to i. 19.

165. fatale Palladium (Greek dimin. of Pallas): a small wooden image of the goddess. As long as it remained in the city Troy could not be captured. It was polluted by the touch of the bloodstained hands of Diomedes and Ulysses, Sinon says, and hence the goddess was offended.

168. virgineas divae vittas, the fillets of the maiden goddess: these seem to have differed in form from those of matrons.

169. ex illo, since then: correl. to ex quo. — fluere, ebb: historical infinitive; so also referri.

170. fractae: sc. sunt. — aversa: sc. est.

171. ea signa, signs of this (i.e. of her hostility). — Tritonia: a name of Pallas, of uncertain origin. — monstris (moneo), warnings.

173. luminibus arrectis, staring eyes: abl. of separation.

174. ipsa, the goddess herself (more amazing than the other warnings).

175. tremementem: the agitation of the goddess is indicated more vividly by the rattling of her arms.

176. canit: see note, v. 124. — temptanda [esse]: indir. disc.

178. omina: Virgil here transfers a Roman custom to the Homeric Greeks. The Romans undertook no expedition without the direction of the gods, who were supposed to dwell in the city, and were consulted by auspices before setting out. If the event was unsuccessful, the auspices had to be taken again in the city, and the whole enterprise be begun anew. The term for this was repetere auspicia, of which repetere omina is here a variation. — repetant: fut. prot. in indir. disc. — Argis, from Argos. — numen, the favoring presence of the gods, as shown by renewed favorable auspices.

179. quod . . . avexere: i.e. the divine favor which they brought with them when they came from Greece. — pelago, by sea. — curvis carinis, in the crooked ships: abl. of means.

180. quod, whereas (i.e. as to the fact that): a quod clause of fact, used as acc. of specification; A. 572, a; D. 824; B. 299, 2; G. 525, 2.

181. remenso: in a passive sense here.

182. omina: i.e. those referred to in vv. 171–175.

183. pro Palladio, in lieu of the Palladium. — pro numine, in propitiation of the offended divinity. The goddess is, however, identified with her image the Palladium, hence pro can be used with both, though not in precisely the same sense.

184. triste, gloomy (in its effect).

185. immensam molem: the gist of the idea is in these words. They were to make the horse huge so as to keep it outside, where it would protect them and not the enemy. — tamen: i.e. though it was in lieu of the Palladium, yet it was to be of no service to the Trojans.

186. roboribus: see n. on v. 112. — caelo: dat. of place to which.

187. recipi and duci are branches of the same general idea; neu introduces a different one. Sinon accounts for the size of the horse, and at the same time suggests that disposal of it which he desires.

188. populum: obj. of tueri. — populum . . . tueri, to protect the people under [the guardianship of] their ancient religion: i.e. just as they had been protected by the Palladium, whose place the horse was to supply.

189. violasset: indir. disc. for fut. perf. — Minervae: obj. gen.

190. quod di . . . convertant, may the gods turn the omen against himself (Calchas): optative subjunctive; A. 441; D. 681, 1; B. 279, 1; G. 260. The anger of the gods had to be satisfied, but might by prayers be diverted from its original object to another person.

191. futurum [esse]: indir. disc. following the verb of saying implied in iussit.

193. ultro . . . venturam, would come, though unassailed: i.e. would make an offensive war, beyond the defensive warfare they were now waging. — Asiam = Troiam. — Pelopea moenia = Graeciam: Pelops was an ancestor of Agamemnon and Menelaus.

194. ea: i.e. the fates implied in exitium.

195. periuri Sinonis: Sinon's name was long a by-word in literature for an arch-traitor.

196. res, his story. — capiti [sunt], those were caught: as antecedent of quos supply ei.

197. Larissaeus, Thessalian. Achilles did not come from Larissa, but from Phthia, another town in Thessaly.

199. aliud: by this prodigy the fall of Troy is shown to have been due to fate, and not merely to the wiles and valor of the Greeks. — miseris, [to us] ill-fated.

200. obicitur: for the long first syllable see A. 603, N.³; D. 968, N.; B. 362, 4; G. 703, 2, N. — improvida: blinded, not knowing the future.

201. Neptuno: dative of reference. — ductus sorte: a Roman custom transferred to Troy (cf. note on v. 178).

203. alta, the deep.

204. orbibus: abl. of manner with incumbunt.

205. incumbunt pelago, lie heavily upon the sea: they are, as it were, a burden to the sea on account of their huge size. — pariter, side by side.

207, 208. pontum pone legit, trails behind over the sea. The verb lego seems literally to mean pick, hence used of the course of a vessel, and so here of the monster. — sinuatque . . . terga, and winds their huge bodies in coils (lit. in a coil). — volumine (abl. of manner): the plural would be more natural, but the singular is occasioned by the metre.

209. spumante salo: abl. absolute.

210. oculos: with suffecti (Intro. § 42).

212. visu: abl. of cause. — agmine certo, with steady march (like an army), not roaming about aimlessly as they might be expected to do if not divinely sent.

213. Laocoönta: acc. (Intro. § 92).

216. post (adv.), next or then. — auxilio, to their help: dat. of purpose (Intro. § 33).

218. collo, about his neck: dat. (Intro. § 27). — circum . . . dati: tmesis.

219. terga: obj. of circum dati (Intro. § 43). — capite: abl. of degree of difference; sing. because the plur. capitibus could not be used in hexameter. Cf. volumine in v. 208.

220. tendit, strives. — divellere: complementary inf. (Intro. § 77).

221. vittas: cf. oculos in v. 210 and terga in v. 219.

223. quales mugitus, cum, for tales mugitus (in apposition with clamores), quales tolluntur, etc., such roarings as are raised when, etc. So Dante, Inferno, ii. 22-24:

Like to a bull, that with impetuous spring
Darts, at the moment when the fatal blow
Hath struck him, but, unable to proceed,
Plunges on either side.

224. incertam, ill-aimed. — securim: for form see A. 75, b; D. 102, e; B. 38, 1; G. 57, 1.

225. lapsu, gliding (as if it were a participle): abl. of manner. — delubra summa: the chief shrines of an ancient city were regularly in the stronghold (cf. the Capitol at Rome and the Parthenon at Athens).

226. saevae, cruel, in withdrawing her protection from Troy.

227. clipei: many statues of Minerva show a shield resting on the ground, the upper edge held by her hand. — teguntur: hide themselves: Introd. § 94.

228. tum vero: see note, v. 105. — novus: the former fear was mere terror at the serpents; the new is a religious awe. — cunctis: dat. of reference.

229. scelus expendisse merentem, has expiated his guilt, as he deserves.

230. robur: one of the many terms Virgil uses for the horse.

231. laeserit, intorserit: relative clauses of cause; A. 535, e; D. 730, 1; B. 288, 3; G. 633.

234. dividimus, etc., we break down the walls, and [thus] lay open the defences of the city. — moenia: more general in meaning than muros.

235. accingunt: sc. se; see note on i. 210. — rotarum lapsūs, rolling wheels (lit. the rollings of wheels): a bold form of expression, common in poetry; the quality or property of a person or thing, which would naturally be expressed by an adj., is embodied in an abstract noun, and the person or thing itself follows in the gen. This emphasizes the quality. Cf. minae murorum, 'menacing walls' (lit. 'menaces of walls'), iv. 88; cf. also iv. 132.

236. collo: dative (Introd. § 27).

238. feta armis, teeming with arms, i.e. with armed men: metonymy (Introd. § 100). — pueri, etc.: again a Roman custom. Many such customs of Virgil's time alluded to in the Æneid were supposed to have been imported direct from Troy. — circum: adv.

239. gaudent: because it was a sacred service.

240. illa subit: as Menelaus tells the story in the Odyssey (iv. 274–289; Bry. 355), Helen went thrice about the horse, calling the several chiefs by name, imitating by her voice the wife of each; and they were only kept from betraying themselves by the strong hand of Ulysses laid upon their mouths. — minans, towering high.

243. substitit, stopped: stumbling, as it were, on the threshold, always a bad omen with the Romans. — utero: abl. of place from which.

244. immemores: they had forgotten Laocoön's warning (v. 45), and they heeded neither the omen of the stumbling of the horse nor the sound of arms from within.

245. monstrum infelix, the inauspicious (i.e. fatal) prodigy. — arce: abl. of place where.

246. tunc etiam, then too (besides the other warnings which she had given in vain). — fatis . . . futuris, in prophecy of the fates (lit. in future fates): abl. of manner. — Cassandra: daughter of Priam. She had been endowed by Apollo with the gift of prophecy; but, as she rejected his love, the gift was accompanied with the curse that no one should believe her inspired words.

247. non credita: agrees with ora. — Teucris: dat. of agent (Introd. § 30).

248. quibus esset: THOUGH that day was our last (contrasting the signs of joy with their real fate); rel. clause of characteristic expressing concession; A. 535, e; D. 730, II; B. 283, 3; G. 634. Notice how this idea is brought out by the position of miseri before quibus, etc.

249. velamus: decking temples with garlands (fronde is collective) had a religious as well as a festival meaning.

250. vertitur, revolves. — ruit Oceano: night, like day, was conceived as rising from the vast Ocean that encircles the earth.

251. involvens: notice the grave effect of the spondees.

252. Myrmidonum: soldiers of Achilles (v. 7), here used for all the Greeks. — fusi per moenia, lying carelessly at rest throughout the city. Cf. i. 214.

254. iam ibat, was on its way already, anticipating Sinon's success.

255. per . . . lunae, by the friendly silence of the moon.

256. flammas, the signal light, as a sign to Sinon: cf. vi. 518, where Helen is said to have held forth a lighted torch as a signal. — cum . . . extulerat: a temporal clause of the "cum inverse" type. Logically this should be the main clause and the preceding clause should be temporal, but the present arrangement adds emphasis: A. 546, a; D. 751; B. 288, 2; G. 581. — regia puppis: Agamemnon's ship.

257. fatis deum iniquis, by the hostile decrees (lit. fates) of the gods — hostile, that is, to Troy. Usually the gods are made subject to the fates and act in a manner as their agents, but this distinction is not always observed. See also vi. 376.

258. utero: abl. of place where. — Danaos . . . claustra, lets loose the Greeks from their pine-wood prison. As the verb laxat can apply in slightly different senses to both Danaos and claustra, the zeugma, always a favorite form of expression (cf. notes on i. 356, ii. 54), is preferred to the ablative of separation (claustris). — pineae: see n. on v. 112.

259. laxat is in the same construction as extulerat, but the action of the latter verb precedes and that of the former is brought forward to present time (hist. pres.); hence the great difference of tense. — auras, open air.

260. cavo se robore promunt: see Fig. 19 (from a gem).

262. demissum lapsi per funem, descending by a rope let down.

263. Neoptolemus: in appos. with Pelides. — primus Machaon: Machaon, son of Æsculapius, was famous both as a surgeon and as a warrior: primus here means either noble, peerless, or among the first.

264. doli: i.e. the horse. Notice the variety of words Virgil uses to refer to the horse (cf. note on v. 230 and Intro. § 98).

266. portis patentibus: through the open gates; abl. of way by which (Intro. § 55).

267. conscia, allied, knowing each other's plans.

268. tempus erat: this, with nox erat, is a favorite form of transition with Virgil.

269. dono divum: cf. Milton, Paradise Lost, iv. 735: "And when we seek, as now, thy [i.e. God's] gift of sleep"; and Psalms cxxvii: "He giveth his beloved sleep."

271. adesse mihi, to appear before me.

272. raptatus bigis: i.e. by the chariot of Achilles; cf. i. 483.

273. per . . . tumentis, with thongs drawn through his swollen feet. — lora: acc. with the passive participle traiectus; see A. 395, N.³

274. ei mihi, ah me! — mihi: dat. of reference with ei. — qualis erat, how he looked! — quantum mutatus, how changed.

275. redit: i.e. as I seem to see him returning. The tense is used like the historical present for vividness. — exuvias indutus Achilli: clad in the spoils of Achilles. Hector killed Patroclus, who was wearing the armor of Achilles (Il. xvii. 188: Bry. 232). For case of exuvias see Intro. § 43.

276. puppibus: dat. of place to which.

278. volnera: apparently honorable wounds received in battle; not the hurts and bruises from being dragged at the car of Achilles. — gerens, having or with. — quae plurima, of which he had received so many. — plurima: emphasized by being put into the relative clause.

281. O lux, etc.: in his dream Æneas forgets that Hector has been slain, and the manner of his death and the cause of his disfigurement.

282. tenuere: sc. te.

283. exspectate: voc., with Hector. — ut, how, i.e. in how sad a plight.

287. ille nihil: sc. respondet. — moratur, heed (lit. stay for).

289. his: with a gesture.

Fig. 19

290. alto a culmine, from her lofty height, i.e. her position of power.
291. sat . . . datum: a legal phrase; your debt to your country and king has been fully paid.—si . . . possent . . . fuissent, if Troy could be saved (at all) by human hand, it would have been saved (before) by mine.
293. penatis: i.e. the household gods of Troy. The penates that Æneas actually took with him in his flight (v. 717) were those of his own household, but these were regarded as representing the penates of the city, since the latter were thus entrusted to him in his dream. See n. on i. 68.
294. his: dative of reference.
295. quae: i.e. moenia.—pererrato ponto: abl. abs.
296. vittas Vestamque: hendiadys; see i. 61, note. An image of filleted Vesta is entrusted to Æneas in his dream.
297. ignem: the sacred fire, which was carried from the hearth of Vesta, in the mother city, to kindle that of the new community. The gods and fire here referred to were supposed to be preserved in the temple of Vesta at Rome.
298. diverso, etc., the city is disturbed by many mingled sounds of grief.—miscentur: the regular word for any confusion.
299. secreta . . . recessit, stood in a retired spot, apart [from others], and concealed by trees. Note that the participles secreta and oblecta are used as pred. nom. after recessit.—secreta: has its literal sense of separated (i.e. apart from other dwellings).
301. horror, the dread din of arms.
302. somno: abl. of separation.—summi fastigia tecti, the summit of the roof of the house (lit. the top of the highest [part of the] house).
303. ascensu supero, I mount to (lit. by a climb I mount).—adsto, etc., I stand listening [to the roar of battle] just as, when the blaze driven by furious southern blasts falls upon the plenteous crops, or the hurrying torrent of a mountain flood overwhelms the fields, etc., the shepherd, ignorant of the cause, from the lofty summit of a rock, bewildered, hears (stupet accipiens) the roar. Cf. Il. xi. 492–497 (Bry. 599).
306. boum labores: i.e. the fruits of their toil.
309. manifesta fides [sc. est], the truth is clear (belief is forced upon me of what would otherwise seem impossible).
310. Deiphobi: Deiphobus, the next of the sons of Priam after Hector and Paris, had married Helen after Paris' death; his house was therefore the first destroyed.—dedit ruinam, has fallen in ruins.—ruinam: expresses both the crashing fall and the consequences of it (the ruins).
311. Volcano, the fire, but with a suggestion that Vulcan, the Fire God, is present in person to assist his mother Juno in destroying the city.
312. Ucalegon (i.e. his house): one of the counsellors of Priam.—Sigea freta, the waters of Sigeum: i.e. off Sigeum, a promontory near Troy.
313. exoritur: third conjugation here.

314. nec sat rationis, and yet there is no reason.

315. bello: dat. of purpose (Intro. § 33).

316. animi: notice the common use of the plural animi in the sense of passion, while mentem is the intellect or judgment.

317. succurrit, it comes [to my thought] that it is noble to die under arms: mori is subject of esse understood. Cf. the familiar line from Horace, dulce et decorum est pro patria mori.

318. Achivum: gen. plur. (Intro. § 91).

319. Panthus: another aged counsellor. — arcis Phœbique, of Apollo in the citadel: hendiadys.

321. ipse: i.e. he alone without attendants to bear the sacred burden. — trahit: translate by carries with deos and drags with nepotem (zeugma). — cursu: abl. of manner. — amens tendit, comes running wildly.

322. quo . . . loco, where is the main struggle? — quam . . . arcem, what stronghold shall we occupy? supposing the citadel to be already taken. This seems the best rendering of this much-vexed passage. Another meaning of the first question is, In what condition is the state? Panthus replies that all is lost; and Æneas accordingly rushes out in the general direction of the noise (v. 337). — Panthu: vocative. — prendimus, in poetry the present indic. is often used for the future; A. 468; D. 657; G. 228.

324. summa, lust. — ineluctabile, inevitable (lit. that cannot be wrestled away from).

325. fuius Troes, etc. "It was a common phrase with the Romans," says Appian, "to say, Antiochus the Great has been": see A. 474; D. 659; G. 236, 1.

326. ferus: not a general epithet, but indicating his present state of feeling. — Argos: i.e. to Greece; acc. of place to which.

327. transtulit: according to the Greek legend, "the gods departed in a body from Troy on the night of its capture, bearing their own images with them." — incensa . . . urbe, in the blazing city: i.e. they have set fire to the city, and are masters in it.

328. mediis in moenibus: i.e. in the very citadel. — adstans, standing there, a vivid way of indicating its presence.

329. victor, in his success (lit. as victor): in app. with Sinon.

330. bipatentibus, wide open (lit. with both folding-doors open): abl. of the way by which (Intro. § 55).

331. milia quot, as many thousands as, etc.: sc. tot milia in appos. with alii.

332. angusta viarum, the narrow ways.

333. ferri acies, the edge of the sword: poetical for the sharp-edged sword.

334. parata neci, ready for slaughter (of the foe). — primi vigiles, the foremost of the guards (there is scarcely a show of resistance).

335. caeco: i.e. having no orders or plans, they fight wildly.

336. numine : the idea is that this, like all his actions, is under the divine direction.

337. Erinys, the Fury, i.e. the demon of battle.

340. oblati per lunam, appearing in the moonlight.

341. adglomerant : sc. se. — Coroebus : Cassandra's lover, lately (illis diebus) come to Troy, who was slain by Peneleus (vv. 424–425).

342. forte, as it happened.

343. insano : his love is mad because untimely. — Cassandrae : obj. gen.

344. gener, as a son-in-law (by betrothal).

345. furentis, inspired; but suggesting also the fact that Cassandra's prophecies were regarded as the ravings of a distracted person.

346. audierit : rel. clause of cause; cf. laeserit, v. 231.

347. confertos, in close array (as we say, shoulder to shoulder), indicating unity of purpose and readiness for any fate. — audere in, to be bold for battle.

348. super (adv.), besides (though already they were brave). — his : sc. verbis; abl. of means.

349. vobis : dat. of possession. — extrema, the worst.

350. sequi : complementary infin. depending on the phrase certa cupido, which is equivalent to a verb of wishing (in prose, sequendi; cf. v. 10): Introd. § 77. — rebus, of affairs : dat. of possession.

352. quibus : abl. of means.

353. incensae (emphatic), you are hastening to defend a city already in flames. — moriatur et ruamus : the first idea is the more important and really includes the second — as if we had "let us seek death by rushing into the thick of the fight." Hence this is not an instance of that reversal in the order of ideas called hysteron proteron.

354. una . . . salutem, the vanquished have one safety only, to hope for no safety. For sperare see Introd. § 74.

355. animis, courage, i.e. they had determination before, but now they are roused to madness.

356. improba . . . rabies, ravening hunger has driven out [to prowl] in blind fury. — caecos : in app. with quos; A. 282, b. D. 496, b.; G. 325.

360. urbis : gen. of possession : translate, the way through the middle of the city. — nox . . . umbra : it is moonlight, but the streets are dark; besides, such expressions are not to be taken too strictly.

361. quis . . . explicet, who can tell in speech? deliberative subjunctive; A. 444; D. 678; B. 277; G. 259. The expression is a prelude to the account not of his own exploits, but of the scene of slaughter which they now witnessed in the streets.

364. inertia, lifeless.

365. religiosa, venerable.

366. dant : cf. note on sumite, v. 103.

367. victis : dative of reference.

368. crudelis luctus, cruel anguish. By a not uncommon figure the cruelty is transferred from the author or cause to the effect.

369. pavōr: see Introd. § 110. — plurima (singular), many a. — imago, form.

371. socia agmina, that we were a friendly band: sc. nos esse.

372. ultro, first, i.e. without being spoken to (cf. v. 279).

373. sēra segnities, lardy, or, imitating the alliteration, sluggish sloth.

374. rapiunt, etc., plunder and bear away [the spoil of] burning Troy.

375. vos, etc., are you (emphatic) now just (lit. first) coming?

376. neque fida satis, not very trustworthy, i.e. dubious, suspicious.

377. sensit delapsus = se esse delapsum: a Greek construction; A. 581, N.^s; G. 527, N.² — delapsus, fallen (without knowing it).

378. retro . . . repressit, shrinking back, he checked.

379. aspris = asperis. — veluti qui, like one who.

380. pressit nitens, has set foot on. — refūgit: transitive. The perf. is used to express the moment when the man has just recoiled in sudden fear.

381. colla: acc. of specification (Introd. § 42).

382. haud secus: litotes: A. 326, c; D. 947; B. 375, 1; G. 700. — abibat, was about to flee: inceptive imperf.; A. 471, c; D. 653; B. 260, 3; G. 233.

383. densis . . . armis, we plunge into their close array (lit. surround ourselves with): the verb is used in a middle sense.

384. passim: i.e. in all parts of the scene of battle.

385. adspirat, favors, lit. breathes upon (as a favorable wind): in English we use a different figure, smiles upon.

386. successu animisque (abl. of cause), exultant with the courage of success (hendiadys).

387. salutis: obj. gen. with iter.

388. dextra, auspicious: we should expect dextram, but the word is made more lively by agreeing with the subject.

389. insignia, equipments: helmets, shields, etc., by which their wearers may be distinguished.

390. dolus, etc., treachery or courage — who would ask which it is? A double or alternative question with an [sc. sit]. A. 335, d; D. 627; B. 162, 4; G. 458. — in hoste, in dealing with an enemy (lit. in the case of an enemy).

392. clipei insigne decorum, the gorgeous blazonry of his shield. The expression is somewhat like lapsus rotarum (v. 235), though more complicated; it is, however, natural enough in poetry.

394. ipse Dymas, Dymas too.

396. Danais: dat. with immixti (Introd. § 28). — haud numine nostro, with no favoring divinities (abl. of manner): i.e. the plan was destined to be fatal, as the sequel showed. Possibly, however, the idea that, as they were wearing Greek armor, they were not under their own divinities, was in Virgil's mind; for it is a privilege of poetry to mean two things at once. — nostro: A. 302, b; G. 312, R.¹

397. congressi, in hand-to-hand fight.

398. Orco, to Orcus. Orcus is, properly, the god of Death, and Dis is god of the Lower World; but they are often confounded. Orcus is also used for the Lower World itself.

400. fida: because their ships were there.

401. conduntur, hide themselves.

402. heu nihil, etc., alas, it is right for no man. — nihil: cognate acc. with fidere. — invitis divis: dative with fidere (Introd. § 26). Throughout this book the gods are represented as bent on the destruction of Troy.

403. trahebatur: i.e. by Ajax Oileus, who dragged with her the statue of Pallas to which she clung. For his punishment, see i. 41-45. — passis . . . crinibus, with dishevelled hair. — Priameia virgo, Priam's maiden daughter. Cassandra was said to have been the most beautiful of Priam's daughters.

404. templo: Æneas has now reached the citadel. Cf. v. 410. — adytis: the inner shrine of the temple.

406. lumina, her eyes, I say.

407. non tulit, could not bear.

408. periturus, to die (purpose; see n. on v. 47).

409. densis armis, into the thick of the fight: dative with the compound incurro.

410. primum: i.e. this was our first disaster. — delubri: i.e. the temple of Pallas, where the whole scene seems to take place.

411. obruimur: Introd. § 110. — miserrima: because slain by their own fellow citizens.

412. facie: abl. of cause.

413. tum, etc.: a new element in their peril. — gemitu . . . ira, in grief and rage at the rescue of the maiden.

415. gemini, the two.

416. adversi, face to face (pred.). — rupto turbine, when a storm has burst forth. — quondam, sometimes.

417. configunt: the fitful blasts of a veering storm are often conceived as a conflict of the different winds. Cf. the storm, i. 81. — laetus equis: by a common and very old metaphor he is represented as driving his steeds like a warrior to battle.

419. Nereus: a sea god; his wife was Doris, daughter of Oceanus; their daughters were the Nereids.

420. si quos fudimus, whomever (i.e. all whom) we have routed.

421. insidiis, by the trick (see vv. 389-395).

422. mentita tela, the lying (not counterfeited) weapons.

423. ora . . . signant, they mark our tongues, discordant from their own: for the Trojans spoke a different dialect from the Greeks, though probably not a different language.

424. ilicet, instantly: see derivation in Vocabulary.

425. divae armipotentis: Minerva.

426. iustissimus unus, most upright of all; unus merely emphasizes the superlative.

427. aequi: Introd. § 16.

Fig. 20

428. dis aliter visum, the gods judged otherwise (lit. it seemed otherwise to the gods), i.e. if one draws an inference from his fate, for, though innocent, he suffered death like the guilty.

429. Panthu: voc.; see Introd. § 93.

430. infula: a broad woollen band worn by priests and others engaged in sacred offices; even this badge of sanctity was no defence. Fig. 20 (from an ancient relief) represents a woman decorating a statue of Hermes with a fillet.

431-434. Nobly rendered in the old version by the Earl of Surrey:

Ye Trojan ashes! and last flames of mine!
I call in witness, that at your last fall
I fled no stroke of any Greekish sword,
And if the fates would I had fallen in fight,
That with my hand I did deserve it well.

431. cineres, flamma: voc. — flamma extrema, last flames: i.e. the blazing city is regarded as their funeral pile.

432. testor: sc. vos.

433. vitavisse: sc. me, as subject. — vices Danaum, perils in combat with the Greeks. — vices, literally changes, expresses the vicissitudes or varying fortunes of the combat.

434. ut caderem: purpose clause after si fata fuissent, which is equivalent to a verb of determining; A. 563, d; D. 720, I, and d; B. 295, 4; G. 546. — manu, by my deeds, such a death being regarded as the reward of valor.

436. gravior, burdened. — Ulixi, given by Ulysses: genitive; Introd. § 93.

437. protinus, (farther) on. — vocati, being summoned; referring to himself and his two companions, Iphitus and Pelias.

438. hic vero: cf. tum vero, v. 105 and note. — pugnam: obj. of cernimus. — ceu . . . forent, as if there were no fights elsewhere: i.e. compared with this the others were not fights at all; A. 524; D. 803; cf. B. 307, 1; G. 602.

440. sic Martem indomitum: translate parenthetically, so fierce the strife. The construction is poetically loose; Martem may be taken as in apposition with pugnam.

441. acta testudine (abl. abs.): the regular way of assault on a fortified place. Here there are two distinct attacks, one to scale the walls and one to burst in the gates; ruentis refers to the scaling party, testudine to the other. The defence to the former is in v. 445, etc., to the latter in v. 449.

442. haerent, cling, by hooks (crows) at the end: an anachronism, for scaling ladders were really a later invention. — parietibus: dative with haerent; A. 368, 3, N.; G. 346, N.⁶ — postis sub ipsos, close at the very gateway, — so much advantage have they gained.

443. nituntur gradibus, they (the Greeks) climb up the rounds (or steps) of the ladders; abl. of place where.

444. protecti, protecting themselves. — fastigia, battlements, or (more accurately) the projecting top of the wall.

445. contra: adverb.

446. his telis, with these as missiles. — quando: they saw that the end (ultima) was near, and therefore there was no use in sparing the house.

449. alii: opposed to those in v. 445. — imas, below.

450. fores: the great doors, opening inward.

451. instaurati animi, our courage was refreshed (at the sight of this resistance). — succurrere: depending on the idea of admonition or suggestion in instaurati, etc. (Introd. § 78).

453. limen erat, there was an entrance, and, etc. — pervius . . . Priami, a much-used passage between the parts of Priam's palace. — inter se: i.e. connecting them with each other.

454. postes a tergo, a postern gate. — relicti: i.e. when the palace was built.

455. infelix: because of Hector's death.

457. soceros: Priam and Hecuba. — avo: dat. of place to which. — trahebat, used to lead by the hand, as he followed, non passibus aequis (cf. v. 724).

458. evado, I pass up and out (by means of this passageway).

460. turrim: obj. of convellimus. — in praecipiti, on the very edge. — summis tectis, from the top of the roof. We may imagine it rising above the wall, and flush with the front, as in the machicolated tower of the Palazzo Vecchio at Florence (see Fig. 21).

463. adgressi ferro: i.e. with crow-bars and other tools of iron. In this and the following verses, to v. 467, the spondee and dactyls may well represent, first, the slow effort, then the sudden toppling over and swift fall of the turret. — quā summa tabulata, where the upper flooring (i.e. the planking of the roof where the tower and roof join) afforded weak fastenings in which to apply the leverage.

465. ruinam trahit, falls in ruins: properly, carries with it a mass of ruins.

469. Pyrrhus: called Neoptolemus in v. 263; son of Achilles, who was sent for after his father's death. The Scyria pubes (v. 477) are the youth of Scyros, an island in the Ægean, where was the kingdom of his grandfather Lycomedes.

Here begins the detailed account of the attack on the door, though it is interrupted by the action of Periphas and others told in vv. 476-478.

470. telis, etc.: flashing with the gleam of brazen arms: hendiadys.

471. in lucem: construed with convolvit terga. — mala, poisonous.

472. tumidum: i.e. with venom.

473. positis exuviis, having shed his old skin: an image of renewing one's youth which often suggested itself to ancient fancy.

475. arduus ad solem, raising his head to the sunshine. — linguis: abl. of means: translate as if the obj. of darts.

478. succedunt tecto, come up to the house and try to set it on fire, while Pyrrhus attacks the door.

Fig. 21

480. perrumpit, vellit, is trying to burst and wrench, by repeated efforts (descriptive). — postis, the frame of the door. — cardine: a pivot-hinge let into the upper and lower casing (see Fig. 22).

481. cavavit, dedit (perf. definite, taking a new point of view as the narrative moves on), has cut through the beams and made a vast breach.

482. robora, the wood of the door itself. An entrance, however, is not yet effected, but only an aperture made. — lato ore: abl. of quality (Introd. § 61).

483. atria, etc.: the general arrangements of a Roman house are apparently kept in view.

485. vident: i.e. the invaders can now see the defenders (armatos). — in limine primo: i.e. those nearest the outside.

486. domus interior, the house within.

487. cavae aedes, the spacious rooms: i.e. the interior, where were apartments, apparently for the women, ranged like cloisters about an open court.

490. postis, pillars. — oscula: i.e. of farewell.

491. patria, of his father (Achilles). — claustra, bolts and bars.

492. sufferre [sc. eum], stop him. — ariete: three syllables (Introd. § 112). — crebro: not many battering-rams, but repeated blows of one.

493. cardine: cf. v. 480, note. — postes, doorposts.

494. fit via: i.e. the door yields. — rumpunt, they force.

Fig. 22

495. milite, soldiery: cf. v. 20.

496. non sic: i.e. not so violently: translate with fertur furens in v. 498.

497. moles: i.e. dykes, etc.

498. cumulo: abl. of manner.

500. caede: abl. of manner.

501. centum nurus: used to include Priam's own daughters and the wives of his fifty sons. — Priamum: his death is here only stated in general terms: details are given in vv. 506–558. — per, amid.

504. barbarico: i.e. of the East. Æneas here speaks from a Roman point of view. Cf. "barbaric pearl and gold," Paradise Lost, ii. 4.

506. forsitan (= fors sit an), perhaps (lit. it would be a chance whether). — forsitan requiras, perhaps you may ask: indir. quest.; A. 447, a, N.; D. 819; G. 457, 2, N. — fuerint quae: indir. quest. after requiras.

506–558. Cf. the account of the murder of Priam given in Hamlet, ii. 2. 474 ff.:

The rugged Pyrrhus, he whose sable arms,
Black as his purpose, did the night resemble, etc.

508. limina, doors. — medium: more lively than mediis, as agreeing with hostem, but it is required also by the metre. — penetralibus: i.e. the inner part of the house, given up to the uses of family life.

509. diu: modifies desueta.

510. circumdat umeris, binds upon his shoulders: dative. — ferrum cingitur: Introd. § 43.

511. fertur, starts to rush.

512. nudo sub aetheris axe: in a Roman house the penates were kept by the family hearth and altar, in the atrium, or principal hall, but not in the open air: here, however, is apparently meant the peristyle, or court, which had a larger opening than the atrium, and contained a garden, or at least a tree or two.

515. nequiquam: for it afforded them no asylum.

516. praecipites, driven headlong. — tempestate: abl. of means depending on the idea of driven contained in praecipites.

519. mens tam dira, so dreadful a thought.

520. impulit: sc. te. — cingi (reflexive), to gird yourself. For the use of the infinitive see Introd. § 78.

521. non tali auxilio: i.e. prayers, not arms, must help us. — nec defensoribus istis, nor such defenders (i.e. armed defenders): istis, as "demonstrative of the second person," refers to Priam, as if she had said "defenders like you" (i.e. wielding arms, as you would try to do). For case see A. 356 and N.; D. 349, 350; B. 212, 1, and a; G. 405 and N.²

522. non si, no, not if, etc.: sc. egeret; see A. 517; D. 786; B. 304, 1; G. 597.

523. tandem, pray: a word of entreaty or impatience, used here as in questions; A. 333, a. — omnis, us all.

524. simul, with us (lit. at the same time).

526. Pyrrhi de caede, from slaughter at the hands of Pyrrhus.

528. porticibus, through the colonnades: abl. of way by which (Introd. § 55). Polites has escaped from the mêlée at the door and is fleeing towards the back of the house along the colonnade between the pillars supporting the roof of the peristyle and the wall of the peristyle itself.

530. iam iamque tenet, and now he is just about to grasp him, and closes on him (lit. presses him) with the spear: the repetition of iam pictures the scene, and so makes the impression more lively.

531. evasit, he came out (from the colonnade).

533. in media morte, in the jaws of death.

534. voci iraeque, angry words: hendiadys; see i. 61, note.

535. at: i.e. though you now triumph. The word is often thus used in entreaties, introducing a suggestion as opposed to some thought of the speaker which is itself unexpressed. — pro talibus ausis, for such reckless deeds.

536. caelo: dat. of possession. — pietas, justice (i.e. regard for piety and hatred of impiety). — curet: rel. clause of characteristic: A. 535, a; D. 726; B. 283, 2; G. 631, 2.

537. persolvant, reddant: opt. subjunc.; A. 441; D. 681, 1; B. 279, 1; G. 260.

538. qui: the antecedent is tibi in v. 535. — cernere: inf. used instead of a substantive clause of result.

539. patrios . . . voltus, hast defiled a father's sight, i.e. made him ceremonially impure by making him see such a deed.

540. satum . . . mentiris, whom you falsely call your father (lit. from whom you falsely claim that you are descended), — for this deed "belies" his lineage. — quo: abl. of source (Introd. § 50).

541. in, in the case of, hence equal to towards (cf. note, v. 390). — fidem, the faith due to a suppliant.

542. erubuit, respected, i.e. blushed to disregard. — sepulcro, for burial: dat. of purpose (Introd. § 33).

544. sine ictu, without force enough to inflict a wound; lit. without a blow.

546. summo umbone, the top of the boss or knob in the centre of the shield (without piercing it).

547. referes: with an imperative force.

549. degenerem: referring to Priam's taunt in v. 540.

550. trementem: from the feebleness of age.

553. lateri = in latus: dat. with a verb of motion. — capulo tenus, up to the hilt: A. 221, 26; D. 277, c; B. 142, 3; G. 413, R.¹

554. haec finis: finis is usually masculine.

555. sorte, by fate; strictly, the lot of an individual.

556. tot populis, over so many tribes: dative of reference.

557. Asiae: i.e. Asia Minor. — iacet litore: as if the body were still lying on the shore, where it had been thrown. Virgil seems to be thinking of the fate of Pompey.

558. sine nomine: i.e. unrecognizable.

560. subiit, came to my mind. — imago, the vision, i.e. the thought.

561. aequaevum: i.e. to Anchises.

563. direpta, casus: i.e. the probable pillaging of his house, and death of his son. — domūs, nominative. For quantity see Introd. § 110.

564. copia, forces: usually plural in this sense.

565. corpora . . . dedere, in despair, have thrown themselves to the ground or into the fire. — aegra, sick at heart, in despair, agrees with corpora.

567. iamque, etc., and just at this moment I alone was left. — super . . . eram: tmesis. — limina Vestae servantem, keeping close to the threshold of Vesta, i.e. of her shrine or temple, for the sake of sanctuary.

569. Tyndarida, Helen, called daughter of Tyndareus (the husband of her mother Leda), though Jupiter was her father. — dant, etc.: explains why he happened to see her.

570. erranti [sc. mihi]: he is still in the palace or the citadel; at v. 632 he descends to the streets.

571. illa: Helen.

572. poenas Danaum, punishment from the Greeks: subjective gen. — coniugis: Menelaus hesitated at first whether to kill Helen with his own hand; but her old fascination prevailed, and later she appears in the Odyssey in full honor as his queen. See Landor's poem, Menelaus and Helen at Troy.

573. Erinyes, Fury (as being the cause of strife and death).

574. aris invisā sedebat, was crouching, hated woman, at the altar.

575. ira, a wrathful impulse.

576. ulcisci: complementary inf. depending on ira subit, which is equivalent to a verb of wishing (Intro. § 78). — sceleratas poenas, vengeance on the guilty. — sumere, inflict.

577. scilicet: giving an ironical turn to the thought. — Mycenas: used for Greece in general. Helen came from Sparta.

580. turbā comitatā, attended by a throng.

581. occiderit (fut. perf.): i.e. shall she return to Greece in triumph when Priam has perished?

585. exstinxisse nefas laudabor, I shall be praised for having destroyed an impious creature. — laudabor: equivalent to a verb of saying, "I shall be said with praise to have," etc. This extension of the personal use of dicor, videor, etc., with the inf. is peculiar to poetry; A. 582, N.; D. 840 and a; G. 528, N.⁴ — merentis, deserved, agrees with poenas: cf. sceleratas, v. 576.

587. flammae, to have satisfied my heart with the fire of vengeance: for gen. see Intro. § 22. — cineres satiasset: vengeance is imagined to be a satisfaction to the spirits of the dead — a very old idea. — meorum, of my kinsmen.

588. ferebar, was swept on or carried away (by avenging wrath).

589. se videndam obtulit, presented herself in visible form (lit. to be seen): A. 500, 4; D. 869; B. 337, 7, a, 2; G. 430.

590. pura in luce: i.e. not in that cloud or mist which usually shrouds a divinity.

591. confessa deam (for se deam esse), revealing herself as a goddess. — qualis: sc. talem.

592. caelicolis: dative. — quanta: the gods are represented as larger than men; so Tennyson describes Helen as "a daughter of the gods, divinely tall" (Dream of Fair Women). Cf. Keats, Hyperion, i. 26–28:

She was a goddess of the infant world:
By her in stature the tall Amazon
Had stood a pigmy's height.

— dextra, by the hand. — prehensum [me] continuit: translate by two coördinate verbs, grasped me and held me back.

594. quis . . . tantus, what great . . . is this which: a common Latin form of expression. — dolor, indignation (felt as a sudden pang).

595. quonam: notice the force of nam; A. 333, a; D. 197, d; B. 90, 2, d; G. 106. The emphasis conveyed by nam gives the question the tone of a reproof. — nostri, for me: objective gen. — tibi: dat. of reference.

596. non = nonne.

597. liqueris, superet: indirect questions.

599. ni resistat, did not my care withstand them. The condition is cont. to fact with pres. subj. for imperf. in protasis, and perf. for pluperf. in apodosis (tulerint, etc.), by an old construction preserved in poetry: A. 517, e; D. 799; G. 596, R.¹

Fig. 23

600. hauserit, would have drunk their blood.

601. tibi (dat. of reference): it is not Helen that you should hate, or Paris that you should blame. Not that they are guiltless, but their guilt only fulfils the divine decree. — facies invisā: sc. culpata est.

604. obducta tuenti [tibi], drawn over you as you look.

605. umida circum caligat, enwraps you with its damp shadows.

606. ne . . . time: i.e. do not fear to look at anything I show you, or hesitate to do (by my direction) what is still in your power. For construction see Introd. § 87.

608. moles: i.e. of the burned and ruined buildings.

609. mixto pulvere, mingled with dust: abl. abs.

610. Neptunus: Neptune, the builder of Troy for Laomedon, now takes the main part in its destruction.

612. Scaetas portas: the most important gate of Troy.

613. prima, the foremost. — socium agmen: i.e. the Greeks, who are still pouring from the ships.

616. nimbo effulgens, etc., gleaming with divine effulgence and [the light of] the fierce Gorgon. Probably referring to the divine effulgence surrounding the gods when they appeared to mortals, which is the origin of the technical nimbus, or aureole, of later times (see Figs. 23, 24). — effulgens, gleaming, a not uncommon conception of the divinities. — Gorgone: i.e. on her shield or her ægis, or both (see Fig. 24).

That snaky-headed Gorgon shield
That wise Minerva wore, unconquer'd virgin,
Wherewith she freez'd her foes to congeal'd stone.

Comus, vv. 447 ff.

617. pater: Jupiter.

619. eripe fugam: a stronger form for cape fugam; hinting also at escape from peril.

620. limine: abl. of place where.

624. tum vero, then at length, my eyes being opened.

625. Neptunia: cf. v. 610, note.

626. ac veluti . . . cum, even as when.

627. ferro . . . bipennibus: cut by many a blow of the iron axe (lit. by the iron and by repeated axes): hendiadys.

628. usque, ever (lit. all the way, to a place or time).

629. tremefacta comam, its foliage quivering: acc. of specification. — vertice: abl. of specification.

630. supremum: cognate acc. (Intro. § 37).

631. traxit ruinam, has fallen with a crash: cf. v. 465 and note. — iugis: abl. of separation with avolsa.

632. descendo: i.e. from the palace and citadel to the streets. — deo: i.e. Venus.

633. expedior, I make my way out: middle voice.

634. iam, at length. — perventum [est]: impersonal, the regular construction when mere sequence of time and progress of action are to be indicated without personal reference.

635. tollere, to carry, belongs only with optabam. The crippled condition of Anchises is explained in vv. 648-649.

636. optabam primum, it was my first wish: the imperfect hints at the non-fulfilment of the wish.

637. excisa Troia: abl. abs. — producere: the indir. disc. would be se producturum, but here Virgil follows the analogy of verbs of refusing, which may take the complem. inf.

638. vos (emphatic): i.e. without me. — quibus [est]: dat. of possession. — integer aevi: vigorous with youth (lit. sound in respect to age): gen. of specification.

639. solidae: pred. adjective. — suo: i.e. without help from others. — robore, might, the strength of resistance; so here of the unimpaired vigor of manhood: abl. of means. — vires: the active powers, hence here of the ability to do and dare.

Fig. 24

642. una excidia, it is enough and more that I have seen one destruction, namely, that by Hercules and Telamon. Laomedon, father of Priam, had incensed the hero Hercules by withholding the sacred horses, the promised reward for the rescue of his daughter, and was slain by Telamon. A fuller form of expression would be satis superque est quod vidimus.

643. urbi: dat., as if with supersum (Introd. § 27).

644. sic positum, lying thus (helpless). Anchises has apparently composed himself on his couch, to meet death with dignity, and his friends are to leave him as already dead. — adfati: i.e. with the words of greeting, salve, vale, ave, uttered by the relatives when they parted from the body at the funeral pile.

645. ipse: i.e. without your staying to defend me or die with me. — manu, by the sword (lit. hand). Various views have been taken of this word, by my own hand (either by suicide or vain resistance to the enemy) or, better, in a general sense, by the hand of man. — miserebitur, etc.: i.e. both pity and desire for spoil will combine as motives to lead the enemy to kill me. I shall not die a lingering death by starvation. Leave me without hesitation, as if I were dead already.

646. facilis iactura sepulcri, the loss of burial is easy to bear: the expression of a sentiment so contradictory to all the ideas of the ancients brings out all the more strongly the old man's unselfish devotion.

648. demoror, have I lingered out: A. 466; D. 650; B. 259, 4; G. 230. — ex quo [tempore], ever since.

649. fulminis ventis, by the blasts of the thunderbolt. This had been his punishment for divulging the love of Venus for him. — igni: ablative.

651. nos = ego. — effusi [sumus] lacrimis, were dissolved in tears. — lacrimis: abl. of manner.

652. ne . . . vellet: depending on the idea of entreaty contained in effusi [sumus] lacrimis. — vertere: equal to the common evertere, as in i. 20, ii. 625.

653. incumbere, add to the burden of overwhelming fate. — fato: dat. (Introd. § 27).

654. haeret, etc., clings firmly to his purpose and to the (same) spot; zeugma.

655. feror, start to rush: cf. v. 511.

656. consilium refers to human means of safety. — fortuna refers to divine means. — iam, any longer.

657. mene . . . sperasti, what! did you hope that I could depart (i.e. that you could induce me to go)? Me is emphasized by its position and by the enclitic. — te relicto: abl. abs.

658. tantum nefas, etc., can such an impiety fall from a father's lips?

660. sedet animo, is fixed in your mind (abl. of place where). — hoc: i.e. his purpose.

661. patet ianua: alluding to Anchises' words in v. 645, etc. — isti leto, that death you desire.

662. iam, straightway (of an immediate future). — multo de sanguine, reeking with the blood (lit. from).

663. qui obtruncat, etc.: descriptive. Both acts indicate impiety as well as cruelty. The first syllable of patris, patrem being "common," the poet makes it short in the former, long in the latter.

664. hoc erat quod eripis, etc., was it for this that you snatch me, that I should see, etc.? — hoc: pred. nominative. — quod . . . eripis: substantive clause, subject of erat: A. 572; D. 822; B. 299, 1; G. 525, 2. — parens: in his despair he reproaches Venus for saving him, and prepares to return to the fight, whence she had conducted him.

665. ut cernam: clause of purpose in appos. with hoc.

668. vocat, etc.: i.e. death, the only refuge of the conquered, calls us.

669. sinite revisam, let me return to. — revisam: substantive clause without ut, obj. of sinite (A. 565, a; D. 720, I, d; B. 295, 8; G. 546, R.²); viso is an old desiderative, meaning go to see.

670. numquam, never, expressing merely an emphatic negative.

671. hinc, hereupon. — accingor rursus, I begin to gird on my sword again (which had been laid aside on his return). — clipeco . . . aptans: the left hand was thrust under one of the two straps on the back of the shield and grasped the other.

674. patri: i.e. to me. — tendebat: this appeal is imitated from the meeting of Hector and Andromache (Il. vi. 394-485; Bry. 515 ff.).

675. et nos, us too.

676. expertus, after the trial you have made (i.e. of arms).

678. quondam, once (but now no longer, since you desert me).

680. cum . . . oritur: a "cum inverse" clause; A. 546, a; D. 751; B. 288; G. 581. — dictu: supine with mirabile; A. 510; D. 882, 11; B. 340, 2; G. 436.

681. manus: i.e. as she held him out to his father; cf. v. 674.

682. levis apex, a light tip (of flame). As in the case of Servius Tullius, it signifies his future royalty. See Fig. 25 (from the Vatican MS.) for a curious picture of this scene.

683. tactu innoxia, harmless to the touch: abl. of specification. — mollis: with comas.

684. pasci, stray, as if it were an animal grazing.

685. trepidare, excutere, restinguere: histor. inf.; the construction, as usual, marks the haste and excitement of the occasion.

686. excutere, snatch away: properly, striking it off with the hand. — sanctos: because it was a divine omen.

688. caelo, towards heaven: dat. of place to which.

690. hoc tantum, this only do I ask: supply precor.

691. deinâe, then, i.e. after having looked upon us and judged our case.—firma: i.e. by some fresh omen. In augury it was customary to wait for a second omen. This, if of similar meaning, confirmed the first; if of contrary meaning, it neutralized it.

692. -que, when (lit. and): we should expect cum in the inverse construction (see n. on v. 680). This use of two coördinate clauses instead of a main clause and a subordinate clause is called parataxis: A. 268, par. 4; G. 472, 2.

Fig. 25

693. intonuit laevum, it thundered on the left (a favorable sign in Roman augury: see v. 54, note); cognate acc. (Introd. § 37).

694. stella: i.e. a shooting-star or meteor, a phenomenon always regarded with superstition by the ancients.—facem ducens, drawing a trail of light, like a firebrand (fax) waved in the hand.

695. illam, the star: notice how the Latin, by the skilful use of pronouns, avoids repetition; in English we cannot secure the emphasis here by using a pronoun, as the Latin does.

696. Idaea silva: marking the place of gathering, on Mount Ida, south-east of Troy. The light, says the old commentator Servius, signified the future glory of the house; the fiery trail, that some would stay behind; the length of the path, their long voyage; the furrow (sulcus), that it must be by sea; and the sulphur smoke, the death of Æneas, or the war in Italy. Probably the Trojans did not see so much in the omen.—claram, still bright.

697. limite: abl. of manner (Intro. § 58).
699. victus, giving way (lit. overcome, i.e. by the omen). — se tollit ad auras, rises up, i.e. from the couch (see v. 644, note).
701. iam iam, etc.: Anchises' words. — mora: i.e. on my part. — adsum, I am with you.
702. nepotem: Ascanius.
703. numine, divine protection. — Troia: i.e. the new Troy that is to be.
704. cedo, I resist no more. — equidem only emphasizes the words.
705. clarior: translate by an adverb.
706. aestus, etc., the surging flames roll the conflagration nearer: it seems best to take aestus as subject rather than incendia.
707. ergo age: observe the haste marked by the abruptness and rapid movement of the verse. — imponere, place yourself: imperative pass. in middle sense.
708. subibo umeris, I will take you upon my shoulders. — umeris: abl. of means.
709. quo . . . cumque (tmesis), however (lit. whithersoever).
710. salus, means of safety.
711. longe, at a distance, apparently on account of the greater security of going in small parties; in charge, perhaps, of the servants. — servet vestigia, follow in my footsteps.
713. urbe egressis, as you go out of the city (lit. for those having gone out): dative of reference.
714. desertae, lonely: the adj. is poetically attached to Cereris instead of to templum.
715. religione, reverence: abl. of cause.
717. sacra, sacred objects: perhaps the gods (penates) themselves.
718. me, for me (emphatic).
719. attrectare, with subj. acc. me, is subj. of est understood. — donec abluerō: similar purifying rites are common in all religions. — flumine vivo, running water.
722. insternor, I spread: see vv. 633 (note), 671, 707. — veste, pelle, a tawny lion-skin as a robe: hendiadys. — super: adverb. Fig. 26 is from an antique gem. Cf. Shakspeare, Julius Cæsar, i. 2. 112–115:
- Ay, as Æneas, our great ancestor,
Did from the flames of Troy upon his shoulder
The old Anchises bear, so from the waves of Tiber
Did I the tired Cæsar.
725. opaca locorum, dark places: cf. strata viarum, i. 422.
726. movebant, could alarm.
729. suspensum, timentem: participles expressing cause. — comiti: i.e. Iulus; A. 367, c; G. 346, N.²

730. portis: A. 363; D. 373; B. 358, 2, a; G. 346, R.²

731. evasisse, to have passed safely over. — creber = of many, as if it agreed with pedum.

734. aera: probably helmets, etc., or it may be a case of hendiadys.

735. mihi: dat. of separation (Introd. § 32). — male amicum, unfriendly. — nescio quod, some: equivalent to a weak aliquod.

736. confusam eripuit mentem, robbed me of my presence of mind in my confusion: lit. took away my confused senses, i.e. took them away by confusing them.

Fig. 26

737. To avoid capture he had to follow by-paths (avia).

738, 739. heu, etc., alas! my wife Creüsa either stayed behind, torn from me by unkind fate, or strayed from the path, or, tired out, sat down to rest; — it is uncertain which. The doubt in Æneas' mind is whether she stopped without any human agency, as she might well do, being misero fato erepta, or whether the gods used some ordinary human means.

741. nec prius . . . quam, nor did I look back . . . until. This want of care, though strange to us, agrees with the manners of the ancients, according to which Æneas' chief care would be for Iulus. Of course in following the legend Virgil must get rid of Creüsa.

742. tumulum, sedem: place to which without a preposition (Introd. § 47).

743. collectis omnibus: abl. absolute. — una, she alone.

744. fefellit, was missed by (lit. deceived).

745. amens, in my madness. — deorumque: the enclitic -que is elided by synapheia (Introd. § 114).

746. in eversa urbe, in the destruction of the city.

749. fulgentibus armis: no longer seeking to avoid notice. His armor would have been brought along by some one of the servants.

750. stat, my purpose is fixed. — renovare, reverti, obiectare: infin. used as subjects of impersonal stat (Introd. § 73).

751. caput, life.

752. obscura limina: i.e. the archways or the like.

753. vestigia . . . lustrō, tracing back our footsteps, I follow them through the darkness, and scan them with my eyes.

755. horror: i.e. scenes that make him shudder.—animo: sc. est.

756. si forte . . . tulisset, if haply by any chance she had turned her steps thither: indirect question. The repetition of si forte emphasizes the hopelessness of the search as well as its diligence.

761. asylo: selecting the temple of Juno, their patroness, for protection from their own forces (hence asylo, see Vocabulary); the Greek chiefs were here guarding their spoil in the vacant colonnades.

762. Phoenix: the aged instructor of Achilles.

764. adytis: dative of separation.

765. auro: abl. of material (Introd. § 51).

766. pueri, matres: the women and children are to be sold as slaves, an important part of the booty.

768. voces iactare, to utter cries [at random] in the darkness.

771. tectis, among the houses: abl. of place where.—quaerenti . . . furenti, to me, as I sought and as I roamed wildly: dat. agreeing with mihi in v. 773.

772. infelix: Creüsa just below assures him of her own felicity (v. 788); but she is "sad" from Æneas' point of view, as being cut off in her prime.

773. notā maior, larger than the well-known form. The spirits or shades of the dead were often regarded as larger than mortals. Apparently, too, Creüsa has become a minor divinity attendant on Cybele (v. 788).

774. stetērunt: for the short penult (systole), see Introd. § 111.

775. adfari, demere: histor. inf.

779. fas, the divine will: sc. est.—ille, the great.

780. longa tibi exsilia, distant exile is your fate.—tibi: dat. of possession with exsilia [sunt].

781. Lydius Thybris, the Etruscan Tiber. The Lydians were said to have colonized Etruria (Tuscany).

783. regia coniunx: Lavinia.

784. parta, won, though not yet possessed (cf. iii. 495).—Creüsae (obj. gen.), for the loved Creüsa.

785. non ego: emphatic.

786. servitum: supine, used with a verb of motion to express purpose; A. 509; D. 882, I; B. 340, I; G. 435.

788. deum genetrix: Cybele, the chief divinity of this region. See n. on v. 773. Cf. iii. 111.

790. lacrimantem: sc. me.

792. conatus: sc. sum.—dare . . . circum: tmesis.

793. compressa = comprehensa.

795. sic: i.e. bereft of her.

798. pubem (poetic for iuventus): a general expression for all who have outgrown their boyhood.—exsilio, for exile, and not for defence: dat. of purpose.

799. animis, opibus: abl. of specification. — parati: supply deduci, understood from deducere.

800. velim, I should wish to lead: subjunctive of integral part; A. 593; D. 907; B. 324, 1; G. 629. — pelago, over the sea: Introd. § 55. — deducere: regularly used for leading forth a Roman colony.

801. iugis: abl. of place where.

803. spes opis, hope of help (i.e. of giving or receiving assistance).

804. cessi, I gave way (i.e. I yielded to fate).

BOOK III

1. Asiae: i.e. Asia Minor. — evertere: subj. of visum [est]; Introd. § 73.

2. immeritam, unoffending; Paris alone had done wrong. — visum [est], it seemed best.

3. humo, from the ground, showing its utter demolition. — fumat: the present, though historical, here denotes continued action; the perfect (visum [est] and cecidit), a momentary act. — Neptunia: cf. ii. 625.

4. diversa exsilia, exile in various places (first one and then another). — desertas, desolate, i.e. remote and uninhabited.

5. sub ipsa, hard by.

6. Antandro: Antandros was a town at the foot of Mt. Ida, southeast of Troy.

8. prima aestas, early summer. The Trojan fugitives lived near Antandros during the winter following the capture of the city.

9. fatis: a variation upon the usual ventis dare vela, to indicate as well the divine guidance (which is emphasized throughout the poem) as their own helplessness.

10. cum . . . relinquo: this, logically the main clause, has become the temporal clause; while vix inceperat et iubebat, the logical temporal clause, has become the main clause (see i. 36, note). This form of expression here gives a stronger suggestion of haste.

12. magnis dis: a spondaic verse (Introd. § 104). He carried, as it were, the protection of the greater gods of his country, as well as the penates, or household deities, whose actual images he took with him.

13. procul, at some distance, not necessarily very far: in reality, across a narrow strait. — vastis campis: abl. of quality. — Mavortia: Virgil makes the fierce tribes of Thrace know no god but Mars.

14. Lycurgo: dat. of agent. Lycurgus attacked the nurses of Bacchus with an ox-goad, and was blinded and afterwards destroyed by Jupiter (Il. vi. 130–140; Bry. 165).

15. hospitium antiquum, an ancient friend. — socii penates, with household gods allied with ours (a symbol of hospitality and friendship); hospitium and penates are in apposition with terra.

16. fruit, lasted.

17. fatis ingressus iniquis, beginning [the work] with the fates unkind (abl. abs.).

18. Aeneadas: there was a town Ænea on the west coast of Thrace, with whose name Virgil thus connects his story; also an earlier Ænos, at the mouth of the Hebrus, where was said to be a tomb of Polydorus. Here the two are identified in order to associate this region with Æneas.

19. Dionaeae matri, to my mother, daughter of Dione.

20. auspicious, protectors: i.e. the sacrifices were intended to win their protection. — supero: modifies regi. — nitentem taurum: a white bullock was the usual Roman offering to Jupiter.

21. caelicolum: gen. plur.

22. quo summo [sc. erant], on whose summit were: A. 293; D. 510; B. 241, 1; G. 291, R.²

23. hastilibus: both the cornel and the myrtle have shoots suitable for spear-shafts. — myrtus: myrtle is sacred to Venus, and "loves the sea."

24. silvam, thicket.

25. ramis: cf. ii. 249 and note.

26. dictu: supine with mirabile; see note on i. 434.

28. huic, from that tree which, etc.; arbos is attracted into the relative clause, and huic is dat. of reference (Intro. § 31). — sanguine: abl. of material (Intro. § 51). The prodigy of blood-drops from a tree is a widespread piece of folklore. A famous instance is in Spenser's Faery Queen, i. 2. 30-33.

29. mihi: dat. of reference. Translate, my limbs.

31. alterius, of a second.

32. temptare, to try or explore: cf. ii. 691 and note. He regards the prodigy as an omen.

34. nymphas agrestis: the hamadryads or nymphs of the grove, making their abode in trees; the hamadryad was the spirit of the tree itself, born and perishing with it. First Æneas worships the divinities of the immediate place, then the greater divinity of all Thrace. — venerabar, I prayed with reverence (the request follows in v. 36).

35. Geticis, Thracian.

36. secundarent: the omen, though alarming as far as observed, was not understood, and might be a good one; it had to be interpreted by further occurrences (see note on ii. 691). The subjunctive stands for the imperative (secundate) used in the prayer as directly expressed: A. 588; D. 887, III; B. 316; G. 652. — levarent, lighten the weight of the omen (by making it favorable).

37. sed, but (instead of the result hoped for).

38. genibus, abl. of manner. — harenae: dat. with obluctor.

39. eloquar: deliberative subjunctive. The occurrence seems to him too frightful to relate.

40. vox reddita, a voice in reply.

41. quid . . . sepulto, why do you mangle a victim of misfortune? Spare him at length in the grave! Though referring to himself, Polydorus does not use the first person until later. To supply me with miserum and mihi with sepulto weakens the effect.

42. parce, forbear: § 450, N.¹; G. 271, 2, N.² — non . . . tulit, Troy did not bear me (to be) alien to you.

43. aut . . . manat, and it is from no tree-stock this gore flows. The negative force is continued by aut and so another negative is not needed.

45. confixum: sc. me. — ferreae seges, an iron crop: i.e. the spears thrust into him have taken root, and grown up through the sand-mound that has heaped itself above his body.

46. iaculis . . . acutis, has grown up with sharp javelins.

47. tum vero (regularly used of the most important moment in a narrative), ah! then indeed: before, his horror had been slight in comparison. — ancipiti formidine, double terror, from the sight and the voice. — mentem: acc. of specification.

48. stetērunt: as in ii. 774.

50. infelix: i.e. in all his later fortunes. Æneas tells the story as related to him by the ghost of Polydorus. — alendum: with mandarat to express purpose; A. 500, 4; D. 869; B. 337, 8, b, 2; G. 430.

51. regi: Polymestor. — iam diffideret: the imperfect with iam regularly denotes the beginning of an action.

53. ille: introduced to change the subject and refer to Polymestor. — fractae: sc. sunt.

54. res, fortunes. — secutus, siding with.

56. potitur is here of the third conjugation. — quid: cognate acc.

57. auri sacra fames, accursed craving for gold (cf. i. 349); sacer was anciently applied to things set apart for sacrifice to some deity, and hence doomed to perish. — auri: obj. gen. (Introd. § 14).

58. primum parentem, to my father first, as first in rank and age. The Trojan chiefs are consulted in turn, like the Roman senators, respecting the prodigy, and Anchises, as princeps, speaks first.

59. refero: the regular word for laying a matter before the Roman senate. — sententia, view (properly, official opinion, or vote).

60. excedere, linqui, dare: in apposition with animus.

61. linqui: the construction changes to the passive, but it need not change in translation. — dare classibus austros, call the winds to the [waiting] ships.

62. instauramus: the technical word for a renewal of any imperfect ceremonies. The funeral rites (funus) had, of course, been cut short, if not omitted altogether, by the murderer. Their due performance was thought to lay the ghost. See the long description of the funeral of Misenus in vi. 177-235, with the notes.

63. tumulo, on (lit. to) the mound. — Manibus, to the dead: dat. of reference. The Manes are the spirits of the dead considered as inhabiting the Lower World. When conceived as ghosts hovering about their old homes or haunting the living, they are lemures or larvæ.

64. atra cupresso, funereal cypress.

65. Iliades: sc. stant.

66. inferimus, we offer: a sacrificial term. — lacte: abl. of material. Wine, oil, and honey might also be used in offerings to the dead.

67, 68. animam . . . condimus, etc., we lay the [perturbed] spirit: as we say "to lay a ghost." From the expression here it would seem that the soul was supposed to remain with the body after death; but compare iv. 705, v. 517, which imply a different idea. The first view is doubtless the more primitive and less philosophical, and was retained and confused with the later one. — supremum (cognate acc.) ciemus, we call upon him for the last time: cf. ii. 644.

69. ubi . . . pelago, as soon as the sea may be trusted: fides [est] here takes the dat. as if it were a form of the verb fido. — placata dant, render calm. The sea is conceived as a person, and so is appeased.

70. lenis, gently, as if an adv. (leniter) modifying crepitans.

71. deducunt, launch: their ships were regularly beached while in port, and this word is the technical term for drawing them into the water.

73. sacra tellus: Delos. — mari medio, in mid-sea.

75. pius, in filial love, i.e. for his mother Latona, to whom Delos had given refuge at the time of his and his sister Diana's birth. Both Apollo and Diana are always represented as devoted to their mother.

76. errantem: it is possible that the little island of Delos from its position had often eluded the early mariners, and that thus the story arose that it was adrift, until its place was fixed by Myconus and Gyarus, to which Apollo was then supposed to have "moored" it. — celsa: Myconus is not high except as any island would be celsa compared to the sea.

77. immotam . . . ventos, and he granted that it should be inhabited and immovable and should scorn the winds: lit. he gave [it] to be inhabited unmoved, etc.; immotam is a pred. adj. and the infinitives are objects of dedit. So long as Delos was a wandering island it was unfit for habitation.

78. haec: sc. tellus.

79. egressi, landing, the regular word.

80. Anius: various legends connect him with Anchises and with Æneas. — rex, etc.: the two offices were no doubt regularly united in the most ancient times; compare the functions of the early Roman kings.

81. vittis: these he wore as being a priest. — tempora: Introd. § 43. — lauro: sacred to Apollo.

83. hospitio, in hospitality, i.e. as hereditary friends (cf. v. 15).
84. templa: translate as if singular. A short time has elapsed between the arrival at Delos and the visit to the temple. — saxo: abl. of material.
85. proprium, permanent. — Thymbraee: Apollo is so called because he had a famous temple at Thymbra, near Troy.
86. mansuram, that shall abide.
87. Pergama, citadel. — reliquias, etc.: cf. i. 30.
88. quem sequimur: i.e. who shall be our guide? The present tense has a future meaning here: A. 468; D. 657; G. 228.
89. inlabere, inspire: Apollo, as the god of prophecy, is supposed to inspire his worshippers with knowledge, as well as his priest.
90. visa: sc. sunt.
91. limina, laurus: in many ancient representations of Delphi an altar appears in front of the temple; there is a laurel near-by. — -quē: cf. pulvis, i. 478; domūs, ii. 563.
92. mons: Mt. Cynthus. — adytis reclusis, when the [doors of the] shrine were opened. — cortina (lit. vat or caldron) is strictly the vessel which formed the body of the tripod; it was provided with a cover, on which the priestess sat.
93. submissi petimus terram, we fall upon our knees on the ground.
94. Dardanidae: the Trojans are fitly addressed as Dardanidae because their ancestor Dardanus came from Italy, the land which the oracle is about to mention. — duri, hardy (suggesting the toils they had undergone).
95. prima: translate as if an adv. — tellus: the antecedent, attracted into the relative clause. — ubere laeto, in her fruitful bosom, i.e. nourishing (alluding to matrem, below).
97. hic, here: i.e. in the land mentioned in vv. 94–96. — oris: abl. of place where.
99. mixto tumultu: abl. absolute.
100. moenia, city.
102. volvens monumenta, unrolling the records (like a scroll: cf. i. 262).
104. Iovis insula: Jupiter was said to have been born in Crete.
105. gentis cunabula: the existence of a Mt. Ida in Crete is evidence to Anchises that the Trojans came originally from that island.
106. habitant: i.e. the Cretans.
107. maximus pater, our eldest ancestor, i.e. the first founder of our race. — audita, what I have heard.
108. Rhoeteas, Trojan: Rhoeteum was a small town and promontory just north of Troy.
109. regno: dat. of purpose (Introd. § 33).
110. steterant, had been built.
111. hinc, hence, i.e. from this colony of Teucer. The translation may follow the Latin in leaving the verb unexpressed. — cultrix, patroness. —

Cybelae: obj. gen. with cultrix. Cybele was a mountain in Phrygia sacred to Cybèle or Cybebe, "mother of the gods," a Phrygian divinity worshipped in and about the Troad. — Corybantia aera, the Corybantian cymbals. The rites of Cybele were performed by the Corybantes, her votaries, with the clashing of cymbals, etc. She wears a turreted crown. Her car is pictured as drawn by lions. Her worship was introduced into Rome 204 B.C. and became very popular in the later republic. Her journey to Rome is quaintly represented in Fig. 27, from an ancient relief.

112. Idaeum nemus: the grove on Mt. Ida. Anchises supposes that the name of the mountain near Troy was taken from Mt. Ida of Crete, and that from the same source came the worship of Cybele in the grove. The last syllable of nemus is long (Introd. § 110). — fida silentia sacris, faithful secrecy for the mysteries, i.e. those associated with her worship. The initiated were bound by an oath of secrecy.

115. Gnosia: Gnosus was the city of Minos, king of Crete.

116. nec longo cursu: about one hundred and fifty miles; abl. of degree of difference. — Iuppiter: as god of the sky and of storms. — adsit: proviso; A. 528; D. 811; B. 310, 11; G. 573.

118. meritos, due, i.e. by custom.

120. nigram . . . albam: a black victim to the power whose wrath is deprecated; a white one to the friendly deity. — felicibus, favoring.

121. regnis: abl. of place from which.

122. Idomeneæ: acc. (Introd. § 93). According to the story, Idomeneus, leader of the Cretans in the Trojan War, overtaken by a storm on his return, had vowed to sacrifice to the sea-god the first living thing that should meet him on his safe arrival home. This proved to be his son, who was accordingly sacrificed; but a pestilence followed, and Idomeneus was driven from Crete and settled in Italy (v. 400). — deserta: sc. esse.

Fig. 27

123. hoste: abl. of separation. — adstare, stand ready (for occupancy).

124. Ortygiae: Delos. — pelago: over the sea: abl. of the way by which (Intro. § 55).

125. bacchatam iugis, whose heights are visited in the orgies, i.e. in the rites of Bacchus: literally, sought-in-revels on its heights; bacchatam, though participle of a deponent verb, is here used in a passive sense. Iugis is abl. of place where. — Naxon: object of legimus (v. 127).

126. niveam: on account of its much-prized white marble.

127. Cycladas: the islands just named belong to the Cyclades. — freta . . . terris: the narrow seas broken up by frequent islands.

128. vario certamine, in varied contest; the vessels are racing each other.

129. petamus: direct discourse (hortatory subjunctive).

130. prosequitur, attends. This word is regularly used of human escort, and so here in a manner personifies the favoring wind. — euntis [sc. nos], us as we go.

131. Curetum: priests of Jupiter in Crete, where his worship was conducted with orgies and noisy rites, like that of Cybele. His infancy was passed there in concealment, and his cries were drowned by the clashing of the arms of the Curetes. See Fig. 28, from an ancient relief.

133. Pergameam: an historical Cretan town Pergamum is thus connected by Virgil with the wanderings of Æneas. — laetam cognomine: because Pergamum was also the name of the citadel of Troy.

134. amare: infinitive, in place of a substantive clause (Intro. § 78). — tectis, for their habitations: dat. of reference.

135. fere qualifies not merely subductae but the whole situation of affairs: the colony was well-nigh established. — subductae: the technical term for beaching the ancient ships, which were usually kept on land and only launched on occasion of a voyage (cf. n. on v. 71).

136. cōnūbiis (trisyllable; Intro. § 115): abl. of means, match-making (with Cretan women apparently).

137. tabida goes with lues (v. 139). — membris, upon their limbs; dat. of reference with venit.

138. corrupto . . . tractu, from an infected quarter of the sky; abl. of cause. This was until recent times the usual explanation of an epidemic. Cf. Thomson's description of plague and famine, The Seasons, Summer, vv. 1092–1134; especially vv. 1122–1125:

The circling sky,
The wide enlivening air is full of fate;
And, struck by turns, in solitary pangs
They fall, unblest, untended, and unmourn'd.

139. satis, crops: from sero; here subst. in the same constr. as membris.

140. linquebant dulcis animas, they laid down their dear lives.

141. sterilis (acc. plural), etc., burned the fields barren, i.e. so that they became barren: A. 393, N.; D. 417, a; B. 177, 2; G. 340. — Sirius: at the period when the popular astronomy began, the Dog Star rose with the sun about the middle of July. Hence it is traditionally associated with extremely hot weather. — exurere: historical inf. (Intro. § 82).

142. negabat, refused.

143. remenso . . . mari (abl. abs.), retracing [our course over] the sea.

Fig. 28

144. veniam, a gracious answer. The question is in the indirect form in the next line.

145. finem: usually masculine (cf. ii. 554).

147. nox erat: cf. ii. 268 (note).

148. effigies, images (not apparitions): it was "a mixture of dream and vision."

150. ante oculos iacentis, before my eyes as I lay (lit. of [me] lying).

152. insertas, set in the walls.

154. delato, when arrived, i.e. if you should go. — dicturus est, would say, equivalent to dicat; a fut. apodosis, the protasis being implied in delato: A. 521, a; D. 802; B. 305, 1; G. 593, 2.

155. hic, here. — ultro, unasked, i.e. without your going to him. — ad limina: i.e. of your chamber.

157. sub te = te duce.

158. idem (nom. plur. contracted) . . . nepotes, we will also exalt, etc.: A. 298, b; D. 547; B. 248, 1; G. 310; said rather of the general glories of the race than of the apotheosis of special heroes.

159. magnis, for great things, i.e. a mighty destiny.

160. ne linque: see Introd. § 87.

161. non haec, etc., not this shore did, etc.

162. Cretae: locative (Introd. § 72).

163-166. Repeated from i. 530-533, which see.

167. propriae, permanent (as in v. 85).

168. Iasius: a brother of Dardanus; he married a daughter of Teucer and thus became one of the founders of the Trojan race. — pater: merely an honorary epithet. — principe, as founder: not, of course, to the exclusion of Dardanus, just mentioned.

170. haud dubitanda, no doubtful tidings. — Corythum (afterwards Cortona): a very ancient city in Etruria. There were many traditions of its connection with Greeks and Pelasgians. — requirat: for imperative of dir. disc.

171. Dictaea, Cretan: Dicte was a mountain in Crete.

173-175. Cf. the vision of Eliphaz in Job, iv. 13-17.

175. corpore: abl. of separation.

176. supinas manus: see note on i. 93.

177. munera: i.e. a libation of wine.

178. focis: dat. of place to which. The hearth was the altar of the penates. — laetus: his cheerfulness, when he has fulfilled the sacrifice, comes from the assurance of divine direction.

179. ordine, in full with all the details.

180. prolem, race. — ambiguum: in its literal sense, twofold. — geminos parentes: the Cretan Teucer and the Italian Dardanus.

181. novo errore: perhaps a mere verbal antithesis to veterum locorum, i.e. the ancient homes of the race; by a new mistake as to ancient places. — locorum: obj. gen.

182. exercite, driven on, pursued or harassed. — fatis: abl. of instrument.

183. casus . . . canebat: Virgil is fond of alliteration, though not so much so as the earlier poets. See ii. 246-247 for Cassandra's prophecies.

184. nunc repeto, now (though before forgetful) I recall. — portendere [sc. eam]: the present inf. is here used to express a repeated action in past time (the so-called imperfect infinitive); in direct discourse, — portendebat, vocabat. See A. 584, a. n.; D. 830; G. 281, n. — debita, as due.

187. crederet, would have believed: deliberative subjunctive referring to past time; A. 444 and n.; D. 678; B. 277; G. 466. — quem . . . moveret: see ii. 247.

188. Phoebo: the god of prophecy, who, as he thought, must have commissioned the penates (cf. vv. 154-155). — meliora, a higher destiny.

189. ovantes: because they at length know their true destiny.

190. quoque: i. e. as well as Thrace. — paucis relictis: to account for the existence of the Cretan Pergamum in historical times (v. 133).

191. aequor: depending on currimus, in the sense of navigare, which is often used as transitive; but the construction of all such words resembles that of the cognate acc.

192. altum tenere, gained the deep.

193. caelum, pontus, sc. est.

194. imber, rain-cloud.

195. hiemem, storm. — inhorruit, roughened, with a hint at the dread (horror) of the storm. — tenebris: abl. of manner. The allusion is doubtless to the common appearance of the darkening of the sea under a wind.

199. abstulit, shut out, but the figure is livelier in Latin. — ignes, flashes. — nubibus: abl. of place where; cf. Paradise Regained, iv. 410-413:

The clouds,

From many a horrid rift, abortive pour'd

Fierce rain with lightning mix'd, water with fire

In ruin reconcil'd.

201. ipse: emphatic because Palinurus is the skilful pilot, and ought to know if anybody on board could. — discernere, distinguish: sc. se as subject.

202. viae: Intro. § 18.

203. tris adeo . . . soles, for three full days; acc. of duration of time; adeo grammatically modifies tris. — caligine (abl. of cause): to be taken with incertos.

206. aperire, volvere: depending on visa [est]. The land discloses the peaks and rolls up the smoke. — fumum: the sign of an inhabited country.

207. vela: it would seem that in all difficult places, as when nearing the coast, the ancients used only their oars. — insurgimus: we say bend to the oars; but the ancients used larger oars, so that the corresponding expression in Latin is rise, as here. — mora: sc. est.

208. caerulea, the dark blue sea.

209. Strophadum: two islands of the Ionian Sea, west of Peloponnesus. They were said to be so called from the Greek verb meaning "to turn," because there Zetes and Calais, sons of Boreas, turned from pursuing the Harpies.

210. Graio : because the name has a Greek derivation. — stant, lie.

211. insulae Ionio : semi-hiatus (Introd. § 109). With Ionio sc. mari.

212. Harpylae : perhaps originally personified storm-winds, but worked up by the mythographers into the monsters described in the text. They infested the house of Phineus, a king of Thrace, sent by the gods to punish him for his cruelty to his sons, but were driven away by the Argonauts, Zetes and Calais, as here described; hence metu (abl. of cause). There are countless references and allusions to the Harpies in ancient and modern literature. See Fig. 29. — Phineia : of Phineus.

Fig. 29

213. mensas : the Harpies snatched away the food from the table of Phineus before he could eat.

215. ira, scourge, the wrath is put for its instrument. — Stygiis : such monsters regularly had their home in the World Below. So in Milton, Comus, vv. 603–605 :

All the grisly legions that troop
Under the sooty flag of Acheron, Harpies and Hydras.

216. voltus : sc. sunt.

218. famē : the e in the abl. of fames is long, as if of the fifth declension.

219. delati, sailing in (literally, down).

220. laeta, thriving : a common word for any luxuriant growth; here possibly only of numbers, countless.

221. custode : abl. of manner, or perhaps abl. absolute.

222. ferro : abl. of instrument. — ipsum : the emphasis is either to give a stronger indication of their honesty of purpose, or else to show a still greater folly on their part in calling on Jupiter, the protecting divinity of strangers, in their acts of violence.

223. in partem, etc., to a share of the prey (hendiadys, see n. on i. 61).

224. toros : i.e. for reclining. — dapibus : abl. of means; cf. the construction with vescor (Introd. § 56).

226. clangoribus : i.e. the noise of their flapping wings.

227. diripiunt, etc. Hence in Shakspeare's Tempest (iii. 3) Ariel enters in the shape of a harpy, "claps his wings upon the table, and with a quaint device the banquet vanishes."

228. vox : their cry as birds of prey.

230. horrentibus, darkening.

232. ex diverso caeli, from a different quarter of the sky.

233. pedibus : abl. of instrument.

234. capessant : A. 588; D. 887, III; B. 316; G. 652. His words in dir. disc. would be, capessite . . . gerendum est.

236, 237. ac, than. — tectos . . . condunt, they hide their swords here and there in the grass (lit. they place them here and there hidden) and secrete their shields (lit. hide them lying concealed); tectos and latentia are proleptic; see n. on i. 69.

240. nova proelia, strange warfare.

241. foedare: in apposition with proelia.

242. plumis; tergo: abl. of place where.

243. sub, up toward, a common meaning of the word.

245. una, one only, with emphasis as usual.

246. infelix, ill-omened. — rumpit, hurls forth.

247. bellum: notice the emphasis on this word from its position as well as its repetition. — pro, in return for: i.e. to defend and continue the outrage already committed.

248. Laomedontiadae: spoken tauntingly, to remind the Trojans of their descent from one who was famous for breaking his word. Laomedon had refused to pay Apollo and Neptune the wages agreed upon for building the walls of Troy; and later, when his daughter Hesione was rescued from a sea-monster by Hercules, he had again withheld the promised reward.

252. Furiarum: apparently a mere confusion of the two sets of divinities. Such creatures were not very exactly defined in the minds of the ancients, and the two might easily be identified with each other, especially as these Harpies, as well as the Furies, were ministers of divine vengeance. Cf. Paradise Lost, ii. 596, "harpy-footed Furies." In Lycidas, v. 75, Milton calls Atropos, one of the Fates, "the blind Fury."

253. cursu: abl. of manner. — vocatis: the ordinary invocation of the winds, but here with the idea that they will surely be favorable.

255. non ante . . . quam, never . . . until. — datam, granted you by fate.

256. fames: an appropriate vengeance (cf. v. 217). — nostrae iniuria caedis, the outrage of your murderous attack upon us (lit. of our slaughter); nostrae is equivalent to an objective gen.; A. 348, a; D. 355; B. 243, 2; G. 364, N.²

257. subigat: A. 551, c; D. 758, b, n.; B. 292; G. 577. — mālis: from māla; notice the long penult. Celæno's prophecy was fulfilled in this manner: after their arrival in Italy, the Trojans, at a meal on the shore, used broad thin cakes as platters (mensae) and then ate the cakes (vii. 107 ff.).

259. sociis: dative of reference.

260. animi, their spirits.

261. exposcere: belonging properly with votis precibusque alone, but (by the common zeugma) used also with armis.

262. sint: subjunc. of integral part; A. 593; D. 907; B. 324, 1; G. 663, 1.

263. passis: i.e. in the ordinary attitude of prayer; cf. i. 93 and note.

264. meritos, i.e. due by custom to the higher (magna) gods.

266. placidi, be propitious and, etc.

267. rudentis: the clew-lines that held the sail furled (as seen in Fig. 30, Ulysses and the Sirens, from an antique gem).

268. undis: abl. of the way by which.

271-274. See map. All these places are off the coast of Greece and between the island of Zacynthos (now Zante) and the promontory of Actium. Dulichium is an unknown island; Neritos, a mountain in Ithaca. Same was an older name for Cephallenia (now Cephalonia).

Fig. 30

271. saxis: abl. of cause.

273. Ulixi: objective genitive.

275. nautis: dat. of agent. — aperitur, shows itself: the temple of Apollo at Actium appears above the horizon as they approach.

276. urbi: i.e. Actium.

279. lustramur, make an expiatory sacrifice. — votis, etc.: i.e. by offering the vowed sacrifices they kindle the fire on the altars.

280. Actia: an ancient festival was held on the promontory of Actium in honor of Apollo, whose temple there, said to have been founded by the Argonauts, was renewed by Augustus in honor of the battle of Actium. This festival is made more distinguished by being here connected with Æneas. — celebramus, we crowd, the literal meaning of the word. — ludis: abl. of means.

281. oleo labente, [anointed] with slippery oil: really abl. of manner. In their gymnastic games the ancients anointed their bodies with oil, apparently to prevent the muscles from becoming stiff from exposure. The regular emblem of the gymnast is a bottle of oil and strigils (see Fig. 31, objects found at Pompeii). — palaestras: properly, the place for wrestling, but often used, as here, for the exercise itself.

282. nudati: the games were all practised without any clothing; hence the term gymnasium (Gr. γυμνάσιον, from γυμνός, naked).

284. magnum . . . annum, the sun revolves round the great circle of the year (lit. is rolled round the great year): i.e. the sun is finishing its annual circuit and winter comes. Annum is the obj. of circum in circumvolvitur; A. 395, N.²; D. 412, b; B. 179, 3; G. 331, R.¹

286. aere cavo, of hollow (i.e. concave) bronze; abl. of material. — Abantis: Abas, a mythical king of Argos, had a famous shield sacred to Juno. Virgil implies that this was taken to Troy by some Greek and there captured by the Trojans — perhaps by Æneas himself in the last battle.

287. postibus adversis (locative abl.), on the doorposts in front (i.e. as one enters the temple of Apollo). — rem, act. — carmine: such inscriptions were often in verse.

288. Aeneas: sc. dedicat (often omitted, as here).

289. tum: in the following spring. The winter has been spent at Actium.

291. aërias Phaeacum arces, the lofty heights of the Phaeacians; i.e. Corcyra (now Corfu).

292. portu: dative.

293. Chaonio: Chaonia was a region in Epirus. — celsam: a stock epithet (cf. "Towered cities please us then." L'Allegro). The real Buthrotum was a low-lying coast town. For case, see Introd. § 47.

294. occupat, meets, with the additional idea of seizing them, as it were, with surprise.

295. regnare: indir. disc. in apposition with fama.

296. coniugio (= coniuge), wife: abl. with potitum (Introd. § 56). Andromache, the widow of Hector, had fallen in the distribution of booty to the lot of Pyrrhus, son of Achilles and great-grandson of Æacus (Æacidae). The rest of the story is told in vv. 325 ff. — scepтрis: for plur. see Introd. § 96.

297. cessisse, had fallen (passed over). — patrio, of her own people: her father, the king of the Cilicians, had been an ally of Troy.

298. amore, desire: abl. of means.

299. compellare: depends on incensum [est] pectus; cf. amor cognoscere, ii. 10.

301. sollemnis dapes, the annual sacrifice of food: such as was regularly made at the graves of the dead; it consisted of wine, milk, oil, honey, with more solid food, such as eggs and beans, while the graves were decorated with wreaths. — cum . . . libabat, just at the time, as it chanced, when she was offering (lit. pouring): A. 545; D. 750; B. 288, 1, A; G. 580.

302. falsi, pretended, i.e. named for the original (and so itself not "real"), a natural memorial of the old familiar places.

303. cineri: i.e. of Hector. — Manis: the spirit in its semi-deified condition would visit, like any divinity, the monument erected to it, and receive the offering.

Fig. 31

304. Hectoreum ad tumulum, to a mound consecrated to Hector, i.e. a cenotaph erected to his memory. — quem inanem, an empty tomb, which: the ashes of Hector had been buried in Troy. — caespite: abl. of material.

305. geminas: the number is common. — lacrimis, for tears: A. 366, b; in prose it would be genitive.

307. monstis: the sudden appearance of Æneas seems to her a prodigy; she takes him at first for a spirit.

308. deriguit visu in medio, even while gazing at me she swooned.

309. longo tempore, after a long time; A. 424, f.

310. vera . . . adfers, do you present yourself, a real form?

311. recessit: if he is a spirit from below, then Hector might be expected to appear in bodily form as well as he; cf. v. 303.

313. clamore, wailing. — pauca [ei] furenti subicio, I throw in a few words amid her ravings.

314. raris . . . hisco (incept.), agitated, I open my lips in broken utterance: lit. in words here and there. — vocibus: abl. of manner.

315. equidem, 'tis true (with a hint that it is barely life, after all). — extrema, dangers, sufferings.

317. deiectam, deprived (with violence).

318. digna, equal to her worth. — revisit, returns to. Two questions are compressed into one: "What fate is hers, and is it worthy of her?"

319. Hectoris Andromachen, Hector's Andromache. — Pyrrhin' = Pyrrhine: the omission of the e is colloquial and antiquated.

320. deiecit voltum, she cast down her eyes (lit. countenance): for the mention of Pyrrhus reminds her of her slavery and humiliation.

321. felix, etc., the one most happy woman beyond all others. — Priameia virgo: Polyxena, promised in marriage, under a truce, to Achilles. It was at an interview with her that Achilles was treacherously shot in the heel by Paris. After the fall of Troy Pyrrhus, son of Achilles, sacrificed her at his father's tomb; see the Hecuba of Euripides; cf. Landor's poem, The Espousals of Polyxena.

323. sortitus: the allotment of captives among the victors.

325. nos = ego: opposed to Polyxena.

326. stirpis Achilleae: Pyrrhus.

327. servitio enixae, having borne offspring to him in slavery (a son named Molossus). — secutus, following (Intro. § 95).

328. Hermionen: the one child of Menelaus and Helen, daughter of Leda.

329. me famulo, etc.: i.e. I was his slave, and so he made me over to Helenus, a slave as well. A kind of apology for her present position. — habendam, to be held as a servant: the gerundive expresses purpose; A. 500, 4; D. 869; B. 337, 8, b, 2; G. 430.

331. coniugis: Hermione had been betrothed to Orestes. — scelerum Furiis, the furies that avenged his crimes. Cf. the speech of the First Fury in Shelley, Prometheus Unbound, act i:

We are the ministers of pain, and fear,
And disappointment, and mistrust, and hate,
And clinging crime.

— Orestes: son of Agamemnon and Clytemestra. Agamemnon, on returning from Troy, had been murdered by Clytemestra. In vengeance, Orestes killed Clytemestra, and for this crime he was driven mad by the Furies.

332. patrias ad aras: but the altar where Pyrrhus was slain was usually said to be at Delphi.

333. reddita cessit, has come by succession (i.e. in the natural order, as if Helenus were his son).

334. cognomine: abl. of specification.

335. Chaoniam omnem dixit, called the whole region Chaonia. — Chaone: according to one story a brother of Helenus, accidentally killed by him.

336. iugis: dative.

338. aut: the alternative is between an accidental arrival (venti) and divine direction (deus).

339. quid: sc. agit: a common form of inquiry for one's health.

340. Troia (abl.): left unfinished by Virgil. The line completed would perhaps mean "whom, after the siege of Troy was already begun, Creüsa bore you."

341. ecqua cura? ecqua emphasizes the question, and expresses emotion: has the boy—tell me—any regard? — tamen, though she is dead, yet, etc. Virgil does not tell how Andromache had heard of the death of Creüsa.

342. ecquid, at all: cognate acc. as adv. — antiquam, ancestral.

343. avunculus: Creüsa was a daughter of Priam (cf. patruus, uncle on the father's side). — excitat: i.e. does their fame arouse him to emulate them?

348. multum lacrimas fundit, sheds a flood of tears: multum is adv. acc. (Intro. § 41). — verba inter singula, with every word.

349. Troiam: see note, v. 302. — magnis: dative, depending on simulata in its original sense of made like.

350. arentem rivum, dry brook: a picturesque way of contrasting it with the formidable Xanthus, the river of Troy. — Xanthi: appositional genitive depending on cognomine or rivum (Intro. § 10). — cognomine: abl. of specification, if Xanthi depends on rivum; otherwise abl. of quality.

351. amplector: cf. ii. 490. — Scaee: cf. ii. 612.

353. porticibus: in imitation of the manners of heroic times the attendants are entertained in open galleries, of which there were many in the ancient houses; see Tabula Iliaca, p. 105, above. — accipiebat: the imperfect denotes the repetition, day after day, of the feast.

354. aulaī: Introd. § 91, a. The great courtyard of the palace is here referred to, where stood the altar of Jupiter. — libabant: the libation was a regular accompaniment to the feast (cf. i. 736). — Bacchi: cf. i. 177, 215.

355. impositis auro dapibus, when the feast was served in golden dishes.

356. dies alterque processit, day after day went by. Chronology of the poem seems to require that another winter should have been passed in Epirus; the lapse of time is given as Æneas' reason for addressing Helenus. Helenus is represented as possessing all powers of divination, being a vates (as priest of Apollo), an auspex (or augur), and an astrologer.

357. vocant, etc.: i. e. the weather again becomes favorable.

358. quaeso: the old form of quaero.

359. numina, purposes.

360. Clarii: Apollo is so called from Claros in Asia Minor, where he had a temple and an oracle. — sentis, understand: since he was a "seer," things future and unseen were to him objects of direct perception. — sidera, the stars in the astrological meaning, as "lords of life."

361. linguas, pinnae: the two forms of augury, from the voices of birds or their flight.

362. namque: the thought is, "I do not ask about my voyage or my destination; but, since one ill-boding prophet has sung of perils, how may I avoid or overcome these best?" — prospera: an epithet logically belonging to cursum, is here poetically made to agree with religio, favoring prophecy or omens.

364. petere, temptare: Introd. § 78. — temptare, try to reach. — repostas = repositas (Introd. § 91, n).

365. nefas (in appos. with prodigium), a horror to tell, probably on account of the bad luck of mentioning such a thing. We have something similar in our "Oh! don't speak of it."

367. famem: cf. iii. 255-257. — vito: cf. n. to iii. 88.

368. quid sequens, [by] following what course? — possim: apodosis of fut. less vivid condition; the protasis is implied in sequens.

370. resolvit: he removes the fillets because the sacrifice is ended and he now appears in his character as vates, or prophetic seer.

372. multo . . . numine, awed by the mighty presence of the god.

373. divino, inspired.

374. nam: introducing the reason of pauca expediam below. — maioribus: greater than Helenus; to wit, under the protection of Jove. — ire: indirect discourse dependent on the idea of thinking implied in fides.

375. manifesta fides, the assurance is clear.

376. sortitur, decides (lit. draws by lot). — volvit vices, rules (lit. revolves) the changes (of human life). — is vertitur ordo, so moves on the succession of events (as if in a great circle).

377. hospita (neut. plur.): not here "hospitable," but "which you shall traverse as a hospes," or stranger, i.e. strange, foreign. — lustres: subj. of purpose with quo (= ut eo); A. 531, a; D. 718; B. 282, I, a; G. 545, 2.

380. scire . . . fari: i.e. he is not permitted by the Fates to know, nor by Juno to tell if he did know; A. 563, a; D. 720, I, a; B. 331, II; G. 423, N.⁶

381. Italiam: obj. of dividit. — iam, now. — propinquam: Italy was, in fact, not far from Buthrotum (see map), but it was not in that part of Italy that Æneas was to settle.

382. vicinos (pred. adj.), as if near at hand. — paras: sc. cuius, corresponding to quam; this omission of the relative when it would be in another case is not uncommon in Latin.

383. via dividit invia: observe the alliteration. — terris, stretches of land, i.e. the coasts along which he must sail.

384. ante: connect with quam in v. 387. — Trinacria: i.e. around Sicily. — lentandus: sc. est.

385. Ausonii: the Tuscan sea as opposed to the Ionian. — lustrandum [sc. est], must be traversed.

386. inferni lacus, the lakes of the Lower World: the marshy regions of Avernus in Campania were supposed to be an entrance to the infernal regions. See vi. 237. — Aeaeae insula Circae: the promontory of Circeii on the coast of Latium, once an island according to tradition. Circe, a sorceress who changed her guests into beasts, was said to have fled from Æa in Colchis to this region.

387. possis: A. 551, c; D. 758, b, N.; B. 292; G. 577.

389. tibi: dat. of agent with inventā. — sollicito (with tibi), in your anxiety. — secreti fluminis: the Tiber.

390. litoreis, that grow on the bank.

391. triginta capitum fetūs, a litter of thirty young.

392. nati: in the same construction as sus, with a verb to be supplied from iacebit; but we may translate with her white, etc.

393. is, ea: we should expect tum corresponding to cum, v. 389.

395. vocatus: i.e. in answer to prayer.

396. has: i.e. toward Epirus (Helenus' land).

398. Grais: dative of agent. Southern Italy was called Magna Graecia. It was colonized very early from Greece; so early that traditions were invented which, like that of Æneas, referred the settlements to heroes of the Trojan War.

399. Narycii Locri: Locrians of Narycium (on the mainland of Greece opposite Eubœa) were said to have been driven by storms to Southern Italy when on their way home from the Trojan War, and there to have founded the city of Locri, a little north of the extreme southern point.

400. Sallentinos: the Sallentini were a people of Calabria. — milite: abl. of means.

401. Lyctius Idomeneus: cf. n. on v. 122. Lyctos was a city of Crete. — ducis Meliboei: i.e. Philoctetes, a native of Melibœa in Thessaly.

Fig. 32

402. subnixa muro, resting on its wall: referring to the desperate siege it stood from Hannibal. — Petelia: an old city of Bruttium, said to have been founded by Philoctetes, who was wrecked there on his return from the Trojan War. Philoctetae goes with Petelia.

403. steterint, shall have come to anchor.

405. velare (imperat. pass. in "middle" sense), wrap your head close in a purple mantle.

407. hostilis facies: this would be of evil omen.

408. hunc morem: Virgil ascribes an early origin to the Roman custom of covering the head while sacrificing. See Fig. 32 (veiled Roman sacrificing, from an ancient statue). — teneto: fut. imperative.

409. religione, sacred observance or ritual.

410. digressum, on your departure (from Italy, where Helenus assumes that the Trojans will land).

411. claustra, the headlands of the Strait of Messina, which are about four miles apart, and from a distance seem to close the passage. These seem wider apart (rariores) as ships approach them.

412. laeva: i.e. along the eastern and southern shores of Sicily. Æneas is directed to sail south and west round the island. — tibi: dat. of agent.

414. haec loca . . . dissiluisse, these shores, they say, sprang apart, the strait being formed, as was thought, by some earthquake shock, connected, perhaps, with an eruption of Ætna. — ruina, convulsion.

415. tantum . . . vetustas, so powerful to change is long lapse of time.

416. cum . . . foret: concessive clause; A. 549; D. 755; B. 309, 3; G. 587. — protinus una, continuously one.

417. medio = in medium. — undis: abl. of means.

419. litore: along the shore. — diductas, now separated. — angusto: with aestu (abl. of manner).

420. dextrum latus: the Italian side of the strait. — Scylla, Charybdis: Scylla is a monster (cf. vv. 424–428); Charybdis is a whirlpool (cf. vv. 420–423). In Homer (Od. xii. 73–110; Bry. 100) Scylla is a monster with six heads, each of which snatches a man from the deck (235-259; Bry. 293), and Charybdis, dwelling below the flood, swallows the ship, which is afterwards cast forth, Ulysses clinging meanwhile to a wild fig-tree (428-441).

421. imo barathri gurgite, in the depths of her abyss. — ter: thrice a day.

422. sorbet: the subject is Charybdis. — sub auras, upward into the air.

423. alternos, in turn. — sidera: hyperbole; cf. i. 103.

426. prima facies: the upper part of her body; sc. est with facies. — pectore: abl. of quality.

427. postrema, the lower part.

428. caudas (Gr. acc.; Introd. § 42) commissa, having the tails of dolphins fastened to the bellies of wolves. The rock which stands for Scylla is no longer formidable: but Charybdis still exists as a whirlpool or eddy near the Sicilian coast, much dreaded by the native boatmen in some states of the weather. Milton's description of Sin, in the famous allegory of Sin and Death, owes some features to Virgil's Scylla:

The one seem'd woman to the waist, and fair,
But ended foul in many a scaly fold
Voluminous and vast, a serpent arm'd
With mortal sting: about her middle round
A cry of hell-hounds never ceasing bark'd
With wide Cerberean mouths full loud.

Paradise Lost, ii. 650-655 (cf. 659-661).

429. lustrare, to skirt along: subject of praestat (Introd. § 73). — metas: the Roman circus was divided lengthwise in the middle by a wall, round which the race took place, and at each end of this were three conical pillars called metae, round which the racers must turn: to these the promontory, which the ship must double, is compared (see Fig. 33). — Pachyni: the southernmost point of Sicily.

430. cessantem, lingering, i.e. taking a less direct course. The word belongs to the unexpressed subj. of lustrare.

432. caeruleis: the regular color of everything belonging to the sea. — canibus resonantia: cf. Milton, Comus, vv. 257-258:

Scylla wept,
And chid her barking waves into attention.

433. prudentia, foresight.

435. illud, this (which follows). — pro: i.e. this is so important as to take the place of all the rest. — unum: repeated for emphasis, but with a slightly different shade of meaning, as contrasted with omnibus.

438. Iunoni: notice the force of the repetition. — cane vota, chant prayers: all religious formulæ were in verse.

439. sic denique, so at length, i.e. so and only thus.

440. finis: Introd. § 47. — mittēre, you shall be suffered to go.

441. huc delatus, when you have come to land there, and, etc. — Cumaeam, of Cumae, on the coast of Campania.

442. divinos: Lake Avernus was supposed to be the entrance to the infernal regions, and so, like everything connected with the life and functions of the gods, was in a manner divinus. — Averna sonantia silvis, Avernus with its rustling forests: Averna is neuter plur. and refers to the neighborhood of the lake. — silvis: abl. of instrument.

443. insanam, frenzied, i.e. possessed with prophetic inspiration. The reference is to the Cumæan Sibyl.

Fig. 33

444. notas et nomina, signs and words: i.e. the signs which express words.

445. carmina, prophecies (as being given in verse).

446. digerit in numerum, arranges in (lit. into) due order.

448. eadem (sc. folia), these same leaves; object of prendere (v. 450). — verso cardine, from the turning of the hinge, i.e. the mere movement of the door is enough to disturb them (abl. abs.).

450. saxo (locative abl.), in the cave.

452. inconsulti abeunt, men depart unadvised, i.e. having received no response from the Sibyl, whom they had come to consult.

453. ne . . . tanti, etc., let not any cost of delay be of such account to you as to prevent (quin), etc. — fuerint: the perfect subjunctive is rarely used in exhortations (except in prohibitions). — tanti: genitive of indefinite value (Introd. § 15).

454. increpitent: concessive subjunctive; so also vocet and possis: A. 527, a; D. 809; B. 309, 1; G. 606. — vi, urgently.

455. sinus: the hollow of the sail, best translated by the sail itself. — secundos: i.e. with favorable winds.

456. quin: referring back to tanti, v. 453. — adeas, poscas: subjunctive with a negated expression of preventing; A. 558; D. 720, III; B. 298; G. 554. — oracula: obj. of canat.

457. canat, resolvat: substantive clauses dependent on poscas; ut is omitted: A. 565, a; D. 720, d; B. 295, 8; G. 546, R.² — volens: a standing religious word; translate, be pleased to, etc.

459. fugias . . . feras (indir. quest.): i.e. avoid, if that is possible, or bear, if they are unavoidable.

460. expediet, shall disclose: in fact, she guides Æneas to Anchises, who himself gives the necessary instruction; see Book vi. — venerata, being duly revered: passive.

461. quae, of which: object of moneri.—liceat: relative clause of characteristic; A. 535; D. 726; B. 283, 1; G. 631.—te: subj. of moneri.

464. dona: gifts at parting (as at meeting, cf. i. 647) were a common mark of respect, and such as are here spoken of were the usual form of wealth in heroic times. — auro: abl. of means. — gravia: the final a is long (Intro. § 110). — secto elephanto: ivory was chiefly used in thin plates, for inlaying.

466. Dodonaeos: according to one story, Helenus had settled first at Dodona. The bronze vessels (lebetas) made there were famous, and were said to ring like a bell at the touch, being wrought or cast, probably, in a single piece. — lebetas: Greek acc. plur. (Intro. § 92).

467. consertam trilicem, woven three-ply. For chain mail see Fig. 34. — hamis auroque, links of gold: hendiadys.

468. conum, the crest (or peak) and waving (lit. hairy, made of hair) plume of a shining helmet, i.e. a helmet with gleaming crest, etc. The conus was the ridge or projection on the top of the helmet, upon which the crest was fastened; it was probably at first only a spike, whence the name (see Fig. 35).

469. sua, appropriate: cf. n. to i. 461.

471. remigium, outfit of oars, or perhaps oarsmen. — socios: inserted to indicate that these presents of armor, etc. (armis), in contradistinction to the general supplies, were made to Æneas' companions individually and therefore conferred honor on them.

473. mora ne qua, that no delay might be made while the wind blew fair (lit. to the wind, etc., i.e. that the fair wind might not be hindered). — vento: dative of reference.

Fig. 35

475. coniugio . . . superbo, deemed worthy of proud marriage with Venus (obj. genitive). For case of coniugio see n. on i. 335.

477. ecce tibi, lo! As ethical dat. with the interjection, tibi may be left untranslated (Intro. § 31).

478. tamen: i.e. though you are hasting towards it. — praeterlabare: subjunc. in a substantive clause of result subject of necesse est (A. 569, 2; D. 722; B. 295, 6; G. 553, 4); ut is omitted, cf. canat in v. 457.

479. pars illa: i.e. Latium.

480. pietate: abl. of cause. — quid demoror austros: i.e. why do I detain you from sailing with them?

482. digressu (abl. of cause), parting, each to go his own way (dis-).

484. nec cedit honore, she does not fall behind (her husband) in respect: honore is abl. of specification.

487. sint: in relative clause of purpose. — longum, enduring.

489. mihi super, remaining to me: the dative is used as if quae sola superes were expressed, instead of the vocative with super; the adv. super (= remaining) is itself equivalent to an adjective. — Astyanactis: Astyanax (son of Hector and Andromache) was hurled from the walls of Troy by Ulysses.

490. sic . . . ferebat, so were his eyes, etc.

491. pubesceret, would be growing into youth from boyhood, i.e. had he lived (the condition is implied in nunc). — aevo: abl. of quality.

493. vivite: notice that the words contain a farewell; hence the imperative, instead of an optative subjunctive. — quibus: dat. of agent. — fortuna peracta: i.e. they have had their share of adverse fate, and are at length securely happy.

494. sua: used in its ordinary sense, but with emphasis, contrasted with nos; vestra would be expected. — alia . . . in fata, from one fate to another.

495. parta, secured. — aequor, expanse.

496. semper cedentia retro, ever receding in the distance: in allusion to the instructions just given by Helenus (cf. especially vv. 381–383, 477–479).

498. melioribus auspiciis (abl. of manner), under better auspices: i.e. than those of Troy itself.

499. fuerit (fut. perf.), will prove to be.

500. Thybridis: the gen. (instead of the dat.) with vicinus is rare.

502. urbes: direct obj. of faciemus, the predicate acc. is Troiam (Intro. § 39). — olim: hereafter.

503. Epiro, Hesperia: abl. of place where. — quibus: dat. of possessor (sc. est).

504. unam faciemus Troiam: the allusion is probably to the town of Nicopolis, then lately established by Augustus in Epirus. In the charter of this town, it is said, the Epirotes were spoken of as "kinsmen of the Romans." — utramque: really belonging to urbes, but attracted by Troiam.

505. animis: abl. of specification.

506. pelago: abl. of the way by which.

507. Italiam: acc. of end of motion with iter (sc. est), which is equivalent to a verb of motion. — brevissimus: the Adriatic is about forty miles wide here. — undis: cf. v. 506, note.

508. ruit, hastens to its setting. — opāci (proleptic): they become dark by being in shadow.

509. sternimur (reflexive or "middle" use), we stretch our limbs.

510. sortiti remos, casting lots for the oars, i.e. having assigned each man to his "watch." Apparently not all were on duty at the oar at once.

511. curamus, refresh (a standing expression for eating and drinking). — inrigat, steals over (lit. bedews).

512. acta, borne along in her car. — horis: abl. of means; as the poets can personify, making the means the agent (cf. v. 533), so they can make the agent the means, and use the simple ablative.

513. surgit, when, etc. — strato: abl. of separation.

514. explorat, etc.: i.e. observes the heavens for clouds betokening wind and listens to catch the first sound of a breeze.

515. sidera notat: apparently to determine his course.

516. pluvias: rains were supposed to attend their rising with the sun.

517. Spondaic line: see Introd. § 104. — auro: the golden belt and sword of the hunter are represented by several very bright stars of the constellation. — Orīōna: i long, from the Greek.

518. cuncta constare, all is settled or steady: i.e. there are no signs of bad weather.

519. castra movemus: a military expression, suggested by the later customs of naval expeditions.

522. humilem: of the shore, as opposed to the hills in the background.

523. Italiam: a kind of indirect discourse; the cry is Italia, Italia. Observe the effect of the repetition and elision, expressing the glad, hurried, and repeated cry of the men.

524. clamore: abl. of manner.

525. corona: see i. 724.

528. maris, terrae, tempestatum: objective genitives.

529. ferite viam facilem, grant us an easy passage; ferite also hints at their bearing the vessels on their course.

530. crebrescunt, patescit (notice the effect of these inceptives): [as] the winds freshen, the port widens as it comes nearer into view. — optatae: stronger than desired; almost prayed for. — portus: the Portus Veneris, south of Hydruntum, in Calabria.

532. legunt, furl (gather in).

533. curvatus, hollowed. — fluctu: the wave is in a manner personified, hence the ablative of agent (Introd. § 53).

534. obiectae, that protect it (lit. thrown in the way [of the sea], i.e. like a breakwater).

535. gemino muro (abl. of manner), like a double wall.

536. refugit, recedes: i.e. it now shows its true position back at the bottom of the bay.

537. primum: i.e. in connection with Italy. — omen: the first sight that strikes their eyes is as usual taken as an omen.

538. candore: abl. of quality.

539. bellum: notice the repetition of this word, and each time in an emphatic position. — hospita: strange, as in v. 377.

540. bello, for war; dat. of purpose.

541. idem: plur. — olim, at times. — curru: dative. — succedere: infinitive with sueti [sunt].

542. concordia, peaceful, as opposed to the trappings of war just referred to. — iugo (abl. of manner), with the yoke.

543. spes et pacis, there is hope of peace as well.

544. quae . . . accepit: i.e. by the warlike omen as well as by the sight of her temple, v. 531, near which they now land.

545. capita: Gr. acc. with velamur, which is used in the middle sense.

546. maxima, as most important.

547. Argivae: Juno was especially venerated in Argos.

548. ordine: i.e. with all the details.

549. A spondaic verse. — cornua antemnarum, the tips of the yards. The yards are adjusted to the wind (see Fig. 30).

550. Graiugenum: see note, v. 398.

551. hinc, on this side. — Herculei: many legends connected Hercules with this coast, but that respecting the founding of Tarentum has been lost. — si vera, etc.: these words belong only to Herculei (founded by him if, etc.).

552. diva Lacinia: a temple of Juno on the headland of Lacinium, on the east coast of Bruttium. — contra, opposite (on the other side of the bay).

553. Caulonis, Scylaceum: see map. — navifragum: though not rugged, the coast is in an exposed situation.

554. e fluctu, rising from the waves.

555. gemitum, moaning of the distant whirlpool. Cf. Spenser, Faery Queen, ii. 12. 2:

An hideous roaring far away they heard,
That all their senses filled with affright;
And streight they saw the raging surges reard
Up to the skyes.

556. fractas . . . voces : the sound of breakers dashing on the shore.

558. haec illa, this is that.

559. hos : emphatic; translate, these are the cliffs which Helenus, etc.

560. eripite, save yourselves. — pariter, with even stroke. — insurgite :
see note to v. 207.

561. rudentem, roaring (of the noise of the water at the bow, as the helm is suddenly put to starboard to turn their course southward).

564. et idem (plur., agreeing with subject), and again (lit. the same).

565. subducta unda : abl. abs. expressing cause. — Manis : often thus used of the World Below in general. — desedimus, we find ourselves sunk
(lit. we have settled, therefore are down).

566. ter : cf. i. 116. — scopuli, the reefs at the bottom. — dedere : i.e.
as we descended to them.

567. rorantia, wet with spray : which, high as we were, was tossed still higher, seeming to reach the sky.

568. cum sole : at sunset.

569. Cyclopus oris : the east coast of Sicily, near Ætna.

570. portus . . . immotus, a haven undisturbed, and far from (ab) approach of winds. — ingens ipse, ample in itself (and safe enough), but for the thunders of neighboring Ætna.

571. ruinis, crashing sounds (of falling bodies within).

572. prorumpit, belches forth. — nubem : i.e. the mountain sometimes throws smoke and ashes, sometimes a real eruption of lava.

573. turbine piceo, with pitch-black (i.e. thick like the smoke of pitch) smoke-wreaths. Milton's imitation of this description (Paradise Lost, i.
232–237) is famous.

575. viscera : i.e. liquid lava.

577. glomerat, hurls in balls of fire. — fundo : abl. of separation.

578. Enceladi : one of the giants who warred against the gods.

579. urgueri : indicates the oppressive weight of the mountain.

580. exspirare, etc., breathes out through broken craters (i.e. those broken by the outburst of the fire). Enceladus has been pierced by a thunderbolt and keeps breathing fire through the wounds.

581. mutet, shifts.

582. subtexere fumo, lines with wreaths of smoke.

583. tecti : it will be remembered that they usually went on shore at night. — immania monstra, prodigious horrors.

585. aethra (abl. of cause), with the light.

586. polus : sc. erat.

587. nox intempesta : the dead of night.

588. primo Eoo : i.e. at the earliest dawn. The adjective suggests the early hour, though the noun refers here to the quarter of the sky.

591. nova, strange. — cultu, in plight, condition (as resulting from care, food, etc.). Cf. Tennyson, Enoch Arden:

Downward from his mountain-gorge
Stept the long-hair'd, long-bearded solitary,
Brown, looking hardly human, strangely clad,
Muttering and mumbling.

593. respicimus: i. e. as we are returning to our ships.

594. consertum: supply erat ei. — cetera (Gr. accusative), in other respects.

597. paulum: opposed to mox below.

599. testor: sc. vos.

600. spirabile lumen, the air we breathe. Open air and daylight are often confused in ancient poetry; so ferre in auras, to bring to light.

601. tollite, take me on board (strictly, take me away). — quascumque: any whatsoever. — terras: acc. of limit of motion.

602. scio: final o is shortened. — me: sc. esse.

603. petiisse: sc. me as subject.

605. spargite, tear me in pieces and cast me (lit. scatter me).

606. si pereo: pres. for fut.; A. 468; D. 657; B. 261; G. 228. Observe the hiatus between perco and hominum.

607. genibus volutans haerebat, grovelling on his knees he clung to us.

608. qui: here = quis. — fari: poetical inf. instead of a subjunc. clause (Intro. § 78).

609. deinde, since: i. e. after the city was taken.

610. multa, much: cognate acc.

611. praesenti, for the moment: i. e. until we have heard his story.

613. infelicis: so called on account of his long wanderings.

614. genitore . . . paupere: abl. abs. expressing cause with profectus.

615. fortuna: i. e. my condition of poverty. — mansisset: i. e. would that I had been content to remain poor; A. 442; D. 681, II, 2; B. 279, 2; G. 261.

616. dum trepidi linquunt, while, in trembling haste, they were leaving: A. 556; D. 763; B. 293, I; G. 570.

618. sanie, etc.: these descriptive ablatives are equivalent to an adjective phrase qualifying domus; sanie is used without a modifier, contrary to the rule, because it is coupled with dapius, which has an adjective (Intro. § 61).

619. ipse, the master (opposed to domus).

621. nec visu facilis: i. e. one on whom no one can look without terror; see A. 510; D. 882, II; B. 340, 2; G. 436. — ulli: dat. of reference.

622. visceribus: abl. with vescor (Intro. § 56).

623. egomet: emphatic, I, with my own eyes; the story is repeated from Od. ix: 289-293; Bry. 325.

628. quidem, to be sure.

629. oblitusve . . . Ithacus, nor was the Ithacan forgetful of himself, i.e. of his natural skill in stratagems.

630. simul = simul ac, as soon as.

634. vices: acc., our places or posts. — circum: adv.

635. terebramus: in Homer, Ulysses twirls the stake "as a ship-carpenter bores with an auger," while his companions hold it (Od. ix. 384; Bry. 446).

636. latebat, was hidden under the projecting brow.

637. Argolici: the shields of the Greeks were round while those of the Romans were long. — clipei: a large shield of brass, glittering as well as round. — Phoebeae lampadis, the torch of Phæbus, i.e. the sun. — instar: properly a noun in apposition with quod, but it may be translated by like (see ii. 15, note).

638. umbras: the vengeance for their death is looked upon as an offering to their departed spirits (cf. note to v. 321).

641. qualis, etc., for as hideous and huge as Polyphemus, who, etc.: the antecedent words would be tales and tanti agreeing with Cyclopes, v. 644.

643. volgo, everywhere.

645. tertia: i.e. is filling her horns a third time. Such formal ways of indicating lapse of time became a poetical convention. See, for example, Hamlet, iii. 2. 165-168:

Full thirty times hath Phœbus' cart gone round
Neptune's salt wash and Tellus' orbèd ground,
And thirty dozen moons with borrowed sheen
About the world have times twelve thirties been.

646. cum traho, since I have been dragging out, etc. The present is used because he is still dragging out this miserable existence: A. 466; cf. D. 650; B. 259, 4; G. 580, R.³

647. ab rupe: the rock where he was on the lookout for ships (v. 651).

650. volsis radicibus: abl. of means. — pascunt: sc. me.

652. quaecumque fuisset, whatever it should be: subj. in informal indir. disc. standing for fut. perf. of the direct; A. 592, 2; D. 889; B. 323; G. 508, 3.

653. addixi, surrendered: a Roman law-term for giving anybody or anything completely into one's possession. — satis: i.e. I shall be satisfied whatever the result.

654. potius: i.e. rather than fall into their hands.

656. ipsum emphasizes the difference between a mere account of him (such as they had just heard) and the sight of the monster himself. — vasta . . . moventem, moving along with his vast bulk, i.e. with a clumsy, lumbering gait befitting his monstrous size; mole is abl. of manner.

657. nota: hence he could find his way thither.

658. This verse is a good example of onomatopœia or the fitting of sound to sense. The hesitating movement of the blinded giant is suggested by the series of spondees. — cui : dat. of separation.

659. manu : abl. of place where.

660. ea, this : referring to the sheep, but attracted into the gender of its predicate noun voluptas; A. 296, a; D. 532, a; B. 246, 5; G. 211, R.⁵

662. aequora, the open sea; and even then the water was only up to his waist (v. 665).

663. inde : lit. thence, from it (i.e. from the sea). Translate, with the salt water he washed, etc.

664. dentibus infrendens, gnashing his teeth : abl. of instrument. — gemitu : abl. of manner.

665. iam, etc. : i.e. he has got so far into deep water (medium, cf. v. 73, note) without wetting his body.

666. celerare, incidere : historical infinitives.

667. sic merito, as he deserved (lit. so having deserved : i.e. ut recipetur).

668. remis : abl. of means.

669. ad sonitum vocis, toward the sound : vox is here poetically used for the voice (i.e. the splash and rattle) of the oars. Cf. v. 556, where it is used of the sound of the waves.

671. nec potis, etc., and cannot keep above the waves in his pursuit : i.e. he is out of his depth in the open sea (Ionios fluctus); potis est, older form of potest, often omits est, as here.

672. quo, at which : abl. of cause.

673. penitus : i.e. far from the sea.

676. ruit, complent : for change of number see ii. 64, note.

677. adstantis . . . torvo, standing there to no purpose with fierce and angry looks (lit. with fierce eye); lumine is abl. of manner, like mole in v. 656. — nequiquam : i.e. harmless in the distance.

678. caelo, to the sky : dat. of place to which.

679. quales cum, as when (lit., supplying tales, such as when, etc.).

681. constitērunt, stand. For the short penult see Introd. § 111. — Iovis : the oak is sacred to Jupiter. — Dianae : the cypress, a funeral tree, is sacred to Diana in her character of Hecate, or goddess of the Lower World.

682. rudentis excutere, to shake out our sails (properly, the ropes that held them to the yards when furled; see v. 267, note). — quocumque, for any course.

683. ventis : abl. of instrument. — secundis : i.e. to take advantage of the wind, and sail before it, though it would take them north (see below).

684. contra . . . cursus : this passage is of doubtful meaning. It may be rendered, on the other hand the commands, etc., warn us (lit. the ships) not to hold our course between Scylla and Charybdis, with little chance of escape from death either way (i.e. towards whichever side of the passage we steer). Viam is in apposition with Scyllam and Charybdim; discrimine parvo is abl. of quality; and ni is to be taken in the sense of ne by an antiquated usage. The wind is evidently southerly, so that to follow their first thought (metus acer agit) and run before the wind (secundis) would bring them into the Straits of Messina between Scylla and Charybdis. Apparently they could not go south on account of the wind, for their ships could not lie so close to the wind as our modern craft.

686. retro, directly back whence they came, as their only other course with a southerly wind was eastward again.

687. ecce autem, but lo! just at this crisis the wind changed fair and gave them a southerly course.—angusta, etc.: because it came from the strait where the promontory of Pelorus was.

688. vivo saxo: abl. of material.

690. talia, such places as these are pointed out by Achæmenides as they pass.—relegens errata litora, retracing his wanderings along the shore.

692. Sicanio praetenta sinu, stretched in front of a Sicilian bay, i.e. of the Great Harbor of Syracuse; sinu is dat. with praetenta. The island (Ortygia) lies east of the northern part of the harbor and north of the promontory of Plemmyrium.

693. priores, the ancients.

694. Alpheum: the river god Alphæus pursued the nymph Arethusa from Elis under the sea to Sicily. The story is associated with the fountain named Arethusa in the island of Ortygia. See Shelley's poem Arethusa.

696. ore: abl. of means.—undis: Introd. § 28; the prose construction would be cum with the abl.

697. iussi, as bidden (by Helenus).—numina magna: probably Diana and her brother Apollo.

698. stagnantis: i.e. the river Helorus overflowed the banks, rendering the soil very fertile (praepingue).

699. hinc, next.

700. fatis . . . moveri, by fate never permitted to be removed. The people of Camerina had been warned by an oracle not to drain a marsh (of the same name) near their town. They disobeyed, and the enemy, entering that way, captured the city.

702. immanis . . . dicta, Gela, so called from the name of its impetuous stream.—Gelā (nom.): a long as in Greek.—fluvii: the double i in gen. of nouns in -ius occurs in only one other place in Virgil, ix. 151.

704. magnanimum (gen. plur.), high-spirited.

705. datis ventis: i.e. probably, now sailing with the wind, as just here the coast turns much more to the northward, and we must suppose another favorable change of wind, as in v. 687.

706. dura saxis, rough with rocks (instrumental ablative).

707. inlaetabilis: on account of the death of Anchises.

711. nequiquam: because he did not live to reach Italy. — periclis: dat. of separation (Intro. § 32).

712. Helenus: see vv. 381–432. — moneret: after cum concessive.

713. Celaeno: see vv. 253–257.

714. hic, haec: both refer to the passage to Drepanum. For the gender see note on ea, v. 660.

716. unus: i.e. he alone spoke while the rest listened (intentis).

717. renarrabat, recounted (not telling them a second time, but going through them again by thus relating them).

718. hic: at this point. — quievit, went to rest.

BOOK IV

In the episode of Dido, one of the most famous stories in all literature, Virgil has not only come nearer than any ancient writer to the tone of modern romantic feeling, but he has delineated, with remarkable truth and delicacy of portraiture, the character at once of a fond woman and an oriental queen. Doubtless the poet owes something to the history of Antony and Cleopatra. The defeat at Actium, the death of Mark Antony, and the death of Cleopatra had produced a powerful effect on the Roman imagination and were fresh in all men's minds when this part of the Æneid was written. The story of the Egyptian queen may well have suggested to Virgil some traits in the character of the imperious Dido, and, in particular, the passion of barbaric wrath, pride, and despair which closes her life. Shakspeare's Cleopatra may be compared with profit.

The episode of Dido has exercised a powerful effect on modern literature. Of English versions of the story one of the most interesting is that in Chaucer's Legend of Good Women, where the old tale is retold in the spirit of mediæval romance.

1. at: contrasting Dido's restlessness with quievit, end of Book iii. — cura: a regular word for the pangs of love.

2. venis, with her blood (lit. with her veins). — carpitur, is consumed: the image is that of a flame, which catches successively upon the objects within its reach.

3. multa, great: the four points are moral character (virtus), nobility (gentis honos), personal beauty (vultus), eloquence (verba). — animo: dative of place to which.

6. postera: belongs to Aurora. — Phoebea lampade: cf. iii. 637. Apollo is constantly identified with the sun.

8. male sana: see ii. 23, note.

9. suspensam, in my anxiety: cf. cura, above.

10. quis, etc., who is this strange guest who, etc.: as often happens in Latin, there are here two clauses compressed into one.

11. quem . . . armis, how noble his mien! how brave his heart and deeds of arms! quem is in predicate apposition with sese; forti pectore et armis is abl. of quality. The literal translation is bearing himself what [a man] in countenance, with what a brave heart and arms.

12. equidem, I'm sure. — vana, idle, i.e. groundless.

13. degeneres: the emphasis on degeneres gives the passage a meaning different from the apparent sense of the words and is best reproduced in English by changing to the passive: "ignoble souls are betrayed by fear"; the implication is that Æneas' soul is NOT degener, since he is brave.

14. exhausta, that he had endured.

15. animo: abl. of place where.

16. ne . . . vellem, not to wish, etc.: substantive clause, subject of sederet: A. 563, d; D. 723; B. 295, 4; G. 546. — cui, to any one. — vinclo: abl. of manner.

17. deceptam morte fefellit, deceived and disappointed me by his death.

18. pertaesum fuisset (sc. me), if I were not utterly weary: impers. — thalami taedaeque, of marriage and the bridal torch: Introd. § 21. Torches were borne before the bridal pair in the marriage procession, and Hymenæus, the god of marriage, is represented with a torch (see vv. 167 (note), 338–339). Cf.

They light the nuptial torch, and bid invoke Hymen, then first to marriage rites invoked.

Paradise Lost, xi. 590–591.

19. potui, I might perhaps have: A. 517, c; D. 797, a; B. 304, 3, a; G. 597, R.³ — culpae, fault, i.e. proving false to the memory of Sychæus by loving another.

20, 21. miseri . . . penatis, since poor Sychæus met his fate and our household gods were stained by a brother's murder (lit. since the fates of poor Sychæus and the penates bespattered, etc.). For the murder of Dido's husband by her brother Pygmalion see i. 343–356.

22. animum . . . impulit, has moved my heart to waver. — labantem: proleptic; cf. submersas, i. 69 and note.

24. ima, to its lowest depths. — optem: potential subjunctive; A. 447, 1; D. 684; B. 280; G. 257. — dehiscat, adigat: subjunctive in substantive clauses of purpose, ut being omitted.

27. ante repeats prius (v. 24).

29. abstulit, has borne away with him. — habeat, servet: hortatory.

31. luce . . . sorori, more loved (voc.) by your sister than light = sister, dearer to me than light. — luce: abl. of comparison. — sorori: dat. of agent.

32. perpetua iuventa, all your youth long: abl. of duration of time; A. 424, b; D. 423; B. 231, 1; G. 393, R.² — carpere (passive), will you waste away? Cf. carpitur, v. 2.

33. noris: syncopated form of noveris (Intro. § 91, n.).

34. id . . . curare, care for that, i.e. whether you marry again or not. — cinerem aut Manis: a reply to Dido's protestation above, vv. 28–29; the ashes and the shade of Sychæus can have no interest in her actions now.

35. esto, and if they did (lit. let it be [so]), referring to the preceding: even in that case, you have done all that could be expected. — mariti, suitors. — aegram, in your grief: sc. te.

36. Libyae, of Libya. — Tyro: a comparatively rare use of the ablative of place whence with a noun (but very common in English). — despectus: sc. est.

37. Africa: adj. — triumphis dives: i.e. warlike and victorious.

38. placito, pleasing to you. — amori: dative; an extension of the dat. with verbs of resisting or contending (Intro. § 28).

39. quorum consederis: indir. quest.

40. hinc . . . hinc: as usual, of the two sides.

41. infreni, riding without bridles, alluding to a well-known habit of the Numidians, who were famous as horsemen; but perhaps meant also to suggest the sense unbridled, fierce. — inhospita: i.e. on account of the marauding tribes on the shore.

42. deserta siti, deserted because of drought, and hence affording no retreat or assistance.

43. Barcaei: the wild tribes of the desert — like the modern Bedouins — would alarm the imagination still more than a regular force. — Tyro: ablative of place from which.

44. germani: i.e. Pygmalion; see i. 361.

45. dis auspiciibus, under the guidance of the gods: abl. absolute. — equidem, in fact. — Iunone secunda (abl. abs.): Juno is mentioned both as tutelary divinity of Carthage and as goddess of marriage.

46. hunc cursum: i.e. their course hither.

47. quam = qualem. — urbem: pred. apposition.

48. coniugio tali: abl. of cause or means. The learner will have seen by this time that the ablative cannot accurately be divided off into its various categories, because an author himself often did not know which one he was using, any more than we determine exactly the shade of meaning in which we use a common preposition.

49. quantis rebus, to what a height: dative.

50. deos veniam: objects of a verb of asking (Intro. § 40). — sacris litatis: i.e. having propitiated the gods by fit offerings.

51. indulge, give way to.

52. desaevit, until winter has spent its rage (lit. while it is spending). — aquosus: cf. i. 535, note.

53. quassatae: sc. sunt. — tractabile: sc. est. — caelum: here, as often, put for the weather.

55. pudorem, her scruples: pudor is that feeling of shame which rises from self-respect.

56. per aras, from altar to altar.

57. This sacrifice was a kind of sin-offering.

58. Cereri: Ceres is called "the lawgiver" on account of the influence of agriculture on the institutions of nomadic tribes. She, together with Apollo and Bacchus, as well as Juno, has to do with marriage rites.

59. Iunoni: Juno was the special guardian of women, each woman having her own Juno, as every man his genius. She presided over marriage and (in her character of Lucina) over childbirth. — ante omnis, above all the other gods. — cui . . . curae: double dative (Introd. § 33); sc. sunt.

61. vaccae: here sacrificed, it seems, to Juno alone. — media inter cornua, between the horns.

62. ora: i.e. of the statues. — spatiatur: before a sacrifice the Roman performed a slow measured movement before the altar, holding a lighted torch. — pinguis: the portion laid upon the altar consisted principally of bones and fat.

63. instaurat diem donis, renews the offerings the next day (lit. renews the day with gifts, i.e. makes a new day of sacrifice by means of the offerings). This shows her anxiety to secure divine favor. Possibly the omens continued unfavorable. — reclusis (opened) pectoribus: dat. This ceremony represents the extispicium, the most important form of augury; the heart, liver, etc., were the organs observed. The final syllable of pectorebus is here long: Introd. § 110.

65. ignarae: i.e. in thinking these rites can avail. — furentem, one madly in love.

66. ēst: A. 201; D. 257; B. 128; G. 172. — mollis: better taken with flamma than with medullas.

69. coniectā sagittā, when the arrow has reached its mark. Virgil avoids the repetition of sagitta by using telis and jerrum (v. 71) and harundo (v. 73).

70. Cresia: the Cretans were famous archers.

71. pastor agens: the figure is of a chance shot by a shepherd, which has taken effect without his knowledge.

75. paratam: emphatic; he need not go on, seeking a city yet to be built.

77. eadem, she, again: A. 298, b; D. 547; B. 248, 1; G. 310. Or eadem may agree with convivia: i.e. a banquet, as on the night before. — labente die, at the close of day, the usual time for the principal meal.

78. demens, reckless, since this would only inflame her unhappy passion.

79. pendet ab ore, hangs on his words.

80. digressi [sunt], when the guests are gone. — lumen . . . premit, the moon in her turn hides her light.

82. stratis relictis, the couch [in the banquet-hall] which he has left.

83. absens, absentem: a favorite collocation of words with the ancients, bringing the same or kindred words together.

84. Ascanium: the real Ascanius, who has of course been brought back by Venus. Cupid's masquerade is over (see i. 683–694). — genitoris imagine capta, charmed by his likeness to his father (the image of his father in him).

Fig. 36

85. infandum: used in its literal sense. — si possit, [to try] if she can: indirect question; A. 576, a; D. 814, c; B. 300, 3; G. 460, b.

87. portus, etc.: notice that the sentence falls into two parts connected by -ve; the second part is again subdivided by aut. — propugnacula bello, ramparts for war.

88. minae murorum, menacing walls: cf. rotarum lapsus, ii. 235, and n.

89. machina: a general word: prob. here the crane or derrick standing useless at the top of the unfinished walls (see Fig. 36).

90. quam, that she (Dido): subject of teneri, was possessed. — peste, plague (the madness of love).

91. famam, regard for her reputation: a common form of expression in Latin, where we with more exactness require two words instead of one. The Latin, with its small vocabulary and brevity of expression, often makes one word mean more than we do.

92. adgreditur, accosts: used of one who begins a dialogue.

93. vero: ironical. — refertis, you carry off: used of carrying away the booty won in battle.

94. puer tuus: Cupid.

96. nec . . . fallit, nor does it at all escape me that, etc.; adeo merely gives emphasis to the whole statement. — fallit: the subject is te habuisse (indir. disc.).

98. quo, etc., to what end (with) all this strife? We must suppose an original ellipsis of tendis, or some such word, taking the noun (certamine) as abl. of means.

99. quin potius exercemus: why do we not rather bring about? A. 449, b; B. 281, 3; G. 273.

101. per ossa, throughout her frame: cf. i. 660.

102. communem, in common, i.e. with joint authority.

103. auspiciis: since only the highest magistrates could "take the auspices," this word came to mean authority. — liceat: let her: sc. ei, i.e. Dido. — marito: dative with servire.

104. dotalis Tyrios, the Tyrians as a dowry: i.e. the portion brought by the wife to her husband (dos), not a marriage-portion settled upon the wife. The gift is spoken of as given to Venus, as if she too, as the mother of Æneas, were to become a tutelary deity of Carthage.

105. olli: Introd. § 91, f. — enim: giving the reason for her answering deceitfully, i.e. she matches craft with craft. — simulata mente, with deceitful purpose.

106. regnum Italiae: the kingdom which Æneas was to establish in Italy. — averteret, turn aside: sometimes, as here, a clause of purpose that does not contain a comparative is introduced by quo, in order that: A. 531, a, N.; D. 718, N.²; B. 282, 1, a; G. 545, R.¹ — oras: acc. of place to which.

107. quis . . . abnuat, who so foolish as to refuse such an offer? deliberative subjunctive: A. 444; D. 678; B. 277; G. 265.

109. si . . . sequatur: the apodosis is contained in quis talia, etc., which is equivalent to a statement that Venus would assent in case, etc. — quod memoras, which you suggest.

110, 111. sed . . . feror, but I am led by the fates, uncertain whether, i.e. I have no will of my own, and it may be that this course is not fated. — si . . . velit: see note on possit, v. 85. — si . . . profectis, whether Jupiter wishes that there should be one and the same city for the Tyrians and the wanderers from Troy: dat. of possession.

115. qua ratione, in what way. — quod instat, that which is urgent: the marriage.

116. confieri (conficio): A. 204, c; D. 261, c; B. 131, N.; G. 173, N.² — possit: indir. quest.; the subject is the omitted antecedent of quod. — paucis: sc. verbis.

117. venatum: supine with ire to show purpose; A. 509; D. 882, 1; B. 340, 1; G. 435.

119. Titan = Sol. Hyperion, the father of the Sun and Moon was a Titan.— retexerit, shall disclose.

120. his : dat. after infundam.— grandine : abl. abs.

121. dum trepidant alae, while the huntsmen hurry hither and thither: the alae are properly the outriders or "beaters" who drive the game towards the grand battue, as cavalry (the usual meaning of the word) serve as skirmishers in battle.— indagine, with their closing lines (of beaters), properly the driving in, i.e. the process by which the game are hemmed in at the skirts of the wood.

125. si mihi certa : i.e. if I can rely on it.

126. This line is supposed to be wrongly inserted here from i. 73.

127. hic hymenaeus erit, here shall be their marriage-rite.— non adversata petenti, not refusing her request: sc. ei with petenti.

128. dolis repertis : abl. abs., but translate as if object of visit.

130. portis : abl. of place from which.— iubare exorto : abl. abs.

131. retia, plagae, venabula : the verb is ruunt, which with these subjects is equivalent to are quickly brought, but with equites etc. has its proper sense of rush on, hasten forth. Such a use of a verb in two senses is called zeugma.— rara : i.e. with large meshes.

132. Massyli : i.e. her African attendants.— odora canum vis, the keen-scented pack of hounds.

133. limina : the palace door. The picture is that of a distinguished Roman whose clients and friends wait at his door to escort him to the forum.— primi, the noblest.

137. chlamydem circumdata limbo, wearing a Tyrian cloak with an embroidered border. See Fig. 37. For acc. and middle voice see Introd. §§ 43, 94.

138. cui pharetra [est], she has a quiver: dat. of possessor.— nodantur in aurum, is gathered into a knot with gold; i.e. a gold band of some sort confined it.

139. fibula : apparently a gold buckle to her girdle.

142. infert se socium, advances as her companion.— agmina iungit : i.e. his own band with Dido's.

143. qualis . . . Apollo, like Apollo, when, etc.— hibernam Lyciam, his winter home in Lycia.

144. maternam : he was born in Delos.

Fig. 37

145. instaurat, renoves (after the interruption caused by his absence).

146. picti, painted (cf. the ancient Britons and other savage peoples). —

Agathyrsi: Scythian tribe. The worshippers of Apollo came even "from the ends of the earth."

147. molli . . . fingens, shaping his loose locks, he confines them with the soft garland. — fluentem: Apollo is represented with long hair (cf. Milton's "unshorn Apollo").

150. tantum decus, an equal glory (with Apollo).

151. ventum [est]: impersonal; A. 208, d; D. 266, b; B. 138, IV; G. 208, 2.

154. transmittunt (sc. se) campos, course the open fields: campos is obj. of trans.

157. equo: abl. of cause.

158. pecora, tame herds (as he calls them with contempt). — votis, in answer to his prayers: indir. obj. of dari.

159. fulvum: a mere ornamental epithet.

164. tecta, shelter. — amnes, broad rivers, a descriptive exaggeration.

166-168. prima, eldest (of deities). — Tellus, Iuno: the ceremonies of a Roman marriage are, as it were, imitated by the powers of nature. The flashes of lightning (ignes) were the marriage-torches (see vv. 18, 338-339); the howling (ulularunt) of the nymphs in the tree-tops (summo vertice), i.e., apparently, the roaring of the wind, stood for the festal cries and the hymeneal song, while the word chosen suggests an evil omen. Tellus and Juno, deities of earth and sky, attended, apparently, as auspices nuptiarum. These were persons whose duty it was, originally, to take the auspices at a wedding (cf. i. 345, note), but who, in historical times, had merely a ceremonial function, repeating, doubtless, some set form of words, though no omens were actually taken. In this capacity Tellus and Juno dant signum, i.e. for the marriage to proceed.

To the names of these two deities are added the ceremonies belonging to each, — the flashes in the air, and the effects of the storm on the earth (ulularunt, etc.), in chiasitic order: A. 597, f; D. 934, f; B. 350, 11, c; G. 682. The pronuba was a matron who conducted the bride to the bridal chamber, a duty which Juno here performs. The word was also one of her epithets as goddess of marriage. The sky is consciis conubiis, witness of the wedlock. — conubiis: dative; A. 377; D. 385; B. 188, 1; G. 344.

169. ille dies primus, that day first was, etc.

173. Fama: a celebrated personification. Cf. Bacon, Fragment of an Essay of Fame: "The poets make Fame a monster. They describe her in part finely and elegantly, and in part gravely and sententiously. They say, look how many feathers she hath, so many eyes she hath underneath; so many tongues; so many voices; she pricks up so many ears. This is a flourish; there follow excellent parables; as that she gathereth strength in going; that she goeth upon the ground, and yet hideth her head in the clouds; that in the day-time she sitteth in a watch-tower, and flieth most by night; that she minglenth things done with things not done; and that she is a terror to great cities."

176. parva metu primo, small at first because of fear.

178. ira deorum, in wrath at the gods: objective genitive. The Titans who scaled Olympus were sons of Earth; and when they were cast down to Tartarus, Earth in anger produced the new brood of Giants. Cœus was of the former brood, Enceladus of the latter.

179. extremam sororem her last [child], sister to Cœus, etc.

181. monstrum: cf. iii. 658.—cui, etc., who has as many watchful eyes beneath as there are feathers on her body, as many tongues, as many prating mouths, as many listening ears (lit. so many mouths sound, she pricks up so many ears).

184. caeli medio terrae, midway between heaven and earth; medio is here a noun.

185. stridens, whizzing from the swiftness of her flight. The reference is to the buzz of rumor.

186. custos, keeping watch.

187. territat: i.e. by the consciousness that she is watching them.

188. tam, etc., as often persistent in lying and falsehood as [she is] a messenger of truth.—ficti: Introd. § 16. Cf. Shakspeare, Henry IV, Part I, Induction:

Upon my tongues continual slanders ride,
The which in every language I pronounce,
Stuffing the ears of men with false reports.

189. populos replebat, was filling the ears of the people.

190. facta, etc., truth and falsehood (lit. things done, etc.).

191, 192. venisse, dignetur: indir. disc.—iungere: complem. inf.

193. hiemem . . . quam longa fovere, are making the whole winter long a time of wantonness. To fondle or pamper the winter is a poetic way of saying to pass the winter in luxury. In fact, the winter is interrupted by the divine message (v. 222).—quam longa [sc. tam longam], as long as it lasts.

195. virum = virorum.

198. Hammone: Ammon, the great god of Thebes in Egypt (see Fig. 38), identified by the Romans with Jupiter ("whom gentiles Ammon call and Libyan Jove," Paradise Lost, iv. 277). Iarbas is here represented as having introduced his worship into Libya.—rapta . . . nympa: abl. abs.; translate as if abl. of source with satus.

200. vigilem ignem: the fire was never suffered to go out on the altar of Ammon.

201. excubias (appos. with ignem): the fires are poetically called sentinels.

202. solum, limina: either nominative (sc. erat and erant), or in the same construction as ignem. — pingue indicates frequent sacrifices and florentia sertis frequent festivals (cf. i. 417).

203. amens animi, distracted in mind; A. 358; D. 488; B. 204, 4; G. 374, N.⁷

204. dicitur orasse: personal constr.; A. 582; D. 840; B. 332, c; G. 528, 1. — inter numina: i.e. with their visible forms (statues) about him.

205. multa Iovem: two objects of a verb of asking (Intro. § 40).

206. nunc: opposed to the doubt he raises in v. 208 that their sacrifices are useless. — Lenaeum libat honorem, pours out a libation of wine (lit. a Bacchic honor).

208. an te . . . horremus, or is it without reason that we stand in awe of thee? The alternative is either that Jupiter does not see what is going on, or that he cares not for mortal affairs at all (which is conceived as unlikely); in the latter case the fear of the gods is idle.

209, 210. caecique . . . miscent: and are the fires in the clouds that terrify our hearts purposeless, and are the mutterings of the thunder without a meaning? Literally, Do blind fires in the clouds (i.e. lightnings that strike blindly, without any definite purpose) terrify our hearts and mingle empty (i.e. meaningless) murmurs? These phenomena were regarded as the avenging action of Jupiter. — miscent: the word means to produce any confused effect; here used of the wild thunder. See Vocabulary.

212. pretio, at a price: i.e. on land she had purchased (see i. 367–368), not being strong enough to take it by force; hence her conduct now is the more arrogant.

213. loci leges, authority over the region.

214. dominum, as her lord: said scornfully.

215. ille Paris: so called as being both vain and luxurious, and as being the successful suitor of another's wife. — semiviro: an epithet applied to Phrygians partly on account of their dress, but not appropriate to the Trojans of the heroic age.

216. mitra: a Phrygian cap, having lapels which covered ears and sometimes chin (see Fig. 39, head of Paris, from an antique bust). — madentem: i.e. with perfumed ointments.

217. subnixus, supporting his chin. Anything worn on the head, except for defence in battle, was regarded as a mark of effeminacy. The Emperor Hadrian "marched on foot and bare-headed over the snows of Caledonia and the sultry plains of Upper Egypt" (Gibbon). — rapto, the spoil, i.e. her and her kingdom. — potitur: here third conjugation.

218. quippe, while we, forsooth (with sarcasm). — famam, story, i.e. the belief that the gods help mankind; cf. n. on v. 208. That is, we foolishly worship thee as a righteous divinity.

219. aras tenentem, grasping the altar: as appealing more urgently for protection. Cf. 1 Kings, i. 50: "And Adonijah feared because of Solomon, and arose and went and caught hold on the horns of the altar."

221. oblitos famae: gen. with a verb of forgetting (Introd. § 18).

222. Mercurium: Mercury, the Italian god of merchandise (merx), was identified because of this function with the Grecian Hermes, the messenger of the gods, protector of heralds, and divinity of persuasion and intercourse between man and man. — adloquitur: the last syllable is lengthened before the cæsure.

223. vade age: cf. iii. 462. — pinnis: the wings of Mercury are here on his sandals: sometimes they are also on his cap or on his staff.

224. ducem: object of adloquere.

225. non respicit, pays no regard to.

226. celeris per auras: i.e. swiftly through the air. The idea is something like "on the wings of the wind."

227. non talem, not such a man as this.

228. -que ideo, or for this. — bis: once from Diomed (Il. v. 311-317; Bry. 378), and once from the flames of Troy (Æn. ii. 589-633). — armis: abl. of separation.

229. sed fore, but [she promised] that he should be one who, etc. Her promise included the warlike story of after ages, as implied in v. 231. — qui regeret: rel. clause of purpose or of characteristic.

232, 233. si . . . laborem, if the glory of such great exploits fires him not at all, and he does not undertake the labor for the sake of his own renown. — nulla: agrees with gloria. — ipse emphasizes sua but may be left untranslated.

234. Ascanio, arces: A. 369; cf. B. 187, II, a; G. 346, N.²

235. spe: notice the hiatus at the cæsure (Introd. § 108). — inimica: so called in anticipation of later history (the Punic Wars), in which the very existence of Rome was threatened by the Carthaginians.

237. naviget: i.e. this one word of command contains the substance of the whole matter (summa; noun). — haec, hic, this: referring to the command preceding, but agreeing as usual with the predicate (cf. iii. 714). — nostri: we should expect noster, instead of the genitive of the personal pronoun used possessively.

238-258. The descent of Mercury has been often imitated. Cf. the long description of the descent of Raphael, Paradise Lost, v. 246 ff.:

So spake th' Eternal Father, and fulfill'd
All justice: nor delay'd the winged saint
After his charge receiv'd.

At once on th' eastern cliff of Paradise
He lights.

Like Maia's son he stood.

Of more recent poets Shelley has the most famous passage of this kind:

But see, where thro' the azure chasm
Of yon forked and snowy hill
Trampling the slant winds on high
With golden-sandalled feet, that glow
Under plumes of purple dye,
Like rose-ensanguined ivory,
A Shape comes now,
Stretching on high from his right hand
A serpent-cinctured wand.

Prometheus Unbound, act i.

241. pariter cum, as swiftly as (lit. equally with).

242. virgam, the rod (caduceus) twined with two serpents; often seen as the emblem of commerce, on account of Mercury's function as god of trade, but properly the herald's staff, and hence used by Mercury in the manner described here. — Orco, Tartara: both words are used for the Lower World.

244. morte resignat, frees (lit. unseals) from death: the thought of v. 242 is repeated.

245. The narrative is resumed after the description. — illa fretus, by means of this: Introd. § 66. — agit, sets in motion. — trānat = transnat.

247. Atlantis duri, of much-enduring Atlas. Maia, Mercury's mother, was the daughter of Atlas. This mountain, the limit of the world to the ancients, on which the heaven was supposed to rest, was made a mystical demigod with human attributes (hence senis, v. 251).

248. cinctum . . . caput, whose pine-grown head is ever girt, etc.

251. senis, the aged sire: cf. our "old as the hills." — horrida, unkempt.

252. paribus nitens alis, poised on even wing, like a sailing bird: A. 431; D. 469, c; B. 218, 3; G. 401, N.⁶ — Cyllenius: Mt. Cyllene in Arcadia was the birthplace of Mercury.

256. terras, etc. : i.e. skimming near the water.
 257. ad : regularly this preposition would precede litus.
 258. avo : see note, v. 247.
 260. novantem : i.e. planting new buildings to replace the magalia.
 261. stellatus iaspide : i.e. on the hilt.
 262. laena : a thick woolen cloak, much used under the empire instead of the toga, and of a "warm" purple (ardebat murice).
 264. discreverat : i.e. had separated the thread of the warp with different color, gold-thread on purple.
 265. invadit, attacks (like adgreditur, v. 92, but stronger). — altae : a hint at the future grandeur and hostility of Carthage.
 266. uxorius, in doting fondness for your wife.
 271. struis, aim at, but used with special reference to the city he is building. — teris otia, waste your time (lit. wear away idleness, i.e. make the time idle instead of laborious, and thus wear it away).
 274. spes . . . Iuli (obj. gen.) : i.e. the hope connected with Iulus as your heir. As thus used, in connection with heredis, the name suggests the Julian house, which claimed descent from Iulus (i. 288, vi. 789).
 278. in tenuem, etc. : cf. Tempest, iv. i. 148-150 :

These our actors,
 As I foretold you, were all spirits and
 Are melted into air, into thin air.

283. quid agat : the thought of Aeneas quid agam (dubitative subj.), etc., in a sort of indir. disc. — quo . . . adfatu, with what form of address? — ambire, to entreat.

285. Imitated by Tennyson, Passing of Arthur, "This way and that dividing the swift mind."

286. versat, turns rapidly : an intensive verb.

287. alternanti, to him, thus hesitating whether to inform Dido or not.

289. aptent, cogant, parent, dissimulent : subj. in indir. disc. for imperat. in direct ; a verb of ordering is implied in vocat ; summoning them he directs them to, etc.

290. arma, arms (for defence in case of interference) or perhaps equipments for the ships. — rebus novandis : for the new course of action. — sit : indir. quest.

291. optima, best of women : a mere ornamental epithet.

292. nesciat : subjunc. in a dependent clause in indir. disc. — speret, expect : used of ill as well as of good expectation. — rumpi : A. 580, c ; B. 331, I ; G. 423, N.⁵

293. temptaturum [sc. esse] : depending on the idea of saying implied in vocat. — aditus (acc.), ways of approach. — quae [sc. sint], quis [sc. sit] : indirect questions, objects of temptaturum [esse]. — mollissima fandi tempora, the most pliant moments for speaking: i. e. those when she will be most compliant. But Dido anticipates him and speaks first.

294. rebus, for the business. — dexter, best fitted.

296. quis possit: deliberative subjunctive.

298. tuta, however safe: modifies omnia. — impia, cruel.

300. inops animi: gen. of specification (Intro. § 17).

301. qualis Thyias, like a Bacchant: Thyiās is dissyllabic here. — commotis sacris, at the revealing of the sacred emblems. The orgies of Bacchus were accompanied by the brandishing of the thyrsus, the clashing of cymbals, and the carrying of the mystic cista containing sacred emblems, the bringing-out of which began the orgy. Cf. Wordsworth, Duddon Sonnets, xx:

Fig. 40

Dance, like a Bacchanal, from rock to rock,
Tossing her frantic thyrsus wide and high.

Fig. 40 (from a vase painting) shows a Bacchic procession. The first Bacchanal has a double tibia, the second a torch and a thyrsus, the third a tambourine, the fourth a thyrsus.

302. audito Baccho, hearing the cry to Bacchus, i. e. Euōē Bacche. the customary cry of the Bacchantes. — trieterica orgia: at Thebes; Cithæron, where the night orgies took place, is the mountain range south of the city.

304. ultro, first, i. e. before he has found heart to speak.

305. dissimulare posse, that you could also conceal so great an outrage: i. e. not only desert me but conceal your going.

306. tacitus: nom. instead of acc. with te, the omitted subject of posse.

307. The three motives appealed to are love, honor, and pity.

308. moritura Dido, the thought of Dido, who will die.

311. quid, tell me. — non arva . . . ignotas, fields that were not strange and homes that were not unknown; i.e. if you had a home to go to instead of being a wanderer in search of lands to settle in, even then you would wait for better weather.

313. peteretur: the apodosis of the two conditions contrary to fact.

314. mene fugis, is it from me you fly? — te: obj. of oro (v. 319); in such appeals some words usually separate per and the words it governs.

315. aliud . . . nihil, nothing else (but prayers and appeals to your pity and honor).

316. conubia, our union, in its civil aspect. — hymenaeos: the formal rites of marriage, not fully completed, however (inceptos); cf. v. 172.

317. quicquam meum, anything in me.

318. domus: for genitive see Introd. § 20. — istam mentem, that purpose of yours.

320. propter: Introd. § 89, d.

321. odere: sc. me. — infensi Tyrii [sc. sunt]: i.e. my own people are indignant. — eundem, too.

322. qua sola, etc., that fame (as a faithful widow) by which alone I was on my way to the skies: she is thinking vaguely of deification.

323. cui, to what? — moribundam: more vivid than morientem.

324. hoc nomen: i.e. of guest. It is said that this passage was recited by Virgil himself with peculiar pathos; for, unlike most poets, he had great power of recitation. — de coniuge, from that of husband.

325. quid moror, why do I delay (to die)? — an dum . . . destruat, is it that [lit. until] my brother Pygmalion may destroy, etc. For an see A. 335, b; D. 627, b; B. 162, 4, a; G. 457, 1; for destruat, A. 553; D. 765; B. 293, III, 2; G. 572.

327. si qua, etc., if any child by you had been born to me: many heroes of ancient story had children by their forsaken brides; and Dido, throughout, regards her own union with Æneas as a true marriage (vv. 172, 316). — suscepta: refers to the taking up of the child by its father, who thereby acknowledged it as his own.

328. ante fugam: still in the tone of reproach.

329. tamen, after all: implying a preceding concession (although I had you no longer). — referret: clause of purpose; but it would in any case be subjunctive of integral part; A. 593; D. 907; B. 324, 1; G. 663, 1.

331. monitis: abl. of cause, modifying the whole idea.

332. obnixus, with a struggle. — premebat: i.e. he did not let it appear in his face or in his words.

333. te: subject of promeritam [esse], but put next to ego on account of the fondness of the Latin for putting two pronouns together. — quae plurima, all, much as it is, which: plurima is the object of promeritam [esse], but is attracted into the relative clause.

335. promeritam: see v. 317. — nec me pigebit, nor shall I regret: A. 354, b, c; D. 363, 364; B. 209, 1 and a; G. 377, *R.*³

336. ipse: sc. sum.

337. pro re, as the case demands. The two clauses neque . . . nec are a justification of his good faith: "I have concealed nothing and failed in no promise."

338. ne finge: Introductio. § 87.

339. taedas: see note on v. 18.

340. me, for myself, if the fates, etc.: me is emphatic from its position. — meis . . . auspiciis, by my own guidance.

342. primum: i.e. that would be my first choice.

343. colerem, I should be cherishing.

344. posuissem, I should have established Pergamum, rebuilt by my hand: i.e. I should not be here at all, but should have restored Troy and should now be there.

345. sed nunc, but now [as it is]. — Gryneus, Lyciae: names referring to Asiatic oracles of Apollo at Gryneum and Patara.

346. sortes: properly the word for the Italian form of oracle, which consisted in drawing from an urn a billet of wood with a verse upon it.

347. hic, haec: i.e. Italy; the pronoun has the gender of its predicate noun; see n. on iii. 660.

348. Observe the antithesis: Phoenissam is opposed to Teucros, as Karthaginis is to Ausonia.

349. quae tandem invidia, pray why are you jealous that, etc. — considerere: depending on invidia est = invidetis.

350. et nos, us too, i.e. as well as you. — fas: sc. est. — quaerere: subject of est understood.

351. Anchisae: with imago, v. 353.

353. turbida, troubled, i.e. lest Æneas should fail to reach Italy.

354. puer, the thought of the boy Ascanius. — capitis, etc. (obj. gen.), the wrong done to that dear life; supply admonet from preceding line.

355. fatalibus, destined (by the fates).

357. utrumque caput: i.e. both yours and mine; caput is used as in v. 354.

361. sponte: sc. meā.

362. iamdudum tuetur, had long been eyeing askance. The present here is used like the historical present instead of the imperfect, but is modified by iamdudum, so that it is equal to the pluperfect in English upon the principle often cited.

363. totum, from head to foot.

364. tacitis, silently (lit. with silent eyes).

365. nec, etc.: i.e. all your pretended origin is false; such a heart could only come of a barbarian origin.

366. cautibus: ablative of place where.

367. Hyrcanae tigres: this comparison for hard-heartedness in love was long a literary convention. — admorunt: sc. tibi.

368. quae . . . reservo, for what greater occasion do I keep my passion reserved? i.e. why should I restrain myself?

369. num, etc.: Dido turns Æneas' self-command into a reproach. — fletu: abl. of cause. — lumina: i.e. did his glance waver so as to show any emotion?

370. amantem: miseror, unlike misereor, takes the accusative; A. 354, a, N.; G. 377, N.²

371. quae quibus (both interrog.), what shall I say first, and what next? (lit. what shall I prefer to what?) — iam iam nec, no longer now.

372. haec, my affairs, as hic often refers to what belongs to the first person. — aequis, impartial: i.e. the very gods are unjust.

373. fides: since one whose life I saved under such circumstances has broken faith, confidence can be secure nowhere.

376. nunc (emphatic): opposed to the time when she rescued him.

379. scilicet, etc. (ironical), doubtless this is a task for the heavenly powers, a care to vex them in their repose.

381. sequere: cf. v. 361. — ventis, undas: hinting at the perils which she hopes he may not escape.

382. equidem, but: i.e. go, but I hope it will be your destruction.

383. hausurum [esse]: the figure is harsh in English, "swallow your doom," i.e. meet your just doom, drowning among the rocks. For constr. see note on rumpi, v. 292; te, subject of the inf., is omitted. — Dido: acc., obj. of vocaturum; i.e. in his remorse, seeing that his fate is a just punishment.

384. atris ignibus, with smoky torches, such as the Furies bear. — absens: i.e. my memory shall haunt you like an avenging Fury. Closely imitated by Tasso, Jerusalem Delivered, xvi. 59, 60:

Go, cruel man, and take with thee that peace
Thou leav'st with me; I do not bid thee stay.
But I will follow — hope for no release —
My angry shade shall haunt thee on thy way;
Like a new Fury I will dog thy path,
With torch and serpents armed, to wreak my wrath.

386. umbra adero, my ghost shall haunt you.

387. veniet fama: the shades below were thought to receive news from earth through those newly dead (cf. ii. 547-549).

388. sermonem : i.e. the interview, not her own words merely, which have already come to a climax. — auras : the free air of heaven.

390. multa : the word repeated can hardly be used in two senses. Hence it must mean preparing to say much, and at the same time hesitating to say it. — metu (abl. of cause) : i.e. of adding to her distress.

391. suscipiunt : apparently she falls fainting as she turns away.

392. thalamo, into her chamber : dat. of place to which. — stratis : abl. of place where with a verb of placing.

393. pius : although this is a stock epithet, yet Virgil seems to have purposely put it in here to remind us that Æneas is acting under divine direction, and to counteract our sympathy with the betrayed woman.

395. multa : cognate accusative. — gemens : concessive. — animus : accusative of specification.

397. tum vero : i.e. then more than ever. — incumbunt, bend to [their task]. — litore : locative ablative.

398. deducunt : the technical term.

399. frondentis, still untrimmed : cf. i. 552.

400. studio, in their eagerness : abl. of cause.

401. cernas, you might discern them (potential subjunctive). In prose the verb would be imperfect, but the present is used here just as the historical present is for past tenses : A. 447, 2 ; D. 686, 6 ; B. 280, 3 ; G. 258.

402. ac velut, even as.

403. reponunt, lay away : a common force of re- in composition.

405. calle angusto, on their narrow track, as the manner of ants is.

406. frumenta, grains.

407. moras, the laggards (lit. the delays) : the fault put for the offenders by metonymy (Intro. § 100).

408. sensus : sc. erat.

409. fervēre : an earlier form for fervēre.

410. arce ex summa, from the top of the citadel, where her palace appears to be, as were Priam's (see ii. 437 ff.) and other such palaces.

411. misceri, disturbed, filled confusedly.

412. quid : cognate accusative.

413. temptare : sc. eum (i.e. Æneas).

414. animos, her proud heart.

415. frustra moritura, doomed to die in vain.

416. vides properari, you see men hastening (lit. impersonal, haste is being made).

418. coronas : as offerings to the gods on setting sail.

419. si (= siquidem), etc., if (i.e. since) I have been able to look forward to this great sorrow, I shall also be able to endure it.

420. tamen, etc., yet (though I can bear it), do me this one favor.

422. colere, was wont to regard : hist. inf.

423. tempora, moods. — noras: cf. noris (v. 33).

424. hostem, stranger. On the meanings of hostis, see Vocabulary.

425. non ego, etc.: i.e. I am not an enemy, to be looked upon with suspicion.

426. Aulide: see note, ii. 116.

427. revelli, etc. There was a story that Anchises' bones were taken from the tomb by Diomedes, but afterwards restored to Æneas. The whole means, in general: I have not committed any inexpressible wrong against him; why should he not be placable?

428. cur negat, etc., why does he refuse to admit?

429, 430. det, expectet: hortatory.

432. pulchro: with a sarcastic emphasis; abl. of separation.

433. tempus inane, mere time, with perhaps the special idea of its being useless to him. — requiem spatiumque, time for rest for my passion (hendiadys), i.e. time for her madness to subside.

434. victam, subdued (as I shall then be). — dolere, how to grieve.

436. quam . . . remittam: for centuries an insoluble riddle. The old interpretation is the most intelligible: When he shall have granted the favor (i.e. the short delay), I will repay it manifold or in ample measure (cumulatam) by my death. Her death (which she has already spoken of, v. 385) would be the best solution of the difficulty for Æneas, and so a boon.

437. talis fletus, such tearful prayers.

438. fertque refertque, carries again and again.

439. aut, nor. — tractabilis, yielding.

440. placidas, kindly. — deus, some god.

441. ac velut cum, as in v. 402. — annoso robore: abl. of quality (Intro. § 61).

443. inter se, with each other. — it stridor, a creaking sound is heard (lit. a creaking goes [forth]).

444. concusso stipite: abl. abs.

445. quantum, as far as.

447. vocibus, appeals.

449. mens, his purpose, as opposed to his feelings (pectus). — volvuntur, are shed (by Æneas). — inanes: because they are mere expressions of feeling and do not affect his action. Thus translated by Waller:

And down his cheeks though fruitless tears do roll,
Unmoved remains the purpose of his soul.

451. taedet: sc. eam. — caeli convexa, the canopy of heaven. — tueri: subject of taedet; see n. on v. 335.

452. quo magis peragat, etc., that she may the more surely, etc.: clause of purpose dependent on vidit, with the underlying idea that the fates send these omens to drive her on to death; A. 531, a; D. 718; B. 282, 1, a; G. 545, 2. The sequence is irregular.

455. obscenum, ill-omened.

456. effata: sc. est.

457. templum, a shrine (for the adoration of the Manes of Sychæus).

458. coniugis antiqui, dedicated to her former husband.

459. festa: such garlands were usual upon solemn occasions (v. 202).

461. vir, of her husband.

462. culminibus, on the housetops. — bubo: here (only) feminine; sc. visa est. The owl has always been regarded as a bird of ill omen.

463. queri: cf. Gray's Elegy: "The moping owl does to the moon complain." — longas . . . voces, draw out her note into a long wail.

464. praedicta: i.e. old mysterious prophecies recurring to her mind at this time of anxiety.

465. agit, etc.: dreams also come to alarm her. Cf. Dryden, Annus Mirabilis, stanza 71:

In dreams they fearful precipices tread,
Or shipwrecked labor to some distant shore,
Or in dark churches walk among the dead;
They wake with horror and dare sleep no more.

468. viam: cognate accusative. — Tyrios: her own people.

469. Eumenidum: a name for the Furies. It means literally "the Well-Wishers," and was apparently used to avoid the bad luck of calling them by their right name. — Pentheus: king of Thebes, who watched in concealment the mysteries of Bacchus, and was torn in pieces by the Bacchanals. In his madness he is represented by Euripides as seeing all objects double. These scenes were familiar to the Romans on the stage, and were favorite subjects in works of art.

471. scaenis, on the stage. — agitatus, pursued (in the Eumenides of Æschylus). — Orestes: subject of fugit, v. 473.

472. matrem: as he had killed his mother Clytemestra, she is supposed to appear to him as a Fury. It was by these avenging deities that the ancients represented the stings of a guilty conscience driving the guilty man insane. See n. on iii. 331.

473. in limine: the Furies sit on the threshold that their victim may not escape.

474. conceptit furias, became possessed by madness.

476. exigit: strictly, weighs; here, considers.

477. spem fronte serenat, smooths her brow with hope (properly, expresses a hope by smoothing her brow): spem may be regarded as cognate accusative.

478. sorori: dative with a verb of congratulating.

479. reddat : purpose clause.—eo, from him, i.e. my love for him.—amantem, your lovelorn sister.

480. Oceani : the stream of Oceanus, surrounding the earth.

481. ultimus, remotest of lands.—Atlas : see v. 247 and note.

482. aptum : in its proper sense of fitted, i.e. studded.

483. hinc : from there, i.e. from that region.—monstrata [est], has been brought to my knowledge.—sacerdos : this African priestess is visiting Carthage.

484. Hesperidum : the Hesperides, daughters of Atlas, guarded the golden apples.

485. dabat, used to give.

486. mella, papaver : honey and poppy-seeds were a favorite seasoning among the Romans, sprinkled on more solid food (spargens); soporiferum is merely descriptive of the plant.

487. se promittit solvere, professes to deliver (from their griefs).

489. sistere, vertere : the ordinary feats of magic.—fluviis : dat. of reference.

490. nocturnos, by night.—movet, calls forth (lit. disturbs).

492. testor, etc. : cf. v. 357.

493. accingier (old form of inf.; Introd. § 91, k), that I have recourse to (the subject me is omitted); lit. gird myself: the figure is from the girding on of arms.—artes : obj. of the middle voice (Introd. § 43).

494. secreta : translate as an adverb.—sub auras : i.e. in the open interior court.

496. impius : perhaps alluding to his usual epithet pius.

497. superimponas : equivalent to an imperative; A. 439, a; D. 674, a; B. 275, 2; G. 263, 2.

500. tamen : though her sister's request and sudden pallor might make her suspicious.—novis . . . sacris, is concealing, under the pretext of strange rites, her purpose to die.

501. mente concipit, can she imagine (cf. animo concipere, with the same meaning): the abl. is locative.

502. morte : abl. of time when.

504. pyrā erectā, etc., when she (Anna) had built a funeral-pile.—penetrati, etc. : i.e. in the inner court; see n. on ii. 512.

505. ingenti taedis, heaped high with pine, such as was used for torches (abl. of means).

506. intendit, wreathes.

507. super : adverb.—exuvias : cf. abolere, v. 497. By destroying in this ceremonial manner every relic of the false lover, it was supposed that the unhappy love would be eradicated.

508. effigiem : apparently the effigy of Æneas is to be burned on the pile. She is well aware (haud ignara) herself of her purpose, but she conceals it.

509. crinis effusa: dishevelled hair is especially associated with magic rites.

510. ter centum: only a vague exaggeration, but three hundred and six hundred are often used vaguely in Latin like our thousand.—tonat, calls aloud upon.—deos: cognate acc.—Erebum, etc.: these gods of the Lower World are especially associated with magic rites.

511. tergeminam: Hecate, goddess of the Lower World and an especial patroness of magic, was known as Diana (Artemis) among the immortals, and as Luna (the Moon) to the dwellers on earth.—ora: in apposition with Hecaten.

512. sparserat: the lustration formed a part of almost all sacred rites.—Averni: near Cumæ, in Italy, and supposedly an entrance to the Lower World.

513. messae ad lunam, cut by moonlight.—aënis: these details all had a magic significance. The bronze was a relic of earlier times when this was the common metal.

514. nigri veneni: the association of dark color with poison is old and quite natural.

515. equi de fronte: the ancients believed that on the forehead of a colt at birth there was a piece of flesh of a dark color, called hippomanes, which was immediately devoured by the mother. If snatched away beforehand (praereptus), this was thought to be a powerful love-charm.

516. matri: dat. of separation (Introd. § 32).—amor, love-charm.

517. ipsa: Dido.—mola, etc. (abl. of manner), sprinkling the bruised grain with holy hands (i.e. ceremonially pure).

518. unum pedem, with one foot loosed from the sandal: certain rites were performed with one foot bare.—recincta, ungirded: the loose garments were associated with magic rites.

519. conscia: an allusion to astrology; of course if the stars revealed the fates they must be supposed to know them.

520. si quod numen, etc., she prays to whatsoever deity has in charge those who love with unrequited affection (non aequo foedere).

521. curae: dat. of purpose (Introd. § 33).

522. nox erat, etc.: cf. Dryden, Annus Mirabilis, stanza 216:

The diligence of trades, and noiseful gain,
And luxury, more late, asleep were laid;
All was the Night's and in her silent reign
No sound the rest of Nature did invade.

523. saeva, raging.—quierant: syncopated form of quieverant.

525. pictae, many-colored; cf. "spread their painted wings," Paradise Lost, vii. 434.

526. quae-que, both those which . . . and.—dumis: abl. of manner.

527. tenent, inhabit.

528. lenibant = leniebant: Introd. § 91, m.

529. Phoenissa: the verb is not strictly any one of the preceding, but these are all fused into one general idea of rest, to which non belongs (not to infelix). Render, but not so the Phœnician queen.

530. solvitur in somnos, is relaxed in sleep.—oculis: locative ablative.—noctem: i.e. the influence of night.

532. fluctuat, her love ebbs and flows: i.e. her love and wrath succeed each other in her mind in an ebbing and a flowing tide.

533. sic adeo insistit, then thus she begins.

534. en, quid ago? ah! what shall I do? i.e. how shall I try to find a way of escape? The present is used in place of the future, as in ii. 322, iii. 88.—inrisa, mocked and derided, i.e. by Æneas, who had cast her off.

535. Nomadum: a general term for the barbarous African tribes.

536. quos sim dedignata, whom I have disdained: subj. of characteristic; A. 535; D. 726; B. 283, 1; G. 631, 1.

537. ultima . . . sequar: i.e. shall I humble myself to the most degrading exactions of the Trojans in order to be allowed to accompany them? The verb is used in a slightly different sense with the two objects.

538. quiane . . . levatos, shall I do so because they are glad (iuvat, impers.) of the relief they had by my help and because memory of former kindness remains in grateful hearts (lit. gratitude . . . remains in the mindful)? The interrogative -ne really belongs to an omitted sequar.—levatos = eos levatos esse: A. 486, f; D. 364; G. 533.

539. bene belongs with facti.

540. fac velle, suppose I should wish it: the subject me is omitted.

541. perdita: Dido addresses herself.

542. Laomedontæe: for the perjury of Laomedon see n. to iii. 248.—sentis, have experienced.

543. sola: i.e. shall I go alone with the Trojans as a mere camp-follower or shall I emigrate once more with my whole people?

545. inferar: i.e. to follow him to Italy with all my people.

546. agam pelago, force upon the sea: sc. eos as object of agam and antecedent of quos.

547. quin, nay rather.

548. prima: see Anna's arguments, vv. 31–53.

549. oneras, obicis: histor. present.

550. non licuit (exclamatory) = why was it not! etc.—thalami experitem, unmarried.

551. more feræ: i.e. like a wild creature, solitary in the woods; so the life of Camilla (xi. 568).—curas: i.e. of love; cf. v. 5.

552. Sychæo: either an adj., or in a sort of appos. with cineri.—servata [est] (in the same construction as v. 550) = why was it not, etc. The incoherency of the whole speech pictures Dido's state of mind. From this verse Dante, who puts Dido in the second circle of Hell, speaks of her as "she who broke her faith to the ashes of Sychæus" (Inferno, v. 62).

553. tantos, such wild.—rumpebat: cf. note on ii. 129. Shakspeare takes some liberties with the story in the famous passage in his Merchant of Venice, v. I. 9–12:

In such a night
Stood Dido, with a willow in her hand,
Upon the wild sea-banks and waft her love
To come again to Carthage.

554. certus eundi, determined to go: eundi (gerund) is objective genitive with certus; A. 504; D. 874; B. 338, 1, b; G. 428.

556. forma: a phantom in the form of the god.—eodem: i.e. as in vv. 238 ff.

558. omnia: acc. of specification.—coloremque: a hypermetric verse (Intro. § 114).

559. iuventa: abl. of manner.

560. hoc sub casu, just at this emergency.

561. deinde, next.

563. illa: Dido.

564. certa mori, bent on death, and accordingly reckless. The infinitive is here used with an adjective, a poetical construction (Intro. § 81).—vario, changing: cf. v. 532.

565. non fugis, will you not fly? The present is used for the future as in ii. 322, iii. 88, iv. 534.—potestas: sc. est.

566. iam, presently.—trabibus: i.e. the Carthaginian fleet.

567. fervère: as in v. 409.

568. attigerit: future perfect.

569. varium: A. 289, c; D. 504; B. 234, 2; G. 211, R.⁴

570. nocti: Intro. § 28.

571. umbris, apparition.

575. festinare: sc. me or nos.

576. sancte deorum, holy deity: A. 346, b; G. 372, N.¹

578. sidera . . . feras, grant us propitious stars (weather).

581. rapiuntque ruuntque, they hasten their departure (lit. they lay hold and rush).

582. litora deseruere: i.e. and now they have left the shore (taking a new point of view to indicate the haste of the action).

585. Tithoni: husband of the dawn-goddess, Aurora; see Vocabulary. For the myth, see Tennyson's poem Tithonus.

587. aequatis, even, i.e. the ships were sailing right before the wind.

589. percussa, abscissa: middle use of the participles.

590. flaventis: the color universally ascribed to the hair of heroic persons by the ancients.

591. inluserit : i.e. laugh my power to scorn; the fut. perf. looks forward to the completion of the act, as if she said, "shall he succeed in doing so?" — advena, an adventurer.

592. non [= nonne] expedient, will not my men, etc.?

593. A peculiar abruptness is given by the pause at the end of the fifth foot. Notice also the hurried movement of v. 594. Cf. n. on iii. 658.

594. flammas, torches.

595. mentem : i.e. her purpose of death.

596. nunc : emphatic. — facta impia : i.e. toward Sychæus.

597. tum decuit (emphatic), then they ought [to have come home to you]. — cum . . . dabas, when you offered him the sceptre, i.e. before you put the power in his hand: A. 471, c; D. 653; B. 260, 3; G. 233. — en dextra : i.e. the right hand given in making a pledge, as with us; spoken with scorn, i.e. this then is the honor of this most pious hero.

598. quem : i.e. eius quem, of him who, they say, etc.

600. non potui . . . divellere, could I not have seized and torn? Medea treated her brother Absyrtus in this way when she was fleeing from her home; A. 486, a; D. 829; B. 270, 2; G. 254, R.¹

602. epulandum ponere, served him up as a feast. Atreus served up to his brother Thyestes the flesh of the two sons of Thyestes.

603. fuerat, might have been: A. 517, b; D. 797; B. 304, 3; G. 254, R.³ — fuisset, suppose it had been: A. 440; D. 677; B. 278; G. 264.

604. faces, etc.: i.e. set the ships on fire. The Romans drew their ships on land and fortified them. — tulissem, I ought to have, etc.: A. 439, b; D. 672; G. 272, 3.

605. implem: syncopated form of implevissem (Introd. § 91, n).

606. exstinxem: for exstinxissem. — dedissem, and have thrown myself [into the flames] last of all; super is an adverb meaning literally on top.

607. terrarum opera omnia, all deeds of mortals.

608. interpres . . . et conscia, conscious witness: properly agent, or even cause, as the goddess of marriage.

609. nocturnis, by night. — triviis: Hecate was worshipped at cross-roads (places where three roads met) and was hence called Trivia. — ululata, invoked with shrieks.

610. Dirae: see v. 473. — di: the special or tutelary divinity, but why more than one is not clear. Perhaps it was conceived as twofold; hence the expression Manes, and the custom of erecting two altars to the shade (cf. iii. 63). The idea of divinities in pairs was a common Roman notion.

611. accipite, hear. — haec, these my words. — meritum, as I have deserved (agreeing with numen). — malis advertite numen, turn your power to (avenger) my sufferings.

612. The language of the curses that follow depends upon the common belief in the prophetic power ("second sight") of a person at the point of death and in the efficacy of a dying person's curse. — audite, grant.

613. caput, creature.

615-620. at, at least. These are the ominous lines which were opened by Charles I, when he consulted the Sortes Vergilianae, at Oxford. It will be noticed that they are so worded that they do not prevent the expedition of Æneas from being one of final glory and success. The curses are literally fulfilled in the later fortunes of Æneas (see the later books of the Æneid). — bello: Æneas fought against the Rutulians and the Latins in Italy.

616. Æneas left his companions and Ascanius in order to seek aid from Evander. — finibus: abl. of separation.

617. videat . . . funera: in the war in Italy.

619. optata: a general epithet of light; as we might say in English, "the boon of light."

620. cadat ante diem: Æneas reigned only three years. — media . . . harena: Æneas' body was swept away by the river Numicius.

622-629. tum vos . . . nepotes: an imprecation prophetic of the Punic Wars, which, strictly fulfilled, resulted in the greatest struggle, but also in the proudest military glory, of Rome.

623. exercete odiis, pursue with hate.

624. populis (dat. of possession): the Carthaginians and the Romans.

625. exoriare . . . ultor, rise some avenger! A. 439, a; D. 674, a; B. 275, 2; G. 263, 2. — aliquis: because referring to an indefinite person. No Roman, however, could hear it without thinking of Hannibal.

626. qui sequare, to pursue: relative clause of purpose.

628. contraria belongs with undas and arma as well as with litora.

629. ipsique nepotesque: i.e. may the warfare begin at once, and not cease. The e in -que is elided before the next verse (synapheia): Introd. § 114.

633. suam, her own (nurse). — cinis, tomb (lit. ashes).

634. mihi: with huc siste, bring me hither Anna.

635. corpus, her body, etc.: a very ancient rite of lustration. — properet: for constr., see v. 289, note.

636. pecudes: the black sheep, for a sacrifice to Pluto (Iovi Stygio). — monstrata, appointed.

637. sic veniat: i.e. after having made such preparations.

638. paravi: see vv. 504-508.

640. Dardanii capitis, the Trojan: caput is often used in the sense of person in such periphrases; cf. Eng. soul, and body in everybody, etc. Dido is really preparing her own pyre; but ostensibly the rite is to be a mock funeral, in which, to free her from her unhappy love, the effigies of Æneas and his exuviae are to be burned (see vv. 496, 507, 508).

641. studio anili : i. e. with the bustling zeal of an old woman. The old nurse is a stock figure in heroic story. Juliet's nurse is the most famous English example.

642. coeptis, purpose : abl. of cause. — effera, maddened.

643. aciem, eyes. — trementis genas : acc. of specification.

645. inrumpit : she rushes down from the tower (v. 586), where she has been hitherto, into the inner open court (interiora limina).

647. non hos in usus, for no such service : probably an ornamental sword or dagger given her by Æneas.

648. hic, hereupon.

649. paulum lacrimis, etc., staying a little in tears and in thought : abl. of manner.

650. que . . . que : correlative.

651. dum, etc. : limits dulces, dear, so long as, etc.

652. exsolvite : i. e. by my death.

654. magna : i. e. I shall go a famous woman. — mei : possess. gen., used instead of mea for metrical reasons.

656. ulta virum : i. e. in the way described in i. 360-364. — poenas, etc., inflicted the due punishment.

657. felix : a verb fuissem is implied, the apodosis of tetigissent. — tantum, only (lit. so much and no more).

659. os impressa toro, pressing her lips to the couch. — os : acc. with a participle used in the middle voice.

660. sic, sic : these words, though accompanying the fatal blows, refer not merely to those but to the whole situation ; though dying unavenged and by her own hand, still she prefers death to life.

661. hunc ignem : the blaze of the pile which is about to be kindled.

663. ferro : abl. of instrument.

664. comites, her attendants.

666. concussam, startled. — bacchatur : cf. v. 301.

667. femineo ululatu : hiatus.

669. ruat, were falling in ruins : A. 524 and N.² ; D. 803 ; B. 307 ; G. 602.

672. trepido curso : i. e. running wildly (abl. of manner).

675. hoc illud, was this what you meant ? — me fraude petebas, were you deceiving me [all the while] ?

676. hoc rogas, etc., is this what the pyre, etc., were preparing, etc. ? — iste : i. e. that you ordered me to build.

678. vocasses, you should have called : see note on tulisse, v. 604.

679. tulisset, should have taken away.

680. his . . . manibus, even with these hands did I build (the pyre) ?

681. sic . . . abessem, that I should thus be absent when you were laid out in death. — sic : i. e. as I have been. — ut abessem : clause of purpose.

683. date . . . abluam, let me wash her wounds in water (object clause without ut).

684. super: adv.

685. ore legam: a customary office of affection, like closing the eyes of the dying. — sic fata, etc., as she spoke she had, etc.

686. semianimem: the first i is read like y; Introd. § 112.

687. siccat, tried to stanch.

689. stridit, gurgles.

690. cubito: A. 431; D. 469, c; B. 218, 3; G. 401, N.⁶ — adnixa, leaning.

691. toro: dative, or possibly abl. of place.

692. quaesivit lucem: the ancients were strongly impressed with the thought that the last act of the dying was to gaze upon the light. — reperta: sc. luce (ablative absolute).

694. Irim: in the case of women, the thread of life was usually supposed to be cut by Proserpine (v. 698). Iris (the personified rainbow) was the messenger of Juno (see Fig. 41, from an ancient vase painting). Cf. Shakspeare, Tempest, iv. 1. 76–82:

Hail, many-color'd messenger, that ne'er
Dost disobey the wife of Jupiter;
Who with thy saffron wings upon my flowers
Diffusest honey-drops, refreshing showers,
And with each end of thy blue bow dost crown
My bosky acres and my unshrub'd down,
Rich scarf to my proud earth.

695. quae . . . resolveret, to disengage the struggling spirit from the close-locked limbs (subj. of purpose).

696. fato, i.e. by natural death. — merita morte, i.e. by death incurred by her own guilt.

698. illi: dat. of reference. — crinem: as a few hairs were plucked from the head of the victim before sacrifice, so the "fatal lock" had to be cut from the crown (vertice) of the dying person, who was regarded as an offering to the gods of the Lower World; cf. sacrum, v. 703.

699. Orco: poetical dat. after damnaverat (as if addixerat).

701. mille colores: i.e. the rainbow. — trahens, drawing out the long line of color. — adverso sole, from the sun opposite: abl. abs. expressing cause. Cf. Milton, Comus, vv. 992–995.

Iris there with humid bow
Waters the odorous banks, that blow
Flowers of more mingled hue
Than her purpled scarf can shew.

Fig. 41

702. hunc: sc. crinem. — Diti sacrum (predicate), as an offering to Pluto (the god of the dead and of the World Below).

703. isto corpore, from your body.

704. una, at the same time.

705. in ventos: the breath was naturally identified with the life or soul; cf. animus, anima, exanimis, etc. Dryden thus translates the passage:

Thus while she spoke, she cut the fatal hair;
The struggling soul was loos'd, and life dissolv'd in air.

BOOK V

The games in this book in honor of Anchises make an agreeable interlude in the more serious action of the poem. Many of the incidents are taken from the account of the funeral games of Patroclus in the twenty-third book of the Iliad. The contest of ships, however, and the equestrian exhibition are wholly original. The burning of the fleet was a part of the old Trojan legend. It is interesting to observe that Milton, in his wish to follow the classical models of epic poetry, represents the fallen angels as engaging in athletic games to while away the time till the return of Satan from his scouting expedition (Paradise Lost, ii. 528 ff.).

1. interea: i.e. during the time of Dido's death. — medium tenebat iter, was well on his way.

2. certus: i.e. in his purpose (cf. iv. 554, 564). — Aquilone, the wind. Just as the names of various kinds of wood are used for wood in general in the description of the Horse, so the name of any wind may be put for wind. That Aquilo is not the North Wind here is clear from the direction in which the Trojans are sailing. The wind does not change until they are out of sight of land (vv. 8–10, 19).

3. iam conlucent: the pile built ostensibly to burn the effigy of Æneas now serves for her own cremation.

4. accenderit: indirect question.

5. duri, etc., but the cruel pangs of a great love betrayed (polluto, lit. desecrated), and the knowledge of what a maddened woman can do, lead the hearts of the Trojans into sad forebodings. Though they have no certain knowledge, yet they suspect the cause of the fire. — amore polluto: ablative absolute.

6. notum: the knowledge: neuter of participle used as substantive. — quid possit: an indirect question serving as a noun in apposition with notum.

11. inhorruit, the waves grew rough with black shadows. Virgil has in mind the dark appearance of the water produced by a squall; cf. atros, v. 2, and see iii. 195.

12. ipse: even the pilot is at a loss.

13. quianam, ah! why?

14. paras, have in store.

15. colligere arma, to secure the rigging: i.e. to make all tight, and prepare for the gale. — validis, vigorously (lit. an adj. with remis).

16. obliquat sinus, trims the sail: they had been sailing with the wind astern (aequatis velis, iv. 587), probably from the southwest, and as the wind now comes from the west, they can no longer sail on the same course, so as to weather the Ægates islands (see map). The ancients could probably only sail within seven or eight points of the wind (nearly at right angles with it): see Fig. 30, for their rig.

17. auctor, as surety. — spondeat: future less vivid condition.

19. transversa, athwart our course: cognate acc.

20. aer, etc.: the ancients supposed clouds to be condensed air.

21. tantum, merely (so much as that even).

23. quōque, and whither: notice the quantity, — not quōque. — longe: sc. abesse.

24. fraterna: see i. 570, note.

25. servata, before observed: i.e. in their former voyage.

27. iamdudum, qualifying cerno. I have long since observed: for tense see A. 466; D. 650; B. 259, 4; G. 230.

28. flecte viam velis, turn the course of your voyage (lit. turn your course with your sails (abl. of means), i.e. by setting them on that tack). — an: here introduces a single question. — sit, could any land be, etc.? Potential subjunctive.

29. quo optem: rel. clause of characteristic. — demittere, bring into port.

31. Anchisae ossa: cf. iii. 710.

32. secundi: the wind is now astern, for they have changed their course.

33. gurgite, over the flood: abl. of the way by which (Introd. § 55).

35. miratus, having seen with wonder.

36. adventum sociasque rates, the arrival of the friendly ships: hendiadys; cf. i. 61 (note). The figure is common in English poetry; see, e.g., Paradise Lost, x. 345: "with joy and tidings fraught."

37. pelle: Virgil here, as in many other places, preserves the remembrance of the earlier civilization, in which skins were the common clothing.

38. Troia . . . genuit, whom a Trojan mother bore to the river-god Criniseus. — Criniseo flumine: abl. of source. To punish the perfidy of Laomedon, Neptune sent to Troy a sea monster, to which (so an oracle commanded) maidens were to be thrown as prey. Egesta (or Segesta) was sent to Sicily by her father to avoid this doom. Acestes (Egestus) was her son by the river-god Criniseus.

39. parentum: i.e. through whom he was of kin to Æneas.

40. reduces: adj., on their return.

42. primo Oriente, at early dawn: cf. iii. 588 and note. — fugarat: poetical indicative for subjunctive.
45. genus . . . divum: Dardanus was a son of Jupiter.
46. completur: observe the incomplete tense.
47. ex quo [sc. tempore], from the time when.
49. nisi fallor: the Roman calendar was extremely confused till the reform of Julius Cæsar; hence it is not unnatural that Virgil should attribute a doubt on the subject to Æneas.
51. Gaetulis, etc.: i.e. even in times of the utmost hardships and hazard. Notice the emphasis on hunc, = on this day if I were passing it, etc.
52. depressus, overtaken by it. — Mycenae: appositional genitive with urbe (Intro. § 10). The singular of this noun is rare.
53. pompas exsequeretur, etc., I would perform the solemn procession (hence the noun exsequiae, used of funeral rites).
54. suis, appropriate: as in iii. 469.
55. nunc, but now as it is, opposed to the supposition in vv. 51, 52. — ultro, without our agency.
56. haud equidem, surely not.
57. delati, borne to land (by favoring winds): cf. demittere in v. 29. — intramus: historical present.
58. laetum, cheerful, with more of gratitude than grief, assured as we are of divine favor.
59. poscamus ventos, let us pray for favorable winds. Some think the prayer is addressed to the winds themselves; others, to the Manes of Anchises.
60. velit, may he [Anchises] be pleased to grant that, when my city is established, I may offer him yearly these rites in temples consecrated to him. Virgil may have in mind the Parentalia, a Roman festival held annually in February, at which offerings were made to the dead. — The construction is that of an object clause after poscamus, without ut.
61. Troia: abl. of source with generatus.
62. adhibete, invite.
64. si, when. — nona Aurora: the novemdiale was a festival on the ninth day after death, when the days of mourning were ended.
66. prima, first of all.
67. qui: the antecedents are the subjects of adsint (v. 70). — viribus: referring to wrestling.
68. incedit, advances proudly. — iaculo: javelin-throwing is not one of the games which actually follow.
69. fidit: here in the sense of audet.
71. ore favete, keep silence (lit. favor with the mouth): i.e. let only auspicious words be spoken; the form regularly used for imposing silence when a religious ceremony is about to begin, because any quarrelling or ill-omened expressions would destroy the sanctity of the rites. — ramis: the wreath was a regular accompaniment of all religious ceremonies.

72. materna: i.e. sacred to Venus, his mother.

73. aevi maturus, genitive of specification; his age is contrasted with that of Helymus and Ascanius.

75. ille: Æneas.

76. tumulum: the tomb of Anchises.

77. carchesia, bowls: a vessel peculiar to Bacchus and Hercules. See Fig. 42. — Baccho: ablative of quality.

78. sanguine: of course of a slain victim.

79. purpureos, gay: the ancients applied the word to a wide range of colors on the purple side of red, and so often to any bright color.

80. recepti nequiquam: cf. iii. 711.

81. animae, umbrae: for the plural cf. the use of Manes.

82. non licuit: sc. mihi.

83. quicumque, whatever, but agreeing in gender with Thybrim: the expression implies a very human doubt as to his ever reaching the river, almost as if he said, "if there is any such."

Fig. 42

84. adytis ab imis, from the bottom of the tomb: the tomb is a shrine, for Anchises is now a god. — anguis: the genius (v. 95, indwelling spirit, or tutelary divinity) of a place, especially of a tomb, is frequently typified by a serpent in ancient art. The worship of serpents is very ancient and wide-spread.

85. septem . . . tumulum, formed seven rings, seven coils, quietly enfolding the tomb.

87. cui: dative of reference. — terga, squamam (objs. of incendebat): translate, changing the construction, whose skin flamed with dark-blue spots, his scales with gleaming specks, a thousand varied colors, such as the bow casts on clouds when over against the sun. — notae: by a natural inversion of ideas the marks (notae, fulgor) are said to light up the material, as it were. Cf. Milton's gorgeous description of the serpent in Eden (Paradise Lost, ix. 498-504).

88. ceu, as when. — nubibus: locative ablative.

90. ille: the serpent; note this common use of the pronoun to change the subject. — agmine longo, in trailing course.

91. tandem: i.e. slowly. — pateras: the arrangements for libation here consisted of pocula (carchesia, so called) to hold the liquid, and a similar shallow vessel from which it was poured, patera. — lēvia, polished: notice the quantity. — serpens: participle.

92. dapes: described in vv. 77-78.

93. depasta, with the offering consumed.

94. hoc: abl. of cause. — instaurat, renews, i.e. continues with fresh zeal the sacrifice interrupted by the appearance of the snake.

95. genium loci: see note on v. 84. — famulum: as a deified person, Anchises might have a special attendant. — -ne . . . -ne, whether . . . or: as in i. 308.

96. putet: indirect question; the direct question contained a deliberative subjunctive; A. 575, b; D. 816; B. 300, 2; G. 467. — bidentis (see iv. 57), etc.: a sacrifice of sheep, swine, and oxen was known as suovetaurilia.

Fig. 43

99. remissos, returning (allowed to return) to share in these solemnities; apparently the shade, like a divinity, came to receive the offering; cf. iii. 303.

100. quae . . . copia = eam copiam (in appos. with dona, etc.) quae cuique est, each according to his ability. — cuique: dat. of possession.

102. ordine, in long array: all partake of the feast in companies; each around its own kettle or fire. — fusi: cf. i. 212–214.

103. veribus: cf. i. 212. For cooking on spits see Fig. 43 (from a vase painting).

104. serena luce: abl. of quality with Auroram.

105. Phaethontis: here the sun-god, not (as usually) his son.

106. fama: the talk about the games.

108. visuri: future participle expressing purpose. A. 499, 2; D. 868; B. 337, 4; G. 670, 3. — Aeneadas: these famous exiles are more attractive even than the games. — pars et, some also. — certare: infinitive with parati to express purpose (Introd. § 81). — parati: plural with the collective noun pars.

109. circo: it may here be used of the place of gathering (v. 289) or of the circle of spectators (coetu, v. 107).

110. sacri: because used as offerings. — tripodes: the kettle with its tripod was a very common prize in games; the metals were comparatively rare, and even common utensils were works of art (see v. 266).

112. talenta, masses.

114. pares, well-matched. — gravibus remis: abl. of quality with carinae. The ancient galleys relied on oars for their manœuvres, but used sails for speed.

116. Pristim, etc.: these fabulous creatures were probably represented in the ships' figure-heads.

117. Memmi: it was a fancy of the Romans to derive their names and descent from these Trojan heroes.

119. urbis opus: vast, like a city or a work worthy of a city. — versu, tier. Triremes were not invented till some centuries later than the times which Virgil is describing (see Fig. 44, from an ancient relief).

120. terno ordine = tribus ordinibus.

123. caerulea: the regular color of the sea-divinities (iii. 432).

124. saxum: a rock evidently just at the surface.

125. olim, sometimes.

126. condunt: i.e. with clouds.

127. tranquillo, in calm weather: locative abl. of circumstance; A. 429, 3; cf. D. 485, N.; B. 228, I; G. 385, N.¹

129. frondenti: i.e. it is set up on the rock, leaves and all.

130. signum nautis, as a sign for the sailors. — pater, with fatherly care.

131. scirent: purpose, unde being equivalent to ut inde. — circumflectere: i.e. the tree on the rock marked the turning-point round which they were to sail, as the racers in the circus drove round the meta (see iii. 429, note).

134. pōpulea (notice the ō): because these were funeral games. When Hercules was returning from the Lower World, he gathered poplar leaves there for a garland; hence this tree was not only sacred to Hercules, the god of athletes, but was also an emblem of mourning.

136. intenta [sc. sunt], are outstretched to the oars.

Fig. 44

137. intenti, on the stretch (i.e. with eager attention). Note the repetition: intenta (literal), intenti (figurative). — haurit, etc., throbbing apprehension and eager desire for praise strain their beating hearts.

139. finibus, starting-places.

140. prosiluere: said loosely of both ships and crew; the perfect indicates the suddenness of the action.

141. versa: from verto, not verro.

142. pariter, together, no one being in advance.

143. tridentibus: the form usually given to a ship's beak, a reminiscence of which is still seen in the prow of the Venetian gondola. The rostrum was a massive projection of brass or iron, intended to sink or disable an enemy's ship, exactly like the modern "ram" (see Fig. 44).

144. biugo certamine: the Homeric chariot-race is here brought in by way of comparison.

145. effusi carcere, darting from the barriers or starting-places; properly, stalls in which the horses were confined until the word was given.

146. nec sic, etc., nor so, over their teams in full career, do the drivers shake the waving reins.

147. iugis: dat. of reference. — proni: the natural attitude for whipping the horses.

148. studiis: a regular word for expressions of approval which take sides. It includes both plausu and fremitu, which designate particular methods of showing favor. — faventum, partisans: archaic form of the genitive.

149. inclusa: i.e. by hills.

151. primis, in the lead (agreeing grammatically with undis).

152. turbam inter, amid the confusion and noise of his competitors.

154. aequo discrimine, at an equal distance, i.e. from Cloanthus: abl. of degree of difference.

155. locum . . . superare priorem (cogn. acc.): to get the lead.

156. habet, has it (i.e. the lead).

157. iunctis frontibus, with prows abreast.

159. tenebant, were just reaching the rock which was the half-way point (metam): see note on v. 131.

160. medio in gurgite, at the middle of [the course over] the sea.

161. compellat voce, calls to.

162. quo, where (lit. whither). — tantum dexter, so far to the right: dexter has the force of an adv. — mihi: ethical dat.; omit in translation (Intro. § 31). The construction was once common in English. Cf. Shakspeare, Comedy of Errors, i. 2, 11:

Villain, I say, knock me at this gate.

163. litus ama, hug the shore (i.e. of the rock). — stringat sine: ut omitted. — palmula: nominative. They leave the rock on the left.

165. pelagi, the open sea.
 166. diversus, so wide of the course (i.e. so far from the rock).
 167. revocabat: conative; A. 471, c; D. 653; B. 260, 3; G. 233.
 168. tergo: dative with instantem. — propiora tenentem, steering nearer the rocks.
 170. radit iter laevum interior, skims along on the left, getting the inside track. — iter: cogn. acc. — priorem, his leader.
 171. tuta: i.e. because he has rounded the rock and is now inside on the straight and open course.
 172. iuveni: dat. of reference.
 174. decoris, dignity. — socium = sociorum. Observe the chiasitic order.
 176. rector, as steersman.
 177. clavum torquet, steers: the Roman ship was steered with a long broad-bladed oar.
 179. senior, fluens: explaining why he was gravis.
 183. extremis duobus: dat. of reference.
 184. Mnesthei: Greek dative; pronounced in two syllables.
 185. ante, ahead (adv.).
 186. totā praeunte carinā, by a whole length (lit. keel): observe that the diphthong is here made short before the following vowel.
 187. premit, overlaps.
 188. media nave: a gangway ran down the ship between the rows of oarsmen.
 190. sorte suprema = on the last fatal day (abl. of time).
 192. usi: sc. estis.
 193. Maleae: this headland, the extreme south of Greece, is proverbially dangerous to navigation. — sequacibus undis, the pursuing waves, from which it is hard to escape.
 195. quamquam O, and yet, O that —: a half-expressed wish.
 196. extremos, etc., at least let us be ashamed to come off last. — hoc vincite, win this at least: cognate acc.
 199. subtrahitur solum (for aequor), the course flies beneath them (lit. passive). — artus, frame.
 201. viris: i.e. Mnestheus' men, the crew of the Pristis.
 202. animi: as in iv. 203.
 203. iniquo, dangerous, between the rock and the ship of Mnestheus.
 205. murice, reef: properly a rock jagged and rough, like the shellfish called murex.
 206. obnixi crepuere, crashed as they pulled against it. — inlisa pendit, struck upon the reef and hung there: the stern was still afloat.
 207. magno . . . morantur, utter loud cries because of the delay (lit. delay with loud shouting).

211. agmine . . . vocatis, with the rapid driving of oars, and with an appeal to the winds.

212. prona, descending: i.e. where he can run smoothly down to shore; cf. devenere (i. 365), delato (iii. 154), demittere (v. 29), delati (v. 57).

214. nidi, nestlings.

216. tecto, from her home (the rock): abl. of separation with exterrita.

217. radit, skims: notice the smooth, rapid movement of the verse.

218. secat ultima aequora, cuts the waves on the home-stretch.

221. brevibus vadis, shallow reefs (lit. shoals): the adjective really adds nothing, but expresses the idea from another point of view.

222. discentem: said with a touch of humor.

224. cedit, she (the Chimæra) gives place.

227. clamor, the cheers (from shore).

228. studiis: cf. v. 148, note.

229. hi: Cloanthus and his men.—proprium, their deserved, and so far won (partum).

230. ni teneant: for "are indignant at the disgrace (which will be theirs) if they do not," etc.; A. 592, 2; D. 905; B. 323; G. 508, 3.

231. hos: Mnesteus and his crew.

232. fors = forsitan, perhaps.

234. in vota: i.e. the gods are summoned to be witnesses to his vows.

235. aequora (cognate acc.): cf. iii. 191, v. 217, 862.

237. voti reus, bound to my vow, i.e. if my prayer is granted; A. 352, a; B. 208, 3; G. 374, N.²; cf. D. 337.—exta: the nobler entrails, heart, liver, etc.

240. chorus: many fanciful sea-monsters are supposed to attend the god. Phorcus was a son of Neptune and father of the Gorgons; Panoëa, a sea-nymph; Portunus, the Italian god of harbors.

242. illa, she (the ship).

244. Anchisa: abl. of source.

247. in navis, for each ship (cf. in dies) that had shared in the race.—optare, ferre: A. 563, N.; D. 842; B. 295, 5, N.; G. 546, N.⁸

248. magnum talentum: a talent of silver was heavier than a talent of gold.

249. addit, gives in addition.

250. chlamydem: see Fig. 37.—quam plurima, etc., round which a broad band of Melibœan purple ran.

251. Melibœa, of Melibœa, a town in Thessaly, famous for the murex. Cf. Paradise Lost, xi. 240–244:

Over his lucid arms
A military vest of purple flow'd
Livelier than Melibœan, or the grain
Of Sarra, worn by kings and heroes old
In time of truce.

— maeandro duplici, in a double meandering pattern, so called from the winding course of the Mæander, a river of Asia Minor (see Fig. 45, from a Greek vase).

252. puer regius: Ganymede, who was taken up by an eagle to be cup-bearer of the gods (cf. i. 28); the hunting scene is woven in (intextus) the fabric of the chlamys. — Ida: locative abl.

253. iaculo: i.e. runs them down in the chase, pursuing them with the javelin.

254. quem praepes, etc.: another scene woven in the chlamys.

255. armiger: i.e. the eagle, often represented as bearing in his claws the thunderbolts of Jupiter.

256. tendunt: i.e. in the picture.

257. custodes: i.e. the old slaves (paedagogi) who, according to the practice of the ancients, would attend a youth of his consequence. — saevitique, etc., and the wild barking of dogs fills the air.

258. qui: the antecedent is huic in v. 259. — virtute, in excellence.

259. hamis auroque: hendiadys.

260. lorica: see Fig. 34. — Demoleo: dat. of separation.

261. Ilio: the final o is shortened without elision before alto.

262. habere, to keep: infinitive of purpose (Introd. § 84). — decus, etc.: i.e. honorable and useful at the same time.

263. ferebant, could bear.

264. at, etc.: i.e. though two slaves could hardly carry it, yet it was once worn by a hero in ordinary use.

265. cursu, in flight. Notice that often in translating it is necessary to change the point of view. Thus here cursu refers to Demoleos; but in English we make it refer to the Trojans, although the other point of view is also possible.

266. dona: for construction see Introd. § 39. — lebetas: Gr. acc. plur. See v. 110, note.

269. taenis (= taeniis), headbands of ribbon, usually worn by athletes.

271. ordine: abl. of specification; one row of oars had been broken on the rocks (vv. 205–206).

272. agebat: A. 546, a; D. 751; B. 288, B, 2; G. 581.

273. qualis: see tali, v. 280. — aggere viae, roadway. Roman roads were well crowned, and higher than the level of the land.

274. aerea rota: i.e. of a chariot. — obliquum transiit, has run straight across. — gravis ictu = gravi ictu.

Fig. 45

281. tamen : i.e. though disabled in her oars.

283. servatam, reductos (emphatic), on account of the saving, on account of the return.

284. datur : the ū is lengthened before the cæsuræ. — Minervæ : she was the goddess of all household arts, especially of spinning and weaving.

285. genus : acc. of specification. — sub ubere, at her breast.

286. tendit : sc. iter.

287. quem . . . silvæ, which forests surrounded on every side with circling hills : a poetically inverted form of expression, but perfectly clear.

288. theatri circus, the circuit of a theatre. The word theatrum designates the place for the spectators on the hill-slopes that formed the circus or race-course in the valley between. The theatres and circuses of the ancients were ordinarily placed in similar natural valleys, sometimes with masonry to complete the outline.

289, 290. quo, etc., and thither among many thousands the hero passed into the midst of the spectators, and took his seat on a raised mound. — consessu : i.e. the assembled spectators (sitting together). The construction is doubtful; perhaps dat. of place to which (Intro. § 34). — extructo : lit. on [something] built up, i.e. a mound or elevated seat of honor.

291. qui : the antecedent is eorum, to be supplied with animos. — velint : informal indir. disc.; A. 592, 2; D. 905; B. 323; G. 628. The account of the foot race is elaborately parodied by Pope, Dunciad, ii. 35 ff.

296. pio, honest. — pueri : Euryalus.

302. fama obscura, unknown fame, i.e. want of fame leaving them in obscurity; oxymoron : A. 641; D. 949; B. 375, 2; G. 694.

320. A spondaic verse (Introd. § 104).

323. quo sub ipso, at his very heels.

325. incumbens umero, all but touching (lit. leaning over) his shoulder. — supersint: we should expect the imperfect contrary to fact, but the present makes the passage more lively by representing the condition as still possible.

326. ambiguumve relinquat, or would leave the race in doubt.

328. finem: fem. as in ii. 554. — lēvi sanguine, in the slippery blood.

329. ut forte, as, by chance: i.e. the course happened to lie across the spot of sacrifice; ut is very loosely used in Latin so as to be equivalent to when or even where as here.

330. fusus: sc. sanguis. — super: adv.

331. presso, as he strode (more lit. pressed the ground).

334. ille: here emphasizes the distant subject, Nisus. — amorum, of his friend.

336. revolutus, thrown backward by the shock.

337. Euryalūs: the final syllable is long (Introd. § 110).

339. nunc, now (Nisus and Salus being out of the race). — palma, victor: in a sort of apposition with Diores.

340. caveae, theatre: properly the concave rows of seats; cf. note, v. 288.

341. prima, in front. — patrum: the front seats were by Roman custom reserved for persons of rank and distinction, the senate occupying the orchestra, and the equites the first fourteen rows of the seats.

342. reddi: in prose, ut reddatur (Introd. § 78).

343. favor, good will: the word regularly used of enthusiasm among spectators of a play; cf. v. 148.

344. veniens, appearing. Cf. Paradise Lost, iv. 448–450:

His grave rebuke,
Severe in youthful beauty, added grace Invincible.

— virtus, merit.

345. proclamat, appeals for him.

346. subiit, has come up (in another's place). — venit ad, has attained.

347. reddantur: fut. less vivid condition, the apodosis being found in frustra.

349. palmam . . . nemo, no one is going to disturb the order of the prizes (lit. move the prize from its order): conative pres.; A. 467; D. 649; B. 259, 2; G. 227, N.²

350. me: i.e. personally, or unofficially. — casus, misfortune: acc. plur.

352. aureis : dissyllabic (Intro. § 112).

354. te lapsorum miseret : for case see Intro. § 21.

355. merui, earned [and should have had], unless, etc. : A. 517, b ; D. 797, N. ; B. 304, 3 ; G. 597, R.²—laude, by merit (as opposed to fortune or luck).

356. quae, the same . . . as : sc. tulit.—tulisset, had put me out of the race (lit. had borne me [away]).

357. dictis, with these words : abl. with simul ; A. 432, c ; D. 277, N. ; B. 144, 2 ; G. 417, 12.

358. olli : not exactly at him (which would be accusative), but in his face.

359. artem, the skilful work : in apposition with clipeum.

Fig. 46

360. Neptuni . . . refixum, taken down from a sacred pillar of Neptune belonging to the Greeks (i.e. as spoil of war); perhaps a gift from Helenus; see iii. 464 ff.—Danais : dat. of reference; in prose we should have the genitive; A. 377; D. 385; B. 188, 1, N.; G. 350, 1.

363. si cui [est], etc., whoever has manliness and ready courage.

364. adsit, let him come forward : hortatory.—evinctis, bound with the cestus (caestus), which was a sort of gauntlet (v. 405) like the brass knuckles of modern roughs (Fig. 46).

365. pugnae : genitive.

366. auro vittisque : i.e. gilded and wreathed horns, as was usual in such cases.

369. virum : gen. plur.

370. Paridem : Paris had great fame as a prize-fighter, though he was an indifferent warrior and worse patriot.

371. ad tumulum : i.e. at the funeral games at Hector's tomb.

372. victorem, hitherto unconquered.

373. se . . . veniens . . . ferebat, boasted himself (or claimed) to be descended (lit. coming): the participle agrees with the subject instead of with se; cf. delapsus, ii. 377. See A. 581, N.³; G. 527, N.² — Amyci: a famous mythical boxer in Asia Minor, defeated and slain by Pollux in the Argonautic expedition.

378. huic alius, another boxer to match him.

380. palma, the contest.

384. quo . . . usque: tmesis.

385. ducere . . . iube, bid me lead off my prize.

386. reddi: i.e. given him as his due. — promissa, the promised prize.

387. gravis, sternly (as if an adverb).

388. consederat: had seated himself, i.e. was sitting.

391. nobis, of ours (ethical dative, like mihi in v. 162). — magister, teacher.

392. nequiquam: i.e. his fame is now vain since a foreign boaster carries off the prize.

393. spolia: i.e. prizes (probably the cestus of the vanquished) won in former contests (called spolia because stripped, as it were, from his defeated opponents).

394. sub haec, in reply. — gloria, ambition.

395. sed enim, but, you see.

397. mihi: dat. of possession with foret. — improbis, indecent boaster.

399. haud equidem, not, to be sure: the real conclusion is obscured; "I should have come, though not pretio inductus."

400. moror, care for. — deinde: with proiecit.

403. ferre manum, raise his hand: as we might say, bear a hand in fight. — intendere, etc., bind his arms with the stubborn hide.

406. longe, shrinking: i.e. he retreats to some distance.

408. volumina, the thongs of hide. — versat: i.e. turns over as they lie on the ground.

409. senior: Entellus.

410. quid si vidisset: sc. quid putasset; the conclusion is designedly left to the imagination, as often also in English ("what if"). — arma: i.e. the cestus.

411. tristem: because Eryx was killed by Hercules.

412. tuus: Entellus addresses Æneas.

413. sanguine, etc.: i.e. of those he had killed in his time.

414. his: dat. with suetus [eram].

415. aemula, envious: as if old age grudged what little strength might yet remain.

416. cānebat (from caneo) sparsa, sprinkled gray on my two temples (lit. old age, sprinkled upon my two temples, was gray).

418. sedet, suits. — Aeneae: dat. of reference. — auctor, strictly a voucher: here, one who confirms the view by his authority.

419. tibi, for your sake or to please you: dat. of reference.

421. duplicem : i.e. the abolla, or double-folded garment, worn by him on account of his age.

451. caelo : dat. of place to which.

453. casu, by his fall.

454. ira : ablative.

455. tum, now (emphatic).

456. aequore toto, over the whole field.

457. ille : see note on v. 334.

458. quam multa, with blows as thick as the hailstones that rattle on the roofs in a storm (lit. with how much hail storms rattle on the roofs, so with thick blows, etc.) : the proper correlative is supplied by the expression sic densis.

460. creber, again and again : cf. v. 436. — versat, drives this way and that. — Dareta : Intro. § 92.

462. saevire animis acerbis, to rage in passionate fury.

466. viris alias, strength not his own: i.e. some god's, alluding to the sudden change of the contest in v. 455. — conversa numina, gods adverse (lit. turned, as we speak of a change of luck or a reversal of fortune).

469. utroque, from side to side.

473. superans animis, with towering pride. — tauro: abl. of cause.

477. adversi, so that it faced him.

479. The feat here described was performed, it is said, by Cæsar Borgia.

480. effracto cerebro, dashing out its brains.

483. pro morte Daretis: a substitute, such as is found in many early religions, for human sacrifices, — puppets, some lower animal, or a symbolized act of sacrifice. — meliozem: spoken with some contempt of his antagonist, as well as because the substitute is more acceptable to the gods.

486. velint: as in v. 291. For shooting with the bow see Fig. 47 (from a vase painting).

487. ingenti manu, with mighty hand, as of heroic stature and strength. — Seresti: possibly the same with Sergestus, whose damaged ship might well furnish the mast and rigging necessary.

488. traiecto in fune: fastened by a cord passed over or through the mast and tied to the bird's foot (cf. v. 511).

489. quo tendant ferrum: rel. clause of purpose.

490. deiectam sortem, the lots thrown into it. The lots were shaken in the helmet until one leaped out.

491. clamore secundo, amid shouts of applause.

494. oliva: perhaps an oversight, as Cloanthus (v. 246) is wreathed with laurel. Olive, palm, and laurel make the regular prizes of victory.

496. confundere foedus: at the bidding of Athene, Pandarus shot an arrow, wounded Menelaus, and thus broke the truce between the Trojans and the Greeks (Il. iv. 104; Bry. 115).

499. et ipse, even he too.

501. pro se quisque: in appos. with virī.

504. venit, it reaches the goal: i.e. the mast, though it misses the mark — the bird.

Fig. 47

505. timuit pinnis, showed its fright by its fluttering.

506. omnia, the whole place.

508. alta petens, aiming high, because the other had aimed too low.

509. miserandus, unlucky.

511. quis = quibus.

512. notos, to the winds, depending on in.

513. rapidus, swiftly. — contenta, drawn.

514. fratrem: Pandarus, regarded as a sort of patron saint of archery. — in vota vocavit, called on in his prayers (lit. called to [hear] his vows).

515. iam: with laetam.

517. astris aetheriis: according to a common view the soul was composed of fiery æther, from which also the stars were fed (cf. i. 608 and note, vi. 730–732). Hence the bird left its life in the natural home of spirit.

520. tamen: i.e. though he had lost the prize.

521. pater, veteran that he was. Note patēr. — arcum: i.e. its power.

522. futurum, destined to be.

523. augurio: abl. of quality. — exitus ingens, the dread result: sometimes understood of the burning of the ships. The prodigy, however, is probably a part of the old legend, and refers to later events in Sicily, perhaps her wars with Rome (sera omina).

524. terrifici: from their alarming words. — cecinerunt, interpreted: i.e. after the fulfilment.

528. crinem, a trail of light: cf. ii. 694.

529. haesere, were transfixed. The men were amazed, but the leaders at once interpreted the omen for good, and so removed any ill effects in their followers' minds.

534. exsortem . . . honores, that you should receive a prize apart from the rest (lit. out of the lot, i.e. out of course).

535. ipsius: a gift, as it were, bestowed by Anchises himself.

537. in magno munere, as a great gift (lit. in the place of); cf. the similar use of pro. — Cisseus: king of Thrace, father of Hecuba.

538. ferre: cf. v. 247. — sui: obj. gen. with monumentum.

541. Eurytion: who, we are to suppose, takes the second prize.

542. quamvis deiecit: the subjunctive is the regular prose construction with quamvis; A. 527, e; D. 809; B. 309, 6; G. 606, N.¹

543. donis: abl. of specification with proximus.

545. nondum . . . misso: before the archery match was over, Æneas had given his directions for the show that was to follow, so that there might be no delay. A similar surprise for the spectators was frequent in the games at Rome; and the introduction of it is here a special compliment to Augustus, who had revived this very Troiae lusus.

547. Epytiden: he seems to have acted the part of a paedagogus, a guardian who constantly attended youths of any distinction.

548. Ascanio : dat. with dic, v. 551.

550. ducat, ostendat : subjunctives in indirect for imperatives in direct discourse; cf. iv. 635. — avo, in honor of his grandsire (dat. of reference).

552. infusum : the multitude had poured in to watch the last sports, which did not require much space.

553. pariter, well-matched.

554. quos : obj. of mirata.

555. iuventus : i.e. the older youths; all able-bodied men fit for active service were iuvenes up to forty years of age.

556. tonsa corona, with wreath close-trimmed : probably confining the hair below the helmet. It has also been explained of the "circular tonsure," the hair cut round, in boyish fashion.

557. bina : the regular number (cf. i. 313).

558. lēvis : cf. lēvia (v. 91), lēvi (v. 328). — pectore summo, from the upper part of the chest.

560. terni = tres : A. 137, d; D. 173, e; B. 81, 4, d; G. 97, N.¹ Cf. v. 85.

562. magistris : the ductores.

563. una acies : sc. est.

565. auctura Italos : a town called Politorium was fabled to have been colonized by Polites.

566. vestigia . . . ostentans : i.e. white on the front (pr̄imi) of his legs and on his forehead.

568. Atii : this fanciful ancestry for the Roman family of the Atii (the gens Atia) is, like the derivation of the Julian gens from Iulus (i. 288), a compliment to Augustus. He belonged to both families, for his mother (Atia) was the daughter of Julia (Cæsar's sister) and of M. Atius Balbus.

572. esse : cf. vv. 262 (note), 307.

575. excipiunt : referring back to v. 555.

576. veterum parentum, of their forefathers.

577. omnem . . . lustravere, had paraded in front of the whole assembly and before the eyes of their friends.

579. flagello : abl. of instrument, where the English idiom would suggest the accusative.

580-582. olli . . . tulere, they (i.e. the three turmae or troops of twelve each, v. 560) rode apart in equal numbers (pares : i.e. they formed in pairs, still keeping in three troops, and thus rode down the arena); and then (atque), separating the divisions, the three troops (terni) broke up (agmina solvere : i.e. each troop of twelve divided into two chori of six), and again, at a signal (vocati), they wheeled and charged each other with hostile weapons (i.e. each half-troop of six charged the corresponding half-troop which belonged to the same original troop of twelve). — Notice the long penult in discurrere.

583. inde, etc., then they enter upon other movements (i.e. they ride apart again) and counter-movements.

584. adversi spatii: in the opposite directions to those they had taken before; or, possibly, on opposite sides of the arena. — alternos orbibus, etc., they interweave circles with circles in alternation: i.e. they ride in circles, the different squads alternately inside and out.

587. pariter, in even line: i.e. together as one force.

588. Labyrinthus: the work of Dædalus, in which the Minotaur was kept. — alta: Crete is mountainous.

589. parietibus . . . iter, to have had a way bordered (lit. woven) with blind walls: i.e. without doors or windows to serve as guide. — ancipitem-que . . . dolum, and to have been craftily laid out with a thousand paths to mislead: lit. to have had baffling craft (i.e. a crafty plan of construction) with a thousand paths. — mille viis: abl. of quality with dolum.

590, 591. quā . . . error, where the baffling maze that could not be retraced confused all signs of the course to be followed. — quā . . . falleret: rel. clause of result. — signa sequendi: lit. signs of following (i.e. to be followed).

593. texunt, they form in their winding course: the whole seems like a richly woven web.

594. delphinum similes: the play of dolphins, in its life and brilliancy, relieves the architectural stiffness of the last comparison. For case see A. 385, c, 2; D. 351; B. 204, 3; G. 359, N.⁴

595. Carpathium, Libycum: sc. mare.

596. cursus (gen.), manœuvres. — primus . . . rettulit, was the first to repeat.

599. ipse, pubes: sc. celebravit.

600. porro, in succession.

601. patrium honorem, its ancestral observance.

602. Troia, Troianum: see note, v. 545. — pueri: sc. dicuntur.

603. hac . . . tenuis: tmesis for hactenus. — patri: i.e. Anchises; cf. note on avo, v. 550, for construction.

605. tumulo: abl. of place where.

607. ventos adspirat: cf. iv. 223.

608. multa movens, with many designs.

609. per mille coloribus arcum, along her bow of a thousand colors: see iv. 694 and note.

613. secretæ, apart from the rest.

616. superesse: exclamatory infinitive (Intro. § 83).

618. ergo, thus, prepared as they are already. — haud ignara nocendi, skilled in mischief: litotes; A. 326, c; D. 947; B. 375, 1; G. 700.

621. cui . . . fuissent, as one who once had had a family, and name, and children: a woman of dignity and of influence amongst the rest, and hence a suitable person for her scheme; A. 535, e; D. 730, I; B. 283, 3; G. 633.

624. traxerit: relative clause expressing cause.

627. cum ferimur, while we are still borne on. — freta: supply omnia with freta. — saxa, sidera emensae: the stars are put for the dangers of the sky, the rocks for those of the deep.

630. fraterni: cf. note on i. 570.

631. dare urbem: they are now a people without a city — a violent contradiction of terms to ancient notions.

633. nullane . . . moenia, shall no walls any longer be called those of Troy?

635. infaustas puppis, those ill-omened hulks.

638. iam tempus agi [sc. est], now is the time for deeds to be done.

639. tantis prodigiis, such prodigies admit no delay: dat. of possession. — quattuor arae: erected perhaps to offer sacrifice for a prosperous voyage; perhaps by the four ships' crews, or by Cloanthus, according to his vow (v. 237).

640. deus, etc.: i.e. his altars supply the means, and the dangers he threatens (those of the sea) the desire (animum).

642. sublata procul dextra, lifting high her hand.

645. tot: cf. ii. 501.

646. vobis: ethical dat. (see note on v. 162).

648. spiritus: sc. est.

651. quod careret, because [she said] she alone was deprived of a share in such rites, etc. — further explained by the next clause. Beroë's reason is indirectly quoted, hence the subjunctives; A. 592, 3; D. 906; B. 323; G. 541.

655. ambiguae, etc., gazed on the ships, vacillating between their unhappy clinging to the shore at hand and the kingdoms which summoned them by the fates. — spectare: historical infinitive.

658. ingentem secuit arcum, cut her path in a great bow through the air, as a ship through the water; the rainbow is her wake: cf. iv. 257, 700–701.

659. monstris: the bow suddenly appearing and the departure of Iris show the divine nature of the phenomenon.

660. focis penetralibus: probably their household fires in the interior of their huts or tents.

661. frondem: the branches with which the altars were decorated.

663. pictas: Homer describes ships as "scarlet-prowed." Figures of gods, etc., were also painted on the sterns. — abiete (trisyllable): abl. of material.

664. cuneos: the divisions of the seats of the theatres, so called from their shape (see Fig. 5).

665. perfert, brings word. — ipsi, the spectators.

666. respiciunt, looking round behold. — in nimbo, in the cloud of smoke.

668. sic, just as he was.

669. castra, the encampment (of huts, etc.) near the ships. — magistri, masters or guardians: the adult leaders (mentioned in v. 562) who had charge of the boys.

671. cives, my countrywomen: a name reminding them at once of their allegiance and their hopes.

677. sicubi . . . saxa: i.e. whatever hollow rocks (if there are any anywhere) may chance to be thereabout.

678. piget [sc. eas], they loathe (Intro. § 21).

679. mutatae, coming to themselves. — Iuno, the influence of Juno.

682. lentus . . . vapor, the fire consumes slowly.

683. est: from edo; cf. iv. 66. — toto . . . pestis, the destruction sinks into the entire frame.

685. abscindere: historical infinitive.

687. exosus: sc. es.

688. si quid, etc., if thy ancient regard for piety pays any heed to mortal toils and troubles.

691. vel tu, etc.: i.e. either let the fleet escape the flames, and thus rescue what little remains (res tenuis) to the Trojans, or — the only thing left to do in case you refuse — destroy it all suddenly.

696. turbidus imber aquā, a wild drenching storm thick with the black south winds. — turbidus aqua: expresses the wildness of the storm and the drenching of the rain; the south winds are black because they bring such weather as this — thick and dark; and the epithets, as often in poetry, are intentionally confused in their application. Cf. vv. 2, 11: atros Aquilone, inhorruit tenebris.

697. super, from above.

702. nunc . . . versans, turned his anxious thoughts (lit. shifted his great cares) now this way now that, pondering. — -ne . . . -ne, whether . . . or. — resideret: the dir. quest. would be residam (deliberative).

704. Nautes: said to have been the priest of Pallas in Troy, and the preserver of the Palladium, which passed to his descendants, the Nautii, at Rome. — unum, above all others.

705. arte, prophetic art.

706. haec: i.e. the words of Nautes below. — responsa: so called because his words are inspired and oracular. — portenderet, posceret: indir. quest.

711. est tibi, you have: i.e. he is ready to help you. — divinae stirpis: cf. v. 38.

712. volentem, a willing adviser.

713. trade : sc. eos. — superant, etc., remain over from the lost ships, after the serviceable ones are filled. — quos pertaesum est, etc.: Introd. § 21.

716. quidquid . . . est, all who are; lit. whatever is (neut. collective referring to persons). — tecum, in your company. — pericli: obj. genitive with metuens (adj.).

717. habeant sine, allow them to have: cf. v. 163 and note. — fessi, since they are tired out.

718. Acestam: see note, v. 38. Here Virgil follows the tradition. Cicero (Verr. v. 33) says: "Segesta is a very old town in Sicily, which is shown to have been founded by Æneas when he fled from Troy and came into these parts. The people of Segesta, accordingly, consider themselves to be bound to the Roman people, not only by constant alliance and friendship, but also by ties of blood (cognatione). — permisso nomine (abl. abs.) = by his permission, which is thus courteously asked.

720. animo: abl. of place where. — diducitur, is distracted by (lit. drawn apart into), unwilling thus to divide his band and yet seeing the advantages of the course suggested by Nautes.

721. et, and while he ponders thus.

722. facies, etc.: not really the ghost of Anchises (who, when met in the Lower World, seems not to know of these occurrences; see vi. 694 and note), but a vision sent from heaven and taking his shape. Cf. the human shape assumed by Iris (v. 620) and by Venus (i. 315). — delapsa, gliding down (from heaven, not up from the world of the dead).

725. nate . . . fatis: cf. iii. 182.

727. tandem, in your extremity.

730. gens dura: the Rutulians.

731. ante (adv.), first.

732. Averno: used in a general way of the Lower World.

733. meos, with me.

734. tristes umbrae: in apposition with Tartara.

735. colo. Huc: hiatus.

736. nigrarum: as customary in sacrificing to the gods below; see vi. 243 ff. — multo sanguine: after abundant sacrifice: abl. of means.

737. genus: i.e. your descendants who are to live in Italy.

738. iamque vale: the vision speaks as a ghost might have spoken; such spirits were thought to vanish at the approach of dawn. Cf. Hamlet, i. 5. 58 ff.:

But soft! methinks I scent the morning air;
Brief let me be.

. . . Fare thee well at once:
The glow-worm shows the matin to be near,
And gins to pale his uneffectual fire.

— torquet, etc., rolls on in the middle of her course.

739. saevus: because it forces him to leave Aeneas. — Oriens = Aurora, dawn.

743. cinerem: i. e. of his own hearth. The sacrifice of wheat and incense is offered to his own household deities.

744. Larem: the Lares were the special protectors of the household. They were the spirits of deceased ancestors or other deified persons, and were represented as youths in a short tunic, generally in the act of pouring a libation: see Fig. 48 (the trees are the olives before the house of Augustus).

Fig. 48

The Lares were worshipped with flowers, fruit, wine, incense, and fine grain or cakes. — penetralia: i. e. the hearth.

745. farre pio: the salted meal regularly used in sacrifices; see ii. 133. — acerra: the box for holding incense; see Fig. 49, from an ancient wall painting.

748. constet, is fixed: indir. question.

749. consiliis: dat. of possession with mora [est], as in v. 639.

750. transcribunt, they register: i. e. for the new city. — volentem, who wished it.

751. deponunt, they set aside. — animos: in apposition with matres and populum. — nil

egentis, that feel no need of; nil is adverbial acc. — laudis: Introd. § 22.

753. rudentisque: hypermetric (Introd. § 114).

754. bello: abl. of specification. — virtus: sc. est.

755. aratro: see i. 425.

756. Ilium, Troiam: these names here seem to be given to different quarters of the city, which was named Acesta.

758. indicit forum, proclaims a court: i. e. establishes courts of justice. — patribus . . . vocatis (abl. abs.): the senate (patres) are conceived as his council. — iura: here apparently equivalent to leges.

759. sedes: on Mt. Eryx in western Sicily stood in Virgil's time an ancient and much honored temple of Venus. He ascribes its foundation to Aeneas.

761. sacer, held in reverence.

762. novem: the usual time for funeral rites; see v. 64 and note.

763. straverunt: see i. 66 and note.

766. morantur, etc., they prolong the night and day.

767. ipsi: see v. 716.

773. ex ordine, one after another. — funem: translate by a plural.

775. procul: apart from the others. — pateram tenet: i.e. makes a libation (see Fig. 48). — exta . . . porricit: cf. vv. 237–238 and note.

777, 778. Repeated from iii. 130 and iii. 290.

781. nec exsaturabile pectus, and her insatiable heart.

783. quam: the antecedent is Junonis.

784. infracta, subdued. Notice that the prefix in- has two meanings: one negative (in which it is compounded with the adjective), and the other intensive and the like (when it is compounded with the verb).

785. media . . . exedisce, to have eaten the city of the Phrygians out of the vitals of the race (eviscerating the nation, as it were, or, as we should say, destroying it root and branch).

786. traxe: syncopated form of traxisse (Intro. § 91, n).

787. reliquias, etc., the relics, the very ashes and bones of murdered Troy: observe the emphasis.

788. sciat illa, let HER tell (for I cannot see any reason for such malignity).

790. caelo: i.e. has raised the waves to the stars, according to the common hyberbole (see i. 103, note).

794. classe amissa: exaggeration natural to strong feeling; for the facts see v. 699.

795. terrae: a forced use of the dat. of indir. obj.; in prose, in terrā.

796. quod superest, this and this only I ask. Juno has done us many injuries. These are irrevocable, — what's done is done and as to THAT we cannot pray for relief: there remains only THIS (quod superest) that you can do for us, and for this, then, we pray. — liceat tibi (hortatory), allow yourself (almost = deign).

798. ea moenia: i.e. the promised city near the Tiber.

799. Saturnius: Neptune was a son of Saturn.

801. genus: Venus was born from the sea near Cythera. — merui, I have deserved it too. — furores, etc.: the madness of the waves.

802. compressi: i.e. in Æneas' behalf.

803. Xanthum, Simoenta: in Homer the rescue of Æneas from Achilles by Neptune (Poseidon) took place before the struggle of Achilles with the rivers Xanthus and Simois. Here the two events seem to be brought together. Virgil probably follows a different tradition. See Iliad, Bks. xx, xxi.

Fig. 49

804. mihi cura: sc. est.

809. congressum, etc., who was encountering the son of Peleus, with the gods unfair (not impartial, and therefore unfavorable) and strength ill-matched (zeugma).

810. cum cuperem (concessive): alluding to the treachery of Laomedon: see n. on iii. 248.

814. unus: i.e. Palinurus; see v. 859.

815. caput, life.

816. laeta, till it was joyful (proleptic).

817. auro: i.e. the golden harness.

818. effundit: lets loose.

820. tonanti: perhaps a general epithet of a chariot-wheel; or it may refer to the roaring of the waters below.

821. aquis: abl. of specification with sternitur.

822. facies: supply a verb (appear or are seen) in translation. — cetē: a Greek nominative plural, used for monsters of the deep in general.

823. chorus, band of sea-deities. — Glauci: a sea-divinity, said to be completely overgrown with "shellfish, seaweed, and stones." — Inous Palaemon: both Palæmon and his mother Ino were changed into sea-deities.

825. The sea nymphs mentioned in vv. 825, 826 were daughters of Nereus (Nereids). Thetis was mother of Achilles.

827. blanda gaudia, flattering delights. — vicissim, in their turn.

829. intendi velis, to be hung with sails.

830. fecere pedem, made a tack: a technical expression. The pes is the lower corner of the sail which is drawn in or out in the tacking. — sinistros: sc. nunc.

831. torquent, detorquent: of the different tacks.

832. cornua, spars. — sua flamina, favoring gales.

834. ad hunc contendere cursum, to steer their course by him (i.e. to follow his course).

835. metam: see note on iii. 429.

837. sub remis: every man close to his oar. — fusi per sedilia: cf. fusi per herbam, i. 214.

838. aetheriis: i.e. of the upper, fiery heaven.

840. tristia, fatal.

841. insonti: as it was against his will.

842. Phorbanti: one of the companions.

845. furare, steal away (like "stealing a nap"). — labori: a poetical extension of the dat. of separation (Intro. § 32).

848. me: emphatic here and in the following verse.

849. monstro: i.e. the terrible deep.

850. credam : deliberative subjunctive. — quid enim : as if he had answered the preceding questions by saying, I cannot — for why, etc.?

852. dabat, amittebat, tenebat : observe the force of these imperfects. Palinurus speaks without once losing his grasp of the helm, or letting his eyes wander from the stars.

853. amittebāt : for the long final syllable see Introd. § 110. — oculos . . . tenebat, kept his eyes fixed on the stars.

Fig. 50

854. Lethæo : Lethe was the river of the World Below that gave forgetfulness (see vi. 714). — With 854–856 cf. Denham, Song :

Come, I say, thou powerful god,
And thy leaden charming-rod,
Dipped in the Lethæan lake,
O'er his wakeful temples shake.

So Spenser speaks of "sweet slumbering dew" (Faery Queen, i. i. 36), Shakspere of "the honey-heavy dew of slumber" (Julius Cæsar, ii. 230), Milton of "the dewy-feather'd sleep" (Il Penseroso, v. 146) and of "the timely dew of sleep" (Paradise Lost, iv. 614).

855. vi soporatum Stygia, sleep-drenched with Stygian moisture (lit. made sleepy with Stygian force).

856. cunctanti [sc. ei], although he resists : dat. of reference. — solvit, relaxes, in contrast with tenebat, above.

857. primos: though agreeing with artus, goes in sense with vix; no sooner had sleep relaxed his limbs than, etc.

858. et . . . proiecit, than he hurled him.

859. cum gubernaclo: Palinurus is thrown overboard with the steering oar and a part of the stern to which it was attached.

861. ales, on his wings (lit. winged, adj. agreeing with ipse).

862. iter: cognate accusative.

864. scopulos Sirenum: three rocky islands off the Bay of Naples. Cf. Spenser's beautiful stanzas, Faery Queen, ii. 12. 30-38.

865. quondam: after they were foiled by the wily Ulysses (Od. xii. 178-200), the Sirens cast themselves into the sea and perished. Fig. 50 (from an ancient vase painting) represents Ulysses and the Sirens; cf. Fig. 30.

866. tum, etc.: the song of the Sirens is now replaced by the roar of the surf.

867. fluitantem [sc. ratem], drifting at random. Æneas is roused by the irregular movement of the ship and by the surge chafing against the cliffs.

869. multa: cognate acc.—animum: acc. of specification.

BOOK VI

2. Cumarum: Cumæ, a colony from Chalcis in Eubœa, was the oldest Greek settlement in Italy. It was situated on the coast, a few miles west of Naples.

3. obvertunt proras: contrary to our custom, the vessels were brought up to land stern on; hence prætexunt of the line of sterns along the shore.

6. semina: i.e. as the fire is struck with flint and steel, the elements of fire seem to be in the flint.

8. silvas: in apposition with tecta.—rapit, scour for fuel or game.—inventa, etc., find and show.

9. arces, heights: the temple of Apollo was on a hill, its secret shrine (adytum) being the cave of the Sibyl.—altus, on the height.

10. horrendæ: she is an object of awe as being inspired by Apollo.—procul, at some distance (from the shore).—secretæ, secret abode.—Sibylæ: the Sibyls were inspired prophetesses of some god, usually Apollo. They were thought of as maidens dwelling in lonely places who uttered prophecies when under the influence of the god. The most famous of them was the Cumæan Sibyl.

11. cui, etc., whose mind and soul the Delian prophet powerfully inspires, and to whom, etc. (lit. to whom the Delian prophet breathes a great mind and soul).

12. Delius: Apollo, so called from his favorite abode at Delos.

13. Triviae: an epithet of Diana (iv. 511, 609).

14. Daedalus: his escape by flying is told by Ovid, Met. viii. 183-259; see pp. 291 ff. of the text.

17. Chalcidica arce, the heights of Cumæ: see n. on v. 2.

18. redditus: Dædalus first alighted at Cumæ.

20. letum Androgeo, etc.: Ægeus, king of Athens, had sent Androgeos, son of King Minos of Crete, to his death in an encounter with the wild bull of Marathon. As a punishment, the Athenians were forced to send every year seven youths and seven maidens to be devoured by the Minotaur, a monster, half man and half bull, whom Minos kept confined in the Labyrinth constructed for that purpose by Dædalus. Theseus, son of Ægeus, went to Crete and killed the Minotaur in the Labyrinth, with the help of Ariadne, daughter of Minos, who furnished him with a thread that he unrolled for guidance in retracing his path.—tum, next. The sculptures on the temple gates represent first two scenes in Attica: (1) the death of Androgeos and (2) the drawing of lots to determine the victims to be sent to Crete: then two scenes in Crete: (3) Pasiphaë, (4) the Labyrinth, with Theseus and Ariadne.

21. Cecropidae: Cecrops was the fabulous founder of Athens.

22. ductis sortibus, with the lots already drawn: abl. abs.

23. contra: i.e. on the other door.—mari: abl. of separation.

24. tauri, obj. genitive.—supposta furto, substituted by a trick.

27. labor ille domus, that house wondrously built: the Labyrinth. The expression labor domus resembles rotarum lapsus (ii. 235) and minae murorum (iv. 88): see the notes.—error, wanderings (its original sense).

28. reginae, the princess: i.e. the daughter of Minos, Ariadne, who fell in love with Theseus.—sed enim, but [the secret of the maze was revealed] for. For the ellipsis see i. 19, ii. 164.

29. ipse resolvit: the builder of the Labyrinth taught the princess how to unravel its mystery by the guiding clue of thread.—dolos ambagesque, deceitful windings: hendiadys.

30. vestigia: i.e. of Theseus, who thus "threaded the maze."

31. sineret dolor, had grief permitted: hort. subj. expressing a past condition contrary to fact; A. 521, b; D. 774, footnote; B. 305, 2; G. 598.—haberes: apodosis; for tense see A. 517, a; D. 798; B. 304, 2; G. 597 and R.¹

32. casus effingere: i.e. to represent Icarus' flight and falling into the Icarian Sea, to which he gave his name.* See the illustration (p. 267 of the text), from a wall painting at Pompeii.

33. omnia: two syllables.—protinus . . . perlegerent, they would have continued to peruse: for tense see n. on haberes in v. 31.

35. sacerdos: the Sibyl is priestess of Apollo, god of augury, and of Trivia (Hecate), goddess of the shades.

36. Glaucci, daughter of Glaucus.

37. ista, like those.

38. intacto: i.e. by the yoke.

39. praestiterit, it would be better: potential subj.

40. morantur, delay [to execute] the required rites.

42. antrum: there is now shown at Cumæ, as the cave of the Sibyl, a series of passages cut in the rock (aditus centum). The real cave was destroyed by the Goths (A.D. 553).

43. aditus centum: apparently a hundred passages from the hall of the outer temple to the cave.

45. ventum erat, they had come: impersonal. — virgo: the Sibyl is already in the cavern. — poscere, etc., it is time to seek the oracles from Apollo: Introd. § 73.

47. unus, the same: predicate nom. with mansere.

48. *non compta*e, etc., did not remain in its order. Her hair had been loose and flowing, but not disordered. — anhelum: sc. est.

49. maior [est] videri, she is taller to the sight (lit. to be seen): for infinitive see Introd. § 81.

50. mortale: cognate accusative. — quando (causal), for she is now inspired by the divine presence. — iam propiore, nearer and nearer.

51. cessas, do you hesitate? Supply ire.

52. neque ante: i.e. not without vows and prayers.

53. attonitae: the cavern, too, is awe-struck or inspired by presence of the god. — fata: participle.

57. direxti = direxisti.

58. Aeacidae: Achilles was slain by the arrow of Paris, directed by Apollo. — obeuntia, washing, governing terras.

60. Massylum: cf. iv. 483. — praetenta syrtibus (dat.), which line the syrtes: the fields stretch along the shore of the syrtes.

62. hac . . . tenus: often thus found separate, a relic of the usage before they grew together. — fuerit secuta, thus far (and no farther) may the fortune of Troy have pursued us: hortatory subj.

63. iam, now at last.

64. obstitit, were an offence.

66. venturi, of the future. — da considerare, grant that the Trojans settle (Introd. § 78). — non indebita fatis, due to my destinies.

68. deos: the penates.

69. templum: Virgil may be thinking of a temple of Apollo built by Augustus on the Palatine, containing the statue of that god between those of Latona and Diana.

70. festos dies: Virgil has in mind the ludi Apollinares, established 212 B.C.

71. te: the Sibyl. — penetralia, shrine, referring to the temple of Apollo at Rome in which the Sibylline books were kept.

73. lectos viros: the priests who had the care of the Sibylline books and consulted them in times of public emergency.

74. foliis ne manda: Introd. § 87. See iii. 445-452.

75. ludibria ventis, as sport for the winds: dat. of reference.

76. canas: equivalent to ut canas, but the subjunctive is really hortatory, expressing an imperative in indir. disc.; A. 565, a; D. 887, III; B. 316; G. 546, R.²

77. Phoebi . . . patiens, not yet submissive to Phœbus: the figure is that of an unruly horse. — immanis, wildly.

78. si, etc., if perchance she may: indir. quest.; cf. i. 181.

79. excussisse: the perf. inf. has the sense of the present, but is more emphatic; A. 486, e; D. 829, x.; B. 270, 2, a; G. 280, 2, b. — tanto . . . fatigat, so much the more he plies the bit in.

80. figit premendo, trains her by control.

83. periclis: abl. with defuncte (Introd. § 56).

84. terrae graviora, more dreadful perils of the land. — Lavini, of Lavinium, their future kingdom (Introd. § 10).

86. non et venisse volent, they shall not also be glad to have come.

88. Simois, Xanthus: the former is held to stand for the Tiber, and the latter for the Numicius, where Æneas perished. — non defuerint, shall not be wanting: future perfect.

89. alius Achilles: i.e. Turnus, the young king of the Rutuli, whose heroic struggle against Æneas makes the subject of the remaining books. — partus, sprung up (ready) in Latium.

90. et ipse, he too. Achilles was son of the sea-goddess Thetis; Turnus, of the nymph Venilia. — addita, a steadfast foe (lit. assigned, i.e. as an enemy).

91. cum tu, etc., while you, a suppliant, in your need shall entreat — and what tribes shall you not entreat? Æneas is made to go in search of aid to Evander, whose kingdom is on the Palatine, where was afterwards the site of Rome.

92. Italum = Italorum.

93. causa: sc. erit. — coniunx: Lavinia. — iterum: as was the case with Helen.

95. ito: the future imperative here denotes continuance. Cf. Tennyson, Princess:

I hold

That it becomes no man to nurse despair,
But in the teeth of clench'd antagonisms
To follow up the worthiest till he die.

96. qua, by whatever way.

97. quod = id quod. — Graia: Evander, whose help Æneas sought, was from Arcadia. He founded Pallanteum on the site of the later Rome. Graia is dissyllabic here. — ab, from.

99. antro : abl. of place from which.

100. ea frena, etc., thus Apollo shakes the reins over her as she raves, and plies the spurs beneath her side, continuing the figure of v. 77. — ea = sic, like the common use of adj. for adv.

104. mi : contraction of mihi (Intro. § 91, h).

105. praecepi : observe the force of prae.

107. dicitur, is said to be. — Acheronte refuso, where Acheron overflows (abl. abs.): it was the overflow of the river that was supposed to form Lake Avernus.

109. contingat, be it my lot: optative subjunctive; A. 441; D. 681, 1; B. 279; G. 260. — doceas: A. 439, a; D. 674, a; B. 275, 2; G. 263, 2, a.

112. comitatus: Intro. § 95.

114. invalidus, infirm though he was.

115. ut peterem: subst. clause of purpose in appos. with mandata.

116. idem, it was HE who. — gnati: old form of nati; genitive with miserere.

117. omnia, you can do all things: cognate acc.

118. lucis Avernus, the groves of Avernus. This is a lake near Cumæ, of volcanic origin. In all this region there remain to this day the sulphurous exhalations and other signs of volcanic action, with which the ancients connected the entrance to the Lower World.

119. si: i.e. if they could do this, why not I, who am also of divine descent? — Manis: the spirits of the dead were conceived as dwelling beneath the earth. — Orpheus: a Thracian musician who descended into the Lower World to bring back his wife Eurydice. For the story, see Georg. iv. 454–527; Ovid, Met. x. 1–77.

120. cithara, fidibus: ablatives with fretus; notice the quantity of the first i in fidibus.

121. Pollux: Castor and Pollux were famous for their fraternal affection. The former was the son of Leda and Tyndareus; the latter was the son of Leda and Jupiter and so immortal. When Castor was slain Pollux was inconsolable. Jupiter finally consented to allow the two brothers to enjoy the gift of life alternately, each spending one day under the earth and the next among the gods.

122. viam: cognate accusative. — Thesea: his object in visiting the Lower World was to carry away Proserpina.

123. Alciden: Hercules, who brought up from Hades the three-headed dog Cerberus. — mi: see note, v. 104. — ab Iove: Venus, mother of Æneas, was a daughter of Jupiter.

126. Averno: used here for the Lower World as a whole; dative of place to which.

127. Ditis: Dis or Dis Pater was the king of the Lower World, corresponding to the Greek Hades, called also Pluto. His kingdom included the good as well as the bad, so that it does not answer to the modern phrase "infernal regions."

128. revocare gradum: not that the return is difficult in itself, but that it depends on conditions which not all can attain. Cf. Paradise Lost, ii. 432-433:

Long is the way
And hard, that out of hell leads up to light.

129. hoc, hic: agree in gender with the predicate nouns opus and labor; A. 296. a; cf. B. 246. 5; G. 211. — pauci (always with negative idea), only a few.

131. potuere [sc. hoc], have been able to do this.

132. Cocytus: the ancients imagined the Lower World as bounded by awful rivers: the Styx, river of hate, by which the gods sealed their oaths; the Acheron, river of woe, with its tributaries, the Phlegethon, river of fire, and the Cocytus, river of wailing.

133. amor: for Anchises.

134. innare: after cupido est, which = cupis; cf. ii. 10, note.

135. Tartara: that part of the Lower World to which evildoers were doomed.

136. peragenda: sc. sint.

137. foliis, vimine: abl. of specification with aureus.

138. Iunoni infernae: i.e. Proserpina, wife of Pluto and queen of the World Below. See n. on Ovid, x. 28.

140. non ante datur . . . quis, it is not permitted to any one . . . until he has. — operta, the hidden regions.

141. decerpserit: fut. perf.: A. 551, c; D. 758, b; B. 291, 1; G. 574.

142. hoc sibi suum, this to be brought to her as her appropriate gift.

145. ergo, therefore, since it is indispensable. — alte, on high, cf. v. 136.

148. vincere, overcome its resistance.

149. praeterea, one thing more. — tibi: ethical dative; may be left untranslated (Introd. § 31).

152. sedibus: dat. of place to which. — ante, first. — sepulcro: abl.

154. sic demum: as usual, with a negative implication, only in this way.

155. presso ore, with fast-closed lips: abl. abs.

156. defixus lumina, with eyes cast down (Introd. § 42).

157. caecos eventus: the Sibyl's predictions, the matter of the Golden Bough, and the death of one of his companions.

159. vestigia figit: i.e. walks slowly and thoughtfully. — curis: abl. of manner.

162. diceret: an indirect question depending on the idea of questioning implied in serebant.

164. Misenum: the death of a comrade named Misenus was part of the old legend. Cape Miseno, at one extremity of the Bay of Naples, still keeps his name. One account made him the pilot of the fleet; hence the apparent confusion between him and Palinurus.

165. ciere: see note on videri, v. 49.

166. Hectora circum, by Hector's side.

167. lituo: the lituus was a curved trumpet, for cavalry; the tuba, a straight one, for infantry. Virgil uses the names indifferently (v. 233). So concha (v. 171), which is used for any wind instrument, hints at the rivalry with Triton (i. 144).

168. illum: Hector.

170. inferiora, a less noble destiny.

171. tum: at the time when he met his death.

173. aemulus Triton: in the spirit of the old mythology; whoever excels in any art is said thereby to provoke the jealousy of some deity. — exceptum immerserat, had seized and plunged. — credere: poetical use of the infinitive with dignus (Intro. § 81).

175. circum: about the body of Misenus.

177. aram sepulcri, the sepulchral mound, or funeral pile.

178. arboribus: abl. of instrument. — caelo: dative.

179. itur, they go: impersonal; cf. v. 45.

180. procumbunt, etc., they lay low the pines (lit. the pines fall).

181. fissile, the riven (lit. cleavable) oak is split.

182. montibus, from the mountains.

184. paribus armis, with like tools.

186. forte, as it happened. Since Æneas' purpose was the quest of the Golden Bough, the mention of it in the prayer is regarded as a fortunate chance.

187. si ostendat: the conclusion is omitted, as in English; that is, it is never formulated even in the mind, but left vague, so that the whole equals a wish; A. 442, a, N.¹; D. 683; G. 261, N.¹ — arbore: locative abl.

188. tanto, this great. — quando: gives the reason for the hope.

193. maternas aves: doves were sacred to Venus, and her chariot was drawn by them.

195. lucos, that part of the grove.

196. rebus, fortunes: dative.

199. tantum, only so far. — prodire volando, flew in advance, alighting here and there to feed; prodire is hist. inf.; for the gerund see A. 507; D. 879; B. 338, 4, a; G. 431.

200. quantum . . . sequentum, as the eyes of those who followed could keep them in sight (lit. could watch them by eyesight). — possent: subjunc. in a relative clause of result.

201. grave olentis, noisome. — grave: cognate accusative.

203. sedibus optatis: abl. of place where. — geminae, the pair.

204. discolor, of different hue, i.e. from the rest. — auri aura, the gleam of gold: light and air (aura) are often confused in ancient poetry (cf. iii. 600 and note). Notice the alliteration.

206. fronde: abl. of manner. — nova, strange. — non sua arbor, a tree not its own: mistletoe is a parasitic plant, apparently without roots, which grows from seeds left by birds on the bark of trees.

211. cunctantem, resisting: so it seemed to Æneas in his eager haste, though in fact the branch made no resistance; cf. v. 146.

212. nec minus, none the less because of Æneas' absence.

213. ingrato, thankless (because unresponsive). — suprema, last offices: the funeral rites here described were those usual in Rome. It was not, however, till long after Æneas that cremation instead of burial became the ordinary practice.

214. pinguem: rich in resin. — taedis: abl. of means.

216. ante, in front. Cypress was apparently first used in the funeral pile for the sake of its aromatic odor. Boughs of it were also set in front of the door of the dead man's dwelling; here they seem to be set up for adornment in front of the pile.

217. armis: from an old and very general notion that these things went with the departed spirit, and were used by the dead in Hades.

219. frigentis, cold in death: more poetic than mortui.

221. purpureas vestes: a custom at great Roman funerals. — nota, accustomed: i.e. those he wore in his life.

222. subiere, took up.

223. ministerium: accusative, in appos. with the preceding clause; the usual construction in such cases. — subiectam, beneath, i.e. at the base of the pyre.

224. aversi, turning away their faces, as was the custom.

225. olivo: abl. of material. — fuso: i.e. these were poured on as a libation.

228. Corynaeus: apparently a priest.

229. socios, etc.: poetical for undam circum socios tulit.

231. lustravit: purified the company from the pollution of the presence of a corpse. — novissima verba: salve, vale, ave (cf. i. 219, ii. 644), with sometimes other words, like sit tibi terra levis, ilicet, or the like.

234. monte aërio: a promontory, several hundred feet high, on the Bay of Naples; it is called Capo Miseno to-day.

238. tuta, sheltered: part. of tueor, in a passive sense.

239. haud ullae volantes, no flying creatures: just in this neighborhood is situated the famous grotta del cane, in which dogs and other small animals are smothered by the carbonic acid accumulated along the bottom.

242. This verse is not in the best manuscripts. — Aornon: formerly supposed to be from ἄορνος (aornos), Greek for birdless. The Latin name corresponding to Aornon is Avernum; but the connection with the Greek word is impossible.

244. fronti invergit, pours upon the forehead: vergere, when used of pouring, signifies that the cup is completely turned upside down, as in offering to the infernal deities; while fundere is simply to pour out, the hand being held palm upwards.

245. saetas: the long hairs between the horns were plucked out and burnt as a first-offering (libamina prima), while certain prayers were said.

247. caelo: locative abl. Hecate, as the moon-goddess, was caelo potens.

248. supponunt: the action of placing the knife beneath belongs to the worship of the gods below.

249. suscipiunt: the blood is caught in bowls, and poured out with special solemnity, — not suffered to stream upon the ground.

250. matri Eumenidum: the mother of the Furies is Night, and her sister is Earth. Cf. iv. 469, note.

251. ense ferit: the sword no doubt had a magic power over the inhabitants of the world below.

252. Stygio regi: Pluto. — nocturnas: night was the regular time for sacrifices to the gods of the Lower World.

253. solida: the whole victim was burned in sacrifice to the gods below, since, after being devoted to them, no part could be eaten.

255. sub, just at, just before.

256. iuga silvarum, the ridges covered with forests. — coepta [sunt] moveri: A. 205, a; D. 263, a; B. 133, 1; G. 423, N.³

257. canes: these are the infernal hounds of Hecate.

258. dea: Hecate. — procul, etc.: the words regularly addressed to the uninitiated at the mysteries, but here addressed to the companions of Æneas, who were not like him entitled to visit the world below.

260. tu: opposed to profani, above.

261. animis, courage (Intro. § 57).

262. tantum, so much, and no more, as often. — se immisit, plunged.

263. ducem aequat, keeps pace with his guide.

264. umbrae (vocative), ghosts, as being only the "shadows" of persons.

265. Chaos: the Lower World. — Phlegethon: see note on v. 132. — nocte: abl. of manner or cause.

266. sit fas, permit. — audita loqui, to tell what I have heard. Virgil professes to follow the common tradition as to the World Below. — sit: sc. fas.

267. altā terrā, deep in the earth.

268. obscuri, in the darkness.

269. vacuas: i.e. destitute of real life and blood.

270. quale est iter, even as one makes one's way (lit. as the way is). — maligna, niggardly.

272. rebus: dat. with abstulit.

273. vestibulum: as in ii. 469. — primis faucibus, in the very jaws: at some distance underground from the place where Æneas and his companion entered the cave.

274. Luctus: these woes are at the door, as causing the death of men — Curæ: i.e. the stings of conscience personified.

Man's feeble race what ills await,
Labor and Penury, the racks of Pain,
Disease, and Sorrow's weeping train,
And Death, sad refuge from the storms of Fate.

GRAY, Progress of Poesy, vv. 42-45.

Fig. 51

276. malesuada, tempting to crime. — turpis, unsightly.

277. Labos: archaic for Labor.

278. mala Gaudia, sinful joys. — Leti: in the Iliad Sleep and Death, the Sons of Night, are twin brothers (xiv. 231, xvi. 672). See Fig. 51 (from a vase painting), which represents the body of Memnon in the hands of the brothers Sleep and Death. The idea is a favorite one with modern poets. Of countless examples two typical ones may suffice:

Care-charmer Sleep, son of the sable Night,
Brother to Death, in silent darkness born.

DANIEL, Delia, sonnet xlv.

When in the down I sink my head,
Sleep, Death's twin-brother, times my breath;
Sleep, Death's twin-brother, knows not Death,
Nor can I dream of thee as dead.

TENNYSON, In Memoriam, lxvii.

279. adverso in limine, on the very threshold (lit. on the threshold in front).

280. Eumenidum thalami: the Furies sleep at the threshold (iv. 473), but their avenging task is done in Tartarus (v. 570). — ferrei (dissyllabic here): from their implacable nature and inevitable power.

281. crinem: Introd. § 43.

282. in medio: sc. vestibulo.

283. quam . . . ferunt, which, they say, vain dreams flocking everywhere (volgo) have for their abode.

286. Scyllae biformes: see iii. 426.

287. Briareus: a hundred-handed giant. — belua: the Hydra, a nine-headed water-serpent, slain by Hercules as the second of his Twelve Labors.

288. horrendum: cognate acc. — Chimaera: a fire-breathing monster slain by Bellerophon. It had the head of a lion; a goat's head projected from the middle of its body; and the hind part of its body was that of a dragon.

All monstrous, all prodigious things,
Abominable, inutterable, and worse
Than fables yet have feign'd, or fear conceiv'd, Gorgons, and Hydras, and Chimæras dire.

Paradise Lost, ii. 625-628.

289. Gorgones: the three daughters of the sea-god Phorcus. They had snaky hair, and their glance turned him who looked at them into stone. One of the Gorgons was Medusa, whom Perseus killed. — Harpyiae: see iii. 212. — forma: the Spanish giant Geryon, slain by Hercules, who carried off his famous herd of oxen.

294. admoneat: the pres. for the imperf. in a cond. contrary to fact makes the supposition vivid; A. 517, e; D. 799; G. 596, R.¹ Cf. i. 58, v. 325, and notes.

295. hinc: Æneas has now passed through the vestibulum. — Acherontis: Acheron, "the joyless," is the stream that embraces the whole of the Lower World. In Virgil's mind it is not kept distinct from the other infernal rivers, Cocytus ("Wailing Lamentation") and Styx ("Squalid Grief"), v. 323.

296. caeno: abl. of means. — vasta voragine, of abyssal depth (lit. vast abyss): abl. of quality.

297. Cocyto: dative of place to which.

299. squalore: Charon's squalid appearance agrees with the ancient ideas and habits of mourning (cf. i. 480, note). Dante (Inferno, iii. 82 ff.) imitates Virgil's description of Charon, making him the ferryman who conducts the souls of the damned over Acheron to Hell. — cui mento, on whose chin (lit. to whom on the chin): the relative cui is dat. of reference.

300. stant lumina flamma, his eyes stand out in flame: i.e. are like fixed balls of fire.

301. nodo (abl. of manner): another indication of neglect (and therefore a sign of mourning).

302. ipse: with his own hand, old as he is. — velis (abl.) ministrat, tends the sails (lit. serves the boat with sails).

304. deo [sc. est]: dat. of possession.

305. ad ripas effusa, hurrying to the banks.

306. defunctā vitā, that had ended life: for abl. see Introd. § 56.

307. magnanimum: gen. plur. (Introd. § 91, c).

309. quam multa, as many as. — frigore: abl. of time.

310. gurgite ab alto: i.e. as they reach land in their migrations.

313. orantes, etc.: the inf. with oro (instead of an obj. clause with ut) is poetical (Introd. § 78). — primi agrees (irregularly) with the subject. In transmittere cursum, to make the passage across, cursum is obj. of trans and transmittere = se transmittere.

315. navita: "that grim ferryman that poets write of" (Richard III, i. 4. 46).

318. quid volt, what means? So Fr. "Que veut dire?"

319. discrimine, choice, i.e. criterion.

320. hae: those whom Charon has rejected.

321. longaeva: the Sibyl, said the legend, had received the gift of as many years as the grains of sand which she held in her hand, but without the boon of youth.

322. certissima, most surely.

323. Cocyti stagna alta, Stygiam paludem: two expressions for the same sluggish river. Cf. Milton, Paradise Lost, ii. 577–580:

Abhorred Styx, the flood of deadly hate;
Sad Acheron, of sorrow, black and deep;
Cocytus, nam'd of lamentation loud
Heard on the rueful stream.

324. numen is poetically used as obj. of a verb of swearing (A. 388, d; cf. D. 408, N.; B. 176, 4, a; G. 333, 2, R.); cf. v. 351. It means literally divinity or divine nature. Virgil ascribes divinity to the Styx, just as every earthly river was thought to have its own god. — fallere, to deceive, is the regular expression for taking an oath with intent to break or evade it: — by whose sacred stream even the gods fear to swear and break their oath.

325. inops: perhaps this is an allusion to the piece of money with which the dead were furnished to pay their passage. (See figure, p. 205, above.) — inhumata: the unburied, it was believed, were not allowed to enter the Lower World.

327. ripas, nor is it granted to convey them over the dread banks and hoarse flood, until, etc.

328. sedibus quierunt, have found rest in the tomb.

332. animi, in his heart (locative); A. 358; D. 488; B. 232, 3; G. 374, N.⁷

333. mortis honore: i.e. burial.

334. Oronten: see i. 113. Leucaspis is not elsewhere mentioned by Virgil; he seems to have perished along with Orontes.

335. simul: i.e. with himself. — vectos, sailing, in the sense of a present participle.

337. sese agebat, came walking. — Palinurus: see v. 833 ff.

339. exciderat . . . effusus, had fallen overboard headlong.

343. mihi: dat. of agent with repertus.

344. hoc uno responso: some such oracle may have been in one of the legends, but it is not mentioned elsewhere by Virgil. Neptune had announced to Venus (v. 813) that the fleet would come safe, with the loss of only one man.

345. ponto incolumem, safe on the sea (loc. abl.). — finis Ausonios: acc. of place to which.

348. nec deus mersit: Palinurus does not know that it was the god of Sleep that threw him over (v. 859); nor did he perish by the sea (v. 358). It was by accident (forte), he thinks, that he fell overboard.

349. gubernaculum: obj. of traxi in v. 351.

350. cui, etc.: to which I was clinging, having been assigned as its guardian, and [by which] I was guiding our course. The relative cui serves as indir. obj. of both datus and haerebam.

351. maria: same construction as numen in v. 324.

352. timorem: subject of cepisse; sc. me as object of cepisse.

353. quam tua . . . navis, as that your ship, stripped of her equipment, and having cast off her pilot (lit. wrenched from her pilot), might swamp in those surging waves. — ne deficeret: A. 564; D. 720, 11; B. 296, 2; G. 550. — armis: i.e. the tiller. — magistro: dative of separation.

355. tris noctes: so Ulysses floats two days and two nights (Od. v. 388; Bry. 465). The woodwork of the stern serves Palinurus as a sort of raft.

356. aqua: abl. of specification with violentus.

357. sublimis ab unda: i.e. raised high on a wave, from the crest of which, etc.

358. tuta tenebam, ni, I was just reaching safety [and should have been safe], had not, etc.: A. 517, b; D. 797; G. 597, R.²

359. gravatum: sc. me.

360. capita montis: the crags of the cliff; he was half out of water, grasping at the protuberances of the cliffs with hands bent and stiff (uncis manibus).

361. praedam, a prize: i.e. a shipwrecked man with some of his property about him.

362. fluctus habet: see v. 871.

363. quod te oro, but I implore you (see ii. 141 and note).

365. aut tu . . . aut tu: observe the emphasis and urgency expressed in the repetition of the pronoun, which is not itself emphatic. — terram inice: a mere formal burial was sufficient.

366. portus Velinos: on the coast of Lucania.

370. undas: i.e. of the Styx.

371. ut saltem quiescam: since I could not rest in life, having failed to reach the promised land with you.

373. tam dira cupido, so wild a wish.

377. cape, take to your heart for consolation. — dicta, my words.

379. prodigiis acti: it is said that the people of Lucania, suffering from pestilence, were commanded by an oracle to propitiate by sacrifice the shade of Palinurus.

381. Palinuri: a headland on the coast still bears the name Punta di Palinuro.

384. ergo: i.e. since they have quieted Palinurus.

385. iam inde ut prospexit, at once when he espied.

389. iam istinc, right from where you are: come no nearer.

392. euntem, when he came (lit. going on his journey to fetch Cerberus).

393. Pirithoum: he accompanied his friend Theseus to the Lower World to carry off Proserpine.

394. invicti viribus, resistless in might: my opposition to them would be vain. — essent: A. 527, e; D. 806, N.; cf. B. 309, 6; G. 605, N.

395. Tartareum custodem, the watch-dog of Tartarus, Cerberus. — ille: Hercules.

396. a solio regis, from the monarch's very throne, to which Cerberus is supposed to have fled, breaking his chain.

397. hi: Theseus and Pirithous. — dominam: Proserpine. — Ditis: limiting thalamo.

398. Amphrysia: Apollo, by whose gift the Sibyl was inspired, is called "the shepherd of Amphrysus," a river in the dominions of Admetus, whose flocks he kept. See Lowell's poem The Shepherd of King Admetus.

400. licet: i.e. for all we shall do to prevent. The subject of licet is the clause ingens . . . umbras.

401. aeternum latrans, barking eternally: aeternum is cognate acc.

402. casta, chastely: predicate adj. — patrui: Proserpine was the daughter of Jupiter, and Pluto was his brother.

404. imas ad umbras, to the shades below.

407. tumida: with corda.

408. nec plura his, nor more than this she said.—donum: for Proserpine; see v. 142.

409. tempore: A. 414, 424, f; D. 475, 477; B. 223, 357, 1; G. 403, N.⁴—visum: not often did visitors come bearing this gift for Proserpine.

411. iuga, benches of the boat.

412. laxat foros, clears the gangways.—alveo: dissyllabic (Introd. § 115).

414. sutillis: the traditional notion of Charon's boat was got from Egypt, where light boats are made, like Moses' ark, of bulrushes or of the papyrus.—paludem: i.e. water from the marsh.

415. incolumis: accusative.

416. glauca, gray: naturally no green thing could be found in the place of shades.—in: to be taken with both limo and ulva; such dislocations of words are common in poetry.

417. latratu trifauci, with the barking from his three throats. Cerberus had three heads, a dragon's tail, and snakes for hair on his neck.

418. adverso, facing them.

420. melle . . . offam, a cake soporific with honey and medicinal plants: see iv. 486.

421. famē: notice the long e (see iii. 218, note).

422. objectam, when thrown (in his way).

424. sepulto, buried [in sleep]: cf. iii. 630.

425. inremeabilis, not to be recrossed: a usual epithet of the Styx, "from whose bourn no traveller returns."

427. in limine primo: following Virgil, Dante (Inferno, iv. 35) places just beyond the Styx the souls of pagans and unbaptized infants.

428. vitae: objective genitive with exsortes.

430. crimine, accusation.—damnati mortis, condemned to death (Introd. § 19).

431. nec sine sorte, sine iudice: a kind of hendiadys, as if it were "judges selected by lot." The unjustly slain have now an impartial trial.

432. quaesitor: the trial is represented as according to the usage of the Roman courts, not according to the Greek myth, which gave a bench consisting of three judges, Minos, Rhadamanthus, and Æacus. Here, Minos is the quaesitor, or President of the Court; the lots are drawn (urnam movet) to select the jurors (iudice includes both the quaesitor and the jury) who are to pass judgment on the person on trial; while the concilium silentium is the panel of jurors (iudices), when they have been selected from the shades themselves, the fellow citizens of the accused.—urnam movet, shakes the urn (i.e. to mix up the names).—silentium: old form for silentium.

433. discit: the investigation must not be thought of according to our proceedings, but as more like the French, in which the court is the agent of the government to detect and punish. Hence, here, the judge himself conducts a preliminary investigation embracing the whole life and conduct of the criminal, and not limited as with us to the particular offence.

435. insontes : i.e. having done nothing worthy of death. — manu, by their own hands.

436. proicere, cast away. — quam vellent, how they would wish : subj. imperf. of a hopeless wish ; A. 447, I, N. ; D. 685 ; cf. B. 280, 4 ; G. 258, N.¹ In Od. xi. 489–491, Bry. 600, Achilles is made to say, "Would I might rather be a bondman of the soil under a poor man without lot or substance than lord of all the perished dead." Cf. Charles Lamb's essay, New Year's Eve. — aethere in alto : i.e. on earth.

437. nunc (emphatic) : as opposed to their feeling when alive. — pau-periem, labores : the hardships from which men have sought escape in death. Suicide was a sort of epidemic among the later Romans ; and it was perhaps a part of Virgil's purpose to impress a wholesome horror of it.

438, 439. palus, Styx : two expressions for the same river, as in v. 323. — noviens : cf. Milton, Paradise Lost, ii. 434–436 :

This huge convex of fire,
Outrageous to devour, immures us round Ninefold.

440. fusi, spread out (in order to give room for solitude).

442. quos, those whom : its antecedent is the implied object of celant.

443. secreti, retired. — myrtea, because the myrtle was sacred to Venus.

445. Phaedram, etc. These personages were : Phædra, who hanged herself for love of her stepson Hippolytus ; Procris, who was jealous of her husband Cephalus and was accidentally shot by him with an arrow ; Eriphyle, who was bribed to send her husband Amphiaraus on the expedition against Thebes, in which he was killed, and was slain by her son ; Evadne, who perished on the funeral pile of her husband Capaneus ; Pasiphaë, mother of the Minotaur ; Laodamia, wife of Protesilaus, who killed herself on hearing of his death at Troy (see Wordsworth's Laodamia) ; Cænis, a maiden, loved by Neptune : she was changed into the youth Cæneus and then back again into a maiden.

446. nati volnera : the wounds inflicted by her son.

447. his : dat. of reference with comes.

450. recens a volnere, her wound still fresh.

451. quam : governed by iuxta and agnovit.

453. obscuram, dim among the shadows. — qualem . . . lunam, as when, in the early part of the month, one sees (or thinks he has seen) the moon rise through the clouds.

456. verus nuntius: perhaps the flame of her funeral pile (v. 3-7), from which they might infer the fact, or we may suppose the news to have come by ordinary channels. The emphasis is on verus.

457. extinctam [esse]: sc. te. — extrema secutam [esse], had tried the last resource (i.e. death). Cf. extrema pati, i. 219.

458. funeris (emphatic), was it death I brought on you?

459. si qua fides, and by whatever faith: i.e. object which would sanction an oath.

462. senta situ, rough with neglect.

463. egere: notice the first e long, distinguishing the verb from ēgeo. — nec credere quivi, nor could I have believed.

464. hunc tantum, so great as this.

466. extremum . . . hoc est, these are — by fate — the last words that I can speak to you: i.e. fate has decreed that I shall never have another opportunity. — fato: abl. of cause. — quod: cognate acc.

467. ardentem et torva tumentem animum, the wrathful and fiercely gazing soul. — torva is cognate acc. used adverbially.

468. lenibat = leniebat: conative imperf. — lacrimas ciebat, shed tears.

471. silex, cautes: pred. nom. with stet = sit. — stet: A. 524; D. 803; B. 307, I; G. 602. — Marpesia cautes: Marpēsus was a mountain of Paros; so that the pale, unmoved figure of Dido is compared to Parian marble.

473. illi: dat. of reference.

474. respondet: i.e. shows loving sympathy for her sorrows; "answers all her cares, and equals all her love" (Dryden).

477. datum molitur iter, pursues the appointed way (not granted).

478. ultima, the last before coming to the regions of blessedness and of torment. — secreta, apart (se-cerno).

479. Tydeus, Parthenopaeus, Adrastus: heroes of the legendary war of the Seven against Thebes, the chief event of the time immediately before the Trojan War.

481. ad superos, among mortal men (lit. men above, i.e. in this world).

484. Cereri sacrum: i.e. as a priest.

487. usque, still.

488. conferre gradum, to walk by his side.

492. petiere rates: the Grecian ships had been drawn up on the shore at Troy, and furnished a place of refuge. — tollere vocem exiguam, raise their piping voice, attempting the war-cry. So Homer speaks of the thin voice of the shades; cf. Shakspeare, Hamlet, i. i. 115-116:

The sheeted dead

Did squeak and gibber in the Roman streets.

493. frustratur, disappoints, because they have no voice. — hiantis, their open mouths.

495. Deiphobum: see note, ii. 310. There were various legends of his death. The mutilation was merely savage revenge. The shade shows the wounds received by the body. — ora, manus, tempora, nares: acc. of specification with lacerum (Introd. § 42). So the ghost of Banquo appears to Macbeth with the "twenty trenched gashes on his head" (Macbeth. iii. 4. 27, 81).

498. vix adeo agnovit, he could scarce so much as recognize.

499. notis, familiar.

501. optavit sumere, has chosen to inflict.

502. cui, etc.: i.e. who has been permitted (by the gods) such outrages upon you? — tantum: subject of licuit.

503. tulit, reported.

505. tumulum, etc.: an empty tomb (cenotaph); such rites would allow the shade to cross the Styx; cf. iii. 62, note; vi. 327 f.

506. ter: see note, v. 231.

507. arma: cf. v. 233. — te: emphatic, as opposed to the tomb; hence not elided, but merely shortened before amice (Introd. § 109).

509. tibi relictum, left undone by thee.

510. Deiphobo, funeris umbris: i.e. both to the man himself (which would be friendship) and to the shade of the dead (which would be a religious duty).

511. Lacaenae, the woman from Sparta (Helen).

512. haec monumenta, these memorials, the ghastly mutilations.

513. ut, how: introduces an indirect question.

514. nimum, etc., you must needs too well remember.

515. venit: see ii. 237-238.

516. alvo: abl. of place.

517. illa: Helen. — chorum, a festive dance. — euhantis orgia, shouting the wild cry of the [Bacchic] orgies. — orgia: cogn. acc. with euhantis.

518. flamnam tenebat: in ii. 256 it is said that the signal was given from Agamemnon's ship. In like manner cf. v. 525 with ii. 571-574. Virgil leaves us to settle the contradictions (if there are any) as we can.

523. coniunx: after the death of Paris, Helen was married to Deiphobus.

526. amanti, to her fond husband (Menelaus).

529. Aeolides: a name of insult for Ulysses, hinting that his real father was not Laertes, but the crafty Sisyphus, son of Æolus. — talìa, such sufferings.

532. pelagi erroribus: Deiphobus was, of course, ignorant of Æneas' voyage or his settlement in Italy. The question is imitated from Homer, who places the world of shadows beyond the Ocean, whither only wandering could bring a man. The alternative is, whether Æneas has come hither by mere chance of travel or by divine direction.

534. adires : the imperf. is used because fatigat has also the sense of the perf., "has pursued and still pursues." — turbida, gloomy: the opposite of liquida, which means bright and clear; cf. Job, x. 21-22.

535. hac vice sermonum, during this conversation (lit. interchange of speeches).

536. medium axem : a night appears to have been spent in the preliminary sacrifices, and it is now past noon of the next day.

537. traherent, they would have spent; contrary to fact condition: for tense see A. 517, a; D. 798; B. 304, 2; G. 597, R.¹ The construction changes at sed, and so no formal protasis appears.

540. via findit, etc.: the two regions are the inner courts of the Underworld, the proper places of reward and punishment; but why the shades previously mentioned should be excluded does not appear.

541. dextera : sc. est.

542. Elysium : acc. of end of motion, after iter [est].

543. exercet poenas, inflicts the doom: i.e. by sending them to Tartarus (which is expressed in the coördinate clause mittit, etc.).

545. explebo numerum : i.e. of the shades (by returning to my place among them).

548. respicit, looks off (i.e. away from where he stands; not looks back).

549. moenia, a fortress or vast castle used as a dungeon, to which Phlegethon, the river "blazing with flame," serves as a moat. The image is drawn from a torrent of lava.

552. porta : sc. est.

553. bello : i.e. with the engines of war.

554. stat ad auras, rises toward the sky: i.e. (since this is the Lower World) rises high. — ferrea turris, a tower or "keep" of iron, rising high in the midst.

555. Tisiphone : one of the three Furies.

557. exaudiri, sonare : historical infinitives.

558. tractae catenae, of clanking chains (lit. of a dragged chain).

560. facies (plur.), forms.

566. Rhadamanthus : like Minos, he was a famous Cretan hero, said to have been made a judge in the world below. Here he appears in the character of a Roman quaesitor parricidii, trying greater offenders than those who come before Minos. The criminals are supposed to have contrived to conceal their guilt during life (furto lactatus inani).

567. castigat : this does not refer to punishment, but to the upbraiding, menacing language of the judge, which was perhaps accompanied with torture (subigitque fateri). There is therefore no real hysteron proteron (cf. n. on ii. 353). — dolos, dark ways, i.e. their secret crimes.

568, 569. quae quis, etc., the crimes which any one, rejoicing in vain concealment, has committed on earth, and the atonement for which he has put off till death — too late. — apud superos: cf. ad superos in v. 481. — quae commissa piacula, the committed guilt, which, equivalent to commissa quorum piacula.

570. continuo: as soon as Rhadamanthus has passed judgment. — sontis: obj. of insultans.

571. Tisiphone: the eldest of the Furies, who opens the awful doors (sacrae portae) of Tartarus. — quatit, scourges.

572. anguis: acc. plural.

573. horrissono cardine: cf. Milton's celebrated imitation, Paradise Lost, ii. 879–882:

On a sudden open fly,
With impetuous recoil and jarring sound,
Th' infernal doors, and on their hinges grate Harsh thunder.

574. custodia: Tisiphone: within is the Hydra, fiercer than she; and still beyond, Tartarus itself, more dreadful than either.

575. facies quae, what a shape.

576. hiatibus: the gaping jaws of the several heads.

578. bis patet . . . quantus, yawns straight downward and extends into the darkness twice as far as is, etc.

579. suspectus ad Olympum, the upward look to Olympus.

580. pubes: the Titans, sons of Earth, who warred with the gods and were cast down into Tartarus.

581. fulmine: the thunderbolt of Jupiter.

582. Aloidas, sons of Aloeus, — Otus and Ephialtes, who in their war against the gods tried to reach heaven by piling Ossa on Olympus and Pelion on Ossa.

583. corpora: in apposition with Aloidas.

585. Salmonea: king of Elis, brother of Sisyphus, who contemptuously imitated the thunder and lightning of Jupiter. — dantem, who suffered.

586. dum imitatur = imitantem, i.e. punished for imitating the thunders of Jupiter (so qui . . . simularet below).

588. per Elidis urbem: i.e. Olympia, built in especial honor of Zeus; thus the affront was increased.

591. aere, either a brazen chariot, as was that of Salmoneus, driven over a bridge, or vessels of "sounding brass." — simularet: a relative clause expressing cause. Cf. Dryden, Astræa Redux, vv. 197–198:

Which durst with horses' hoofs that beat the ground
And martial brass belie the thunder's sound.

593. non ille faces, etc., and it was no firebrand that HE threw, no torch with smoky light (lit. not firebrands HE, nor lights smoky with torches): his was no mere imitation of thunder and lightning.

594. immani turbine: i.e. the mighty whirling thunderbolt.

595. nec non et, and likewise. — Tityon: Tityos offered violence to Latona and was killed by Apollo and Diana.

596. cernere erat, one might see, by a common Greek construction. — iugera, the iugerum was about half an acre (240 feet by 120).

598. iecur: the liver, as the supposed seat of lust, is fitly the organ attacked. — fecunda poenis, fertile for torture: dat. of purpose.

599. rimatur epulis, tears at his banquet: dat. akin to end of motion.

600. renatis: as fast as they are devoured they grow again.

601. Lapithas: a tribe of Thessaly famous for their war with the Centaurs. — Ixiona, Pirithoum: Ixion was king of the Lapithæ, and Pirithous was his son. Ixion insulted Juno, and Pirithous (with Theseus) tried to carry off Proserpine.

602. iam, etc., now, even now, tottering and seeming to fall (lit. about to slip and like [one] falling). A hypermetric line (Intro. § 114).

603. genialibus toris, banqueting couches, especially those set for the birthday festival; dat. of reference.

604. fulcra, props or supports (gold-footed frames for couches).

605. maxima: sc. natu.

606. manibus: with contingere.

Fill high the sparkling bowl,
The rich repast prepare,
Reft of a crown, he yet may share the feast:
Close by the regal chair
Fell Thirst and Famine scowl
A baleful smile upon their baffled guest.

GRAY, The Bard, vv. 77-82.

608. hic quibus, here [are they] to whom, etc.: the relative quibus (dat. with invisi) goes also with pulsatus [est] and innexa [est], with which it serves as dat. of agent. — invisi [erant] fratres: like Atreus and Thyestes.

609. pulsatus parens: the act of striking a parent was regarded with peculiar horror. — clienti: the client had a certain sacred claim to the protection of his patronus.

610. qui . . . repertis: those who have found a treasure, and kept it all to their selfish use, — a type of all who are greedy of gain. — incubueret, hoarded.

612. arma impia: i.e. civil war.

613. dextras, trust (the pledge of the right hand), referring to servile insurrection; cf. fallere numen, v. 324.

615. poenam: sc. expectant (in prose, expectent): indirect question; so mersit. — quae forma fortunave mersit, what form [of crime] or what fortune has overwhelmed them.

616. saxum, etc.: this was the punishment of Sisyphus, — to roll a rock uphill, only to have it roll back when he reached the top. Cf. Thomson, Castle of Indolence, i. 12:

Come, ye who still the cumbrous load of life
Push hard up hill, but as the furthest steep
You trust to gain, and put an end to strife,
Down thunders back the stone with mighty sweep,
And hurls your labors to the valley deep.

617. districti: fastened with their limbs strained apart, — the commonly reported punishment of Ixion.

618. Theseus: punished for his crime in attempting to carry off Proserpine. — Phlegyas: he burned the temple of Apollo at Delphi.

621. vendidit, imposuit: these were the special crimes of a period of civil war, such as Rome had just passed through.

622. fixit, refixit, made and unmade (lit. set up and tore down): laws were published by being posted up on brazen tablets, and when repealed were taken down again.

624. auso potiti, gained what they had dared (Introd. § 56).

625. sint: equivalent to a present condition contrary to fact.

629. susceptum munus: the task of hanging up the Golden Bough at the entrance to Pluto's palace as an offering to Proserpine (see vv. 142, 636).

630. Cyclopum educta caminis (abl. of separation): i.e. wrought at the forges of the Cyclops. The walls of Pluto were supposed to have been built of iron or steel.

631. adverso fornice, with their arch in front of me: abl. of quality.

632. praecepta, the instructions given by the gods.

634. medium, intervening.

635. corpus spargit: the water stands ready for ceremonial purification, as in the vestibule of a temple.

640. largior . . . purpureo, here the atmosphere clothes the fields with freer air and with glowing light. Cf. Milton, Comus, vv. 4-6:

In regions mild of calm and serene air,
Above the smoke and stir of this dim spot,
Which men call earth.

— largior, with freer air, agrees with the subject but is practically adverbial and belongs in the predicate. — et: this connects the two ideas of freedom (largior) and brilliancy (lumine purpureo).

642-647. Imitated by Milton in his account of the fallen angels in hell, Paradise Lost, ii. 528 ff.:

Part on the plain, or in the air sublime
 Upon the wing, or in swift race contend,
 As at the Olympian games or Pythian fields;
 Part curb their fiery steeds, or shun the goal
 With rapid wheels, or fronted brigads form.

. Others more mild,
 Retreated in a silent valley, sing
 With notes angelical to many a harp
 Their own heroic deeds and hapless fall
 By doom of battle.

644. pedibus plaudunt choreas, dance a measure (lit. beat the dance with their feet). — choreas: cogn. acc.

645. Threicius sacerdos: Orpheus, "the Thracian bard" (Paradise Lost, vii. 34), the mythic father of song and institutor of the Orphic mysteries. — longa: as a priest.

646. obloquitur, etc., accompanies their strains with the seven notes (on his lyre). — numeris: dat. with obloquitur.

647. eadem: grammatically referring to discrimina, but really referring to the tune as a whole as both played and sung. — pectine: so called because inserted among the strings of the harp like the "comb" among the threads of the loom.

651. arma . . . inanis, he (Æneas) gazes from afar upon the phantom arms and chariots of the heroes.

653. quae gratia, etc., the same fondness which they had for chariots and arms when living. — currum: gen. pl.

657. vescentis, feasting. — choro: abl. of manner.

658. superne volvitur, flows in the world above. The Eridanus (Po) was held to have its rise in the infernal regions. In fact, near its source it flows underground for about two miles. — plurimus amnis, mighty river.

660. manus . . . passi, the band [of those] who suffered: A. 286, b; D. 501; B. 235, B, 2, c; G. 211, R.¹, exc. a. Cf. i. 212, v. 108.

662. vates, poets. — Phoebo: Apollo was the god of poetry.

663. vitam excoluere, etc., adorned or ennobled human life by skilful inventions (lit. arts discovered).

664. qui . . . merendo, who by their deserts have made men (lit. some men) remember them: i.e. the benefactors of mankind.

665. vitta: i.e. as if victors in the games.

667. Musaeum: selected as being the mythical father of poets. — nam: introducing the reason why the priestess addressed him particularly; the respect in which he is held indicates a corresponding distinction.

668. umeris: abl. of manner, not degree of difference.

670. illius ergo, on account of him: Introd. § 23.
672. atque, and at once.
675. fert ita, so promptly.
676. sistam: Musæus is to leave them when they have passed the ridge and the way is in sight.
677. ante (adv.), ahead.
678. dehinc: monosyllabic (Introd. § 115).
680. ituras, destined to go: the doctrine of metempsychosis, here hinted at, is further developed later.
681. lustrabat recolens, surveyed thoughtfully.
683. manus, deeds, i. e. martial exploits.
684. adversum, toward him.
690. ducebam animo, I was considering.
691. mea cura, my fond hope.
692. per: with terras as well as with aequora.
694. quam metui: and yet Anchises must have known that Æneas went to Africa by divine direction, and that his course to Italy was safe. The verse expresses, however, a father's natural anxiety. — quid (cognate acc.) tibi nocerent, do you some injury.
695. tua imago: the visions of Anchises, seen by Æneas in dreams: cf. iv. 351, v. 722.
697. stant sale, etc., ride on the Tuscan wave: the ships are still afloat, not hauled up on shore as at the end of a voyage.
698. amplexu: probably dative.
- 700-702. Repeated from ii. 792-794.
705. Lethaeum amnem: see Hamlet, i. 4. 32-34. Cf. the famous description in Paradise Lost, ii. 582-586.
706. volabant, flitted: the word expresses the noiseless and hurried movement of the spirits. The faint sound they make is compared to the humming of bees in summer.
710. horrescit, starts.
711. quae . . . porro, what this river in the distance is.
713. altera . . . debentur, bodies are assigned by fate once more (a second time). These souls are to live a second life on earth and are made to drink of Lethe in order to forget their former life.
718. quo . . . reperta, that you may the more delight with me in Italy, [now] found [at last]. For abl. see A. 431; D. 462; B. 219, 1; G. 408.
719. anne . . . animas, what! are we to think that spirits go hence on high to [the light of] heaven?
721. lucis . . . cupido, so wild a desire of life. Contempt of life, real or affected, was part of the old philosophic creed.
723. suscipit, replies.

724. principio, in the first place. — terras : i.e. the earth as a whole.

725. Titania astra : i.e. the sun.

726. spiritus intus alit, a spirit within sustains (i.e. keeps alive, vitalizes). Many ancient philosophers taught that the universe was permeated by a vital force (the anima mundi), which was the primary cause of all life and motion. — infusa per artus mens, mind diffused through the members.

727. mens : the spiritus just mentioned, but a more definite term, suggesting an intelligent soul. Cf. Thomson, Castle of Indolence, ii. 47 :

Eternal, never-resting soul,
Almighty power, and all-directing day,
By whom each atom stirs and planets roll,
Who fills, surrounds, informs, and agitates the whole.

— agitat molem, gives motion to the whole mass. — magno corpore, with the vast frame (of the universe).

728. inde genus, etc. : the mingling of spirit with a material body of the world is what causes organic or individual life. — volantum = volantium.

729. et . . . pontus, and the strange shapes which the ocean brings forth.

730. igneus . . . seminibus (dat. of possession), these seeds [of life] have a fiery force and a heavenly origin. — seminibus : this refers to the vital principle embodied in the various forms of living beings just mentioned, which is derived from the spiritus (or mens) that pervades and animates the universe. This spiritus is here identified with the heavenly aether, which is regarded as pure flame. Thus all creatures have a nature that consists essentially of this celestial fire, though (as Anchises goes on to explain) their gross bodies hinder its free action.

731. quantum, etc., so far as their harmful bodies do not hamper them, and their earthy limbs and mortal frames do not make them dull (or sluggish). The meaning is, that the gross nature of the body thwarts or impedes the free action of the spirit. Cf. Shakspeare, Merchant of Venice, v. i. 64, 65 :

But whilst this muddy vesture of decay
Doth grossly close it in.

Henry More, the English Platonist, in his poem on the Præexistence of the Soul, stanza 3, calls the soul

A spark or ray of the Divinity
Clouded in earthy fogs, yclad in clay.

733. hinc metuunt, etc., hence (i.e. from the hampering effect of the body) it comes that they experience fear and desire, sorrow and delight. These human emotions are here regarded as peculiar to bodily life and as inconsistent with the serene higher life of the spirit. — neque auras dispi-ciunt, and they do not see the light, because they are shut up in the prisonhouse of the body.

734. clausae: the fem. form shows that Virgil is thinking of animae (not semina) as the subject of the verbs in v. 733.

735. quin et supremo . . . reliquit, nay, even when life has left them, with the last glimpse of light.

736. miseris: dat. of separation.

737. penitus, etc., it must of necessity be that many [evil qualities], clinging [to the soul] through a long period of growth, become strangely implanted therein (lit. it is utterly necessary that many things, long grown-together with the soul, become, etc.). The figure is of parasitic growths, which become almost a part of the substance of what they grow on.

739. ergo: i.e. to cleanse the soul. The purification is by means of the three non-earthly elements — air, water, and fire. — veterum malorum: i.e. those of their earthly life. With this and the following lines cf. Shakspeare, Measure for Measure, iii. I. 122-126:

To bathe in fiery floods, or to reside
In thrilling region of thick-ribbed ice;
To be imprison'd in the viewless winds,
And blown with restless violence about
The pendent world.

743, 744. quisque . . . Manis, we suffer, every man his own retribution. By metonymy Manes, the soul that receives the penalty, is put for its destiny or life in the world below. — per . . . Elysium, etc.: after the purification by penance, the souls pass into Elysium, where a few (like Anchises) remain, freed from the necessity of returning to other bodies (laeta arva tenemus); the rest, after a further purification by time, go through another round of earthly life.

745. donec, etc., until a long period [of years], when the cycle of time is completed, has removed the ingrained stain.

746. purum, etc. (pred.), has left pure the ethereal sense: i.e. the spiritus (726) or mens (727) of which the soul is composed.

747. aurai simplicis ignem, the flame of pure light (the ether). — aurai: archaic form of genitive (Intro. § 91, a).

748. has omnis, all these, i.e. with the exception of the pauci mentioned in v. 744. — rotam volvere, have completed the cycle. See the myth in Plato's Republic, Book x.

750. immemores, etc. (pred.), that without memory they may revisit the upper earth. — convexa: i.e. under the arch of heaven.

754. possit: subjunctive in a relative clause of characteristic.

755. adversos legere, scan those before them.

756. quae deinde (= dehinc) sequatur, etc.: indir. quest. depending on expediam.

757. maneant: sc. te or nos.

758. animas: a direct object of expediam succeeds the two indirect questions. — nostrum in nomen ituras, who are to succeed to our name.

760. pura hasta: a "headless spear," given as a prize to young men after their first feat of arms.

761. proxima . . . loca, holds by lot the place nearest to the light (lit. the nearest places of light): i.e. will be the first to be born into the world of men.

762. Italo commixtus sanguine: he was son of Æneas and the Italian princess Lavinia.

763. postuma, youngest.

764. longaevo, in your old age. — serum, last or your latest born (adj. with quem).

766. Longa Alba: the "long white town," stretched along a ridge on the edge of Lake Albanus. It was supposed to be the old capital of the Latin league, from which rank it was dispossessed by Rome. Other Latin towns are mentioned below.

767. proximus, close by. — Procas, Capys, Numitor, Silvius Aeneas: kings of Alba.

768. Numitōr: the last syllable is here long (Introd. § 110).

770. si umquam acceperit: Æneas Silvius, it was said, was kept from his inheritance for 53 years. — regnandam Albam, the throne of Alba: A. 500, 4; D. 869; B. 337, 7, b, 2; G. 430.

772. umbrata quercu, wreathed with oak. The oak-wreath (corona civilis) was bestowed on him who had saved the life of a Roman citizen in battle. By vote of the Senate, such wreaths were hung before the door of Augustus as perpetual preserver of the people. Hence the allusion is a personal compliment.

773. Nomentum, etc.: old Latin towns near Rome.

776. tum . . . erunt, these shall then be names, i.e. places of note.

777. avo comitem, a companion (or champion) to his grandfather. The first exploit of Romulus was to restore his grandfather Numitor to the throne of Alba. — Mavortius, son of Mars: Romulus was the son of Mars and Rhea Silvia.

778. Ilia: Rhea Silvia.

779. vidēn = videsne. — geminae cristae: the double plume was a distinguishing mark of Mars, though no representation of it appears in works of art; like him, Romulus is constantly represented with a helmet. It is by this sign that his father (Mars) marks him by his own sign of honor as belonging to the world on high. — stant and signat: indirect question with the poetical indicative instead of the subjunctive.

780. superum: pred. gen. (lit. as being of the gods).

781. huius auspiciis, under his leadership.

782. imperium aequabit: cf. i. 287.

783. una, though but one city. — sibi: dat. of reference. — septem arces, the seven heights (septimontium): the name was first given to the Palatine, with its spurs and those of the adjoining Esquiline; it was afterwards extended to the larger group of the famous "seven hills," with which at first it had nothing to do.

784. mater: Cybele, called Berecynthia from a mountain in Phrygia sacred to her. She was represented with the turreted crown (hence turrita) also worn by personified cities (see Fig. 28).

The tow' red Cybele,
Mother of an hundred gods.

MILTON, Arcades, vv. 21–22.

786. partu: for case see Intro. § 66.

788. geminas acies, your two eyes. — hanc gentem: the Julian family.

789. Caesar: perhaps Julius Caesar is meant, perhaps Augustus.

792. Divi: sc. Caesaris. Augustus was the adopted son of Julius Cæsar, who was deified after death and called Divus. — aurea condet saecula rursus: the first Golden Age, when all was peace and happiness, was during the reign of Saturn over Latium, of which he became king after Jupiter expelled him from heaven.

793. Latio: locative abl.

794. Saturno: dat. of agent. — super Garamantas: a tribe of interior Africa, which sent an embassy to Augustus. How this struck the Roman imagination is seen in the following verses. — Indos: the reference is to the East, generally. When Augustus was in Syria (20 B.C.), embassies from the Parthians and Indians restored the standards taken more than thirty years before from Crassus.

796. extra . . . vias: i.e. beyond the course of the sun along the zodiac. — Atlas: cf. iv. 247.

798. in adventum, against his coming (as we might say in English): i.e. looking towards it.

799. responsis: i.e. oracles which are to be fulfilled by his coming. — Maeotia tellus: in southern Russia (Scythia).

800. turbant (intrans.), are troubled. — septemgemi: referring to the numerous mouths of the Delta of the Nile.

802. licet (= though) fixerit: A. 527, b; D. 810; B. 309, 4; G. 607. — Erymanthi pacarit nemora: i.e. by killing the wild boar.

803. Lernam: referring to the Hydra (see v. 287). These exploits of Hercules were all within the limits of Arcadia, and so give no great notion of his wanderings. Atlas, Antæus, and Geryon might have suggested a wider range.

805. Liber: an old Italian god of fertility, identified with the Grecian Bacchus, god of wine, inspiration, and dramatic poetry. The triumphant march of Bacchus, in the fable, led him as far as India. His car was drawn by tigers or lynxes, guided by reins of vine-branch. — Nysae: somewhere in India.

806. dubitamus: do we hesitate (now that we behold the victories of Augustus)?

808. olivae: the symbol of peace.

809. menta: poetical plur. for singular.

810. regis: Numa, the second king, the reputed founder of most of the religious customs of Rome; he was a native of the Sabine Cures.

812. imperium magnum: in fact a city of perhaps twenty or thirty thousand inhabitants, and a territory of about fifteen miles square. Anchises speaks in vision of the vast empire to follow.

814. Tullus: Tullus Hostilius, the third king.

815. iactantior, too boastful, as grandson of Numa. — Ancus: Ancus Marcius, the fourth king.

816. nunc: i.e. even before he begins his earthly career. — nimium . . . auris, delighting too much in the breath of popular favor (i.e. when intriguing for the kingdom): Ancus was said to be the founder of the plebs as an order in the state.

817. Tarquinius reges: Tarquinius Priscus, Servius Tullius, and Tarquinius Superbus, the fifth, sixth, and seventh kings.

818. fasces receptos, the restored fasces. The fasces, or bundles of rods and axe, were borne by the lictors before the highest officer, as the symbol of imperium, or military power. Brutus, it was said, wrested the imperium from the kings and restored it to the aristocracy.

819. consulis imperium: Brutus was consul 509 B.C.

820. natos . . . vocabit: Brutus sentenced to death his own sons for joining in a conspiracy to restore the exiled king. Hence saevae securae.

822. utcumque ferent minores, however posterity shall report his deeds. In these words Anchises admits the cruelty of the act, but immediately excuses it on the ground of patriotism.

824. Decios, etc.: the Decii, father, son, and grandson, solemnly devoted themselves to death, each to win a doubtful battle, in the war with the Latins, with the Samnites, and with Pyrrhus respectively; Torquatus (T. Manlius) won his title, with a golden neck-chain, by slaying a gigantic Gaul; later he put to death his own son for disobeying orders in war (hence saevum securi). Camillus, returning from banishment, drove back the victorious Gauls, winning back the standards captured by them in the battle of the Allia (referentem signa). The Drusi, a respectable but not eminent family, are here mentioned in compliment to Livia, wife of Augustus.

827. concordēs animae: Pompey and Cæsar, in equal arms (paribus in armis), since their power was about equal.

830. socer: Cæsar, whose daughter Julia was the third and best beloved wife of Pompey. She died 54 B.C., while Cæsar was in Gaul. — arce Monoeci, the rampart of Monæcus (Monaco), on the coast just east of Nice. It is mentioned to signify Cæsar's march from Gaul into Italy.

831. Eois: the main reliance of Pompey was on the forces of the East.

832. ne . . . bella, do not make such wars familiar to your hearts. Virgil alludes to the naturally humane temper of both the rivals.

834. tu prior: Cæsar, as the more illustrious. Besides, the exploits of Cæsar, as a popular chief, were distasteful to the courtiers of Augustus, and it was fashionable to belittle them; hence the objurgatory tone. — parce, forbear. — genus Olympto: Cæsar, as a member of the gens Julia, claimed descent from Venus and Anchises, and through Venus from Jupiter.

836. ille: L. Mummius, conqueror of Corinth, 146 B.C. — triumphata: here transitive in the sense of triumph over.

837. currum: alluding to the well-known triumphal procession from the Campus Martius past the Forum and up to the temple of Jupiter Capitolinus (Capitolia ad alta).

838. ille: L. Æmilius Paullus, conqueror of Perseus (Æaciden, as descended from Achilles), 168 B.C. By Argos, etc., is meant all Greece, of which, in Anchises' time, this was the chief city.

840. templa Minervæ: see ii. 163 ff.

841-844. Cato, etc. These heroes are Cato the Censor; Cossus, a hero of the early wars against the Gauls, who won the spolia opima by slaying the leader of the enemy with his own hand; the Gracchi, the celebrated tribunes of the people, one of whose ancestors had distinguished himself in Spain; the Scipios, Africanus elder and younger; Fabricius, "strong in poverty," who defeated Pyrrhus; Serranus (C. Atilius Regulus, consul 257 B.C.; not the famous Regulus), a general in the First Punic War. The name Serranus was said to have been given to Regulus from his being found sowing (serentem) in the field by the messengers who brought the news of his election as consul. — te tacitum relinquit, pass you over in silence.

843. cladem, scourge.

845. quo . . . Fabii, whither, O Fabii, do you hurry me, wearied as I am? The meaning is that the exploits of the Fabii are too many for mention. — [Fabius] Maximus: the commander against Hannibal. The following verse (which is taken from Ennius) refers to his method of waging war, whence he was called Cunctator.

846. cunctando: i.e. by what are called dilatory tactics. — rem, the state (cf. res publica).

847. excudent alii mollius: Virgil has the Greeks in mind. — spirantia: as if the statues were alive.

848. ducent : ducere applies strictly to yielding materials, like metal, clay, or wax ; its use here suggests that marble itself is pliable in the hands of a consummate artist.

849. orabunt melius : in forensic oratory, the names of Crassus, Hortensius, and Cicero stand as high as those of their Greek masters. But Anchises purposely disparages every other glory — art, oratory, science — in comparison with that of arms.

850. radio : the rod used to trace mathematical and astronomical diagrams (in sand originally).

854. mirantibus : sc. eis (Æneas and the Sibyl).

855. Marcellus : M. Claudius Marcellus, called the "Sword of Rome," one of the best generals against the Gauls, and afterwards against Hannibal. He won the spolia opima by slaying the Gallic chief Viridomarus. His name is mentioned last, to introduce that of his young namesake.

857. tumultu, alarm : strictly, the name for civil war.

858. sistet, will support : contrasted with tumultu. — eques : the most celebrated exploits of Marcellus were with cavalry.

859. tertia, for the third time. Before Marcellus the spolia opima had been won by Romulus and Cossus only (v. 841). — Quirino : the Sabine god of battles, identified by the Romans with the deified Romulus.

860. Aeneas : sc. ait. — una : with Marcellus.

861. iuvenem : the younger Marcellus, nephew of Augustus, who was adopted by him and recognized as his successor.

863. virum, the hero (the elder Marcellus). — sic, thus.

865. quantum instar in ipso : what a noble bearing in the man himself!

867. ingressus, began to speak.

868-886. See Introd., p. 6, for the anecdote of Virgil's recitation of these lines before Augustus.

869. ostendent tantum, will only show him. The younger Marcellus died in his twentieth year (23 B.C.).

871. propria . . . fuissent, if this gift (Marcellus) were to be lasting : subjunc. in a dependent clause in indir. disc. after visa [est], which is equivalent to a verb of thinking. The direct would be fuerint (fut. perf.).

872. quantos virum gemitus, what lamentation of strong men! — ille campus : the Campus Martius, in which Augustus had built a huge mausoleum in 27 B.C. — Mavortis urbem : i.e. Rome.

873. quae funera : in the funeral procession of young Marcellus, there were six hundred couches containing the images of his illustrious kindred. The funeral was on the Campus Martius.

874. tumulum : the ruins of the immense tomb are still to be seen near the Tiber.

876. in tantum spe, so high in hope. — quondam, ever.

877. se tantum iactabit, boast itself so much.

878. heu prisca fides, etc.: cf. Dryden, Absalom and Achitophel, i. 844-845:

O, ancient honor! O, unconquered hand,
Whom foes unpunished never could withstand!

879. illi: dat. with obvius; A. 370, c; D. 384; cf. B. 192, 1. Cf. i. 314.
— tulisset: i.e. if he had lived.

882. rumpas: A. 516, b, N.; B. 303, b; G. 596, 1.

885. inani: i.e. because the boy would never come to maturity.

887. aeris campis, in the shadowy plains.

890. gerenda: sc. sint.

893. geminae portae: this description of the horn and ivory gates is taken from the words of Penelope to Odysseus (Od. xix. 562-567; Bry. 678).

— fertur, is reported to be.

894. veris umbris, true dreams.

895. candenti elephanto: abl. of material.

896. mittunt: i.e. by this gate.

899. viam secat, he takes his way (lit. cuts).

900. Caletae: in the southern part of Latium. — recto litore, straight along the coast: abl. of the way by which (Introd. § 55).

901. Repeated from iii. 277.

II. SELECTIONS FROM OVID AND OTHER LATIN POETS

PYRAMUS AND THISBE

(OVID, Metamorphoses, iv. 55-166)

56. quas: the antecedent is puellis. — praelata, surpassing (lit. preferred before). — puellis: dat. after prae- (Introd. § 27).

57. tenuere, lived in.

58. coctilibus (from coquo), made of burnt brick. — Semiramis and her husband Ninus were the mythical founders of the ancient Assyrian kingdom of Nineveh. She was said to have become sole ruler after the death of Ninus, and Babylon (the city here referred to) was one of her mighty works.

59. primos gradus, the first steps (in their love).

60. taedae . . . coissent, they would have been united by the rites of marriage also. — taedae, lit. torch; often used for marriage. See Aeneid, iv. 18, and note.

61. sed vetuere patres: this takes the place of the condition contrary to fact, of which coissent is the conclusion; A. 521, a; D. 802; B. 305, 1;

ORPHEUS AND EURYDICE

(OVID, Metamorphoses, x. 1-77)

1. inde: i. e. from Crete, where Hymen had solemnized the marriage of Iphis and Ianthe. — croceo . . . amictu: cf. Milton, L'Allegro, 125-126:

There let Hymen oft appear
In saffron robe, with taper clear.

2. Ciconum: the Cicōnes were a Thracian tribe.

3. Orpheā (adj.), of Orpheus. — nequiquam, in vain (for the marriage was destined to come to a tragic end).

4. adfuit ille quidem, he (Hymen) came, to be sure. — sollemnia verba, the accustomed words. The marriage was ill-omened, as appeared — among other signs — from Hymen's silence when he should have spoken the usual words of blessing.

5. attulit, brought with him.

6. stridula, hissing and sputtering instead of burning with a clear flame: a particularly bad omen. For the marriage torch see note on Æneid, iv. 18.

7. usque, always, ever. — nullosque . . . ignes, and did not blaze up when swung about.

8. gravior [erat], was even worse.

9. nova: with nupta.

10. occidit, fell dead. — talum, heel.

11. ad superas auras, in the Upper World (this world, as opposed to Hades). — Rhodopeius vates, the Thracian bard (Orpheus). Rhodope is a mountain range in Thrace.

12. ne non temptaret et umbras, not to leave untried even the (world of) shades: purpose. Cf. Æneid, vi. 119-120.

13. Taenaria . . . porta, by the Tænarian portal. On the promontory of Tænarus or Tænarum (now Cape Matapan) was a cavern supposed to be one of the entrances to the Lower World. For the abl. see n. on viii. 203.

14. simulacraque functa sepulcro, the shades of the buried dead (lit. the shades having undergone burial). Without due burial rites no soul could cross the Styx: see Æneid, vi. 305 ff. For abl. see Introd. § 56.

16. dominum: i. e. Pluto, the husband of Proserpine (Persephone). — ad carmina, in accompaniment to his song. — nervis, the strings of his lyre.

18. quicquid mortale creamur, all we that are born of mortal race.

19. falsi . . . oris, without the subtle phrases of a deceitful tongue. — ambagibus (abl. abs. with positis): denotes any kind of ambiguous or evasive roundabout talk.

21. villosa, shaggy.

22. terna: A. 137, d; D. 173, d, e; B. 81, 4, d; G. 97, N.¹—Medusaei, snaky-haired (like the Gorgon Medusa). — vincirem: subj. of purpose; he has not come to bind and carry away Cerberus, as Hercules had done.

23. calcata, trodden upon.

24. crescentes annos, the years of her youth, when she apparently had a long life ahead of her.

25. pati, to suffer with patience.

26. superā . . . in orā, in the world above.

27. an sit et hic, whether he is also known here: indir. question. —

Fig. 56

auguror, I surmise. — esse, that he is (known): indirect disc.; the subject (eum) is omitted.

28. veteris . . . rapinae: i.e. the carrying away of Proserpine by Pluto (as beautifully told in Metamorphoses, v. 385–408). See Fig. 56 (from an ancient relief).

31. properata, untimely (lit. hastened). — retexite, reverse (lit. unweave).

32. omnia debemus vobis, all [that we have] we must render up to you: literally, we owe all things [to you], i.e. we possess our lives, and everything that we have, as a loan from you, which must be repaid sometime (by death).

35. humani generis regna, rule over mankind. Cf. Ecclesiastes, xii. 5: "Man goeth to his long home."

36. haec, she (Eurydice). — iustos . . . annos, due [number of] years.

37. iuris erit vestri, will be under your sway (i.e. will die and become one of your subjects): predicate genitive (Intro. § 9). — pro munere poscimus usum, instead of a gift I ask [only] her dear companionship: he implies that Eurydice will still belong to the gods below, and that she is to be his for a time only (i.e. until she has lived her life).

39. quod si, but if. — veniam, this favor. — certum est mihi, it is my fixed resolve (lit. it has been decided by me). — mihi: dat. of agent. — nolle, to refuse.

40. ad, in harmony with.

41-44. Even the tortures of the damned cease under the spell of the music of Orpheus. For Tantalus, Ixion, Sisyphus, and Tityos see Æneid, vi. 595-607. — captavit, tried to catch. — iacuit, stood still. — iecur: i. e. of Tityos. — urnis vacarunt, were freed from their urns. The Belides (granddaughters of Belus) were the Danaids (Danaïdes), the fifty daughters of Danaus. All of them except one (Hypermnestra) murdered their husbands and were condemned in Hades to draw water forever and pour it into a vessel full of holes. See Fig. 57 (from an ancient relief).

46. regia coniunx: Proserpine.

47. sustinet oranti . . . negare, can bear to refuse his prayer (lit. him praying). — qui, he who: i. e. Pluto. — ima, the World Below.

48. recentes, new-come.

50. legem, the condition: what the terms are, is defined in the substantive clause of purpose ne flectat; A. 561, a; D. 724; B. 294; G. 546, N.²

51. Avernas (adj.), of Avernus (the Lower World).

52. futura [esse]: indir. disc., dependent on the idea of saying implied in legem.

53. carpitur, is traversed: cf. carpere viam, an idiom for to make one's way.

55. telluris summae, of the Upper World.

56. ne deficeret, that she might be missing: the clause is obj. of metuens; A. 564; D. 720, II; B. 296, 2; G. 550. — videndi: Introd. § 16.

57. relapsa est, vanished (lit. slipped back).

 77. Haemum: a mountain in Thrace.

ORPHEUS AND EURYDICE

(VIRGIL, Georgics, iv. 454-527)

454. Magna luis commissa, you are atoning for a great crime. The speaker is the sea-god Proteus, who has been asked by Aristæus to tell him why his bees are dying. After Eurydice became the wife of Orpheus, she was seen by Aristæus, a deity guarding herds and flocks and bees. He fell in love with her; indeed, it was while she was fleeing from Aristæus that Eurydice was fatally bitten by a snake. The nymphs, Proteus tells Aristæus, caused mortality among his bees to avenge the death of Eurydice, who was herself a nymph.

455. haudquaquam ad meritum, not at all according to your deserts; i.e. Aristæus is being punished far less than his offence deserves. — ni fata resistant, unless the fates interpose.

457. Illa : Eurydice. — per flumina, along the banks of the river.
458. puella : in apposition with illa ; though but a girl.
460. chorus aequalis Dryadum, a band of mountain nymphs, her companions (lit. equals in age). — supremos montis = summos montis.
461. Rhodopeiae arces, the heights of Rhodope, a mountain range in Thrace.
462. Pangaea : Pangaea was a mountain in Thrace.
463. Actias Orithyia : Orithyia, here spoken of as a nymph, was a daughter of Erechtheus, king of Athens. She had been carried off to Thrace by Boreas. Acte was an old name for Attica ; hence Actias.
464. Ipse : Orpheus. — cava testudine : Mercury is said to have made the lyre by fitting strings across the empty shell of a tortoise.
465. dulcis coniunx : vocative, but may be translated as an appositive to te. — secum, by himself.
467. fauces, the jaws ; i.e. the cavern near Tænarum, which was supposed to be one of the entrances to the Lower World.
470. humanis precibus, in response to human prayers. — mansuescere, to relent.
472. luce carentum : i.e. of the dead.
473. quam multa . . . milia, as the many thousands of birds which, etc.
474. vesper . . . imber : when they go to roost at night or seek shelter from a storm.
475. defuncta vita, who have finished life.
476. magnanimum : a contraction of magnanimorum.
477. impositique . . . parentum : those who have died prematurely.
479. tardā : with undā.
480. noviens interfusa : the Styx flowed nine times round the region.
- 481, 482. ipsae . . . Tartara, the very home of Death and the inmost regions of Tartarus. — caeruleos . . . anguis, having blue-black snakes entwined in their hair: anguis is acc. of specification (Intro. § 42).
483. inhians, with open jaws (ready to bark).
484. rota orbis, the whirling wheel. The wind, stilled by the music of Orpheus, no longer moved Ixion's wheel.
485. pedem referens, returning from the Lower World. — evaserat : the subject is Eurydice.
487. legem, condition ; Orpheus was not to look back at Eurydice until they had come into the Upper World.
490. Eurydicen : acc. — iam . . . ipsa, when all but in the very light (of this world).
491. victus animi, overcome by his feelings: animi is gen. of specification (Intro. § 17). — Ibi, thereupon.
492. effusus [sc. est], was wasted. — tyranni, king, i.e. Pluto.

493. foedera, condition; cf. legem (v. 487). — stagnis Avernis, from the pools of Avernus.

496. condit, is closing.

28. illi: the husbands. — suis: sc. fatis.

31, 32. monstrat . . . mero: a plan of Troy and the positions of the armies in battle is drawn by the narrator in wine on the table.

35. Aeacides: Achilles.

36. missos, galloping (lit. let go).

37. te quaerere misso, sent to seek you; poetical use of the infinitive to express purpose (Intro. § 84).

38. nato: Telemachus. — Nestor: son of Neleus and king of Pylos; he was famed for his wisdom and eloquence and is said to have outlived three generations of men.

39. Rhesum: see note on Æneid, i. 469. — Dolona (acc.): see note on Tristia, iii. 4. 27.

40. ut, how.

42. tangere, to visit.

43. uno: Diomedes.

45. sinus: sc. mei.

46. Ismariis, Thracian; Ismarus was a mountain in Thrace. — equis: the famous horses of Rhesus, which were captured by Ulysses and Diomedes in a night raid.

47. vestris lacertis: the arms of Ulysses and the other Greek leaders.

48. Ilios: nominative. — et murus . . . esse solum, and that what was once a wall is levelled with the ground (lit. to be soil).

50. dempto fine (abl. abs.), forever.

51. uni . . . restant: because Ulysses is still absent, as he was during the war.

52. incola victor, the victorious settler. Ovid is thinking of the Roman policy of colonizing captured towns and lands.

57. quae causa: sc. sit.

58. in quo orbe, in what corner of the earth.

60. mihi: dative of the agent with rogatus.

61. quam tibi reddat: relative clause of purpose. The antecedent is charta.

62. charta novata, a new letter written (lit. a letter renewed).

65. Misimus: i.e. for information about Ulysses.

66. ubi . . . abes, where are you lingering away from [home]?

67. moenia Phoebe: Apollo and Neptune built the walls of Troy.

68. votis: the prayers she had offered for the termination of the war.

69, 70. scirem, timerem, foret: subjunctive, because they are in the conclusion of a condition contrary to fact. The protasis (si starent moenia) is implied in what precedes.

72. patet area lata: there is a wider field for her anxiety about Ulysses than there was during the war.

75. quae vestra libido est, such is the lustfulness of you men.

77. narres, you may be telling [your new wife].

78. tantum, only; who knows nothing but spinning and weaving.

79, 80. Fallar, vanescat, velis: optative subjunctives.

80. revertendi liber, if free to return (Introd. § 17).

81. Icarius: usually Icarus, father of Penelope. He is urging her to marry again.

82. cogit, is trying to force.

83. Increpet usque licet, he may keep on chiding me. Increpet is a subjunctive in a substantive clause with licet (so also dicar with oportet); A. 565; D. 722; B. 295, 6; G. 607.

DIDO TO ÆNEAS

(OVID, Heroides, vii. 181-194)

181. Aspicias utinam: optative subjunctive (A. 442; D. 681, II, 2; B. 279, 2; G. 261). — quae . . . imago, how I look as I write.

182. Troicus ensis: Æneas, at the request of Dido, had given her a sword (see Æneid, iv. 646-647).

184. iam, presently.

185. munera: the sword.

189. male conscia = non conscia.

190. iam: as in v. 184.

191. Nec . . . inscribar, nor shall my epitaph read. — Sychaei: Dido's former husband (see Æneid, i. 343).

ARIADNE FALLS IN LOVE WITH THESEUS

(CATULLUS, lxiv. 76-102)

76. crudeli peste: a pestilence that came upon the Athenians while they were besieged by Minos forced them to surrender. — coactam: with Cecropiam.

78. decus innuptarum, beautiful maidens.

79. Cecropiam : Athens, so named from King Cecrops.
80. Quis = quibus. — angusta moenia : Athens was then a small city.
- 82, 83. potius . . . portarentur, rather than that such victims from Athens — dead, yet not dead — should be carried to Crete. Funus (lit. funeral) is sometimes used for corpse. These young men and maidens, though not yet killed, were doomed (and therefore as good as dead) as soon as they had been selected as victims. — funera, nec funera : oxymoron; A. 641; D. 949; B. 375, 2; G. 694.
84. nitens, pressing on.
- 86, 87. virgo regia : Ariadne.
- 87, 88. quam . . . alebat : the poet suggests that Ariadne was too innocent and too charming to suffer the fate that befell her at the hands of Theseus.
89. quales . . . myrtos, like the myrtles which, etc.
90. colores = flores.
95. sancte puer : Cupid.
96. quaeque, and thou who . . ., i.e. Venus. — Golgos (nom. Golgi), Idalium : towns in Cyprus sacred to Venus.
98. in, for or over. — hospite : Theseus.
100. magis fulgore expalluit auri : vividly descriptive of the pallor of a person of dark complexion.

ARIADNE'S LAMENT

(CATULLUS, lxiv. 132-201)

132. Sicine (sice, old form of sic, + -ne), is it thus that? The word is used in expressions of reproach.
133. Theseu : vocative.
134. neglecto numine divum, scorning the power of the gods (who might be expected to punish Theseus for his faithlessness).
135. devota periuria, the curse of a broken oath (lit. accursed perjuries). Theseus bears home the curse of Ariadne because of his broken vows.
138. immite pectus : that of Theseus. — nostri, me : genitive with miserescere (Intro. § 20).
140. miseræ (sc. mihi) : dative with sperare — to hope for myself, poor creature.
143. Nunc . . . credat, from henceforth let no woman believe.
145. quis = quibus : dative of reference.
146. nil . . . iurare, there is no oath that they fear to swear.
148. nihil (adv. acc.), not at all.

149. in medio . . . leti: i.e. when Theseus was attacking the Minotaur. See Fig. 61 (from a vase painting). — versantem (from versor), when you were.

150. germanum: the Minotaur was a half-brother of Ariadne. — crevi (from cerno), I resolved.

151. quam . . . dēessem, than to fail you: clause of result (A. 571, a; D. 733; B. 284, 4; G. 299, 631, 3).

152, 153. pro quo, in return for this. — dilaceranda praeda, prey to be torn in pieces. — iniecta . . . terra (abl. abs.): the soul of the dead could not cross the Styx unless at least three handfuls of earth had been thrown upon the corpse.

Fig. 61

155. conceptum: sc. te.

158. tibi non cordi fuerant, had not been dear to you: double dative (Introd. § 33).

159. prisci parentis, your stern parent; Ægeus, who might refuse to receive Ariadne as his son's wife.

160. ducere: sc. me as object.

161. serva, as your slave.

162. permulcens, gently bathing. — vestigia = pedes.

164. ignaris, senseless.

165. nullis sensibus auctae, void of understanding (lit. endowed with no senses).

166. missas, uttered.

167. Ille: Theseus.

168. alga, the weedy shore.

169. extremo tempore, at my last hour.

170. invidit: used with dative (auris) and ablative (nostris questibus). The beach is so lonely that it seems as if chance intended that not even the winds should hear Ariadne's complaint.

173. tauro: the Minotaur.

174. religasset funem: the boat was moored to the shore, not left riding at anchor.

176. requiescet = requievisset.

178, 179. Idaeos montes: i.e. her home in Crete. — ah! . . . aequor, where (alas!) the raging sea (lit. surface of the sea) keeps [me] away, shutting [me] off by its wide waters.

180. quemne reliqui, seeing that I left him.

182. memet: the enclitic -met emphasizes the pronoun.

183. quine, [the very husband] who.

184. nullo litus tecto (sc. est). a houseless shore it is: descriptive ablative. — insula: appos. with litus.

192. virum = virorum. — vindice poena, with avenging punishment; vindice, in apposition with poena, is equivalent to an adjective.

194. exspirantis pectoris iras, the wrath of your panting breasts. The serpents that form the hair of the Furies show the rage that the Furies feel in their hearts.

196. vae miserae! woe to poor me! — extremis medullis, from my inmost soul.

198. Quae . . . imo, and since these (my complaints) are just (verae) and spring from the bottom of my heart.

200, 201. quali mente, tali mente: Ariadne wishes that Theseus may return to Athens as forgetful as he was in leaving her. When Theseus set sail for Crete, his ship carried black sails. He promised his father to change these for white sails if he returned victorious. This he forgot to do, and his father Ægeus, from the cliff where he was watching for the vessel, saw the black sails and, supposing his son was dead, threw himself into the sea. Thus the curse of Ariadne was fulfilled.

OVID'S AUTOBIOGRAPHY

(OVID, Tristia, iv. 10. 1-58)

1. Ille lusor amorum, that sportive writer of love poems. Thus Ovid insists that his early verses should not be taken too seriously. — qui fuerim: indirect question, object of noris (v. 2).

2. noris = noveris. — posteritas: vocative.

3. gelidis undis: the water was that of cool mountain streams.

4. urbe : Rome.

6. cum . . . pari : 43 B.C., when both consuls, Aulus Hirtius and C. Vibius Pansa, fell in the war against Antony.

7. usque a proavis : his family belonged to the equestrian order and had belonged to it for several generations.

10. tribus ante quater mensibus, twelve months before (lit. four times three) : ablative of degree of difference modifying ante.

12. liba : the libum was a kind of pancake, offered to the genius of a person on his birthday.

13, 14 : in these verses Ovid tells us that he was born on March 20. The five days' festival to Minerva, the so-called Quinquatria, began on March 19. The first day of the gladiatorial contests (quae fieri pugnā cruenta solet), which were a feature of the festival, was March 20. — pugnā : abl. with cruenta.

16. ab arte, for professional skill.

17. eloquium, the life of the orator.

19. caelestia sacra, heavenly rites, i.e. the composition of poetry (sacred to the Muses).

20. Musa : i.e. poetry.

22. Maeonides : Homer.

23. Helicone : Helicon was a mountain in Bœotia, sacred to Apollo and the Muses.

24. verba soluta modis, words freed from metre, i.e. prose.

25. numeros, measures. Compare what Pope says of himself :

As yet a child, nor yet a fool to fame,
I lisp'd in numbers, for the numbers came.

Prologue to the Satires, 127-128.

28. liberior toga : in his sixteenth or seventeenth year the Roman boy laid aside his toga praetexta and assumed the toga virilis, the formal dress of the Roman citizen.

29. cum lato purpura clavo : a broad purple stripe running up and down the front of the tunic marked the Roman of senatorial rank. After the time of Augustus it was worn by certain of the wealthier families of the equestrian order.

30. studium, interest (in poetry).

33. primos honores : several minor offices might be held by a Roman before he offered himself for the quaestorship, the first in the series of higher offices (cursus honorum). The office mentioned by Ovid in the next line may have been that of police commissioner.

35. Curia restabat, the senate house was ahead (lit. remained). Ovid might have gone on into the senate, had he cared to pursue a political career. But he preferred a different sort of life, and exchanged the broad stripe of the senator for the narrower stripe of the equestrian order. — coacta est, was narrowed.

36. maius, too great for. — illud onus: i. e. the burden of a senatorship.

39. Aoniae sorores: the Muses. The region in Bœotia where Mount Helicon, sacred to the Muses, was situated, was called Aonia.

41. Temporis illius . . . poetas: the poets contemporary with Ovid's early life, whom he mentions in the following verses.

44. Macer: the poem or poems referred to here have not survived; nor have the works of Ponticus and Bassus (v. 47).

45. ignes: Propertius wrote love poems (ignes).

46. sodalicii: Ovid and Propertius seem to have been members of a poetry club. Ponticus and Bassus may have belonged to the same circle.

47. heroo: sc. versu.

48. convictus: noun.

51. vidi tantum, I merely saw. Virgil and Tibullus died in 19 B. C.

53. hic: Tibullus. — Galle: like Tibullus, an elegiac poet.

56. Thalia mea, my sportive verse. Thalia, the Muse of Comedy, is here mentioned as the patroness of light verse of any kind. Ovid is referring especially to his Amores, which he insists were not to be taken seriously.

57. legi: Roman authors frequently read their works to their friends before publication.

OVID'S LAST NIGHT IN ROME

(OVID, Tristia, i. 3. 1-62)

2. qua, when.

5. lux, day.

6. Ausoniae: Italy.

7. spatium, time. — parandi: depends upon apta (Introd. § 17).

8. longa mora: Ovid had been successful and happy so long that his mind was dull and slow when he had to make preparations for his departure.

9. servorum: sc. parandorum; gerundive construction dependent on cura. — comites legendi: gerund with object; used instead of the gerundive (comitum legendorum) for metrical reasons.

15. extremum (adv. acc.), for the last time.

16. modo de multis, from the many I had a little while before. Only a few friends remained to Ovid after he came under the displeasure of Augustus.

17. flentem: sc. me.

19. Nata : his daughter Perilla was married and living in Africa. — sub, near.

20. certior esse = certior fieri.

21. aspiceret : A. 518, c; D. 800; B. 302, 3; G. 597, R².

22. non taciti : litotes (A. 326, c; D. 947; B. 375; G. 700).

29. ab hac Capitolia cernens, turning my eyes from her to the Capitol.

30. quae . . . Lari : Ovid's house was near the Capitoline Hill. — frustra : being a neighbor to the Capitol, and to the gods of the Capitol, did not save Ovid from banishment.

31. Numina : Jupiter, Juno, and Minerva.

32. iam, again.

33. di relinquendi : in leaving Rome Ovid felt that he was leaving its gods as well. — Quirini : Romulus.

34. tempus in omne, once for all.

35. sero, too late : although it is too late to defend himself now that he has been wounded, still there is something he wishes to say in his own behalf.

36. odiis : abl. of separation.

37. caelesti viro : Augustus. — deceperit, misled, betrayed. — error : Ovid calls the offence for which he was banished a mistake, and he prays the gods, who know the truth, to tell Augustus that this offence, though a fault (culpa), was not a crime (scelus). See p. 237 above.

40. placato deo, if this divinity (Augustus) be appeased.

44. extinctos focos : as the master of the house was banished, the hearth fire had been allowed to go out in evidence of the mourning of the whole household.

45. adversos, in front of her. The household gods were near the family hearth.

46. non valitura, destined to be of no avail.

48. Parrhasis, Arcadian. The maiden Callisto, daughter of the Arcadian king, was changed into a bear by Juno, and was then raised to the heavens by Jupiter, where she is now the constellation Ursa Maior.

51. aliquo properante, when someone urged me to hurry.

54. apta, lucky. He delayed, pretending that a lucky hour for his journey would come presently.

55. Ter limen tetigi : to stumble on the threshold when setting out from home was an unlucky sign, which could be obviated only by returning and crossing the threshold again. Ovid implies that he stumbled three times purposely, in order to gain delay. — sum revocatus, I was called back (by the evil omen).

57. 'Vale' dicto : abl. abs., as if vale were a noun.

62. Utraque, for either reason.

OVID'S SHIP

(OVID, Tristia, i. 10. 1-14)

1. tutela: an object of care.
3. ad, at.
6. occupat, outstrips. — quamlibet ante, however long before.
8. fatisцит, springs a leak.
9. Cenchreis: Cenchreæ was one of the harbors of Corinth.
12. Palladio numine, by the divine help of Pallas.

THAT YACHT OF MINE

(CATULLUS, iv)

For the metre, see p. 244 above.

1. Phasellus: a small boat, driven by a square sail. — videtis: the inscription is to be read by his guests as they look at the model.

2. fuisse celerrimus = se fuisse celerrimum (A. 581, N.³).

3. trabis = navis.

4, 5. sive . . . linteo: whether impelled by oars or by sail.

6. hoc (object of negare): refers to the claim just made; the model declares that the places mentioned in the following verses cannot deny the good record (hoc) of the boat itself. The places are those visited by Catullus on his journey from Bithynia to Sirmio. — minacis Hadriatici: the Adriatic was often stormy.

7. insulas Cycladas: a dangerous region for ships.

8. Rhodum nobilem: once a place of commercial importance, Rhodes was famous among the Romans for its climate and its schools of rhetoric and philosophy.

9. trucem Ponticum sinum: of this region Ovid says (Tristia, iv. 4. 57-58):

Neque iactantur moderatis aequora ventis, nec placidos portus hospita navis adit.

10. post phasellus: the adverb post is here used as an adjective qualifying phasellus. The boat was once a leafy tree on Cytorus.

11. Cytorio in iugo: Cytorus was a mountain in Paphlagonia, abounding in boxwood.

13. Amastri: Amastris was a city in Paphlagonia near Mount Cytorus.

16. stetisse: when it was a tree. Supply se as subject.

20, 21. sive utrumque . . . in pedem, or if a favoring wind filled the sail (lit. fell upon both the sheets at the same time). The pedes were the two sheets, or ropes, attached to the lower corners of the square sail, by which the sail was fastened to the rail of the boat. The wind would strike the sheets at the same time when the boat was running before the wind.

22. litoralibus diis : sailors made their vows to Neptune and to lesser divinities of the sea to secure successful voyages.

23, 24. sibi : dat. of agent. — esse facta : sc ait. — a mari novissimo, from the remotest sea. — ad limpidum lacum : it is not to be supposed that the boat was itself actually fetched up rivers and over land to the Lacus Benacus, where his villa was located.

25. prius, long ago.

26. tibi = vobis. Sailors were accustomed to ask the twin gods, Castor and Pollux, to drive away storms.

A HOMESICK POET

(OVID, Tristia, iii. 8)

1. Triptolemi : Triptolemus was a god of agriculture, who first taught the sowing of seeds (p. 288 above). He was presented by Ceres with a chariot drawn by winged dragons. — cuperem, I could desire. Vellem (v. 3) and optarem (v. 5) are synonyms of cuperem.

2. ignotam : the earth did not know planted seeds before the coming of Triptolemus.

3. Medeae dracones : Medea escaped from Corinth in a chariot drawn by flying dragons after she had killed her children to punish Jason for his faithlessness.

5. iactandas sumere pinnas, to put on wings and fly (lit. to put on wings to be flapped).

6. Perseu, Daedale : Perseus flew with winged shoes on his way to slay the Gorgon Medusa ; Dædalus made wings for himself and his son Icarus that he might escape from Crete, where he was imprisoned by Minos.

13. Si semel optandum est, if you are to utter your prayer [for wings] once for all. — Augustum numen : since he alone has power to give you wings to fly home.

20. rogandus erit [mihi] : I shall have to ask him (Augustus).

21. Quod . . . ampli, meantime there is a smaller favor [that Augustus can grant], yet to me a great boon (lit. the likeness of a great gift).

22. quolibet, anywhere he will.

23. faciunt [me], agree [with me].

24. Ei mihi, woe is me ! — corpora : poetical plural for singular.

31. in tenet, pervades. — nec . . . ullis, and I have not strength enough to rise.

36. legenda, before my eyes (lit. to be perceived).

39. querar ut cum Caesaris ira, that I complain to Cæsar's anger. Note that ira is personified.

40. suas: equivalent to an objective gen.; A. 348, a; D. 355.

41. est usus: sc. Augustus as the subject. — civiliter: i.e. by not putting me to death.

42. loco: the place of my exile.

WINTER IN THRACE

(OVID, Tristia, iii. 10. 1-40)

1. istic, there, i.e. in Rome, whither the poem is to be sent. — adempti, banished.

3. suppositum, beneath (modifies me). — stellis . . . aequor: i.e. in a northern clime, where the constellations about the polestar do not set below the sea.

6. non digna = indigna: Ovid, a cultivated Roman, felt himself completely out of place in the midst of the rough tribes he mentions.

7. Dum . . . tepet: in the warm seasons, when the Danube was open, Ovid and his neighbors were defended from the northern tribes by the river. — medio, that flows between.

11. sub Arcto, under the Bear, i.e. in the North.

12. axe tremente, the pole, quivering (with the weight of the earth).

13. iactam (sc. eam), where it has fallen (lit. thrown).

15. prior, the previous snow-fall.

16. bima (sc. nix), the snow of two years.

19. arcent, men keep out. — bracis: trousers were used by the northern peoples, but not by the Romans. See Fig. 62 (old Dacian and boy).

20. ora, face.

23. Nuda, by itself (lit. not covered), i.e. without the jar.

24. frusta, lumps (of frozen wine).

25. ut, how.

Fig. 62

27. Ipse : with Hister (v. 29). — papyrifero amne : the Nile.
 28. multa ora : Ovid says the Danube had seven mouths (Tristia, ii. 189). — freto : the Black Sea.
 37. glacie consistere, freeze hard (lit. stand firm with ice).
 38. lubrica testa, a covering of ice (lit. a slippery shell).

UPON THE DEATH OF MY LADY'S SPARROW

(CATULLUS, iii)

1. Veneres Cupidinesque : the poet calls on all the divinities of beauty and love to mourn the fair Lesbia's loss. For the metre, see p. 243 above.
 2. quantum . . . venustiorum, all ye mortals of charm (lit. what of more charming men there is).
 4. deliciae, the pet.
 5. oculis : abl. of comparison.
 6. mellitus, sweet as honey. — suam, his mistress. — norat = noverat.
 8. gremio, lap.
 9. modo . . . modo, now . . . now.
 10. pipiabat, kept chirping.
 11. tenebricosum, shadowy, because it leads to Hades.
 12. illuc unde, to that place whence. "The undiscover'd country from whose bourn no traveller returns."
 13. vobis male sit, may it go hard with you.
 14. bella : adjective.
 16. miselle (voc.), poor little. This diminutive (of miser, wretched) and turgiduli (diminutive of turgidus, swollen) and ocelli (diminutive of oculus, eye) increase the pathos.
 17. Tuā operā, for your sake.

AN INVITATION TO DINNER

(CATULLUS, xiii)

1. apud me, with me, at my house. The metre is the same as in iii.
 4. candida puella : Fabullus must provide the entertainment as well as the food, and so must bring with him a pretty girl to play the lute during the meal.
 5. sale, wit.
 6. venuste noster, my charming friend; noster = mi.
 8. plenus aranearum, full of cobwebs, i. e. empty.
 9. contra, in return. — meros amores, true affection.
 11. unguentum : choice perfumed ointment was an accompaniment of a fine dinner. — puellae, sweetheart.

HOME AGAIN!

(CATULLUS, xxxi)

1. Sirmio: a narrow peninsula in Lacus Benacus (the modern Lago di Garda). For the metre, see p. 244 above.

2. ocelle, jewel, gem (lit. little eye). — liquentibus, clear.

3. uterque: i.e. the waters of both lake and sea.

5. mi = mihi. — Thyniam: once a part of Bithynia, but used here for Bithynia as a whole.

6. liquisse = reliquisse.

7. solutis curis, release from cares.

8, 9. peregrino labore, toil in foreign lands. Catullus had been engaged for a year on the staff of the proprætor Memmius in Bithynia.

11. Hoc est quod unum est, this in itself is reward enough.

12. ero gaude, rejoice at your master's return.

14. quidquid . . . cachinnorum, whatever there is in my home that can laugh (lit. whatever of laughs there is).

FAREWELL TO BITHYNIA

(CATULLUS, xlvii)

6. ad . . . urbes: Catullus planned to visit cities in Asia Minor on his way back to Rome. The metre is the same as in iii.

11. diversae . . . viae: he and his companions came from Rome together, but are to return by different routes.

AT THE TOMB OF A BROTHER

(CATULLUS, ci)

2. advenio . . . inferias, I come to be present at these sad funeral sacrifices.

3. ut . . . mortis, to offer you the last service for the dead (lit. of death); the offerings are, as it were, his last gift to his brother.

5. tete: emphatic form of te.

7. haec: the offerings.

8. tradita, offered. — ad inferias, as funeral gifts.

10. ave atque vale: these words of farewell would have been spoken at the funeral, had any relative been present.

ODE TO AUGUSTUS

(HORACE, Odes, i. 2)

For the metre, see p. 244 above.

1-24. Certain portents show the displeasure of the gods with the Romans for shedding the blood of their countrymen in civil war.

1, 2. terris : dative of place to which (Introd. § 34). — nivis atque grandinis : a heavy snowstorm or hailstorm was so rare in the warm climate of Rome that it was regarded as a sign of divine anger. — dirae, ominous. — pater : Jupiter (pater deorum hominumque). — rubente : his hand is red from the glow of the thunderbolt he wields.

3. sacras arcis : the two summits of the Capitoline Hill are meant. The northern summit was known as the Arx, because here was the first stronghold of the Romans. The southern summit bore the great temple of Jupiter Capitolinus. That these summits (and especially that on which Jupiter's own temple stood) had been struck was, Horace says, a clear indication of the gods' wrath. — iaculatus, by striking (lit. having struck).

5. terrui : observe the anaphora (A. 598, f; D. 939; B. 350, 11, b; G. 682). — gentis (acc.), the nations, the whole world. — ne, with the fear that; A. 564; D. 720, 11; B. 296, 2; G. 550.

6. saeculum Pyrrhae : Pyrrha, daughter of Epimetheus and Pandora, and her husband Deucalion were the only human survivors of the Flood. — nova monstra, strange prodigies.

7. Proteus : a sea-god who used to come out from his home in the ocean now and then to pasture the sea-calves (seals) of Neptune along the shore. At such times he was sometimes caught and asked to make prophecies, for he was aged and very wise; but he could escape by his power of changing himself into other shapes (hence the word protean).

8. visere : infinitive of purpose (Introd. § 84).

10. sedes, resting place.

11. superiecto aequore, the flooding sea.

13, 14. flavum : the usual epithet of the muddy Tiber. — retortis undis, his waters hurled back. In time of flood the water appeared to be hurled back from the steeper bank on the Etruscan shore and to be driven out over the lower lands at the opposite bend of the river, as if to destroy whatever was in its way. In this low-lying district were the Regia, or Palace of Numa (monumenta regis, v. 15), and the Temple of Vesta (v. 16).

15. deiectum : supine expressing purpose (A. 509; D. 882, 1; B. 340, 1; G. 435).

17. Iliae : the mother of Romulus and Remus, a mythical ancestress of the Julian family, of which Julius Cæsar and Augustus were members. After the birth of the twins she was thrown into the Tiber and became the wife of the river god. — querenti: Ilia is represented as complaining to her husband and urging him to avenge the assassination of Julius Cæsar.

18, 19. iactat: the river god is overfond of his wife (uxorius), and hence quite willing to listen to her complaints and wishes. — sinistra . . . ripa, over the left bank, i.e. the side on which are the lowlands. — Iove non probante: Jupiter had not appointed the Tiber to perform this act of vengeance.

21. Audiet: the subject is inventus (v. 24). — civis: the war of citizens against citizens is emphasized as the cause of the portents.

22. quo . . . perirent, by which it were better had the Parthians (lit. Persians) perished. Perirent is subjunctive as the verb of a condition; the protasis is implied in melius. ●

24. rara, thinned out or scanty. The youth of the next generations that will hear about the civil wars will be less numerous because the population has been diminished by war and proscription.

25–40. The Romans, guilty of civil conflict, need some god as their mediator. Which god shall it be?

25, 26. vocet . . . ruentis imperi rebus, call upon to aid the fortunes of our tottering empire. — Prece qua, with what prayer? We need some new form of appeal, for Vesta, offended at the murder of Cæsar, her priest, no longer listens to the usual litanies (carmina).

27. virgines sanctae: the Vestal Virgins, who tended the never-dying fire in the Temple of Vesta, symbolical of the eternal power of Rome.

29. partis, office, task.

30. venias precamur, come, we pray; venias is hortatory subjunctive (A. 439, a; D. 674, a; B. 275, 2; G. 263, 2, a).

31. candentis umeros: acc. of specification with amictus.

32. augur Apollo: the god of Delphi and of oracles. Apollo, as the patron god of Augustus, might feel a special interest in the Roman people.

33. sive tu mavis: or [do you come], if you prefer. — Erycina, Lady of Eryx, i.e. Venus, who had a temple at Eryx at the western end of Sicily. She was the mythical ancestress of the Julian gens.

35, 36. sive . . . respicis, auctor, or [do you] our founder [come], if you have regard for. Appeal is made to Mars, the founder of the Roman race.

37. ludo: to Mars war was a sport.

38. leves: the first e is long.

39, 40. acer . . . voltus, the fierce look. — Marsi peditis: the Marsians were very brave soldiers.

41–52. A divine helper is already among the Romans — Mercury, who has assumed the form of Augustus. Long may Augustus live!

41. iuvenem: the iuvēnis is Augustus, as is revealed in the later verses. Augustus was then thirty-five years old; but the term iuvēnis included persons of military age between seventeen and forty-five.

43. filiiu Maia: Mercury, son of Maia, daughter of Atlas. — patiens, submitting, deigning. — vocari: complementary to patiens.

45. serus . . . redeas, may it be long ere you return.

47. nostris vitiis iniquum, estranged by our faults.

48. ocior, too swift.

50. ames: the verb has an object acc. (triumphos) and a complementary inf. (dici). The reference in triumphos is probably to the triumphs of Augustus on his return from the East, 29 B.C. — pater = pater patriae: this term of respect was probably often applied to Augustus before it was formally conferred on him, 2 B.C. — princeps = princeps senatus: a title conferred on Augustus 28 B.C.

51. Medos: i.e. the Parthians, whom Horace called Persae in v. 22. — equitare, to ride on their raids in scorn of the heavier-armed Romans. — inultos: the defeat of Crassus by the Parthians had not yet been avenged.

52. te duce, while thou art leader. — Caesar: i.e. Augustus. Thus emphatically the ode closes with a distinct mention of the name of the divine man to whom it is addressed.

THE SHIP OF STATE

(HORACE, Odes, i. 14)

For the metre, see p. 245 above.

1. in mare, out to sea. Ancient vessels hugged the shore so far as possible. — novi fluctus: i.e. another civil war.

2. Fortiter occupa portum, make an effort now, and gain the harbor before the storm comes upon you.

3. ut, how.

4. nudum remigio, stripped of oars. — latus: sc. sit.

5. mālus: one of the subjects of gemant.

6. gemant, groan, strained by the last storm. — sine funibus: ancient ships, which were small, were undergirded by ropes in rough weather, to keep the planks from starting.

7, 8. durare, withstand. — carinae: poetical plural for singular. — imperiōsius aequor, the sea in its more lordly mood.

10. di: the images of the gods placed in the stern of the vessel, so that they might be invoked by the sailors in time of danger, have been lost in the storm. — iterum pressa malo, when again in distress.

11. Pontica pinus: the forests of Pontus were noted for their ship-timber.

13. genus, lineage. — inutile: the reputation of Pontic timber would be no help in a storm.

14. pictis puppibus: the decorations on the after part of the vessel would also be of no avail.

- 15, 16. Tu nisi debes, unless you are destined to be. — ludibrium, sport.
 17. Nuper, lately, i.e. during the civil wars. — sollicitum taedium, a cause of anxiety and weariness. — quae: sc. eras.
 18. nunc: now that civil war threatens to come again. — desiderium . . . levis, an object of desire and no little care.
 19. nitentis, glistening, from the sun shining on the marble quarries.
 20. Cycladas: storms often come up suddenly among these islands.

INTEGER VITAE

(HORACE, Odes, i. 22)

For the metre, see p. 244 above.

1. Integer vitae, he who is blameless in his life; vitae is genitive of specification (Intro. § 17), so also sceleris with purus.

3. gravida, laden.

4. Fusce: Aristius Fuscus, to whom this ode is addressed, was a friend who. Horace says, was almost his twin brother in taste and feelings.

5. Syrtis . . . aestuosas: a part of Libya near the coast, said to have been infested with dangerous animals and serpents.

6. facturus: sc. est.

7. quae loca = per loca quae. — fabulosus, storied. Various stories were doubtless told in Rome about this river in India, on the banks of which Alexander defeated Porus.

9. Namque: Horace goes on in a semi-serious way to prove that the just and innocent need no protection, by citing an adventure of his own.

10. meam Lalagen: cognate accusative with canto. — ultra terminum, beyond my own boundaries (i.e. those of his Sabine estate).

11. curis expeditis (abl. abs.) = curis expeditus, care-free (with no thought of danger).

13. quale portentum neque = tale portentum quale neque, a monster such as neither.

14. Daunias: Apulia, so called from a mythical king Daunus.

15. Iubae tellus: Mauretania, over which Juba was king in the time of Julius Cæsar.

16. arida, parched.

17. pigris . . . campis, lifeless plains, i.e. the frigid zone.

19, 20. quod latus mundi, that quarter of the world which. — malus Iuppiter, an unfriendly sky. — urget, lowers over.

21, 22. sub curru, etc.: in the torrid zone. — nimum propinqui solis, of the sun where he is much too near. — domibus negata, uninhabitable.

23. dulce: cognate accusative (A. 390, b; D. 410; B. 176, b, N.; G. 333, 2, N.⁶). Use an adverb in translating.

DIVINE PROVIDENCE

(HORACE, Odes, i. 34)

For the metre, see p. 245 above.

1. cultor, I, who was a worshipper. The poet declares that he used seldom to go to the altars and that he gave scanty gifts to the gods. He will be more devout in future.

2, 3. insanientis . . . erro, while I wandered [from the truth], well versed in my deluded wisdom: oxymoron. — sapientiae: obj. gen. with consultus.

4. iterare, to go over again.

5. Diespiter: an archaic name of Jupiter.

6. nubila dividens plerumque, who usually cleaves the clouds.

7. per purum, across a cloudless sky.

9. quo, [that chariot] by which. — bruta, dull (lit. heavy); cf. Milton, Comus, 797, "the brute earth."

10. invisi Taenari, of the hideous Lower World; appositional genitive with sedes (Intro. § 10). Tænarum, here used of the whole Lower World, was a promontory at the southern end of the Peloponnesus, where was supposed to be one of the entrances to Hades.

11. Atlanteus finis, Atlas, the utmost boundary of the earth.

12, 13. Valet . . . deus: Horace recognizes not only the power of the god in the physical universe but also his ability to change human fortunes. — ima summis mutare, to change the lowest with the highest (A. 417, b; D. 472; B. 222 A; G. 404, N.¹). — insignem attenuat, makes the great man weak.

14. obscura promens, exalting the humble (lit. bringing forward obscure things). — Hinc, from one man (lit. hence). — apicem, the crown.

15. Fortuna cum stridore acuto: Fortune is winged and comes unexpectedly to those whose lot she means to change.

16. hic, upon another's head (lit. here).

THE GOLDEN MEAN

(HORACE, Odes, ii. 10)

For the metre, see p. 244 above.

1, 2. Licini: the ode is addressed to Licinius Murena, a man of note in his time, and a colleague of Augustus in the consulship, 23 B.C. — altum urgendo, by standing out to sea.

3. nimum premendo, by hugging too closely.

4. iniquum, unfriendly, because of rocks or shoals.

5. Auream mediocritatem, the golden mean. For the term golden signifying the highest excellence, compare "the Golden Rule" and "Silence is golden."

6. tutus caret sordibus, is safe from the squalor. — obsoleti, tumble-down.

8. sobrius, in his moderation. As the sailor avoids the dangers of the open sea and of the rocky shore, so the wise man will avoid both squalid poverty and wealth that excites envy. — aula, palace.

9. Saepius, more frequently than smaller pines.

13, 14. Sperat . . . sortem, in adversity hopes for a change of fortune, in prosperity fears it: i.e. the wise man will not lose hope in adversity or be over-confident in prosperity. — praeparatum, trained (by philosophy and experience).

15. reducit, brings round.

16. Iuppiter: as god of the atmosphere and weather. — idem, but he also.

17. si male nunc [sc. est], if things are going badly now. — et, also.

18. Quondam, sometimes.

22. appare, show yourself. — sapienter idem, also, if you are wise.

23, 24. contrahes . . . vela, you will take in your swelling sail. — nimum secundo, too favorable.

EVER THE GOLDEN MEAN

(HORACE, Odes, ii. 18)

For the metre, see p. 246 above.

1, 2. Non . . . lacunar, no ceiling adorned with ivory or gold, etc. (lit. neither ivory nor a golden ceiling). The noun ebur is practically equivalent to the adj. eburneum, of (or adorned with) ivory. — renidet, reflects the light. — lacunar: Roman ceilings often had highly ornamental sunken panels which reflected the light.

3. trabes Hymettiae: Horace has in mind a Roman house of the more luxurious sort, in which the atrium was made splendid by the use of colored marbles. Here the architraves (trabes, blocks, lit. beams), of a white or light-bluish marble quarried on Mount Hymettus in Attica, were supported by columns of a yellowish marble that had been brought from Numidia.

4. premunt, rest heavily upon.

5, 6. neque . . . occupavi: i.e. nor have I become wealthy (and extravagant) all of a sudden. — Attali . . . regiam, the palace of an Attalus. The Attali, kings of Pergamos in Asia Minor, were famous for their wealth and splendor. — ignotus heres, an unexpected heir.

7, 8. Laconicas . . . purpuras: the shellfish from which purple (or scarlet) dye was made were especially numerous along the coast of Laconia. — trahunt, spin (lit. draw [the thread from the distaff]). — honestae clientae, retainers (feminine), of gentle birth. Only the very wealthy would have such persons among their retainers.

9-11. fides, integrity. — ingeni benigna vena, a kindly vein of talent. — est: sc. mihi. — pauperemque . . . petit: poor as he is, rich men are glad to be his friends.

12. Nihil . . . lacesso, for nothing further do I importune the gods: lacesso takes two objects, as a verb of asking. — amicum: his patron Mæcenas.

Fig. 63

14. beatus, wealthy. — unicis Sabinis, in my one and only Sabine farm. Horace had received this farm, situated about thirty miles from Rome, as a gift of Mæcenas. He spent much of his time there, gaining rest for mind and body from its seclusion and beautiful scenery.

15. Truditur dies die, day crowds upon day (lit. is pushed on by day). Vr. 15 and 16 join the thought of the preceding part of the ode to what follows: I am content with my lot because I remember that life is short, but you go on building because you do not recognize its brevity.

16. pergunt interire, continue to wane.

17. tu: the unidentified person whom Horace represents himself as addressing. — secanda, to be hewn into slabs for use in construction.

18. locas, you are giving out contracts for. — sub ipsum funus, on the very brink of the grave. — sepulcri: there is a contrast here between the house his body must occupy after death and the house he is now planning to occupy (domos).

20, 21. marisque Bais (dat.) obstrepentis, of the sea that breaks upon Baiæ. Baiæ, about ten miles from Naples, was a favorite watering place. — urges submovere litora, you work eagerly to push out the shore (by extending your house out over the water, as if the land did not suffice).

22. parum locuples, not rich enough (lit. too little rich). — continente ripa, so long as the shore confines you.

Fig. 64

23, 24. Quid quod, what of the fact that? — usque, one after another. — agri terminos: the person addressed is so covetous of his neighbor's land that he does not hesitate to remove the stones set up at the corners to mark its extent — an act that brought on him the curse of the gods. Cf. Deuteronomy, xxvii. 17: "Cursed be he that removeth his neighbor's landmark."

25. clientium: his crime is the greater because he ought to defend the rights of his clients.

26, 27. avarus, in your greed. — Pellitur: translate by a plural; there are two subjects, et uxor et vir. The poor man is driven from home by the rich oppressor (see Fig. 63). — paternos deos: the penates.

28. sordidos: this emphasizes their poverty.

29-31. Nulla . . . aula . . . manet: no mansion more surely awaits the rich man than the mansion of death. — certior, more certain, or more surely; supply with certior an ablative of comparison (aulā). — rapacis Orci fine, by the bounds of greedy death; abl. with destinata. — destinatā (sc. ei): modifies aulā understood.

32. ultra: beyond the limits of life. — Aequa, impartial.

33. recluditur, opens, opens itself.

34. satelles Orci: Charon.

35. Promethea: even Prometheus, who stole fire from heaven to give life to his image of clay, was not crafty enough to escape from the world of the dead. See Fig. 64.

36. revexit, ferry back. — captus, bribed. — Hic: Orcus, i.e. Death.

37, 38. Tantalum, Tantali genus (Pelops and his line): persons of wealth and power.

38, 39. levare: when summoned to relieve (inf. of purpose). — functum laboribus, whose toils and troubles are over (lit. having performed his toils); Introd. § 56.

THE GOLDEN MEAN IN LIFE

(OVID, Tristia, iii. 4. 1-34)

1. tempore duro: Ovid has in mind the time since his banishment.

2. cognite, known to be my friend. — res, fortunes.

3. usibus, by experience.

4. nomina magna, persons in high place.

5. praelustria vita, avoid worldly grandeur.

6. saevum . . . venit: i.e. those in high place, as Ovid has learned from experience, have most power to injure one.

8. non prosit potius, si quis, it were better, were there no one.

11. ut, how. — cortex: the cork float holds up the top of the fishing net at the surface of the water, while the weights (grave onus) keep the lower edge submerged.

13. monitor, your present adviser.

14. in qua debebam, where I ought still to be, i.e. in Rome.

15. levis aura, a gentle breeze.

17. in plano, on level ground. — vix . . . ipsum, yet that, indeed, is something that seldom (lit. hardly) happens.

18. tacta humo: abl. abs.

19. Elpenor: a companion of Ulysses, who fell from a roof while drunk and broke his neck.

20. debilis umbra, as a maimed ghost.

21. Quid fuit ut, what was the reason that?

22. immensas aquas: the Icarian Sea, into which Icarus was said to have fallen.

25. bene qui latuit, who has lived a retired life.

27. Eumedes: a Trojan, whose son Dolon, induced to visit the Grecian camp as a spy by the promise that Hector would give him the horses of Achilles, was captured and killed.

29. natum: Phaëthon, who set fire to the world while attempting to drive the horses of Phœbus, the sun-god. His disastrous ride was stopped by Jupiter, who hurled a thunderbolt and struck the youth from the chariot. — natas: the sisters of Phaëthon wept at his fate and were changed into trees.

30. cepisset . . . Merops, if Merops, as father, had taken Phaëthon [as his son]. Merops was a king of Æthiopia, husband of Clymene and reputed father of Phaëthon. In order to prove himself the son of Phœbus, and not of Merops, Phaëthon sought the privilege of driving the chariot of Phœbus for a day.

32. propositi, plan of life.

TRUE MANLINESS

(HORACE, Odes, iii. 2)

For the metre, see p. 245 above.

1. amice, cheerfully. — pauperiem, humble circumstances; angustam (narrow) pauperiem means privation.

2. robustus acri militia, grown hardy in stern military service. — puer, youth: boys did not begin service until they were seventeen.

3. condiscat: hortatory subjunctive.

4. eques, as a horseman; in apposition with the subject of vexet.

5, 6. vitam . . . agat, let him spend his life. — trepidus in rebus, in deeds of danger (lit. in perilous circumstances). — illum: obj. of prospiciens (v. 8), emphatic by position. Translate, as they look out upon such a youth. — ex moenibus hosticis: the wife and daughter of a king (tyranni) who is at war with the Romans look down from the walls of their town at a combat below, and are filled with fear lest the betrothed of the princess be slain by the Roman youth (illum).

9. suspiret: singular, though with two subjects (matrona, virgo). — rudis agminum, unskilled in battles (lit. of battalions); for the genitive see Introd. § 17.

10. sponsus . . . regius: the son of an allied king, betrothed to the princess, is fighting in the forces of her father. — asperum leonem: the young Roman warrior (illum).

11. tactu: supine with asperum, dangerous to touch; A. 510, N.²; D. 882, II; B. 340, 2; G. 436.

12. per medias . . . caedes, through the thickest of the carnage.

14. et, as well.

16. poplitibus: the back of the knee was a vulnerable spot.

17. Virtus, true manliness. — repulsae sordidae, shameful repulse.

19. securis (acc.), emblems of authority: axes tied in bundles of rods made up the fusces borne by the lictors before the Roman magistrates.

20. arbitrio popularis aurae, at the whim of popular favor.

21, 22. recludens . . . caelum: it is manliness that raises great men and heroes to heaven (deifies them) after death. — immeritis mori, to those who have not deserved to die. — negata . . . via: manliness makes its way to heaven in the person of him who has it, along a path denied to those who have not exemplified manliness in their lives.

23, 24. udam . . . humum, the damp ground, suggesting the contrast between the meaner life of the earth and the better life of the gods.

25-27. Est . . . merces: loyalty (lit. faithful silence), too, has its reward. — Cereris sacrum . . . arcanae, the sacred rites of mystic Ceres; the mysteries celebrated at Eleusis in Attica in honor of Demeter (Ceres). — Vetabo [eum] qui, I will forbid him who, etc. In prose veto takes the acc. and inf. Horace uses the subjunctive (sit, solvat) instead, on the analogy of carve in prohibitions (A. 450; D. 676, b; B. 276, c; G. 271, 2). Translate by the infinitive.

28, 29. trabibus, roof (lit. beams). — mecum solvat phaselon: Horace would not put out to sea with such a person.

30. incesto addidit integrum, joins the innocent man with the wicked (in punishment). The perfect tense is here used to state a general truth.

31. raro: modifies deseruit.

32. deseruit, gives up the pursuit of; A. 475; B. 262, B, 1; G. 236, 2, N. — pede claudo, though with halting foot; to be taken with Poena. Retribution seldom fails to overtake the guilty, though it may come slowly. "The mills of the gods grind slow, but they grind fine."

REGULUS
